HEALTH DEPARTMENT.
OFFICE 301 MOTT STREET, NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1870.

At a meeting of the Board of Health of the Health Department of the city of New York, held at its office, 301 Mott street, on the 5th day of October, 1870, the following resolution was adopted:—

Resolved, That section 145 of the Sanitary Code be amended so as to read as follows:—

Section 145. That no captain, agent or person having charge of or attached to any ferryboat, sailing or other vessel, nor any person in charge of any car, stage or other vehicle, or public or private conveyance, shall convey or allow to be conveyed thereon, or by any means aforesaid; nor shall any person convey or allow to be carried or conveyed in any manner from or in the city of New York, the dead body of any human being, or any part thereof, without a permit therefor from this Department. And the proper coupon for that purpose attached to any such permit when issued shall be preserved and returned to this Department, as its regulations may require, by the proper officer or person on such boat or vessel, and by the proper person in charge of any train of cars or vehicle on which any such body may be carried from said city.

Provided, however, that the same effect shall be given under this section to a burial or transit permit issued by the Health Officer of the city of Brooklyn as to a burial or transit permit issued from this Department when the death of the person named in the permit shall have occurred in the city of Brooklyn. JOSEPH S. BOSWORTH, President.
EMMONS CLARK, Secretary.

HARLEM TO CITY HALL IN 15 MINUTES.—ALL workingmen and people of Yorkville and Harlem will hold another meeting this (Thursday) evening, at 8 o'clock, corner 119th street and Third avenue, in favor of fast railroad from Harlem to City Hall.
JOHN FOLEY, President.
ASHER BARNET, Secretary Twelfth and Nineteenth Ward Citizens' Association.

THE EXECUTOR'S SALE AT NEW DORP, S. I., postponed on account of the storm, will take place to-day (Thursday). Boat leaves foot Whitehall street at 11 o'clock. JOHNSON & MILLER, Auctioneers.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE UNDERSIGNED, MEMBERS OF THE BAR OF the city of New York, believing that the time has arrived when party distinctions should be ignored in the choice of an official occupying the position of the first minister of justice in the first city of America, have resolved to recommend our example to the voters of this city, and urge the nomination of MATTHEW T. BRENNAN to the office of Sheriff.

We believe that his past public services are a guarantee of the fidelity and honesty he will exhibit in this position, and we advise all good citizens to vote for him, without regard to political bias or prejudice.

Deeming the time more fitting for an expression of opinion before any party nominations are made, rather than after, we ask all who are in favor of electing to this post an upright, experienced and faithful public servant to unite with us in conveying this desire to MATTHEW T. BRENNAN that he will consent to be a candidate for the office of High Sheriff of New York city.

IMPORTANT SALE OF SPLENDID HUDSON RIVER Property. Positive and without reserve.

We invite the special attention of those who wish to secure elegant sites for Country Residences to the absolute auction sale of first class Property at Dobbs' Ferry, on the Hudson, on Saturday, October 15, at 12½ o'clock, on the premises, by order of P. J. Armour, Esq., being part of the Paulding estate. For beauty and variety of scenery, accessibility and healthfulness of location and social and educational advantages it is surpassed by no other suburb. No section is more desirable for residence, no property is more sure of increase in value, and no investment is safer or better. Now is the time to purchase, and this is the favorable opportunity. Remember the day, Saturday, October 15. Train leaves at 11 o'clock. JOHNSON & MILLER, Auctioneers, 25 Nassau street, New York.

NEW DORP, STATEN ISLAND.—THE POSITIVE EXecutor's sale of splendid property belonging to the Unkart estate will afford a rare opportunity to purchase beautiful Rural Sites at the buyer's own price. Every plot will be peremptorily sold, without reserve. Sale takes place on Wednesday, October 12, on the premises. Free tickets at JOHNSON & MILLER'S, 25 Nassau street.

Constant Fire from the French—Prussians Waiting for Their Heavy Guns—Strength and Position of the Besieging Army—A Question of Supplies—The Prussians Relentless—Bad News—Anxiety—Great Efforts to Capture Paris—Why the French Army at Tours Don't Move—Arrival of the King—A Grand Reception—A Civil Prefect at Versailles.

LONDON, Oct. 12, 1870.

The following letter has been received from the correspondent of the NEW YORK HERALD at the headquarters of the German army besieging Paris:—

VERSAILLES, Oct. 5, 1870.

The French keep up a constant fire from their cannon and small arms daily, but the besiegers make no reply, the Prussians tactics being merely to keep a tight grip upon the French and a sharp lookout while awaiting the arrival of their heavy guns. I am told that they will soon be here, but certainly they have been slow coming. The fault is to be found in the dilatoriness in repairing the railroad line between Toul and Meaux.

THE INVESTING ARMY—ITS STRENGTH AND POSITION.

At present the effective strength of the besieging army is three hundred thousand men. From St. Germain to the west is the Fifth corps, which connects with and supports the Sixth corps. After this latter come in order the Bavarian corps, the Eleventh Prussian, the Prussian Guards, the Saxon and Wurtemberg corps and the Fourth Prussian corps.

A QUESTION OF SUPPLIES.

Hitherto the army has subsisted mostly off the country, and wherever they camped they soon cleared out everything to eat. There being nothing left now the Germans are compelled to depend upon their own stores, which are being brought in as rapidly as possible. The cavalry scour the country around Paris for a great distance and along the lines of communication to the Vosges, but the government cannot trust to the chances of forage to feed the large numbers encircling Paris. This fact, if it does not create uneasiness, at least makes the military leaders eager for action.

THE GERMANS RELENTLESS.

The longer the delay the more bitter becomes the determination to press the war to a close with energy. Paris will, therefore, be bombarded instantly when the siege guns are mounted. Not a single measure, however severe and seemingly cruel, will be left untried to compel a peace. In fact, the most intelligent officers of the Prussian army begin to feel uneasy, knowing that the chances of war are terribly uncertain.

BAD NEWS FROM BEFORE METZ.

Adverse accounts have been received at headquarters of the health of the army of Prince Frederick Charles, now lying before Metz. Should Bazaine succeed in escaping with even the loss of half his army, it is feared that what does get away might become the nucleus of a force likely to prove dangerous in view of the impossibility of sparing any men from before Paris. Indeed, more men are needed here, and the army lately besieging Strasbourg has been ordered to reinforce this army instead of going south towards Lyons.

GREAT EFFORTS TO CAPTURE PARIS.

It is evident that General Von Moltke has resolved to concentrate every available man before Paris, with a view to making a determined effort to capture the French capital at once. It will, therefore, be seen readily that the most momentous events hang upon the question whether Paris is strong enough for a long resistance to assault. This question is purely enigmatical, hence it is felt that the future is full of doubt.

COMMUNICATIONS INTACT.

At present, however, no inconvenience is felt from the operations of the Franc-tireurs and Gardes Mobile. The rear of this army is unmolested and it is not expected that there will be the least interruption to the lines of communication, field telegraphs or military posts. Nothing of the kind has yet occurred to any extent, and prisoners and peasants report that the straggling parties of French have been recalled to the south and northeast for the purpose of aggregation and organization.

WHY THE FRENCH FORCES AT TOURS REFUSE TO MOVE.

A ceremonious dinner party was given yesterday by the Crown Prince of Prussia, at his new dwelling. During the festivities he authoritatively communicated the news that the French army at Tours, numbering 60,000 men, had refused to march forward under the leadership of the generals appointed by the Provisional Government.

A HOPE OF PEACE.

I am informed to-day, from good sources, that there is still a great possibility that the fallen ends of the rope dropped by Bismarck and Favre will again be taken up. It is rumored that General Burnside is the agent between the two, and will again enter Paris on a diplomatic mission. It is said that the Parisians live in the hope of peace being concluded, and cannot believe in the reality of a bombardment.

MILITARY REVIEWS.

ARRIVAL OF KING WILLIAM.

The handsome prefective palace, erected under the empire, on the Avenue de Paris, has been appropriated for the King's headquarters here. His Majesty arrived this evening at five o'clock, followed by his staff, ministers, baggage, horses, carriages, &c. His arrival is not only quite an event to the army and the citizens of Versailles, but is a significant display in the eyes of all Europe. Versailles at last sees another sovereign of the "divine right" school after a long occupation of the French throne by a parvenu.

HIS RECEPTION.

There was a grand turnout of the officers and men of the army to receive the King. Troops were paraded and stationed to serve as a guard of entry and of honor full three hours before the first dusty wagon was descried on the horizon. A full band was stationed just outside the gates to strike up a loyal hymn when the sovereign alighted from his carriage. On the other side of the gate was a brilliant bevy of staff officers, among whom were the dukes of Coburg, Augustenberg and Wurtemberg, Princes Leopold, Hohenzollern, Mecklenberg Strelitz, and Wurtemberg and their officers in waiting. Besides these were a number of generals already highly distinguished in war and a good sprinkling of American officers, including Generals Sheridan, Burnside, Forsyth, Hazen, Percy and Herbert, and Mr. Forbes.

THE PEOPLE OF VERSAILLES.

The citizens turned out to but little extent to satisfy their curiosity, though at the bottom the whole population was dying to catch a glimpse of the conqueror. The only elements which showed any force were the blue blouses, old women in white caps and children. They were seen peeping behind the line of soldiers, curious and silent. The better class considered it a point of patriotism to remain housed, but numbers were seen peeping slyly through half closed windows.

APPROACH OF THE KING.

Towards dusk the King's black stallions began to come in, led by mounted grooms, then the fourgons and the baggage of his Majesty, the ministers and headquarters officers. After these there lapsed some ten minutes, when a detachment of lancers galloped up. The vanguard of the royal cortége drew up across the avenue, with their carbines by their side and cocked pistols in their right hands. They were quickly followed by a body of stalwart dragoons and a few mounted equerries, after which came another troop of lancers, with long lances carried upright, who took position on the flank of the rest. Then came, at a quick pace, an open carriage containing the King and the Crown Prince, covered by dust and preceded by outriders. They were announced as they approached by war cheers rolling from regiment to regiment. These, with the burst of music from the band, rendered the scene quite exciting.

INTO THE PALACE.

When the carriage halted the King and the Crown Prince alighted, both looking remarkably vigorous and active. They shook hands cordially with several officers, and instead of entering the palace at once proceeded along the line to the color company drawn up in front, conversing with the Crown Prince, General Blumenthal and others. As he returned the salute of the men he disappeared through the gates of the palace, first turning to give a general salute.

VON MOLTKE NOT SEEN—BISMARCK CONSPICUOUS.

General Moltke was not seen, but Count Bismarck was conspicuous in his carriage. He was dressed in the uniform of an officer of chasseurs—blue and white, with a flat cap with yellow band—covered from head to foot by dust. Apparently with the desire of avoiding a demonstration he drove out of the procession and arrived at the Prefecture Palace by a side gate just before the royal installation.

PRUSSIAN CIVIL GOVERNMENT IN VERSAILLES.

The Prussian Civil Prefect has arrived from Ferrieres and is now lodged by the side of the King's headquarters, in a small sized house. A card at the door gives notice to the public of Versailles that "the public are hereby informed that the Prefect will receive persons for the transaction of business from nine o'clock in the morning till twelve o'clock noon. Those wishing an interview in other hours will make application."

Reported French Victory Before Paris—Further Accounts of the Battle Near Orleans—The French Overpowered and Beaten—Cowardice of the Regulars—Gallantry of the Raw Troops—Garibaldi Gone to the Front—Prussian Atrocities—Count de Palikao and the Government—General War News.

TOURS, Oct. 12, 1870.

No news has been received from Paris to-day. A balloon expedition is preparing here for an attempt to descend into Paris.

A FRENCH VICTORY BEFORE PARIS.

The Ministry has just received the following news of an important French victory. The courier who brought the intelligence was permitted to pass through the Prussian lines:—

A battle occurred on Friday, the 7th inst., between Fort Mont du Valerien and St. Cloud, on the west side of Paris, the French, under General Ducrot, having made a sortie in force.

The Prussians were completely defeated and were forced to retreat to Versailles, entirely surrendering the position they had lately occupied, and from which they might have shelled the western part of Paris.

MORE FIGHTING NEAR ORLEANS.

The Minister of War has made public the following intelligence, contained in a telegram from Orleans, dated at a late hour last evening:—

The scene of the battle to-day was so near this city that balls and shell fell in the outskirts. The Prussians are near Galleus. The troops sent from Tours to reinforce the Fifteenth corps have formed a junction with that body near Artenay.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE FIGHTING.

The messengers who were sent to Orleans yesterday, where the battle was going on, have returned. They make the following report:—The French were in much smaller force than the Prussians, and were literally crushed by their superior artillery, and driven back into the suburbs of the town. Some barricades had been erected there, and our forces took advantage of the shelter these afforded. The Papal Zouaves and Mobiles behaved most courageously, but the regular troops fled at almost the first fire. None of the regular troops made much resistance. Many threw away their arms in their flight.

PEOPLE FLYING BEFORE THE PRUSSIAN ADVANCE.

The Prussians opened fire on the town after the French defeat, and owing to the barricades many fires occurred. The railway depot was destroyed in this way, as well as many other large establishments.

At last accounts the people of Orleans were flying in all directions. At a late hour last evening the Prussians had pushed south to Beaugency and Meung, beyond Orleans, and it is feared that the Papal Zouaves will be surrounded and captured.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR THE FRENCH.

The other French troops in that neighborhood are in a good position, and heavy reinforcements were sent forward to them during the night. It is reported that some heavy guns have also gone forward from Bourges. The French troops at Beaugency and Meury are excellent. They are composed chiefly of the National Guard and the Mobiles, and they are determined to resist to the last.

GARIBALDI GONE TO THE FRONT.

THE FRENCH DRIVEN ACROSS THE LOIRE.

Official reports from Beaugency state that the Prussians entered Orleans last night. The French forces are on the left bank of the Loire. They received to-day heavy reinforcements, including ten batteries of field artillery.

SWAPPING HORSES.

General La Mattcrouge has been removed from the command of the troops here and General Palandenc appointed to succeed him.

PRUSSIANS RETREATING FROM MONT DIDIER.

FRENCH SUCCESS AT DREUX.

A telegram from Chateauden, dated to-day, reports that the enemy has been beaten back with loss at Dreux.

THE GOVERNMET AND COUNT PALIKAO.

The government denies that there is any foundation for the report that Count de Palikao has been asked to resume command of the Army of Lyons.

GAMBETTA'S LATEST ORDER.

Minister Gambetta has given orders that complete returns of the armed forces of France be made to his department. He has also sent a number of young energetic men into the Provinces to organize military movements, but with instructions not to meddle with politics.

REPEATED STORIES OF PRUSSIAN ATROCITIES.

Advices from various parts of France repeat the statements that the Prussians are committing the greatest atrocities upon helpless towns. Where the Franc-tireurs gain advantages the Prussians have not only seized the authorities of the towns and demanded restitution for the captured Prussians on pain of the death of the authorities and the burning down of the towns, but have also exacted that the Franc-tireurs themselves be delivered up for execution. In view of this frightful state of affairs the government is reported to have again brought the subject to the attention of the Prussian military authorities as well as to the foreign ambassadors to France.

RETALIATION FOR PRUSSIAN ATROCITIES.

The government has repeated its determination to retaliate for all Prussian atrocities. If the municipal authorities of Ablis are executed an equal number of Prussian prisoners will be shot.

THE ITALIAN VOLUNTEERS.

Signor Frappoli, Grand Master of the Free Masons of Italy, who is to superintend the organization of the Italian volunteers, has arrived in Tours.

GARBIALDI IN BAD HEALTH.

General Garibaldi will not take the field at present. His health is quite delicate and he will require a season of rest before engaging in active operations.

VARIOUS WAR ITEMS.

The government is fully satisfied with the good faith of General Bourbaki.

Five franc pieces with the emblem of the republic have just appeared from the mint.

Severe fighting has been renewed before St. Quentin.

The journals La Gazette de France and L'Union publish an anti-republican address from the Count de Chambord to the people of France.

The Moniteur to-day prints a letter of thanks from M. Gambetta to the Americans, Messrs. May and Reynolds, who presented to the government the balloon in which they escaped from Paris.

Bismarck Willing for an Election in France—Paris Resolute—Intrigues of Prince Napoleon—The Map of Germany—Bismarck Wants France Powerless—Various Items.

LONDON, Oct. 12, 1870.

General Burnside has conveyed to Jules Favre Count von Bismarck's assurance of Germany's willingness to permit the elections to be held.

PARIS RESOLUTE AND PREPARED.

Advices from the city of Paris to the 6th instant represent the people steadfast, quiet and orderly, and without any anxiety on the question of food. They claim to be fully prepared for any assault the Prussians may make.

INTRIGUES OF PRINCE NAPOLEON.

BISMARCK ON THE MAP OF GERMANY.

A correspondent of one of the morning journals here furnishes the following interesting scene which occurred recently at Versailles:—

Early in the evening Count Bismarck entered the hotel, dusty and hungry. He was attended by only a few officers. He ordered dinner in the salle à manger, which was already crowded with people. Recognizing General Burnside at the table with Generals Sheridan and Forsyth and Mr. Forbes, he saluted them, and joining them chatted pleasantly and jocularly, especially regarding Forbes' visit to Paris. Some one at this time called the Count's attention to a map of Germany hanging on the wall overhead. "Yes, Germany as it was," was the significant reply.

BISMARCK WANTS FRANCE POWERLESS.

The Times this morning has an article going to prove that Count Bismarck's obvious policy is to render France powerless for offence or defence hereafter.

THE SITUATION AT METZ.

Late advices have been received from the army besieging Metz. Up to Thursday last the Prussians had burned twenty small villages in that neighborhood, and executed 150 peasants for carrying on an illicit warfare. Bazaine's soldiers were said to be greatly dissatisfied with the situation, and had counselled a surrender.

THE CAPTURES AT STRASBOURG.

A telegram from Berlin says that the official account of the surrender of Strasbourg is just published there. By the capitulation eleven hundred guns of all sorts, twelve thousand Chassepots, three tons of ammunition and fifty locomotives of the Paris and Strasbourg Railroad, which had been collected there, fell into Prussian hands. The carpenters, masons and other laborers of the city have been impressed to repair the fortifications.

AMMUNITION FOR BIG GUNS.

A telegram from Cologne, dated to-day, says that a writer in the Frankfort Gazette has seen colossal bombs, holding 140 pounds of powder, going forward to Paris.

M. JULES FAVRE'S REPORT ON HIS MISSION.

[From the London Telegraph, Sept. 29.]

The Foreign Office last night favored us with a reprint from the Moniteur of Wednesday, the 28th inst., of the official report made by M. Jules Favre to the members of the government of the national defence regarding his mission to the Prussian headquarters at Ferrières. The report issued at Tours on Tuesday as an official bulletin of the government delegation, was prefaced by the following statement:—"M. Lutz, of the Rhone, who set out from Paris on Sunday in a balloon, brings to us this morning the report of M. Jules Favre, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, on his interview with Count Bismarck. The report of M. Favre appeared in the Official Journal on the 23d of September, at Paris. It will be seen from the report with what sort of an enemy we have to do, and that France henceforth must reckon only upon herself." The report, which we received at a late hour, and which we translate from the original French, is as follows:—

MY DEAR COLLEAGUES—The close union of all our citizens, and especially that of the members of the government, is now more than ever a necessity for the public safety. Every one of our acts ought to cement it. What I have just done on my own responsibility was inspired with that feeling, and will have the result which I have had the honor to explain to you in detail. But that will not suffice. We are a government of publicity. If during negotiations secrecy is indispensable, yet the fact, once consummated, should be placed in the clearest light. We are nothing except by the opinion of our fellow citizens, and they must judge us every hour, and, to be able to judge, they have the right to know everything. I considered that it would be my duty to go to the headquarters of the enemy. I went there, and I have rendered you an account of the self-imposed mission. I now recount to my country the reasons which prevailed with me, the object I proposed, and what I believe I have attained. I have no need to recall the policy inaugurated by us, which the Minister of Foreign Affairs was particularly charged to formulate. We are, before all things, men of peace and liberty. Down to the very last moment we opposed the war which the Imperial government was about to undertake in an exclusively dynastic interest; and, when that government fell we declared that we should preserve more energetically than ever in a policy of peace. That declaration we made when, by the criminal folly of one man and his counsellors, our armies were destroyed; our glorious Bazaine and his valiant soldiers blockaded behind Metz; Strasbourg, Toul, Phalsburg crushed by bombshells, and the victorious enemy marching upon our capital. Never was a situation more cruel. It inspired, nevertheless, no feeling of despair in the nation, and we believed that we were its faithful interpreters when we laid down clearly this condition: Not an inch of our territory, not a stone of our fortresses. If, then, at that moment when a fact so considerable as that of the overthrow of the originator of the war had just been accomplished, Prussia had wished to treat upon the basis of an indemnity to be agreed upon, peace would have been made; it would have been accepted as a universal blessing; it would have become a certain pledge of reconciliation between two nations which an odious policy alone has fatally divided. We hoped that humanity and self-interest, rightly understood, would have achieved that victory, splendid for all; for it would have opened a new era, and the statesmen who should associate their names with it would have had, in so doing, for their guides, philosophy, reason, justice—for their recompense, the blessings and prosperity of peoples. It was with these ideas that I undertook the perilous task which you confided to me. It was my duty first to ascertain the dispositions of the other European governments, and to seek their support. The imperial government had either wholly neglected, or had alienated, that support. It entered on the war without an ally, without serious negotiation; everywhere around was either hostility or indifference; and it thus reaped the bitter fruit of a policy which wounded every neighboring State either by its menaces or by its pretensions. Scarcely were we established in the Hotel de Ville before a diplomatist, whose name we are hardly now at liberty to reveal, came to ask to enter into relations with us. The next day your Ministers received the representatives of all the Powers. The republic of the United States, the Helvetian republic, Italy, Spain and Portugal, officially recognized the republic of France. The other governments authorized their agents to enter into official relations with us, so as to permit us at once to exchange friendly communications. I should give to this statement, already too much expanded, an unnecessary amplitude if I were to recount in detail the brief but instructive history of the negotiations which followed. I believe I may affirm that they will not be wholly without advantage for our moral credit. I permit myself only to say that everywhere we found honorable sympathies. My object was to group them together, and to determine the Powers who were the signatories of the neutral league to intervene directly with Prussia, taking for their base the conditions I have laid down. Four of the Powers offered to do this; and I have declared to them my gratitude, in the name of my country, for so doing, but I wished to have the concurrence of two others. One of these promised me an individual action with respect to which she reserved to herself liberty, and the other proposed to be my intermediary with Prussia. She even went one step farther, at the instance of an Envoy Extraordinary from France. She undertook directly to recommend my proposal. I asked much more; but I refused no assistance, considering that the interest shown for us was a force not to be neglected. Nevertheless, time was passing, and every hour brought the enemy nearer. A prey to the most poignant emotions, I promised to myself not to permit the siege of Paris to begin without attempting a supreme effort, even though I should have to make it alone. Our interest in doing this need not be explained. Prussia remained silent, and no one interrogated her. That situation was untenable. It permitted the enemy to lay upon us the responsibility of continuing the struggle; it condemned us to ascertain her intentions for ourselves. It was necessary to escape from the position. In spite of my repugnance, I determined to make use of the good offices that were tendered to me; and on the 10th of September a telegram reached E. Bismarck asking him if he would enter into conference upon the conditions of negotiation. The first response was an objection drawn from the irregularity of our government. Meanwhile the Chancellor of the Confederation of the North did not insist upon that, but inquired what guarantees we offered for the execution of a treaty. This second difficulty having been removed by me it was necessary to proceed further. A proposal was made that I should send a courier, which I accepted. At the same time a telegram was despatched directly to M. Bismarck, and the Prime Minister of the Power which served as our intermediary informed our Envoy Extraordinary that France was able to act alone; he added that it was desirable that I should not hesitate to go to the headquarters. Our Envoy, who thoroughly knew my mind, replied that I was ready to make all the sacrifices necessary to discharge my duty; that there were few so painful as to traverse the lines of the enemy to seek out our conqueror, but that he believed I should not shrink even from that. Two days afterwards the courier returned. After a thousand obstacles he had seen the Chancellor, who told him that he was disposed of his own accord to have an interview with me. I should have preferred a direct reply to the telegram of our intermediary, but it was delayed. The investment of Paris was progressing. There was no time for hesitation, and I resolved to set out. It was only necessary for me to bear in mind that this negotiation, until it was accomplished, was to be ignored. I recommended secrecy, and I was grievously surprised on returning yesterday evening to learn that it had not been observed. A culpable indiscretion had been committed. A journal—the Electeur Libre—previously disavowed by the government had taken advantage of it; an inquiry has been set on foot, which I hope will lead to this double abuse being punished. I had pushed so far the scrupulous regard for secrecy that I observed it even towards yourselves, my dear colleagues. I could not resolve to do that without lively regret, but I knew your patriotism and your affection, and I was sure to be absolved. I believed myself bound to obey an imperious necessity. One time I told you of the agitation of my mind, and I said that it would be at rest only when I had done everything that was possible for man to do to bring this horrible war to an honorable conclusion. Recalling the conversation which arose from this beginning, I feared some objections, and I was decided. I wished, in meeting M. de Bismarck, to be free from every engagement, in order to have the privilege of not making any. I make these acknowledgments sincerely. I make them to the country, in order to release you from a responsibility which I alone assume. If my mission be a mistake I alone must bear the penalty. I had meanwhile to consult the Minister of War, who had wished to give me an officer to conduct me to the avant-postes. We did not consider the situation of the headquarters. We thought they were at Grosbois. We moved towards the enemy by the Porte de Charenton. I suppress all the details of this unhappy journey, which was full of interest, but the incidents of which would not be in their place in this report. Conducted to Villeneuve-Saint-Georges, where was the General-in-Chief commanding the Sixth corps, I learned rather late in the afternoon that the headquarters were at Meaux. The General proposed to me to send an officer as bearer of the following letter, which I had prepared for transmission to M. de Bismarck:—

"M. LE COMTE—I have always believed that before undertaking serious hostilities under the walls of Paris it was impossible that an honorable arrangement should not have been attempted. The person who had the honor of waiting on your Excellency two days ago has made me gather from his words the expression on your part of a similar desire. I have come to the avant-postes to put myself at the disposition of your Excellency. I expect you will let me know how and where I can have the honor of conferring with you for a few moments. I have, &c., "JULES FAVRE."

We were separated by a distance of forty-eight kilometres. The next morning at six o'clock I received a reply, of which this is a copy:—

I have just received the letter your Excellency has had the goodness to write to me, and it will give me the greatest pleasure if you will come to see me to-morrow here at Meaux. Prince Biron, the bearer of this, will see that your Excellency is conducted across our lines. I have, &c., DE BISMARCK.

At nine o'clock the escort was ready and I left with it. When we arrived near Meaux, about three in the afternoon, I was stopped by an aide-de-camp, who told me that Count Bismarck had left Meaux with the King to go to Ferrieres for the night. I went back and proceeded to a farm which had been pillaged, as were all the houses which I passed on my route. At the end of an hour M. de Bismarck joined me. It was difficult for us to consult in such a place. One habitation—the Chateau de la Haute Maison, belonging to the Count de Rillac—was in the vicinity, and we proceeded thither. Our conversation took place in a salon, in which debris of all sorts was lying about. I would fain report to you that conversation in its entirety, as I dictated it to a secretary the next day. Every detail of it is important. I at once specified the object of my mission. Having made his acquainted by my circular with the intentions of the French government, I wished to know those of the Prussian Minister. It seemed to me inexcusable that two nations should, without previous explanations, continue a terrible war which would inflict deep suffering on the conquerors, notwithstanding the advantages they had gained. Caused by the power of one man this war had no longer a raison d'etre when France had become mistress of herself. I pledged myself for her love of peace, but at the same time for her indomitable resolution not to accept any condition which should make that peace a brief and threatening truce. M. de Bismarck said that if he believed such a peace was possible he would sign it at once. The opposition had always condemned the war. But the power which that opposition represented was no longer anything but precarious. If within a few days Paris were not taken, it would be overthrown by the mob. I interrupted him to say that we had not a mere mob at Paris, but a population which was intelligent and devoted; which knew our intentions and which would not make itself an accomplice of the enemy in obstructing our defence. As regarded our power, we were ready to place it in the hands of the Assembly already convoked. "This assembly," replied the Count, will have designs which nothing can make us foresee. But if it obey the sentiment of France, it will wish for war. You will no more forget the capitulation of Sedan than Waterloo—than Sadowa, which did not concern you." Then he insisted at length on the wish of France, the accomplishment of which had been prevented, to attack Germany and to take away a part of its territory. From the time of Louis XIV. to that of Napoleon III. her tendencies had not changed, and that when war was declared the Corps Legislatif had received the words of the Minister with acclamation. I remarked to him that the majority of the Corps Legislatif had some weeks before called out for peace; that that majority, chosen by the Monarch, had believed itself bound to follow him blindly; but that the nation, which had been consulted twice, at the elections of 1869 and at the vote on the plebiscite, had persistently clung to a policy of peace and liberty. The conversation on this subject was prolonged—the Count maintaining his opinion, whilst I defended mine; and, as I pressed him strongly on these conditions, he replied, in effect, that the security of his country commanded him to guard the territory which protected it. He repeated several times, "Strasbourg is the key to the house; I must have it." I then asked him to be more explicit. "It is useless," he replied, "since we cannot listen to you. It is a matter to arrange later." I asked him to do it at once. He said then that the two departments of Bas Rhin and Haut Rhin, a part of the Moselle, with Metz, Chateau-Salins, and Senones were indispensible, and that he could not give them up in the negotiation. I then remarked that the assent of the people of whom he was thus disposing was more than doubtful, and that the public opinion of Europe would not be satisfied with it. "I know well," he replied, "that they are not with us. They will impose an unpleasant job on us, but we cannot suffer it. I am sure that in a short time we shall have a new war with you. We wish to make it with all our advantages." I protested as I should against such solutions of the question. I said that two important elements of the discussion had been forgotten—Europe, which would find these proposals to be exorbitant, and oppose them; then the new right—the progress of civilization and manners—which was opposed to such conditions. I added that, so far as we were concerned, we would never accept them. We could, I stated, perish as a nation, but we would not suffer dishonor; besides, the country alone was competent to decide regarding a cession of territory. We have no doubt about its feeling, but we are willing to consult it. Opposite to it Prussia is arrayed. And, to be brief, it is clear that, influenced by the intoxication of victory, she wishes for the destruction of France. The Count protested, taking his position behind the absolute necessity of the national guarantee. I continued:—"If it is not an abuse of strength on your part—concealing secret designs—let us summon the Assembly. We will resign into its hands our powers; it will nominate a definitive government which will consider your conditions." "For the execution of this plan," replied the Count, "an armistice would be necessary, and I do not wish for that at any price." The conversation took a turn ever more and more painful. Evening approached. I asked M. de Bismarck for a second interview at Ferrieres, where he was going to stay for the night, and we left each for his own destination. As I wished to fulfil my mission to the end, I had to return to several questions on which we had spoken, and to conclude. So in meeting the Count about half-past nine in the evening I observed that the intelligence which would be put in my possession would be conveyed to my government and to the French public, and I would engage that nothing would be published except what had been agreed upon between us. "Do not give yourself that trouble," he replied; "I give you full liberty. I do not see any disadvantage in revealing it." We then pursued the discussion, which was prolonged until midnight. I insisted particularly upon the necessity of summoning an Assembly. The Count appeared to become convinced by degrees and to return to the subject of the armistice. I asked for fifteen days. We discussed the conditions. He expressed himself in a very qualified way, and reserved his privilege of consulting the King. He consequently postponed our conversation until the next day at eleven o'clock. I have only one word to say; for in reproducing this sad story my heart is agitated by all the emotions which have tortured it for the last three days, and I hasten to the end. I was at the Chateau de Ferrieres at eleven o'clock. The Count left the King at a quarter to twelve, and I heard from him the conditions which were required for an armistice. They were contained in a text written in the German language, of which he gave me the sense verbally. He demanded as a guarantee the occupation of Strasburg, of Toul and of Phalsburg; and as to the demand of the previous evening that the Assembly should meet at Paris, he desired in that case to have added a fort commanding the city—that of Mont Valerian—for instance. At this point I interrupted him by saying, "It will be much more simple to ask us for Paris itself. How do you suppose a French Assembly can deliberate under your cannon? I have had the honor of telling you that I shall faithfully transmit our interview to the government, but I really do not know that I dare tell them that you have made to me such a proposition." "Let us seek another combination," he replied. Then I spoke to him of the Assembly meeting at Tours, and of no material guarantee being given in the neighborhood of Paris. He then proposed to speak of this proposition to the King, and, returning to the question of the occupation of Strasbourg, he added:—"The city is about to fall into our hands—it is now only a question of days—so I ask that the garrison should surrender themselves prisoners of war." At those words I was moved by grief, and rising, I said, "You forget that you are speaking to a Frenchman, Count. To sacrifice an heroic garrison—the admiration of ourselves and of the entire world—would be a piece of cowardice; and I do not promise that I shall not say you attempted to impose such a condition." The Count replied that he had no intention to wound me—that he only conformed to the laws of war; and that if the King consented that article might be modified. He then went and saw the King, and, returning in a quarter of an hour, said his Majesty accepted the proposition with regard to Tours, but insisted on the garrison of Strasbourg being retained as prisoners of war. My strength was now exhausted, and for an instant I feared it would fail me altogether. I turned to hide the emotion which nearly choked me, and, apologizing for my involuntary weakness, I took my leave with these simple words:—"I was deceived, Count, in coming here, but I do not repent. I have suffered sufficiently for my own excuse, and, moreover, I only came in deference to a sense of duty. I will report to my government all that you have told me, and if they think proper to send me back to you, however painful it may be to my own feelings I shall have the honor of seeing you again. I am grateful to you for the kindness you have shown towards me, but I fear there is no other means remaining than to let events take their course. The population of Paris is courageous, and resolved to make any sacrifice. Their heroism must change the course of events. Even if you conquer you will not make them submit. All France entertains the same sentiments. So long as we can find an element of resistance we will fight you. It will be a struggle between two peoples who ought rather to join hands. I hoped for a different solution, and I do part deeply grieved, but, nevertheless, full of hope." I added nothing to this speech, which was eloquent by its simplicity. I may now be permitted to conclude, and to tell you what is my idea of the effect of these interviews. I sought peace, and I found an inflexible determination in favor of war and conquest. I asked for the possibility of eliciting the opinion of France, represented by a freely elected assembly; and I was answered by a display of the Caudine Forks beneath which we were first required to pass. I make no recriminations. I confine myself to a statement of facts for the consideration of my country and of Europe. I do not attempt to deny that I ardently desired peace, and that the three days' spectacle of our ravaged country increased that desire to such a point that I was forced to call all my courage to my aid in order not to fail in the task I had undertaken. I desired not less keenly an armistice, in order that the nation might be consulted on the terrible question which fate has placed before us. You know now the preliminary conditions that were sought to be imposed upon us. With me, and without discussion, you have been unanimously of opinion that it was our duty to repel a proffered humiliation. I have a profound conviction that, in spite of the sufferings she is now enduring, and that are yet to be borne, our indignant country will share our resolution. It was with her sentiments I believed myself inspired in writing the following despatch to M. de Bismarck, which closed the negotiation:—

"M. LE COMTE—I have faithfully expressed to my colleagues in the Government of National Defence the declaration that your Excellency has been good enough to make to me. I regret to have to make known to your Excellency that that government has not been able to accept your propositions. They will accept an armistice having for its object the election and meeting of a National Assembly, but they cannot subscribe to the contingent conditions. As to myself, I can say with a clear conscience that I have done my utmost to stop the effusion of blood, and to restore peace to two nations which would be so much benefited by that blessing. I have only been stopped by an imperious duty, which required me not to yield the honor of my country, which has determined energetically to resist such a sacrifice. I and my colleagues associate ourselves without reserve in that determination. God, our Judge, will decide on our destinies. I have faith in His justice. I have, &c.,

"SEPT. 21, 1870. "JULES FAVRE."

I have done, my dear colleagues, and you will think with me that if I have failed in my mission it has still not been altogether useless. It has proved that we have not deviated. From the first we have conducted a war which we condemned beforehand, but which we accepted in preference to dishonor. We have done more, for we have laid bare the equivocation on which Prussia relied and let Europe now assist us in dissipating it altogether. In invading our soil she gave her word to the world that she was attacking Napoleon and his soldiers, but would respect the nation. We know now what to think of that statement. Prussia requires three of our departments, two fortified cities, one of 100,000, the other of 75,000 inhabitants, and eight or ten smaller ones, also fortified. She knows that the populations she wishes to tear from us repulse her; but she seizes them, nevertheless, replying with the edge of the sword to their protestations against such an outrage on their civic liberty and their moral dignity. To the nation that demands the opportunity of self-consultation she proposes the guarantee of her cannon planted at Mount Valerien, and protecting the scene of their deliberations. That is what we know, and what I am authorized to make public. Let the nation that hears this either rise at once, or at once disavow us when we counsel resistance to the bitter end. Paris is resolved to take the latter course. The departments are organizing and coming to our assistance. The last word is not yet spoken in this struggle, where now force is arrayed against right. It depends upon our constancy that the balance should rest on the side of justice and liberty. Receive, my dear colleagues, the fraternal homage of my unalterable devotion.

The Vice President of the Government of National Defence and Minister of Foreign Affairs,

PARIS, Sept. 21. JULES FAVRE.

BROOKLYN CITY NEWS.

Henry Russell, a workman, fell from a scaffold while at work on the Puritan church, corner of Lafayette and Marcy avenues yesterday, and striking on his head, was severely, but not fatally injured. The height of the scaffold was ten feet.

Justice Walsh issued a warrant yesterday on complaint of Inspector Fiske charging Dr. Jacob Gerstt, of Meserole street, Williamsburg, for violating the Health code, by falsely representing himself to be an officer of the Sanitary Bureau.

The balance remaining in the hands of the Park Commissioners on the 1st of October was $75,778, since which time $27,298 has been expended. The Commissioners have made a requisition for $100,000 for Park purposes. The plans for the pedestrian course were also adopted, the cost of which work is to be $42,000.

Peter Tulley, John Gillen, James and William McCloskey were engaged in conversation with Philip Eckhardt, a pedlar, in Spencer street, at a late hour on Tuesday night, when Philip discovered the loss of $140, which he missed from his pockets. He accused his friends, the gentlemen above named, of the theft, and summoned an officer, who took the party to the station house on Myrtle avenue. They are held for examination.

A BOY FRIGHTENED TO DEATH.

The Peril of Raiding on Farmers—What Came of Stealing Potatoes and Chestnuts—A Sad Affair.

On Saturday last a boy named Joseph Peele, fifteen years of age, and son of Mr. James Peele, one of the stockholders of the Machinists' Association establishment, of Paterson, went out with some companions to gather chestnuts in the woods surrounding that city. The party had gathered some chestnuts and some potatoes, which they were roasting on a fire they had built under a tree on a farm belonging to Mr. Jacob S. Rogers, of Paterson, when two Germans employed upon the farm approached them. One of these seized young Peele, while the other boys ran away. It is alleged that the man then tied the boy Peele to the tree and was about lashing him with the end of a whip when the boy struggled and cried so hard and manifested such evidences of abject terror that the man thought best to let him go.

Young Peele went home that night and was taken with slight pains in his stomach, which continued at intervals, until on Monday the symptoms extended to the regions of the heart and became so serious as to confine him to his bed. They continued to grow more severe until they resulted in the boy's death on Tuesday evening.

Dr. Robertson, who attended the boy, could find no external marks of violence whatever, but said there was every evidence that the immediate cause of death was congestion of the heart. It is his opinion, and the opinion of others, that the boy was frightened to death, and that (if the alleged report is true), being of a very excitable nature, he had been so frightened and struggled so hard to get loose that in the effort he ruptured one of the smaller blood vessels, which gradually caused a congestion of the heart.

No Coroner's inquest was held, and the parents objected to a post-mortem examination, so that the case possibly will end just where it is.

The party of boys, in whose company young Peele was, have, it is said, caused much trouble to the farmers around Patterson, trespassing on their grounds, stealing fruit and doing other acts of mischief. So that mayhap the man in charge of Mr. Roger's farm, in this case, may have been exasperated when he met them. The name of the man has not been ascertained.

A NEWARK HOAX.

A flaming sensation, setting forth that a woman named Barbara Smith, of Corey street, Newark, together with her three grown up daughters, had been abused, outraged and robbed in a fiendish manner by John Smith, who had wedded Mrs. Smith only last September, found its way yesterday into an obscure local sheet, proverbially eager to grab at any canard, however silly, such as the Ryerson-"Snoozer"-Rafferty scandal sell. It appears that for some time past the police court and station house authorities have suffered serious annoyance through the manœvres of certain hungry Bohemians, who thought nothing of abstracting documents from pigeon-holes in a surreptitious manner and giving publicity to matters that would best serve the ends of justice to keep quiet. In order to effectually put a quietus on this procedure in a quiet way a document was drawn out in the form of an affidavit made by Barbara Smith, as above, duly signed, and then laid behind the Police Court bar, "loose and careless." Of course there is not a scintillation of truth in the story from beginning to end. It is proper to say in this case, however, that the "sell" did not reach the parties intended, although the object in view will no doubt be gained nevertheless.

A MUSICAL FRAUD.

Singular Predicament of an Audience—A Concert that Was Not a Concert.

A music teacher named August Huber, who has for some time past been giving lessons on the pianoforte to the daughters of several wealthy residents in Mount Vernon, Westchester county, absconded from that village on Monday evening, under circumstances which leave little room to doubt that he is an arrant swindler. It appears that Huber announced, with a grand flourish, a vocal and instrumental concert for that evening, and having collected a considerable sum received from the sale of tickets, in addition to borrowing fifty dollars from one of his patrons, decamped, leaving his victimized audience of nearly two hundred persons, vainly awaiting the melodiousness of those dulcet strains which had been "promised to the ear but broken to the hope." Since his departure it has been ascertained that Huber has been guilty of similar tricks at Bridgeport, Conn., and other places. He is said to possess considerable musical ability and a decided penchant for the Teutonic national beverage.

Rev. H. M. Gallagher, of Brooklyn, lectures to-night in Plymouth Baptist church, Fifty-first street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues. Subject:—"Put Money in Thy Purse."

On Tuesday night a man, whose name is unknown, committed suicide by jumping into the dock foot of pier 33, East river. The body was recovered yesterday afternoon by James Burke and John Leary, and sent to the Morgue.

A lad named James Memder died yesterday afternoon in Mount Sinai Hospital from the effects of injuries received the day previous by being caught in the machinery of the Eagle pencil factory, West Twenty-seventh street.

William Tinsman, one of the witnesses in the Scannel shooting affray, was yesterday held to bail in the sum of $1,000 by Justice Cox, at Jefferson Market, charged with stealing two horses, one coach and two sets of harness, valued at $425; from Bernard R. Quinn, of 429 West Forty-second street, on the 8th inst.

The devotional exercises of the orthodox Israelites in honor and commemoration of the Feast of Tabernacles, known in Hebrew as Succoth, closed on Tuesday evening. Only prayer and psalms are chanted after this for the next four days, and manual or "servile" labor is permitted until the next great feast day, Shemine Azereth, except on the coming Sabbath.

Mr. Bernard Smyth, the Tax Receiver, gives notice that the tax books for real estate will be opened for payment on Saturday next, October 15. A deduction at the rate of seven per cent per annum, calculated from the date of payment to the first day of December, will be made on all taxes paid previous to the first day of November.

The Italian Rifle Association (Colombo Guard) held their fourth annual festival and target excursion at Sulzer's East River Park yesterday. G. Cavagnaro is captain of the organization and Solari Felice secretary. The association in their festivities thus commemorate each year the landing in America of Christopher Columbus, their distinguished countryman.

William Robinson, a sailor, was yesterday committed by Alderman Coman, at the Tombs, on a charge of having, with two other men, not yet arrested, robbed Mary Jantzen, 103½ Cherry street, of $130. Mary alleges that she had entered her room in company with two men, and that Robinson followed her in and then knocked her down on the floor, in doing which he was assisted by the two other men for the purpose of the robbery.

August Labelle, a Frenchman, was arraigned before Justice Cox, at Jefferson Market, yesterday morning, by officer Smith, of the Eighth precinct, upon complaint of a girl of the town named Anna Lecoste, of No. 159 Greene street, charged with beating and kicking her in such a brutal manner on Tuesday night that she was compelled to jump from the first story window for protection. He was committed to answer a charge of felonious assault.

Coroner Keenan was yesterday called to hold an inquest on the body of Patrick Culligan, whose death was the result of injuries received on the boulevard road, near Eighty-sixth street, by being run over by a wagon loaded with cobble-stones. While driving the team it is supposed that the deceased fell from the wagon, the wheels of which passed over his body. Michael Culligan, living at No. 9 West Forty-second street, testified that deceased, who was his brother, had been drinking to excess of late, and he may have been intoxicated at the time of the accident. Deceased was thirty-seven years of age and a native of Ireland.

A Law Association was organized at No. 23 Third avenue, opposite Cooper Institute, last night. The association is named the New York Law Association, and has adopted a constitution and bylaws for its purposes, its objects to discuss legal questions, and its officers as elected for the ensuing term are Louis Levy, President; Timothy Donovan, Vice President; Naidorf H. Phillips, Recording Secretary; Aaron Levy, Corresponding Secretary; Denis J. Cody, Treasurer, and Samuel Goldberg, Rudolph Sampter and William Doll as the Executive Committee. The association will meet next Wednesday evening at the same place to initiate new applicants.

There was a meeting yesterday afternoon at 51 Exchange place of the committee appointed June 24 by the Central American Transit Company, to watch over the united interests of their own body and also those of the now defunct Atlantic and Pacific Ship Canal and the accessory transit companies, especially in reference to the project of a ship canal via Nicaragua, and to take all necessary steps to acquaint the public mind thereon, and also to urge upon Congress and our government to adopt the Nicaragua route for the great national work of uniting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The committee is composed of William Butler Duncan, Richard Schell, Solon Humphreys, William H. Webb, Denning Duer, J. Howard Wainright, William M. Clarke, Francis Morris, and John E. Rady, who presided on the occasion of the present meeting. No business was transacted on account of the absence of some of the committee members.

MASONIC.

The Grand Commandary of Knights Templars at Utica—Election of Officers.

UTICA, Oct. 12, 1870.

Grand Commander, George Babcock, Troy; Deputy Grand Commander, Robert N. Brown, Buffalo; Grand Generalissimo, Frank L. Stowell, Olean, N. Y.; Grand Captain, General Weed Belden, Syracuse; Grand Prelate, Rev. J. G. Webster, Palmyra; Grand Senior Warden, A. E. Lytle, Auburn; Grand Junior Warden, Charles Roome, New York; Grand Treasurer, John S. Perry, Troy; Grand Recorder, Robert Macy, New York; Grand Standard Bearer, Robert Black, Brooklyn; Grand Sword Bearer, Townsend Fonday, Albany; Grand Warden, W. Kempster, Utica; Grand Lecturer, Joseph B. Chaffee, Binghamton; Grand Sentinel, A. Fuller, Albany.

The next conclave will be held in Albany on the second Tuesday of October, 1871.

AMERICAN SOCIAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION.

BOSTON, Oct. 12, 1870.

The annual meeting of the Social Science Association was held to-day in Truman Place chapel. The Secretary's report showed the whole number of members of the association to be 434. A sinking fund has been subscribed for the completion and publication of an emigrant's hand book, which now amounts to nearly $5,000.

A list of officers for the ensuing year was presented for adoption by the association.

A member protested against the ticket presented because no woman's name was among the candidates.

After discussion it was moved that the names of Mrs. Parkman and Miss May be added to the Board of Directors.

Mrs. Dall spoke several times, and stated that the nomination of the two ladies associated with her last year was made a jest of instead of being serious, as declared by the President. She was willing to go out of the association without resigning, were it necessary to its interests.

The President replied that he did not intend to interfere in the election of officers, but it was his province, as chairman of the meeting, to state the facts.

Mr. Washburn advocated the leaving the matter with the Board, and he hoped there would be one meeting where men and women could co-operate without introducing the subject that is exciting so much discussion.

The motion was carried, and Mrs. Parkman and Miss May were added to the Board by an unanimous vote.

The President then made an address and the meeting dissolved.

INTERESTING RELIGIOUS CEREMONY.

The corner stone of a new Reformed church was laid with appropriate ceremonies in presence of a numerous assemblage at Mount Vernon, Westchester county, yesterday afternoon. In the box deposited beneath the stone were a number of articles, including gold and silver coins of the United States and a copy of the NEW YORK HERALD. Addresses were delivered by the pastor, Rev. M. H. Hutton, and other clergymen. The new edifice will be eighty by forty-two feet in dimensions, with a tower sixty feet high, and will accommodate about 500 persons. It will be composed of Eastchester marble, which has been generously donated by a gentleman residing at Bronxville. The estimated cost of the structure is $25,000, nearly all of which has been subscribed.

PESTILENCE IN THE BAY.

A Visit to West Bank Hospital.

The Yellow Fever Among the Troops on Governor's Island—Heroism of the Drummer Boys—Harrowing Scenes in the Hospital—Drowning Preferred to Fever—Suicide of a Pilot—The Death Record.

Since the breaking out of yellow fever as an epidemic in our midst, and especially since its ravages among the troops on Governor's Island, immediately underneath the nostrils of New York and adjacent cities, there have been published and circulated from month to month various rumors in relation to the origin of the plague and the details of its ravages. For months the HERALD has warned the people almost daily of what they might expect in case the wise restrictions of the Health Officer were removed or permitted to be disregarded; while other journals have as persistently sought to counteract the measures of Dr. Carnochan and cast aspersions upon his motives. The result has been that a narrow-minded and avaricious clique of self-styled merchants, who are really the agents and consignees of British coasting vessels, aided by a New York merchant prominent in Washington politics and abetted by a Bohemian press, have so far evaded the quarantine regulations as to introduce to the city one of the most relentless and terrible of all forms of pestilence. By means of the press and politician have gratified their malice, the Shylocks have added to their hoard of pennies and the lives of scores of brave men have been sacrificed to a loathsome and frightful disease.

At a short distance from the wharf where the barks coming through the Kill von Kull discharged their cargoes, while the merchants were sneering at the idea of contagion and the papers above alluded to were still crying bugaboo, there was many a poor fellow who had faced death a hundred times undaunted who found himself stricken down at last by an impalpable, irresistible enemy. There were lying in down the bay, poor fellows with hopeless eyes, who turned listlessly over to die, so sick and dulled in mind that they could not even frame their thoughts in words for a last message to the distant "loved ones at home." And now, while the Health Officer of Brooklyn is trying to persuade the public that the contagion originated on Staten Island and was introduced from that point, and the wiseacres of the Board of Health listen sympathizingly, shrewd doctors are comparing notes of late mysterious cases in New York and Brooklyn, and shaking their heads over the apparent spreading of an infection that has already found a firm foothold.

To settle this question of the origin of the epidemic, so that the authorities may devote their exclusive attention to its suppression, a HERALD reporter was despatched to Staten Island, and, after nearly two days' diligent inquiries at all the landings and of persons residing in the interior, found that no case of yellow fever had been known there since 1858. On the morning of the third day the reporter, having finished his inquiries, was at Tompkinsville, and called upon Dr. Reid, one of the deputies of the Health Officer. He there learned that the number of persons living on Governor's Island was about 500, there being 200 regular troops and about 300 recruits, soldiers' wives, &c. Dr. Reid also called his attention to the heroic conduct of who to the number of a dozen or more volunteered to go with the sick to the West Bank Hospital in the capacity of nurses and attendants. As the brave lads had never been attacked by the yellow fever themselves, and were placing their lives in great danger, he thought they deserved the most honorable mention. The reporter soon after hinted that he should be much pleased to visit the West Bank Hospital in person and see the patients, but as his proposition was very coolly received he did not repeat it. A short time after, his interview occurred Dr. Reid went on board one of the boats at the Quarantine wharf and left for the lower bay, while the reporter strolled down the pier to inspect the steamer Fletcher, which with steam up, was lying at the dock. As he walked down the pier he passed two men, one of whom was saying, "We won't get to the West Bank till noon at this rate, and I wonder

WHAT KEEPS THE DOCTOR?"

These men came from the Fletcher, and the reporter on arriving at the end of the pier went on board. The pilot, with one of the deck hands, was busy tacking a piece of canvas over a broken pane on the pilot house and the lower deck was for the moment clear. Strolling about the boat a door was observed above which was a porcelain sign, "Private." The gale was blowing in fresh and strong, and with each surge of the sea the boat rolled considerably, so that every moment the sliding door was thrown open; then as the sea struck again the door closed. In one of these moments when open it exposed to view the interior of the cabin beyond. The reporter observed a sofa standing close up against the port side, and just at that moment saw a gentleman attired very like himself, in a pilot coat and wearing a glazed navy cap, coming down the pier. This gentleman was accompanied by two or three others, and just behind the group was a woman. A second glance showed the gentleman in navy dress to be Dr. Carnochan, the Health Officer, and in a moment there flashed through the mind of the "interviewer" a new plan of operation. The conversation overheard upon the pier lead to the conclusion that the Health Officer was going down on the steamer to the West Bank, and now was afforded

THE GRAND CHANCE.

The reporter entered the private cabin, wheeled the sofa a little from its position, and making a bed of his heavy coat lay quietly down behind it. A moment later the Doctor came on board and the following conversation took place just within hearing.—

"Doctor, we have an insurance on $60,000, and every day the Mississippi lies in quarantine entails so much loss on us. Now, won't you let her pass up to-night?"

"Sir, there were two cases of yellow fever on board your ship; one of the men died, and the other cannot, I think, survive. Do you want me to pass that vessel up with the contagion on board?"

"But you see, Doctor, every day is so much loss to us, and the weather is growing colder. I don't want to endanger the public health, but I want to get the vessel up."

"I don't see how you can do it, sir. I wish to facilitate commerce as much as I can, but I must protect the city. Besides, sir, though a heavy wind is blowing now, the temperature is above temperate, and there is a great deal of danger. You must remember that there is and that one of your men has just died with the contagion. It is liable to break out at any moment among the others."

"But, Doctor, every day the Mississippi lies there we are losing money."

The rest of the conversation was drowned in a tumult, for the Doctor ordered the lines cast off. Then there was a cry from the shore and a woman wished to see the Health Officer, probably the same who had been observed coming down the pier behind the group. A man shouted, "She wants to send a message to her husband at the hospital," and then came another delay. Presently some one peered into the room and shut the door. The jar of the revolving wheels shook the boat, and the reporter fell asleep. He awoke hearing a loud thump, followed by a grating noise and and felt that the wheels were still and the vessel rising and falling with a regular motion. Drawing his cap down over his face and throwing the collar of his overcoat up he ascended the gangway and found himself on the upper deck, and the Fletcher moored to the wharf of a miniature island built in the mouth of the bay. This island covers an area of scarcely more than an acre, and was built of great jagged stones sunk in a crib upon a bar or bank of sand. Through the centre of this and facing the ocean is a long, low structure of wood, ending in a square sort of cottage house, and having appended to it, like ribs from the spine, some dozen low, long buildings on each side, all painted a dazzling white. A plank walk leads up these buildings from the wharf. At the angle of the structure were the Health Officer and his assistants. The reporter walked leisurely forward, greeted with a stare of mute astonishment by the pilots, and, passing down the gang plank, followed the retiring cortege. Passing around to the opposite side of the structure, facing the sea, he found an open door, and quietly entered a hall leading to a parlor. He was received with courtesy by the only person present, and a moment later came face to face with the Health Officer, who regarded him with a look of bewilderment. The door was at this moment thrown open and the physicians passed through to examine the wards. The reporter followed at a respectful distance.

THE FIRST WARD ENTERED

is a long building of a single story, with high ceiling. Like other wards, it is over 120 feet in length, and perhaps twenty feet in width; is pierced by the grated apertures in the ceiling for ventilation and has six large windows on each side. Like the exterior, this and every other room visited was of almost dazzling white. Ranged on one side of this room were eighteen beds and on the other side fifteen. Each was occupied save two, and the occupants were all soldiers. They were young men, not one, perhaps, being over thirty, and many of them were just passing the verge of manhood, with scarcely a sign of beard. The beds were mattresses, on common iron camp frames, and were placed at intervals of ten to twelve feet apart. The Health Officer passed down the aisle, some eight feet wide, between the rows of beds, and by his constant nods of recognition seemed a frequent—perhaps more than daily—visitor. Behind him were gathered in a group Assistant Surgeon Steinberg and acting Assistant Surgeon Gibbs, of the army; Dr. McCartney and Captain O'Rourke. Dr. Reid was absent at the time boarding the vessels in lower quarantine. Soon they came to the lower end of the room and formed a group about the bed of a poor fellow who had but just been attacked with the black vomit. Dr. Carnochan came close to the head of his bed and asked him in the loud voice in which he had spoken since entering the room, "How do you feel to-day, my boy?" The man regarded him with a stolid stare.

THE DOCTOR (louder)—How do you feel this morning?

The man looked steadily at him with open mouth, and the Doctor repeated the question for the third time. Then the sick man seemed by a struggle to comprehend the question. He answered, "I feel better."

"You think you will get along now, don't you?" said the Doctor, trying to speak cheerily, though his voice trembled and his eye grew dim.

"Yes; I'm getting well now," and the poor man resumed his stolid, staring look.

The reporter stepped back a little way and looked up the line. Two-thirds of the faces were turned toward him with a vacant, heedless look, and some of them, as he glanced at them, turned slowly away. One of them, a man of perhaps five and twenty, felt under his pillow, without moving his head, and drew forth a number of letters; then selecting one he looked at it long and earnestly, and carefully replacing it with the others hid them once more. In every face was the same stolid look, and every one seemed stupid and deaf. Perhaps had a cannon been fired within ten paces of them they would scarcely have changed a muscle. Then their eyes were apparently all red with weeping, and the fixed, hopeless gaze was something so unearthly, so horrible, that he who has seen it will carry it with him to the grave.

As the party entered this room the attendants, boys in blue jackets, and convalescents, in long gray robes, retired, and on entering the

they were seen, some standing in a group, others about the beds of the dying.

"Are there any cases of black vomit since yesterday?" asked Dr. Carnochan, and he was taken to the bedside of one who evidently had but a few hours to live. He spoke to him many times, but the man hardly opened his eyes, and then closed their lids over a profound, impenetrable stare. The reporter approached one at a little distance away and said:—"You are getting much better, are you not?" The man, whose eyes had lost something of their redness and their film, tried hard to seem interested, and muttered "Yes;" then failing in the attempt, he gave a fixed, vacant look at his questioner and drooped his head. The party passed to the

WARD FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Three middle aged women were lying in this ward and a number of little children were playing about. The latter were in the enjoyment of robust health, and presented a strong contrast to their poor mothers, who, while exhibiting the same stolid look of the men in other wards, occasionally sent a glance of vivid, hopeless agony toward their children. In one little room—perhaps twelve by fourteen feet—was the mate of the steamship George Washington,

A CONVALESCENT, WITH A TERRIBLE APPETITE,

who thought he was nearly well enough to leave. He was a fine-looking fellow, with long brown beard, and was loud in his praise of the kindness shown him by the Health Officer and those in immediate charge. In another room of the same size was a very pretty lady, Mrs. Turin, of the steamship Bienville. This lady was apparently a creole, and her great, lustrous eyes and intensely black hair contrasted finely with a skin more yellow than saffron. She was quite anxious to leave the West Bank, though she stated she had been most kindly cared for. Indeed, she acted much like a spoiled child, asking at one moment in the most winning manner that she might "go home on Saturday," and the next moment pouting at the possibility of a refusal. Then other patients were visited, and among them one man apparently dying and speechless, from on board the steamer Mississippi, which, according to the owner, should be at the Brooklyn docks at this moment. Having finished an inspection of the hospital, the party returned on board the steamer, where Dr. Carnochan soon thawed out sufficiently to give the reporter the following facts:—

SOLDIERS ADMITTED TO THE HOSPITAL FROM GOVERNOR'S ISLAND.

Sick	71	Convalescent	11
REMAINING.
Sick	28	Convalescent	36

FROM ON SHIPBOARD.

Steamship Bienville	1
Steamship De Soto	3
Steamship Mississippi (one dead)	2
Steamship George Washington	1
Steamship General Sherman	1

In addition to these facts Dr. Reid, who had been taken on board from a small boat, stated that among the remarkable occurrences showing the fear people had of the disease was the suicide of the mate of the Pope Catlin. This steamer being employed to take the sick from Governor's Island to the West Bank, the mate became so terrified by apprehensions of danger from the contagion that he leaped overboard, with a couple of life preservers, and has not since been seen or heard from.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Fat Melting at 106th Street—Response to General McDowell's Letter.

The Board held a special open meeting yesterday afternoon, President Bosworth in the chair. On resolution of Commissioner Manierre the Comptroller was requested to place $15,000 to the credit of the Board, for the purpose of liquidating the indebtedness of the Board to the clerical force. In answer to an inquiry, Dr. Morris stated that he had sent four inspectors to the fat melting establishment at the foot of 106th street, and all reported that the place is conducted without offence. The Doctor stated that in a few days he would make a special inspection of the place, in company with the President. The Board then adjourned. Immediately after the members of the Commission proceeded to the rooms of President Bosworth, where they were locked in for some time, preparing an answer to the scathing letter of General McDowell. It will not be made public until a future meeting of the Board. It has leaked out that General McDowell wrote the letter in question after receiving such instructions from the War Department.

CRIME IN WILLIAMSBURG.

Attempted Murders—Arson and Burglary.

William Dutton, the colored man who was so brutally assaulted on Sunday morning last, at the corner of Broadway and Eleventh street, as reported in yesterday's HERALD, remained in an unconscious condition last evening at his residence No. 32 Montrose avenue. His assailants are still at large. Dutton was employed in a photographic establishment in South Brooklyn and was of good general character.

On Tuesday night, while Charles J. Quinn and Thomas Murphy were engaged in an altercation at the corner of Withers and Lorimer streets, the former stabbed the latter five times in the lower part of the body with a sharp pocket-knife, inflicting wounds which are likely to prove fatal. Murphy is at the City Hospital, and his assailant was committed to the county jail by Justice Voorhies yesterday.

At about half-past four o'clock yesterday morning unknown persons set fire to the residence of George Williams, corner of Graham avenue and Johnson street, by pouring kerosene oil over the front hall. The flames were discovered in time to prevent a fire that would probably have resulted in loss of life. This was the second attempt made to burn the same dwelling.

Officers Short and Whitenour, of the Sixth precinct, yesterday morning arrested two supposed burglars in the neighborhood of Ainslie street and Union avenue, while a third effected his escape. On being taken to the Morrell street station house the prisoners gave the names of Charles McGarven and William Broach. The officers had to draw their revolvers on the prisoners before they surrendered, one of them attempting to strike down officer Whitenour with a heavy screw-driver nearly two feet long, such as is often used by cracksmen. The other had a chisel in his possession, which showed evidence of recent use. These prisoners are hard looking customers, one of them about twenty-five years of age and the other twenty. They are unknown to the police of the precinct where they were captured.

Officer Short yesterday arrested George Sherman, a youth of sixteen, for stealing a gold watch from the residence of Mrs. Kromode, No. 411 Grand street, on the 10th inst. The officer also recovered the watch and found a large number of pawn tickets sewed up in the lining of Sherman's cap.

A DISTRESSING CASE.

Disappearance of a Man Who Was Suffering from Typhoid Fever.

For some days past George Geitz and his wife, residing in Main street, Union Hill, N. J., have both been suffering from typhoid fever. On Tuesday afternoon George jumped out of bed, and, having dressed himself, left the house and has not since been seen in that neighborhood. His wife observed that he was laboring under great excitement and called out to him not to go out of doors lest his disease might become serious, but he paid no attention to her and she was unable to leave her bed. It has been ascertained that he visited a lager beer saloon in Weehawken late in the afternoon, and from the time he left that house no trace of him was found. It is feared that he committed suicide.

THE POLITICAL PHŒNIX.

The Era of Revolutions—Jimmy O'Brien, the Political Phœnix—How He Was "Laid Out" and How He Arose Again—Jimmy in the Role of the Prodigal Son—The Vacant Police Commissionership His "Fatted Calf"—Other Tammany Candidates in the Field—Two Military Worthies Suggested Therefor—The Commotion in the Republican Camp—The Murphy Regime and What It is Coming to.

This is peculiarly the era of revolutions and political upheavings. The very elements themselves seem to have been started into an abnormal state of agitation and disquietude by the events which, following so rapidly on each other of late, have convulsed the nations and peoples of the earth. And yet we are only in the throes of those events which have produced such sudden and wonderful changes, and which still teem with consequences and results that no human eye can foresee or human mind foretell. In Europe we have seen the successor of St. Peter deprived of that temporal power which eleven centuries had bequeathed to him as a divine right—that power wrested from him by a king against whom but a few years ago he hurled, but in vain, the anathemas of the Church. Anathema or Benedicite, it was all the same, however. The era of progress is not to be stayed or checked now, and the Pope finds himself in his old age like another Priam, standing alone amid the ruins of the power which he alone survives to mourn over.

In France we have seen within the past few months the "Man of Destiny" go forth from the Tuileries, panoplied in war, surrounded by the chivalry of the empire, in the full assurance of reaping a rich harvest of fame and glory, and bequeathing a dynasty to his son which his great uncle first established. A few short weeks thereafter saw his puissance overthrown, his armies defeated, captured and slain, and himself, the Cæsar who so long "kept the world in awe," a captive in the hands of the enemy he went forth to conquer. But the end is not yet. The republic looms up over the empire, and the men who are sworn to support it are made of such stuff that no concussion of arms will affright and no misfortune or temporary defeats will turn them from the great task they have undertaken to accomplish.

OUR LOCAL POLITICAL REVOLUTION.

We turn, however, from the contemplation of the great events which are convulsing the Continent of Europe, and take a glance at affairs nearer home, which, though the change may appear as one "from the sublime to the ridiculous," have yet a deep interest for the politician, the place-hunter and the hangers-on of party, as well as to the citizens at large, whose welfare depends so much upon good municipal government.

O'BRIEN'S RESURRECTION.

In last Tuesday's issue we published a graphic and faithful account of the "great political funeral," with all the incidents of note connected therewith; how Ledwith overreached O'Brien in the race for the Mayoralty; how the latter rebelled, but ultimately succumbed, and again, after drawing a long breath, how O'Brien rose like a Phœnix from its ashes, prepares to renew the contest with his adversaries on a new field. The duty of resurrecting the late defunct O'Brien and presenting him enacting a new rôle in the drama, together with other important political movements anent the day of election now devolves upon us.

HOW O'BRIEN WAS "LAID OUT" AND HOW HE ROSE AGAIN.

When, as previously stated, Tom Murphy, Ledwith and Fox at last decided that Jimmy O'Brien was to be thrown overboard from all consideration in connection with the Mayoralty, in deference to the high Puritanic Union League and administration sentiment, and that the pure and immaculate Police Justice Ledwith should be the accepted candidate of the republican party for Mayor, O'Brien became a changed man. Of course he would not be rejected or cast aside merely on account of a combination against him between his friends and the republican leaders, and he insisted on an appeal to the general committee of his own faction. Ledwith and Fox, however, had manipulated everything so cleverly that Jimmy was badly beaten—"beaten out of his boots" in fact—on a count of votes. Jimmy might have have gone out and hanged himself, which, being Sheriff, he had a perfect right to do if he chose; but he swore he'd "be hanged if he would"—that he'd "see them hanged first;" and so Jimmy, whose political funeral we attended the other day, has thrown off the cerements which Murphy, Fox and Ledwith prepared for him, and is to be seen any night of the week enjoying the glimpses of the moon in and around the Jackson Club, of which he continues to be a bright and shining light, notwithstanding the extinguisher put upon him.

JIMMY'S REVENGE.

No sooner had Jimmy risen again from his political death and taken communion with himself than he determined to give the "finishing touch," as Denis the hangman would say, to the ruin of the party he could no longer rule. He knew the right market to carry his wares to, and rumor hath it that notwithstanding the dread oath which was to bind the republican conspirators with their associates of the John Real democracy, he sold himself body and breeches over again to the Tammany Regency. Fox, at the meeting which nominated Ledwith for Mayor on Monday night last, declared that he was authorized to say that Sheriff O'Brien would support the ticket. If he calls O'Brien's late action a "backing of his friends" he may take it for all it is worth.

THE IRISH CATHOLIC VOTE.—THE BREECHES POCKET WAR.

The first element of disunion and strife between the worthies Ledwith and O'Brien was upon the vexed question as to which of them carried in his breeches pocket the Irish Catholic vote. It may not be very complimentary to our Irish fellow citizens to be informed that there was a dispute upon the point, but such is the fact. Ledwith first asserted that he "carried the Irish Catholic vote in his breeches pocket," and claimed thereupon the leadership of the O'Brien-John Real faction on the strength of that vote. O'Brien had engineered the secession movement from its inception in the Assembly Hall in Albany to the moment that the "angel of destruction" flapped her ominous wings over the councils of the young Braves and set their wisdom at naught, and was from the first the recognized leader of the remnant of the secession faction after their first defeat. But when putting forth his claims to the nomination for the Mayoralty, Ledwith referred to the political power he carried in his breeches pocket. O'Brien, not to be outdone in presumption, asserted that it was he and not his opponent who carried the Irish Catholic vote in his breeches pocket. And so a new faction fight arose between the O'Brien breeches pocket men and the Ledwith breeches pocket men: a fight as frivolous and absurd as that described by Gulliver as waged between the sticklers for breaking the egg at the big end and the sticklers for breaking it at the small end, from which controversy the adherents of either party were dubbed the big-enders and the little-enders. This was the first rock the two worthies split upon. The next—the Mayoralty question—broke the frail bark to pieces, the two rivals starting on rafts in different directions for the first port they could reach.

O'BRIEN AS THE PRODIGAL SON.

Jimmy, the ex-leader of the John Real democracy, like another prodigal, returned to his old governor, the big boss—Tweed—and penitently avowed his late crimes and misdemeanors. He was warmly received by the fatherly Tweed, but whether the particular fatted calf that Jimmy expects to be sacrificed at his shrine is the one intended to celebrate his return to the Tammany fold or not remains to be seen. Jimmy's fatted calf is the vacant Police Commissionership. He is already in the field hunting for it. He thinks that as Brennan takes his place in the Sheriff's office, he ought to have Brennan's place in the Police Board. If the place was elective Tammany might give him the nomination; but it is a question whether such a dose would not be too much for even the well physicked voters of the city. Every man in his place is a good maxim, but whether a seat at the Police Board is just the one that the outgoing Sheriff would grace is one there may be two opinions about. The position, however, is not elective, but is an appointment by the Mayor. Boss Tweed may wheedle and promise Jimmy his influence with Mayor Hall to get him the appointment; but we say to Jimmy now, in the ever memorable words of the Boss himself, "You know how it is yourself, Jimmy." The thing can't be done. Mayor Hall will not, to reward political treason twice repeated, entertain for a single moment the idea of putting such a man as O'Brien in a position which, from the great influence for good or evil its incumbents possess, ought to be filled by the best and purest of our citizens. Whether the expectant Jimmy comes under that category Mayor Hall will have officially to determine. But the Mayor is not the man to sell and mart the city offices for gold or other considerations to undeservers, and so that question, so far as O'Brien is concerned, may be considered settled.

THE VACANT POLICE COMMISSIONERSHIP.

While upon this subject it may interest our readers to learn who are the candidates in the field for the place vacated by the coming Sheriff, Matthew T. Brennan. We have already stated that the present Sheriff, James O'Brien, claims the position in virtue (!) of his double treason to party and to party pledges. Having had his claims to the nomination to the Mayoralty candidacy contemptuously scouted by his late associates in the John Real democracy movement, he traitorously abandoned that tag, rag and bobtail of a party—sold them out clean so far as his own faction adherents go—and begged readmission into the Tammany fold. They say Jimmy is a good organizer, and, no doubt, to make their victory more overwhelming in November next, the Tammany leaders have put Jimmy into a state of probation, accepting his recantation and buoying him up with the promise of a fat place one of these days. But O'Brien aspires to the vacant Commissionership, and consequently he may be as well counted in as a candidate with a few other aspirants to the office, any one of them having just as good a chance as Jimmy, and "nothing more." First is Magnus Gross; then comes John Mullaly, by the grace of Boss Tweed a Commissioner of Health, and third on the list, or fourth, counting O'Brien, Mr. Ottendorffer. The Mayor will hardly select any of those named, and they may as well attend to present duties or direct their attention to some other vacant office, as the Police Commissionership is not for any of them. There are two most worthy citizens spoken of in this connection, either of whom would be an acquisition to the Board and whose appointment would be hailed with entire satisfaction by the whole community. These are General Fitz John Porter and General Franklin. Either of these gentlemen would bring an experience from the very best field for such an office—the field of military service, military energy, promptness and discipline. It is to be hoped that Mayor Hall, in the interest of the citizens at large, will at least give the refusal of the office to either of these talented and capable men; and it is to be further hoped that to whichever of them the appointment is offered he will accept. At all events the office could not be more worthily disposed of.

COMMOTION IN THE REPUBLICAN CAMP—THE MURPHY REGIME.

There is great commotion in the republican camp at the shape things are taking. For the first time the honest republican voter finds himself the dupe not only of ambitious leaders hungering after offices within the gift of the organization, but he finds also his vote has become the subject of barter and sale to the hostile party, with whom the republican leaders have made treacherous compact and with whom the voter has no affiliation whatever. Under Murphy's political régime at the Custom House the party has become more and more disorganized, until now it has fallen so low as to join hands with the ragtag and bobtail of the old Tammany party. As the representative of the administration party in this city Collector Murphy has brought the administration and its local policy into contempt, and the very alliances he has made to strengthen it tend more and more to its weakness and final overthrow. Murphy is no political organizer; he has none of the qualities of a leader. He would take things easy if he could. Like Macbeth, he would be great; is not without ambition; would not play false, but yet would wrongly win. And, therefore, not seeing at first his way clear to the sway and masterdom of Collector of the Port, he bamboozled the President into the belief that he alone could prop up the tottering fabric of republicanism in this State and secure its vote for a Presidential renomination in 1872. How well he has succeeded thus far let the result of the Saratoga Convention and the continual disintegration of the party since testify. The President would be very glad to be relieved of his man Tom, but, military strategist as he has proved himself to be, he is not sufficiently versed in political tactics to successfully manœuvre or bring about so desirable an end as this. Perhaps, too, he remembers a little apothegm of the late President—"never swap horses crossing the stream"—and so Tom may be safe enough in his possession of the Custom House till after the November elections.

THE REPUBLICAN OFFICE-HOLDERS UNDER TAMMANY TO BE READ OUT OF THE PARTY.

The republican office-holders under Tammany are doomed to grief. There is mutiny in the Citizens' Association, open war in the republican ranks proper, and a hostile demonstration made against these political tricksters and trimmers by the great, influential body of German republicans in this city. The Citizens' Association denounce their late immaculate leaders, Sands, Henry and Daly, who, after a little simulated horror at the corruption of the Tammany ring and hypocritical denunciations of the heavy and unnecessary taxes with which the people were burdened, embraced the first opportunity of making a bargain with the "Satanic ring," accept office under it, and thus, in their own persons, help to increase the very burden they first inveighed against. The republicans of the "three committees," notwithstanding that "office is sweet and money scarce," have resolved to send no delegates to their nominating convention who are the paid allies or mercenaries of Tammany. The German Central Campaign Club have similarly resolved to have nothing to do with those traitors in their camp, who have nothing for the party but high sounding protestations of loyalty and pretentious claims, while they give material aid and comfort to the enemy.

HOW TAMMANY WILL DEAL WITH THE SUBSIDIZED REPUBLICANS.

The Tammany chiefs are indignant at the contract entered into between Collector Murphy and the heads of the John Real democracy to vote upon a joint ticket in the November election. The ukase has gone forth that unless the republican leaders, many of whom are in the pay of Tammany, nominate a straight republican ticket and thus disavow all connection or alliance with the Morrissey-Ledwith gang, the political guillotine will be put into immediate use, and the heads of each and every Tammany office holding republican, from Tom Murphy down, will be consigned to the sawdust basket. Thus these republican trimmers are between two fires, and can hardly escape the political death they so richly merit. The party, however, would be well rid of them, and the fate with which they are threatened would be a consummation devoutly to be wished.

"FIXING" THE ELECTION.

The Last Census Dodge—How the Radicals Propose to Disfranchise Legal Voters in this City—A New Use to be Made of the Census Returns.

About three weeks since each of the Assistant United States Marshals who have been employed to take the census of the Southern District of New York received a written notice, signed by one C. D. Murray, requesting them to call immediately upon him at his office, No. 7 Warren street, rooms Nos. 4 and 5, upon business of importance to themselves. Now this, little notice was the innocent cause of a considerable degree of alarm among many of its recipients: for, feeling conscious that they had not done their work in nearly so satisfactory and thorough a manner as they should have done, they were very naturally thrown a little off their equilibrium upon receiving a notice addressed in such an official manner as was this one.

Doubtless many of them thought Mr. Murray had been sent here by the Washington authorities to investigate the thousand and one complaints that have been made against the shameful manner in which they have mis-taken the census, and consequently they gave No. 7 Warren street as wide a berth as possible. Two or three of them, in fact, actually contemplated "skedaddling" from the city and vicinity, and even went so far as to pack up their little old carpet bags and inquire the nearest and quickest route to Canada. Unfortunately, perhaps, for their friends and neighbors, they soon learned, through some of the others who had put on a bold front and called upon Mr. Murray, that that individual did not propose to do them any harm, but, on the contrary, wished to give each of them five dollars cash down for what he termed a small consideration.

Straightway the inevitable carpet-bag was again relieved of its contents, and the little excursion which they had so recently and seriously been contemplating to more northern climes was abandoned, at least for the present.

But this consideration of Mr. Murray's for which he had so many five-dollar bills to distribute—what could the "game" be? Why, just simply this:—Each man should take a small blank book which Mr. Murray would give him, go over to Marshal Sharpe's office, in Chambers street, and there get the book containing the returns of population which each had made to that office and from these returns copy into the small blank book the name, age, color, place of birth and residence of every male person twenty-one years of age and upwards, for use in the next election.

Of course Mr. Murray is but an agent of the Republican State Central Committee, who furnish the money which he pays out for having the copies made.

During the next election, on the 8th of November, the republicans propose to station a man at each of the polls, with a copy of the returns for the district in which the polls are situated, whose business it shall be to challenge each and every voter who comes up to deposit his ballot and whose name does not appear upon said copy of census returns.

Now, from the loose and inaccurate manner in which, it is well known, the census has been taken in New York city, there are a great many legal voters whose names will not appear upon these copies of returns, and consequently they will, notwithstanding they may have been legally registered, be challenged, and perhaps wholly prevented from voting at all. If this programme is carried out, as it most assuredly will be, it will be a most outrageous piece of business, and it now remains to be seen what measures will be taken by the city authorities to prevent the perpetration of this wholesale disfranchisement.

A MELEE ON A CUNARD STEAMER.

An altercation took place last evening on board the Cunard steamship Algeria, lying at the Jersey City wharf, between John Bevan, the boatswain's mate, and William Rogers, one of the crew. Rogers struck Bevan a blow with some heavy weapon over the left eye, scooping a hole thereon "as large as a half crown," to use the boatswain's testimony. Rogers was arrested and locked up in the First precinct station. Doctors Varick and Mulcahy were called on to attend the injured man, who was unable to appear in person and lodge a complaint. The case will come before the City Judge this forenoon.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A POLICEMAN.

Officer Patrick Mangan, of the Second precinct, Jersey City, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning. He had been on duty on Tuesday till nine o'clock in the evening, when he was relieved with the expectation that he was to appear for duty at eight o'clock yesterday morning. When his wife entered the room at seven o'clock his body was cold and stiff. He had been subject to attacks of bleeding from the nose. He was thirty-five years of age, and leaves a wife and three children. Coroner Burns will hold an inquest.

IN LUCK.—There is a soldier in one of the companies here who is a near relative to a Lieutenant General in Germany, and from whom this soldier receives each month, through private parties, $250. Some soldiers in Sitka, although putting on but little airs, are not so poor after all, if they are enlisted in Uncle Sam's service.—Sitka (Alaska) Times.

THE CLEVELAND TRAGEDY.

[From the Cleveland Leader, Oct. 11.]

Never was the public mind wrought up to a higher state of excitement than since the bloody tragedy that occurred Saturday morning on the west side. In every circle of society it is almost the sole topic of conversation; and, while speculating upon what is already known in the premises, the public are impatiently awaiting further developments.

The few facts already given in the case are meagre and incomplete. They make known the existence of a rape or seduction, followed by a sudden tragedy, and here the curtain falls. The thousand acts of the drama which closed with the extinction of the life of Dr. William H. Jones, the incarceration of Dr. Galentine as a murderer, and the branding of Mrs. Galentine as an adulteress, have been as effectually concealed as if silenced by death. The facts which bridge over the gaps in the various scenes of the drama are wanting. Nothing but the most meagre details are known. The circumstances are being developed day by day, but the matter will not be fully cleared up and the incongruous statements completely reconciled to each other until the searching power of the law has investigated the matter in a court of justice.

Yesterday a reporter of the Leader spent a good portion of the day in visiting the father and brother and wife of Dr. Galentine and talking with them on the subject of the late tragedy. The recitals made by Dr. Galentine's father and brother were similar in many respects. The father stated that a week ago last Sunday his son learned, through his wife, that Jones had attempted to seduce her. The attempt was said to have been made during the husband's absence in Boston, during the earlier part of last August. Mrs. Galentine had her husband's business to attend to, and one evening asked Dr. Jones to advise her on a question of some business importance. The gentleman answered her that he would willingly assist her with his advice at any time, but he had then a patient to visit and would see her on his return. He returned, went off to see another patient, and at midnight came back to his office again and then knocked at Mrs. Galentine's door. She heard the first rap slightly, but waited to assure herself that some one was really knocking at her door. Soon the rap was heard again, when she arose from her bed and going to the door asked, "Who is there?" Dr. Jones made known his presence and asked to come in. The lady objected, stating that the hour was improper, when he replied that he wished to see her at once and advise her on the subject she spoke of during the evening. "Oldroyd (the doctor's student) will not hear us; let me in." She peremptorily refused, and the doctor retiring from the door she returned to her bed.

At this time she thought Dr. Jones had withdrawn, and prepared to pass the night in security. Turning upon her couch her wearied eyes were hardly closed when sleep was frightened away by a grating sound, and the woman started to her feet by the sudden appearance of a visitor whom she was trying to shun.

We have heretofore stated that the rooms of Drs. Jones and Galentine were in the same building on the second floor and separated from each other only by a narrow hall. In the extreme front of each room over the stairs there is a small closet, one of which was used by Dr. Jones as a laboratory. A door through this closet opens into Dr. Galentine's office, and it was at this door that she heard the grating noise of a bolt being drawn. In a moment after hearing the noise Dr. Jones appeared before her. He attempted to cajole her and she ran through the apartment into a kitchen, where she locked herself up. Here a conversation ensued between the two persons, the defenceless woman entreating Dr. Jones to leave her house, and he endeavoring to induce her to come forth from her place of refuge. Finally she heard the noise of retreating footsteps, and in a few moments, thinking he had gone, came forth and stepped right into the embrace of Dr. Jones. It is said the wife struggled to free herself from the embraces of the muscular man. He held her, however, in his powerful grasp, carried her to her bed, and there effected his purpose. After that the two met often, and she lived from day to day in a state of adultery with him. The above recital is almost a verbatim account of the case, as related to our reporter yesterday morning by Dr. Galentine's father. A week ago last Sunday Dr. Jones and Mrs. Galentine confessed to the injured husband that an attempt to rape Mrs. Galentine had been made. On Thursday last, October 6, Dr. Galentine called his wife and Dr. Jones together, and they then confessed that the attempted rape had been successful. Dr. Galentine threatened to shoot Jones, who is said to have offered to fight a duel, saying, "I'm a good marksman and can snuff a candle at twenty paces every time." After some further conversation the parties separated.

John G. Galentine, eighteen years of age, and a medical student, is a brother of Dr. Galentine, the prisoner, now in jail for shooting Dr. Jones. He informed our reporter yesterday that on last Thursday, while he was returning from a lecture delivered in the Western Reserve College, he met his brother Jay on River street, immediately north of the canal bridge. John saw the abstracted and haggard condition of his brother, and then asked him where he was going.

"Come with me and you'll see," said the other. "Where is Wagner's loan office?"

"What do you want there?" asked the younger brother.

"I want a pistol to shoot a d—d son of a b—h."

All questions put by the young man were in vain. His brother was pale and excited, and talked incoherently. He went into a store and looked at some revolvers, and finally bought a pistol at Cohen's loan office. He then went to the bank of the lake, where he tried the pistol, and was about to leave when his brother succeeded in taking the arm from him.

The motive of John Galentine in following his brother was to prevent him from doing mischief, and to deprive him of the deadly weapon if possible. Once in possession of the weapon he hurried off to 528 Columbus street to tell his father what he had seen. The father says John cried out on seeing him, "Jay is as crazy as a bear; he will certainly do some mischief. I asked him the cause for his conduct, and he told me there was an article in the Leader which would serve as an explanation." The father then went to see his son, and says he found his eyes bleared, his face pale and his conduct completely changed. The father thought him sick, and was told that he was mistaken. "I'm not very well," said the son, "and have eaten scarcely anything, and slept but a few hours since Sunday." The father mentioned an article he had read in the Leader, stating that he thought it referred to him and Jones. At the repetition of this name the son exclaimed, "D—n the villain! I'll shoot him!" The father, startled at this exclamation, implored his son to put aside all thoughts of shooting, and to leave the matter to the law. Then the son replied that Dr. Jones had attempted to commit a rape on his wife, and had succeeded.

The father and son spent some time together, and by the time that the latter was calmed down the two paid a visit to S. E. Adams, attorney for the prisoner. Here Mr. Adams united with the father in entreating the son to use no violence, but to wait calmly until the law had taken its course. The father and son returned to the west side at about five o'clock P. M., the latter having promised to use no violence against Dr. Jones.

A CONFESSION.

On Friday Dr. Galentine brought his guilty wife and her seducer together and showed them that he had abundant proofs of their criminality. After talking with them for some time they both confessed their guilt. The young husband was then fully conscious of his position. He was enraged for a short time, but recovered, and remained quietly in his office.

A CONSPIRACY.

During the evening, while in his front room, he heard low whispers near Dr. Jones' laboratory, and on drawing near overheard his wife, Dr. Jones and another person in conversation. His father states that the son overheard his wife and her paramour agree not to testify against each other, and to force the husband to refrain from legal measures. The third voice was heard to give advice, and we are informed by Dr. Galentine, Sen., that it was the voice of Lawyer Chapman, a young attorney of our city. The husband further overheard them agree to arrest him for slander in case he instituted legal proceedings, and then the conspirators adjourned.

SHE CONFESSES ALL.

Dr. Galentine, Jr., was seized with a paroxysm of rage when he became privy to this plot against him. His wife returned to her rooms where her husband at once confronted her and repeated all that he had heard. She not only made no denial, but admitted that she and Dr. Jones had agreed to hang by each other and prosecute him in case he carried the matter into court. "We shall arrest you for slander," said she, "if you begin a lawsuit." The conversation which followed was of but little importance, and the husband soon left his home.

He left his home with his bosom stung by indignation, madness and revenge. He now had the most conclusive proofs of his wife's guilt. Whatever lingering traces of faith in her might have remained in his bosom were extirpated, and he believed her false, unscrupulous and capable of coolly plotting his ruin. He believed the demon of lust was holding its tumultuous carnival in her heart, and that all his troubles had been caused by one man. That man had first used force, and then, after accomplishing his designs, had so completely ensnared the woman in his meshes as to make her plot the ruin and misery of her own husband. That night he purchased a revolver, and a few minutes after seven the next morning the final reckoning hour for Dr. Jones had arrived.

INTERVIEW WITH MRS. GALENTINE.

Mrs. Galentine is a lady of very interesting appearance, about twenty-three years of age. She is above medium height, very stately in proportions and graceful in every movement. Her forehead is very high, eyes large and blue, surmounted by a finely arched, heavy eyebrow. Her blonde hair is very thick and worn with a heavy bandeau across the head. She is dignified in her behavior and converses freely on the tragedy recently enacted by her husband. She is at present stopping at the house of a friend on Pearl, near Washington street, where our reporter visited her last evening.

Her account in relation to her husband's absence and application to Dr. Jones for advice is similar to what is related above. He frequently invited her to go out with him, which she as often refused. His nocturnal visit and forced entrance to her room and the rape were repeated by her to our reporter in almost the same words as they are given above.

She states that the day after the outrage she endeavored to obtain possession of the key by which Dr. Jones had entered her room, but was unable to do so. She then went to Mr. Oldroyd, Dr. Jones' student, and told him that she must have that key for her protection. He remarked that she was perfectly safe, and should not be molested; but she insisted upon having the key, and he told her that if she felt so she should certainly have it. But the key could not be pulled out of the lock. Mrs. Galentine then attempted to fill the keyhole with plaster of Paris, but could not, and then she tried to secure the door with a clothes line.

During the day Mr. Oldroyd reported what had transpired to Dr. Jones, who afterwards went to Mrs. Galentine and angrily asked of her why she had been to his student for the key. She replied that she must have the key, but he declared that he would never give it up, as he wanted to use it. He further remarked that she was now in his power. Mrs. Galentine was greatly alarmed. Whenever she could she had lady friends stay with her, and sometimes slept away from home. But Dr. Jones would steal her keys when she was away, and would, furthermore, visit her during the day time, often, she says, forcing her to minister to his passions. This state of things continued until and after Dr. Galentine's return.

Mrs. Galentine states that her husband by some means got wind of the matter and questioned her, when she admitted a part of what had transpired. She relates that her husband interrogated her and Dr. Jones together, and that they admitted the attempted rape. After the publication of the article in our paper in reference to the matter, Dr. Jones told her that there was no further use in trying to deny the matter, and they confessed all their guilt to the injured husband. She is "mum" as to having been overheard in conversation with Dr. Jones and lawyer Chapman, and having conspired against her husband. She says that she visited Dr. Jones and had agreed not to testify against him. This excited Galentine terribly; and the next morning, after a restless night, the murder was committed.

Whether the above statements are correct or not we cannot decide. They corroborate each other in many particulars, and will undoubtedly form the burden of the testimony that a legal examination of the case will call out. We give the words of the wife, father and brother of the prisoner, and, as Dr. Jones is dead, there may be none who can refute them. Mr. Oldroyd, the student of Dr. Jones, will undoubtedly be an important witness.

Dr. Galentine is the son of very respectable parents, residing in Brooklyn Centre. His father, a physician, No. 528 Columbus street, is plunged in grief at the unfortunate conduct of his son; but still has the strongest confidence in his upright and honest character. He believes his son was driven to the commission of the deed in a moment of madness, when unable control himself.

Dr. Jay F. Galentine first made the acquaintance of his wife through an advertisement for a lady correspondent during the war. Shortly after the close of the rebellion he met her, and they were soon married. She yesterday visited him in the jail, and will call on him as often as permitted.

THE POLICE SUPERINTENDENCY.

Casting About for "The Coming Man."

Already the members of the police force begin to speculate upon the probable successor of the deceased Superintendent, and the names of the three Inspectors, Captain Kelso, of the detective force; Captains Mount and Petty, ex-Superintendents Kennedy and Matsell, William McKellar, formerly assistant to ex-Chief Matsell; Morgan Jones and Judge Dowling have been prominently coupled with the position. The general impression is that the office will not be filled until after ex-Commissioner Brennan's successor has been appointed, and that the fortunate one will be taken from outside the force. The Commissioners seem to think that it is not advisable to take a man from the force for this duty, on account of the jealousies existing therein among other aspirants for the office. Inspector Walling or Dilks would ably fill the position; but, being republicans, neither stands a chance in the race. Captain Kelso is a gentleman eminently qualified to perform the duties; is remarkable for courtesy, energy and executive ability, and, being a democrat, will probably be the choice of the Commission, should it decide to elect the Superintendent from the force. Captain Mount, of the Seventeenth, is also an excellent officer, and would ably perform the duties were he chosen. The probability is that the Board will select a military officer of well known ability and discipline, with a view of organizing the force strictly on a military basis. The names of Generals Franklin and McClellan have been prominently mentioned in this connection, but it is very questionable whether either would accept. Some are of the opinion that Marshal Tooker's chances are exceedingly good, and that he will be the successful aspirant. Yesterday Messrs. Tweed, Sweeny and Morgan Jones were closeted with the Police Commissioners—it is supposed on business connected with the two vacancies now existing.

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

Election of Directors—Statement of the Operations of the Corporation.

The following Board of Directors for the ensuing year were unanimously elected by the stockholders of the Western Union Telegraph Company yesterday:—

Hugh Allan, of Montreal; James H. Banker, of New York; Roswell S. Burroughs, of Albion; Ezra Cornell, of Ithaca; Horace F. Clark, of New York; Emory Cobb, of Kankakee, Ill.; Alonzo B. Cornell, of New York; William E. Dodge, of New York; Harrison Durkee, of New York; J. Alden Ellis, of Chicago; Norvin Green, of Louisville; Augustus W. Greenleaf, of New York; John A. Griswold, of Troy; James H. Howe, of Kenosha, Wis.; Wilson G. Hunt, of New York; George Jones, of New York; Cambridge Livingston, of New York; Edwin D. Morgan, of New York; William Orton, of New York; Edwards S. Sanford, of Brooklyn; Augustus Schell, of New York; Hiram Sibley, of Rochester; Zalmon G. Simmons, of Kenosha, Wis.; John Stewart, of New York; Moses Taylor, of New York; Daniel Torrance, of New York; George Walker, of Springfield, Mass.; Edward B. Wesley, of New York; Stillman Witt, of Cleveland.

The following statement exhibits the operations of the company during the past as compared with the year previous:—

On the 1st of July, 1870, this company possessed 54,109 miles of poles and 112,191 miles of wire, against 52,099 miles of poles and 104,584 miles of wire at the same time last year, being an increase of 1,910 miles of poles and 7,607 miles of wire.

During the past year there has been an increase of 531 offices and 558 sets of telegraphic apparatus.

The gross receipts for the year ending July 1, 1869, were	$7,316,918
Do. 1870	7,138,737

or 2 1-8 per cent.

The gross expenditures for the year ending July 1, 1870, were	$4,910,772
Do. 1869	4,568,116

or 7½ per cent.

The number of messages transmitted during the year was twenty-two per cent more than for the preceding year.

The net profits for the year ending July 1, 1869, were	$2,801,457
Do. for 1870	2,227,965

From October 1, 1869, when the reduced tariff went into operation, to April 30, 1870, the gross receipts were $233,273 less and the expenditures were $186,019 more than for the same months of the preceding year, making a difference in the net earnings of $419,293. Thus seventy-four per cent of the decrease in the net earnings for the year occurred in the first seven months after the reduction in the tolls. Of this decrease in the net earnings $200,532 occurred during the months of January and February alone, being thirty-five per cent of the decrease for the year. After the reduction of the rates in October of last year the gross receipts did not come up to those of any corresponding month in the preceding year until May, when they exceeded the same month of the preceding year by $7,755. In July, 1870, the receipts exceeded the same month in 1869 by $38,329. In August, 1870, the receipts exceeded the same month of the preceding year by $41,124.

As the cost of performing an increased amount of traffic increases in a certain proportion with the service, the net earnings did not come up to the amount earned in any corresponding month of the preceding year until July, when they were in excess of the same month for 1869 by $21,231. In August, 1870, the net earnings were $216,614, being $14,027 better than in 1869.

From October 1, 1869, when the rates were reduced, to March 1, 1870—five months—the net earnings were $647,879.

From March 1, 1870, to August 1, 1870, five months, the net earnings were $915,863, being an increase of $93,983, or eleven six-tenths per cent. If the same rate of increase should continue for the next year the net earnings would amount to $2,486,409, which, added to the amounts saved by the abolishment of the national tax, would make the net earnings for the year ending July 1, 1871, $2,636,409. We may, however, expect much better results than these, for the business for the five months from October 1 to March 1 is generally better than the five months from March 1 to August 1.

Thus from October 1, 1868, to March 1, 1869, the net earnings were $1,207,564, and from March 1, 1869, to August 1, 1869, $1,032,124, showing that the autumn and winter months for 1868 and 1869 were $175,440 better than the spring and summer months of 1869, while for the present year the spring and summer months are $98,983 better than the preceding autumn and winter months.

The average rate of tolls upon the entire volume of business done for the year ending July 1, 1870, was twenty per cent less than for the year ending July 1, 1869.

The average expense of transmission per message for the year ending July 1, 1870, was 11 2-10 per cent less than for the year ending July 1, 1869.

SHOCKING AFFAIR IN SOMERVILLE, MASS.

A Man Falls Into a Vat of Boiling Lard—Fatal Result.

At the lard refinery of Lincoln, Chamberlin & Co. (of Boston), in Somerville, a shocking accident occurred on Monday afternoon about five o'clock. The vats for rendering the lard are tanks that rise about three feet above the floor and are about nine in depth. While engaged in some work about one of them, Mr. George Lincoln accidentally slipped, and in attempting to recover his balance fell over the side of the vat into the boiling lard, the scalding mass enveloping his entire body. A young man named Morrison was the first to witness the accident, and in an unsuccessful attempt to get Mr. Lincoln out of the vat was himself badly burned. Assistance, however, was speedily obtained and the unfortunate man was taken out in a condition almost too horrible for description. Life remained, however, and Drs. Hooker and Barrett were immediately summoned. They did all that lay in their power to alleviate the sufferings of Mr. Lincoln, but pronounced his recovery hopeless. He died about two hours after the accident in great agony. His brother-in-law, Mr. Morrison, suffered excessively from the scalding received in attempting to get the victim out of the vat. The terrible accident occurred while Mr. Lincoln was brushing out the vat, when he slipped from the platform. He resides in Boston, was about twenty-four years of age and married.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Sale of Stock Pledged as Security for Money Loaned.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Clarentine W. Pillott vs. William C. Pickersgill & Co. and John R. Gardner.—Mr. Gardner is the agent in this city of Pickersgill & Co., bankers, in London. In April, 1867, Pillott & Son loaned of Pickersgill & Co. $30,000 on pledge of stock belonging to Miss Pillott, daughter of William Pillott, the same being sureties in the bond of the father as trustee for his daughter. The banking firm wished Mr. Pillott to obtain authority from his daughter to pledge the stock in question. In January last Miss Pillott caused to be tendered $30,000. Mr. Gardner claimed that they had a banker's lien upon the sureties. As Pickersgill & Co. had drawn against certain cotton shipped to Liverpool, Mr. Pillott claimed that a banker's lien did not apply to such a case, and also denied that the relation of banker and customer had ever existed. Mr. Pillott now files this bill, claiming that in his capacity as trustee for his daughter she is entitled to the residue of securities by paying $30,000. It is claimed by Pickersgill & Co. that the whole amount of indebtedness, some $50,000, has not been paid. The case came up on a motion for an injunction to restrain a threatened sale of the stocks in question by Pickersgill & Co. It was argued at great length on both sides.

John W. Whiting and A. J. Vanderpool for plaintiff, and Messrs. Leroque & McFarland for defendants.

Decisions.

By Judge Cardozo.

Vanderpool Recor, &c., vs. Rapp.—Motion granted on payment of ten dollars costs. Judgment, &c., to stand as security, and defendant to stipulate to refer, if plaintiff so elect, and to proceed on two days' notice.

Niegel et al. vs. Tanenbaum.—The order has been properly settled.

Sayward vs. Wright.—Motion granted; five dollars costs to abide event of action.

Third Avenue Savings Bank vs. Wheeler, Jr., et al.—Motion denied.

Boyle vs. Miller et al.—I cannot approve the surety.

Georgiana V. Fisher vs. George M. Fisher.—Proof of default wanted. Upon producing that report will be confirmed and decree granted.

O'Brien vs. Caffe.—Motion granted.

Sargent vs. Cass.—Motion granted.

Traphagan vs. Curry.—Motion granted on payment of ten dollars costs, on defendant's stipulating to refer and to proceed on two days' notice. Judgment, &c., to stand as security.

SUPREME COURT—PART II.

Adjournment till Friday.

This court, which was to have met yesterday, adjourned till Friday, owing to the continued indisposition of Justice Sutherland.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Judge Barnard.

There was nothing done in this court yesterday, no causes being ready. An adjournment took place till to-day. The causes on to-day's calendar are Nos. 60, 120, 122, 217, 228, 201 and 218.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Before Judges Monell, McCunn and Spencer.

Emily S. Cunningham, Plaintiff and Respondent, vs. Walter M. Conger et al.—This action for personal injuries to the plaintiff, caused by being run over by a horse and wagon driven by a servant of the defendants, is an old one, the injuries having been inflicted November 22, 1866, and damages originally laid at $5,000. The referee to whom the case was referred found for plaintiff and damages at $2,000, for which judgment was entered. Counsel for appellant admitted the facts, but urged the damages as excessive. For the respondent it was claimed that the amount of damages was clearly warranted by the proof of the great suffering and injuries she sustained. The Court took the papers and reserved its decision.

Liability of Trustees for the Debts of Insolvent Corporations.

Simmons vs. Tappan.—This is an action brought against the defendant, as trustee, to recover a debt of the Montana Mill Company, on the ground that he neglected to file the annual certificate required by law. The debt, for about $4,900, existed in January, 1866, and it was admitted that no report was filed either in this or the succeeding year. In April, 1866, the company became insolvent and ceased to do business. The plaintiff admitted that the cause of action through failure to file the report in 1866 was barred by the statute of limitations in 1869, and insisted that a new cause of action accrued to him in January, 1867, and that as he brought this suit on the 4th of January, 1870, it was not barred by the statute. On the part of the defendant it was claimed that the statute does not require an insolvent corporation that has ceased to do business to file any report whatever, and that when the liability of the trustee was once fixed it could not be extended by a subsequent failure on his part to file the report. The Court reserved its decision. The case was tried before Judge Jones, when he directed a verdict for the plaintiff, and the exceptions to be referred to the General Term.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM—PART 2.

A Banking Case—Altered Drafts.

Before Judge Joseph F. Daly and a Jury.

The First National Bank of St. Louis vs. The Ninth National Bank of the City of New York.—This action was brought to recover $4,833 50, with interest from December 27, 1867, under the following state of facts:—Early in the fall of 1866 the cashier of the First National Bank of St. Louis made two drafts on the Ninth National Bank of this city, one of which was for five dollars, payable to the order of J. P. Custer, and the other for $6 50, payable to the order of S. O. Sales. The amounts in these two drafts were erased by a chemical process, $2,115 being substituted for $5, and $2,730 for $6 50. Defendants paid both and charged them to the plaintiffs. On the part of the defendants the forgery was admitted, but they claimed that the payment of the drafts was due to the gross carelessness of the plaintiffs in not having written the amounts of the drafts across their faces, and they also accused the plaintiffs of further negligence in not having advised them by letter of the amounts for which the drafts had been drawn.

The Judge charged the jury that it was for them to determine whether the plaintiffs were culpably careless.

The jury found in favor of the plaintiffs for the full amount claimed.

Decision.

By Judge Robinson.

Ritchie vs. Burgess.—The defence of payment stated on information and belief is not frivolous. Motion denied, with ten dollar costs to defendant to abide event.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Recorder Hackett.

LARCENIES AND BURGLARIES.

Assistant District Attorney Tweed conducted the business of the court yesterday and succeeded in obtaining a number of pleas from prisoners.

Mary Dooley, who stole from Fanny Dannebaum, by whom she was employed as a servant, diamond earrings and other jewelry, valued at $300, pleaded guilty. The Recorder said he would give her a day to tell the officers where the earrings were, and if she did so he would not impose the severest penalty of the law. She was removed to the dock and became very abusive to the officers, remarking that she would not tell where the jewelry was. His Honor, having been informed of her conduct, ordered her to be placed at the bar and sentenced her for five years to the State Prison.

George Wilson, who was indicted for burglary in the second degree, pleaded guilty to the third grade of that offence. On the 18th of July he entered the dwelling house of Edward Michling, No. 85 avenue B, and stole tablecloths and shirts valued at eighty dollars.

Bernard Smith pleaded guilty to grand larceny from the person, the charge being that on the 14th of September he stole a gold watch and chain from Carrie Engle while she stood on the sidewalk in front of her premises. There was another similar charge against this prisoner. Wilson and Smith were sent to the State prison for five years.

Thomas Kirwan, who was charged with stealing a gold watch and chain, valued at $200, from John Sheehan on the 28th of September, pleaded guilty to the indictment.

William J. Smith pleaded guilty to petit larceny from the person, he having on the 10th of August stole a composition watch valued at five dollars from James W. Smith.

Charles Moore, who burglariously entered the premises of Hans Gottoch, 109 Forsyth street, on the 2d instant, pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree.

Kirwan, Smith and Moore were each sent to the State prison for four years and six months.

John George pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, the indictment charging that on the 1st of July he stole a set of billiard balls valued at twenty dollars, and a coat worth twenty dollars, the property of David DeWitt. The sentence was two years and six months' imprisonment in the State Prison at hard labor.

Joseph Bauer, who on the 2d of September stole thirty-five dollars' worth of cigars belonging to Fitz Johansen, pleaded guilty to grand larceny, and being under twenty-one years of age, the Court sent him to the Penitentiary for one year.

David Reiss pleaded guilty to forgery in the fourth degree. He was charged with forging an order for two American calf skins purporting to be drawn by Solomon Rosenthal.

John B. Denninger was charged with obtaining a carcass of meat by trick and device from Jacob Heister on the 23d of September, and pleaded guilty to obtaining goods by false pretences.

These prisoners were each sent to the Penitentiary for one year.

William Feils was tried upon a charge of stealing $158 worth of ready made clothing from the store of Israel Marks, 42 Baxter street. As there was no evidence to sustain the indictment Mr. Tweed abandoned the case.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY—A YOUNG FIRST WARD GARROTER SENT TO THE STATE PRISON FOR TWENTY YEARS.

Patrick Brennan and Peter Scanlan were placed on trial in the afternoon charged with robbery in the first degree. Mr. Townsend was assigned to defend them. The complainant, John Kane, a laboring man, who came from up the Hudson river to New York on the 9th of this month, testified that while he was on the corner of Morris and West streets he was attacked and violently beaten by a crowd of young men who robbed him of eighteen dollars. He positively identified Brennan as being one of the men, who held him, but could not swear to the other. He gave the alarm that he was murdered, which brought an officer to the spot, who pursued three young men, who ran down to a pier and hid under it. He caught Brennan and Scanlan, but the other one got away in the dark.

The officer testified that he saw Scanlan with the crowd that night before Kane was robbed; he and the sergeant ran after the young men, and the sergeant jumped into the water after them and fired his pistol to frighten them.

The Recorder observed that, while he was morally convinced that Scanlan was associated with Brennan in the commission of the robbery, there was no legal proof of it, and they would, therefore, have to acquit him. The jury accordingly rendered a verdict of guilty against Brennan and acquitted Scanlan.

The Recorder, in sentencing Brennan, said he understood he had just served out a term of imprisonment for shooting at an officer, and was a very bad young fellow. He and the class of men in the community to which he belonged were fully advised by his (the Recorder's) colleague, Judge Bedford, that severe sentences would be imposed upon men clearly convicted of robbery. His Honor sentenced Brennan to the State Prison for twenty years and discharged Scanlan with a caution.

BROOKLYN COURTS.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

Marshal's Returns of Process.

Before Judge Benedict.

Returns of process were made by the Marshal in the following cases:—

Hewlett J. Norris et al. vs. Owner of Barge Southwick.—Respondents not found. Barge Southwick, &c., attached October 8.

United States vs. One Worm, &c.—Property attached 22d September.

Samuel S. Moore et al. vs. The Steam Propeller D. S. Stetson.—Steam propeller D. S. Stetson attached 22d September.

Harriet Vieles vs. The Steamboat Ulysses S. Grant.—Steamboat Ulysses S. Grant attached October 6.

Ebenezer V. Crandall vs. Erastus Morris.—Respondents not found. Attached the brig Catharine Morris, the property of the respondents, October 4.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Non-Fulfilment of a Contract.

Before Judge Pratt.

Henry W. Catlin vs. Thomas B. Wilson.—The plaintiff, it will be remembered, sued to recover $20,000 for the non-fulfilment of an agreement made with the defendant for the exchange of property. The case was reported in the HERALD of yesterday. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of plaintiff and assessed damages at $1,738.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

The South Brooklyn Child Murder.

Before Judge Pratt and Associate Justices.

The case of Michael Lovett, who was indicted for the murder of his infant child in Van Brunt street, on the 11th of August last, was called yesterday morning. Lovett quarrelled with his wife on the day in question and threw a knife at her, but the weapon missed the woman and struck their child, instantly killing it.

When the case was called on yesterday morning Mr. Keady, for defence, stated that the senior counsel, Mr. C. S. Spencer, was unavoidably absent, and he (Mr. K.) therefore asked for a postponement of the trial until to-day, which was granted.

CITY COURT.

Damages Against the Sheriff.

Before Judge McCue.

Walter McGovern vs. Anthony Walter, Sheriff.—The plaintiff sued to recover damages in the sum of $5,000, for the alleged unlawful seizure of the stock and fixtures of his store, corner of Leonard and Skillman streets. The seizure was made on the 25th of February last by a deputy sheriff.

The defence was that the seizure was made in pursuance of a judgment obtained by William E. Brockway on the 18th of February. Verdict in favor of plaintiff for $1,800.

IS RICHARD WINTHROP MAD?

Interesting "Lunacy" Case—The Difference Between Beggars Who Are Insane and Rich Men Who Are Claimed to be Crazy.

In the winter of 1869 an old gentleman named Richard Winthrop, owning considerable property and of good social standing in this city, was declared a lunatic by virtue of an inquisition issued by the Court, in pursuance of which his wife and daughter were appointed his committee and took possession of his home and property. He now comes in and petitions the Court for a suspension of these proceedings, and asks that a supersedeas may issue for that purpose, and that he may be restored to his rights, having entirely recovered, &c. Affidavits annexed to the petition of eminent physicians and merchants declare Mr. Winthrop to be perfectly sane and fit to take care of himself and property. The matter is now undergoing investigation before Nathaniel Jarvis, Jr., the referee to whom it was referred. So far as the testimony has developed as yet it appears that the daughter of the old gentleman fell in love with one "Ned Mullen;" that the courtship was aided and abetted by her mother, Mrs. Winthrop; that Mr. Winthrop having forbid his daughter, for whom he was saving all his money and property, to keep company with "Ned," and she paying no heed to his advice, he became so irate that he sold his property, was forbidden the house by his wife, and was otherwise treated badly by both his wife and daughter. This is one side of the case, and the other will be developed at the next hearing before Mr. Jarvis.

There is one thing in this case that may be relied upon, to wit:—If Mr. Winthrop is a lunatic there is fair reason to assume that four out of five men who may be met in a random walk on Broadway are lunatic also. In conversation he is remarkably clear, concise and full of detail, and possesses a knowledge of the technique of the legal proceedings in this case which may perhaps yet astonish some of the lawyers. A curious inquiry also suggests itself in relation to all these cases of commission in lunacy, and that is, how is it that when people are poor there is no trouble in proving them to be lunatics? They may be bundled off to Blackwell's Island by proceedings that will not occupy more than ten minutes of judicial time. But it always happens that where there is any considerable amount of property in the case great exertions are required to prove a sufficient degree of madness, and a violent temper in aged persons is sagely concluded to be "lunacy."

OBSTRUCTING THE SIDEWALK.—One Denver gentleman shot another, and was promptly arrested for "obstructing the sidewalk." He was discharged, though, when he clearly demonstrated that the way the deceased stood it was impossible to have shot him in any way so that he would not fall across the sidewalk.

ATMOSPHERIC PHENOMENA.

Preparations of the War Department for Observing and Signalling the Course of Storms—History of the Experiment—Signal Stations.

The chief signal officer of the War Department has furnished us with a copy of a pamphlet prepared by him, entitled "Government Telegrams and Reports for the Benefit of Commerce," embracing much information respecting the subject of noting and telegraphing the approach of storms. A few extracts from the pamphlet will show the importance of the work which is now being undertaken by the United States government in obedience to an act of Congress introduced last session in the House of Representatives by Mr. Paine, of Wisconsin, and passed by both houses:—

The special characteristic of modern efforts in the development of meteorological science consists in co-operation among observers laboring in different fields, and thus securing the data for determining the simultaneous condition of the atmosphere over extended regions of country.

It is only by this means that the laws which govern the occurrence, motion, direction and propagation of atmospheric disturbances can be ascertained. As soon as this truth was recognized and acted upon the important fact was developed that storms moved in certain fixed directions, and at such rates of speed as permitted telegraphic notice of their approach to be given to places lying in their paths.

The practicability of utilizing this knowledge for the benefit of the commercial interest became at once apparent, and resulted in the organization of systems of storm warnings in several of the European countries most interested in maritime affairs.

To the late Admiral Fitzroy, of the British Navy, belongs the honor of having been the first to put in operation a practical system of weather forecasts and storm signals, based on deductions made from numerous observations received by telegraph daily at a central point.

The first cautionary or storm warning signals were made in England in February, 1861, and in August of the same year published forecasts of the weather were tried with success, so that by the spring of 1862 sufficient experience had been gained to justify the adoption of the system still in use.

A broad general average is kept in view, referring to a day or more in advance, and to a district rather than to one time or place only. Showers at particular places, or merely local squalls, are disregarded.

In some instances forecasts are made for two days in advance, and with fair success.

The following data are given in these telegraphic reports, viz.:—Height of barometer, height of thermometer, difference of wet bulb thermometer, true direction of wind, force of wind, condition of the sky, amount and time of rain or snow, sea disturbance.

From comparisons with the record for the two winters of 1864-5 and 1865-6, it appears that of 109 warnings sent during the first of these winters seventy-one were realized, and during the second winter seventy-six; and out of 101 storms which occurred eighty-nine were signalled during the first winter and ninety-four during the second winter.

In 1861 the Imperial Observatory of Paris commenced publishing, in the form of a daily bulletin, weather reports from different points in France, which proved so interesting to the scientific world and useful to navigation that the system was extended throughout Europe, reports from each principal city being received daily in Paris, where they are discussed and the results transmitted by mail to all parts of the world in the successive numbers of the International Bulletin.

In Russia a system of meteorological observations has been established, forming a network of stations throughout the empire, from which simultaneous daily reports are made to St. Petersburg, where they are collected and published for the benefit of commerce and distributed throughout Europe.

In Italy a similar system has been in operation for some years, and valuable reports are also made from Holland, Austria and Norway, but not issued daily in the bulletin form.

In Austria alone 118 stations are reported where observations are taken by scientific men, who labor without remuneration, and the results of whose labors are annually published by the government.

In Germany and Denmark, where the telegraphs are under government control, telegraphic announcement of the approach of storms is sent to all seaports by the operators who are specially charged with the performance of this duty.

The importance of regular meteorological reports was early recognized in this country, for the Medical Department, United States Army, commenced taking observations in 1819. The States of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio followed in 1825, 1837 and 1842 respectively, and the Smithsonian reports in 1849. These observations, while valuable to the scientific world as studies for future application, or in reference to the sanitary condition of localities, were at first of no immediate benefit, and it was only when the introduction of the telegraph made their rapid transmission possible that attention was drawn to the possibility of practical storm warnings.

"Be it resolved, &c., That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and required to provide for taking meteorological observations at the military stations in the interior of the continent and at other points in the States and Territories of the United States, and for giving notice on the Northern lakes and on the seacoast, by magnetic telegraph and marine signals, of the approach and force of storms."

The plan so far determined upon by the War Department contemplates the simultaneous observation of atmospheric phenomena, the telegraphic transmission of reports of these observations and the widespread publication of the reports at all points where they will be of service to the commercial interests of the country.

The following have been designated as stations of observation and report, or of report alone, and will be occupied as rapidly as arrangements can be effected:—

Plaister Cove, N. S.; St. John, N. B.; Portland, Me.; Boston, Mass.; New Haven, Conn.; New York city, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D. C.; Wilmington, N. C.; Charleston, S. C.; Augusta, Ga.; Savannah, Ga.; Lake City, Fla.; Key West, Fla.; Montgomery, Ala.; Mobile, Ala.; New Orleans, La.; Jackson, Miss.; Memphis, Tenn.; Nashville, Tenn.; Louisville, Ky.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Knoxville, Tenn.; Albany, N. Y.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Oswego, N. Y.; Rochester, N. Y.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Cleveland, Ohio; Toledo, Ohio; Detroit, Mich.; Chicago, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; St. Louis, Mo.; Milwaukee, Wis.; St. Paul, Minn.; Duluth, Minn.; Omaha, Neb.; Cheyenne, Dac.; Corinne, Utah; Santa Fe, N. M.; Fort Benton, N. M.; San Francisco, Cal.; Pittsburg, Pa.

The War Department has shown every disposition to give the fullest effect to the action of Congress in this matter, and to make it of the widest utility. The organization has been rapidly effected, observers instructed and supplied with instruments, and minute arrangements made with the Western Union Telegraph Company and the International Ocean Telegraph Company for the transmission of the reports. The practical co-operation of chambers of commerce, boards of trade, of underwriters and of scientific establishments is sought for the valuable suggestions it is hoped may thus be had, how most to aid the interests they represent. The press is to be furnished reports gratuitously to render their diffusion as general and speedy as possible.

THE FUNERAL OF SUPERINTENDENT JOURDAN.

General Order on the Subject—The Fire Department to Participate—Brooklyn Honors to the Dead Superintendent.

The funeral of the deceased Superintendent, as already announced, will take place this morning from St. Patrick's Cathedral, in Mulberry street, near Prince. The arrangements, of which Judges Dowling and Brennan have charge, are of the most complete description, and if the weather be fine the demonstration is likely to be a very imposing one. The Fire Department will be represented by a detachment from each company in the city in full uniform. They will take position in line immediately behind the police detachment.

The following is the order of procession:—

Band.
Board of Police Commissioners.
Surgeons of Police.
Clerks of Police.
Ex-Commissioners and ex-Superintendents of Police.
Chiefs of Police and officials of other cities.
Detective Squad.
Police Force in three battalions of eight companies each.
A detachment of Firemen from each city company.
Pall Bearers. The Corpse. Pall Bearers.
Relatives and friends of deceased.
Mayor and Common Council.
Citizens generally.

The following general order was issued to police captains yesterday:—

The death of John Jourdan, Superintendent of Police, has been already announced to the police force. By his death the Police Department and the community have been deprived of the counsel and services of an energetic, fearless, discreet and incorruptible officer and of a warm and true friend. His obsequies will be observed on Thursday, the 13th inst. It is fitting, and must be the desire of the members of the force which he adorned by an unblemished and efficient official career, to pay a marked tribute to his memory by taking an appropriate part in the funeral ceremonies. His remains will be taken from his late residence, 198 Prince street, at half-past nine in the morning to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where high mass will be celebrated.

You will report for escort duty to Inspector Dilks, at the Central Office, 300 Mulberry street, at half-past eight o'clock A. M., on Thursday, the 13th inst., with your off platoon, including sergeants and roundsmen, in full winter uniform (omitting overcoats), with white gloves, belts and batons. Captains Copeland, Mount, Allaire and Helme are detailed as special aids and will report to Inspector Dilks at the same time and place. The route of march from St. Patrick's Cathedral will be through Mulberry street to Bleecker, thence to Broadway, up Broadway to Fourteenth street, thence through Fourteenth street to Fifth avenue, thence up Fifth avenue to Twenty-third street, thence through Twenty-third street to the ferry at the East river. The precincts through which the funeral procession is to pass will employ their reserve force to keep the streets open and unobstructed.

J. S. BOSWORTH,
President and ex-officio Superintendent.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE SUPREME COURT.

Mr. Justice Cardozo issued the following order yesterday:—

OCTOBER 12, 1870.—CHAMBERS SUPREME COURT.—This branch of the court will stand adjourned to-morrow in respect to the late Mr. John Jourdan, and a suitable mention of the cause of the interruption of the public business will be entered on the minutes.

It is the only tribute beyond my personal participation in his obsequies which it is in my power to pay to the memory of a friend for whom I had great regard, and who was a martyr to his devotion to the duties of his high office. The public may well mourn him as one whose place it will be difficult to fill.

ALBERT CARDOZO.

BROOKLYN HONORS TO THE DEAD SUPERINTENDENT.

The flags of the station houses of Brooklyn have been at half-mast since Monday last out of respect to the memory of Superintendent Jourdan, of the New York police. The bell of the Seventh precinct station house, by which the funeral cortege will pass on its way to Calvary Cemetery to-day, will be tolled as the procession files past.

THE STATE TAX.

Valuation of Kings County—The Tax to Be Levied This Year.

The President of the Kings county Board of Supervisors yesterday received a communication from the State Board of Equalization of Taxes, stating that the latter body had fixed the aggregate valuation of property in Kings county at the sum of $194,106,451. The State tax to be levied upon this amount for the current fiscal year is $1,409,760. The tax is 7 41-156 mills on the dollar. For schools, 1¼ mills; for general purposes, 1¼ mills; for bounty debt, 2¼ mills; for new capitol, ⅜ mill; for canal floating debt, ⅛ mill; to pay awards of appraisers and Canal Board for 1868-69 and deficiency of appropriations of 1869, ⅞ mill; for new work and extra repairs, 1 mill; for Champlain Canal, 1-78 mill. The valuation of this county in 1869 was $154,491, and the State tax, which was 5½ mills, produced $860,013.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WALL STREET, WEDNESDAY, Oct. 12—6 P. M.

The interest manifested in the revived speculation in Wall street was attested by no better sign than the presence of so great a throng at the Stock Exchange to-day, despite the dreary and dismal state of the weather. The Long Room was foggy with the vapor from the smoking garments of the crowd; the tiled floor was a marsh of muddy water; dripping umbrellas constantly contributed to the "demnition moist, unpleasant" state of affairs. But above all rang the noise and din of business. Old brokers and young brokers shook hands and congratulated each other on the resumption of activity and the prospect of an unlimited supply of "orders."

GOLD STRONG—113⅞ A 114.

Inasmuch as the course of events hinged to a considerable extent upon the influences affecting the gold market, it is only proper to begin the narrative of the day with the story of that department. The great obstinacy which gold has shown in the interim since our civil war is due in no little degree to the constitutional bullishness of those who will never believe in the stability of our government. Politics has a word describing this class of people. Its synonym in the Gold Room is "bull." Nearly all the commercial failures since the war have been due to the fact that the bankrupts could not and would not see the inevitable consequences of the steady recovery of the country from the prostration of the war and of the enterprise and prosperity begotten of the reign of peace. The parties who have thus interrupted the national progress of the financial situation and endeavored to throw obstacles in the march to the resumption of specie payments have called out an equally powerful class of speculators, whose combat in the arena of the Gold Room was to-day unusually interesting. It is speculation in gold which keeps it from its real level. There are, of course, legitimate transactions connected with the sale of gold for delivery; but it is the sale without a corresponding mercantile transaction that makes gold unnecessarily scarce. The "bulls" in gold created a strong diversion this afternoon by suddenly circulating a rumor that they intended to make a "squeeze" to-morrow, and the "bears" were so frightened that some bought in their gold, raising the price up to 114, while others, braving the threat, engaged their gold for to-morrow at rates ranging from 1-16 to 3-32. It is, of course, impossible at this time to say what may be done; but, in view of the fact that Secretary Boutwell will probably order the prepayment, without rebate, as early as the 15th inst., of the November coin interest on the public debt, the movement may be simply for the purpose of enabling the "bulls" to unload before the government gold comes on the street and breaks up the stringency in the gold loan market. At this season of the year, with the cotton receipts increasing from week to week and with constantly increasing exports of produce of all kinds, it is against all logic that gold should advance. If the "bears" are made to pay for their indulgence in the temptation to speculate against the decline the public will thank the "bulls." But that the triumph of the latter will be shortlived is obvious. The public will thus see both sides of the speculative fight punished. The course of the gold market is shown in the table:—

10 A. M.	113¾	2 P. M.	113¾
10:30 A. M.	113¾	3 P. M.	113⅞
11 A. M.	113⅞	3:59 P. M.	114
11:55 A. M.	113⅞	4 P. M.	113⅞
12 M.	113⅞	5:30 P. M.	113⅞ a 114
1 P. M.	113⅞

Gold cleared	$37,993,000
Gold balances	1,000,667

FOREIGN EXCHANGE WEAK AND LOWER.

The supply of commercial bills drawn against exports of cotton and produce is growing in quantity, and, consequently, forcing a steady decline in the rates for foreign exchange. Prime short sight sterling is now offered at 109⅝. The following shows the range of quotations:—Sterling sixty days, commercial, 107⅞ a 108¼; good to prime bankers', 108⅜ a 108⅝; short sight, 109⅛ a 109¼; Antwerp, 5.22½ a 5.16¼; Hamburg, 35⅜ a 35⅞; Amsterdam, 40⅛ a 40⅜; Frankfort, 40⅜ a 40⅞; Bremen, 77⅞ a 78⅛; Prussian thalers, 70⅞ a 71⅛.

THE STOCK MARKET ACTIVE.

The buoyancy at the Stock Exchange continued throughout the sessions of the boards, and a further sharp advance was made in most of the more active shares. Late in the day there were sales to realize, which were followed by the report of an intended "squeeze" in gold and of an organization to "lock up" money. The effect was a reaction from the highest prices of the day and a lower and unsettled market. At the close there was more steadiness and the final street dealings were dull in tone.

THE EXTREME FLUCTUATIONS.

The highest and lowest prices of the leading speculative stocks were as follows:—

	Highest.	Lowest.
New York Central consolidated	94⅛	93⅝
New York Central scrip	89⅛	88⅝

CLOSING PRICES AT THE BOARD.

The following were the closing prices at the last session of the Stock Exchange:—Canton Company, 68 a 68½; Consolidation Coal, 30; Cumberland Iron, 40; Western Union, 39⅞ bid; Quicksilver, 6½; Mariposa, 5 a 6½; do. preferred, 11 a 11¼; Adams Express, 67½ a 67⅞; Wells-Fargo Express, 39 bid; do. scrip, 2½ bid; American Express, 43⅛ a 44; United States Express, 35⅛ a 35⅝; Pacific Mail, 46 a 46⅛; New York Central consolidated, 93⅞ a 94; do. scrip, 88⅞ a 89; Erie, 22⅞ a 22⅞; Harlem, 134⅝ a 134⅞; Reading, 101⅛ a 101⅝; Michigan Central, 122; Lake Shore, 95 a 95⅛; Union Pacific, 25⅛ a 25⅜; Illinois Central, 137⅞; Cleveland and Pittsburg, 107 a 107⅛; Chicago and Northwestern, 81⅝ a 81⅞; do. preferred, 89⅜ a 89⅛; Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, 80⅞ a 81; New Jersey Central, 107 a 107⅞; Rock Island, 114⅛ a 114⅜; Milwaukee and St. Paul, 64⅞ a 64⅞; do. preferred, 82⅜ a 82½; Toledo, Wabash and Western, 55⅛ a 55⅛; Fort Wayne, 93 a 93⅛; Chicago and Alton, 113⅞ a 113⅞; do. preferred, 114½ bid; Ohio and Mississippi, 33⅞ a 34; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, 107⅞ a 108; Morris and Essex, 91⅛ a 92; Boston, Hartford and Erie, 4⅜ a 4⅞; Hannibal and St. Joseph, 110⅛ a 111; do. preferred, 117 a 117⅞; Columbus, Chicago and Indiana Central, 19⅛ a 19⅛.

The annual election of the Western Union Telegraph Company was held this afternoon. The list of the directors chosen and a report of the proceedings appear in another column.

MONEY MORE ACTIVE.

There was an active demand for money at six per cent among the stock brokers, and some small houses paid seven per cent. On the other hand, the supply at the latter figure was so abundant that lenders of abundant means were "carrying" stocks at seven per cent. The government dealers were supplied at five to six per cent.

The Comptroller of the Currency has issued a call to the national banks requiring them to report their condition as they stood at the close of business on the 8th inst.

THE GOVERNMENT GOLD SALE.

The offer of a million of gold at the Sub-Treasury elicited bids for a total of $3,540,000, at prices ranging from 112.50 a 113.70. The million was placed at 113.45 a 113.70.

GOVERNMENT BONDS STRONG.

The government bond market was strong and higher. The Treasury will buy two millions to-morrow. The following were the final street quotations:—United States currency sixes, 111⅛ a 111⅜; do., 1881, registered, 114 a 114⅛; do. do., coupon, 114 a 114⅛; do. five-twenties, registered, May and November, 108⅛ a 108⅜; do. do., 1862, coupon, do., 112⅞ a 113; do. do., 1864, do. do., 111⅜ a 111⅝; do. do., 1865, do. do., 111⅞ a 112; do. do., registered, January and July, 110⅛ a 110⅜; do. do., 1865, coupon, do., 110⅛ a 110⅜; do. do., 1867, do. do., 110⅛ a 110⅜; do. do., 1868, do. do., 110⅜ a 110⅞; do. ten-forties, registered, 106⅞ a 107; do. do., coupon, 106⅞ a 107.

THE SOUTHERN STATE BONDS QUIET.

The Southern State bonds were quiet and generally steady, closing as follows:—Tennessee, ex coupon, 62⅛ a 62⅞; do., new, 60½ a 60⅞; Virginia, ex coupon, 62½ a 63⅛; do., new, 65 a 67; do., registered stock, old, 52 a 52½; Georgia sixes, 80 a 82; do. sevens, 90 a 91; do. do., old, 90 a 92; North Carolina, ex coupon, 48 a 49; do., funding, 1866, 39 a 41; do. do., 1868, 33 a 34; do., new, 27 a 28; do., special tax, 23 a 23½; Missouri sixes, 90⅞ a 91⅛; do., Hannibal and St. Joseph, 91 a 92; Louisiana sixes, 71 a 72; do., new, 66 a 68; do. levee sixes, 76 a 78; do. do., eights, 87½ a 89; do. penitentiary sevens, 75 a 80; do. railroad eights, 78 a 80; Alabama fives, 70 a 72; do. eights, 101 a 102; do. railroad eights, 94 a 100; South Carolina sixes, 80 a 85; do., new, January and July, 68 a 69; do., new, April and October, 66 a 70; do., registered stock, old, 70 a 75; Arkansas sixes, 61 a 61; do. sevens, 67 a 70.

THE SUB-TREASURY REPORT.

The following is to-day's business at the office of the United States Treasurer:—

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 12—6 P. M.

COFFEE.—We heard of no further sales of Rio, which however, was held with firmness at former prices. Of La Guayra 2,200 bags, ex Emma Dean, were sold on private terms. Other kinds were quiet but unchanged. We quote:—Rio, ordinary cargoes, 14½c. a 14¾c.; fair do., 15c. a 15¼c.; good do., 16c. a 16¼c.; prime do., 17c. a 17¼c.; extremes for lots, 14½c. a 18c.; Java (government bags), 20c. a 22c.; do. 19,668 grass mats, 20c. a 22c.; Singapore do., 18c. a 19c.; Ceylon, 17½c. a 19c.; Maracaibo, 15c. a 18½c.; Laguayra, 16¼c. a 18c.; Jamaica, 14c. a 16c.; St. Domingo (gold, in bond), 8½c. a 9c.; Ceara, 16c. a 17c.; Costa Rica, 15½c. a 18c.; Manila, 16c. a 17c.; Mexican, 15c. a 18c.; Savanilla, 15½c. a 18c.—all gold, duty paid.

COTTON.—With continued heavy offerings the market for this staple was heavy, and prices further receded ⅛c. per lb., as will be seen by reference to our quotations subjoined. At the reduction, however, a good business was transacted, exporters being the principal operators. Including 539 bales to arrive there were sold 2,438 bales, of which 1,549 were for export, 703 for spinning and 186 on speculation. For future delivery prices were about ⅛c. off, with only a moderate demand and fair offerings, the market closing rather heavy at the reduction. The sales were 200 bales, basis low middling, for October, at 15¼c.; 1,500 do. for November, at 15⅛c. a 15 1-16c. a 15c.; 900 do. for December, at 15⅛c. a 15c.; 200 do. for February, at 15¼c., and (late yesterday) 300 do. for October, at 15¼c. a 15 3-16c.; 800 do. for November, at 15 3-16c. a 15⅛c.; 200 do. for December, at 15⅛c. a 15⅛c.; 100 do., for January, at 15⅛c.; 200 do., for February, at 15⅜c.; 200 do., f. o. b. in New Orleans, at 14⅞c.; 100 do., f. o. b. in Charleston, and 1,000 do., average low middling, for November to March (200 each month), on private terms. The closing quotations for lots on the spot were as follows:—

FREIGHTS.—The market was only moderately active, but rates were firm, and in some cases higher. Grain room to Liverpool advanced ⅛d., closing at 8d. by sail and 8½d. by steam. The chartering business was quiet, though full rates were still demanded. The engagements were:—To Liverpool, 7,500 bushels wheat at 7d., in bulk; 7,500 do. do., in bags, at 8d.; 40 tons oil cake at 22s. 6d., and, per steamer, 350 bales cotton at ½d., and 30,000 bushels wheat at 8½d. To London, per steamer, 1,500 bbls. flour at 2s. 3d. To Bristol, 200 tons oilcake, in bags, at 22s. 6d. The charters were:—Two vessels (now in Boston), each with about 2,000 bales cotton, from Savannah to Cork, for orders, at ⅝d. if to Liverpool, 9-16d. if to the Continent. A brig to Jamaica and back (general cargo), on private terms. A vessel to Antwerp, with 4,500 bbls. petroleum, at or about 5s. 3d., and a bark, from Philadelphia to Hamburg, with 2,700 do., at 5s. 9d.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.—Receipts 14,141 bbls. flour, 500 do. and 260 bags corn meal, 6,610 bushels wheat, 25,583 do. corn, 26,252 do. oats, 38,588 do. barley, and 2,800 do. malt. The flour market was steady except for shipping extras, which were scarce and firmer without being quotably higher. The sales were about 15,000 bbls. Southern flour was in moderate demand at steady prices; sales 600 bbls. Rye flour was dull but unchanged; sales 200 bbls. Corn meal continued to rule dull and nominal; no sales were reported. Buckwheat flour was selling at $3 75 a $4 per cwt. We quote:—

—Wheat was fairly active and about 1c. higher, closing quiet with the advance lost. The sales comprised about 170,000 bushels at $1 15 a $1 17 for old No. 2 Chicago, $1 18 a $1 20 for Milwaukee, $1 28 for new No. 2, $1 30 a $1 31 for New No. 1—closing at $1 30—$1 30½ for Illinois winter, $1 32 a $1 35 for amber winter, $1 50 for poor [illegible] $1 25 for common Southern amber. Rye was dull [illegible] 3,500 bushels at 95c. for new Western, and 9[illegible] State. Corn was scarce and 1c. a 2c. higher. The sales were about 25,000 bushels at 85c. a 88½c. for mixed Western, and 90c. for yellow State. Of barley malt 500 bushels were sold on private terms. Oats were steady, with sales of about 75,000 bushels at 52c. a 53½c. for Western, 48½c. a 49c. for old do., and 57c. for choice Ohio. Barley was in moderate demand at about former figures. Sales 25,000 bushels at $1 02 for two-rowed State, and $1 15 for Western.

HAY.—The market was fairly active, the demand being good, and prices were firm, at $1 05 a $1 10 for shipping; $1 15 a $1 25 for retail lots; $1 a $1 10 for long rye straw, and 75c. a 90c. for short do.

HOPS.—The market was dull, the sales being confined to small lots, at prices within the range of 12c. a 20c. for new and 8c. a 15c. for old. Holders were generally anxious to realize.

MOLASSES.—The market was quiet, and prices were heavy and nominal, except for the grocery grades, which were steady at our quotations. There were sold 200 hogsheads Cuba muscovado, at 32c.; 106 do. Porto Rico, at 40c. a 52c. and a small lot Barbados, at 40c. We quote:—

	New Crop.
Cuba—Centrifugal and mixed	22c.	a	26c.
Clayed	22c.	a	35c.
Muscovado, refining	28c.	a	38c.

Porto Rico	37c.	a	63c.
English Islands	30c.	a	50c.
New Orleans	80c.	a	90c.

NAVAL STORES.—Spirits turpentine was still in demand, and closed strong at 46½c. for merchantable lots in yard. The stock is about exhausted. There were sold 500 bbls. at 46c. a 46c. on the spot and to arrive. Crude turpentine was still dull and nominal. Rosin was almost neglected, but prices were firm for strained, which was still sparingly offered. Sales, 800 bbls. at $2 10. A few small lots were sold within the range of $2 15 a $2 40 for No. 2, $2 50 a $3 50 for No. 1, $3 75 a $4 75 for pale, and $5 a $7 for extra do. and window glass. Tar was dull at our last quotations.

OILS.—Linseed was still quiet, but steady in value; small lots from crushers were selling at 86c. a 88c. Other kinds were dull, but steady, at the quotations in our last issue.

PROVISIONS.—Receipts, 1,100 bbls. pork, 117 do. beef. The market for pork was only moderately active, and prices were heavy and lower, closing at about $26 25 for Western, for October delivery. There were sold 750 bbls., on the spot and for October, at $26 25 a $26 50, including small lots at $26 37½ a $26 50, and 750 do., for November, at $26. Dressed hogs were quiet and lower, closing at 10¼c. a 10⅜c. Live hogs were in moderate request at 8½c. a 9¼c., with arrivals of 3,454 head, which were chiefly for slaughterers. The market for lard was quiet, owing to the small offerings and the high prices demanded; there were no sales of prime Western steam at the close below 15½c. The sales were 125 packages at 15c. a 16¼c. for city and Western, and 200 tierces for December delivery at 14½c., closing at 14½c. Beef hams were dull and heavy; sales about 70 bbls. at $32 a $32 50—chiefly at $32. Tierce beef was dull and prices were nominal at our former quotations. We heard of no sales. Beef in bbls. was in light demand at former prices. A few small sales were made within the range of $11 a $15 for plain mess and $16 a $18 for extra do. Bacon was dull and heavy for long clear at 15c.; no sales. For cut meats the market was dull, but values were without alteration. Small sales of pickled hams were made at 19c. We quote:—Pickled hams, 18½c. a 19½c.; smoked shoulders, 16½c. a 17c., and smoked and bagged hams, 20½c. a 23c.

PETROLEUM.—The market for crude, in bulk, was dull and heavy, though prices were no lower. The closing price for round lots was 12c., though some holders refused to sell below 12½c. On the creek the market was dull and we heard of no sales. The closing prices were about $3 05 on the upper road and $3 10 on the lower. Crude in bbls. was inactive and nominal at about 15½c. Of naphtha we heard of no sales. The market for refined oil was rather more active, but with increased offerings prices were heavy and lower for both October and November. The sales were 2,000 bbls., on the spot and for October, at 25c. a 25¼c., including a small lot to fill a vessel, at 25½c.; 500 do., for November, at 24½c.; 3,000 do., for November, at 24½c., and (rumored) a cargo of about 3,000 bbls., on private terms, the market closing at 25c. for October, and 24½c. for November. Jobbing lots were only moderately dealt in, but steady in value. We quote:—27½c. a 28½c., the latter price for prime white. In Philadelphia the market was decidedly more active, but at rather lower prices. There were sold 1,100 bbls. for October to December (500 each month) at 24½c., 4,000 do. for November at 24c., 2,100 do. for October at 25c., 5,000 do. for the 20th October at 25¼c. a 25½c., and 2,000 do. for the same delivery at 25c., closing at 25c. a 25½c.

RICE.—Carolina was slow of sale, but steady in value. About 70 tierces were sold at 9c. a 9½c. Of Rangoon 150 bags, in lots, were sold at 7c. a 7½c.

STEARINE.—The market was dull, the demand being only for small lots; but prices were steady, especially for prime lots. Common to prime quoted at 14c. a 15c.

SEEDS.—Linseed was more active, and sales were made of 1,600 bags in Boston at $2 20, gold, duty paid, and to arrive there 4,000 bags, per Kentuckian, at $2 13½c. do., without time. Grass were dull and nominal at 9½c. a 10c. for clover, $4 25 a $4 75 for timothy and $2 20 a $2 50 for rough flax.

SUGAR.—The demand for raw was less active than yesterday, and only a moderate business was consummated, but the market was steady at the prices previously current. The sales were 625 hhds., part at 9½c. a 10⅛c. for Cuba and Porto Rico, 1,000 boxes at 10c. a 11¾c. and 25,665 bags Manila at 9¼c. Refined was quiet at the following quotations:—Hard, 13½c. a 13¾c.; soft white, 12¾c. a 12⅞c.; extra C, 12¼c. a 12½c., and yellow, 11½c. a 12½c. We quote:—Cuba—Inferior to common refining, 9c. a 9¼c.; fair refining, 9½c.; good refining, 10c.; fair to good grocery, 10½c. a 10⅞c.; prime to choice grocery, 10⅞c. a 11c.; centrifugal (hhds. and boxes), 9⅞c. a 11¼c.; molasses (hhds. and boxes), 8½c. a 10c.; melado, 5c. a 8½c. Havana—Boxes Dutch standard, Nos. 7 to 9, 9½c. a 9⅞c.; do., 10 to 12, 9⅞c. a 10¼c.; do., 13 to 15, 10½c. a 11¼c.; do., 16 to 18, 11½c. a 12½c.; do., 19 to 20, 12½c. a 13½c.; do., white, 12½c. a 13½c. Porto Rico—Refining grades, 9½c. a 10c.; do., grocery grades, 10½c. a 11½c.

TALLOW.—The demand was a trifle more active and prices were steady for prime lots. Sales 90,000 lbs., within the range of 8½c. a 9⅛c., the latter price for choice city.

WHISKEY.—Receipts, 375 bbls. The demand was good at about former figures, and sales were made of 700 bbls., at 88½c. a 89½c., chiefly at 89c. a 89½c.

STREET CLEANING.

The following report on street cleaning was yesterday made to the Board of Health and is now published for the first time:—

HEALTH DEPARTMENT, 301 MOTT STREET.
TO THE BOARD OF HEALTH—Colonel EMMONS CLARK, Secretary:—

GENTLEMEN—I have the honor to report, on the part of the Contractor of Street Cleaning, a general compliance with the conditions of his contract and the requisitions of your honorable body. But, disclaiming any intention to criticise coordinate branches of the city government, or excusing short-comings of the contractor, I am constrained to make the statement that the aspect of the streets and the performance of the work of street cleaning could be greatly improved by a rigid execution of the city ordinances. In the first place, in absolutely requiring builders to protect the gutters from encumbrance by covering them previous to placing their materials of construction on the sides of the streets. By requiring those engaged in breaking pavement for repairing pipes and sewers to remove the debris after the pavement is replaced. By requiring the street pavers to remove in some definite time the sand spread over new pavement and by preventing the occupants of tenement houses from throwing their garbage in the streets.

The reports of the Inspectors of Street Cleaning, conflicting so frequently with those of the Street Contractor, imposed upon me greatly increased labor for their verification; as the inspector was obliged to report in his list of omissions all the parts of streets cleaned after he had inspected a section of his district. To remedy this, instructions were issued to the inspectors to ascertain the hours in which the streets were to be swept, to follow the sweepers and report accurately the result of their observations, which will obviate the necessity for continual verification of discrepant reports. In the non-paved streets ordered cleaning is done by scraping up filth and hauling it away, sweeping being impracticable. The question of dumping the sweepings is one that has demanded considerable attention. Complaint being made of the deposit of street sweepings for the extension of East 109th street to the river, I very thoroughly investigated the matter, and have no hesitation in pronouncing the opinion that, instead of its being detrimental to health, it conduces to the general sanitary condition of the locality. The sweepings being covered by earth, which readily absorbs the gas disengaged by the eremacausis of the organic matter in them, can have no deleterious effect on the citizens of the district. While the elevation of the soil above the demi diurnal inundation and consecutive exposure to the direct rays of the sun from the flux and reflux of the tides diminishes the pyrexygenetic source in an exact ratio to the extent of surface excluded from the genetic operation, with due deference to opposite views, I should respectfully suggest, in lieu of arresting the work on 109th street, the propriety of encouraging similar enterprises in the extension of the streets between Ninety-second and 110th streets, across the low grounds to the East river, and draining the intermediate spaces. If the removal of the rock from Gridiron, Pot Rock, Way's Reef, &c., could be effected and used in the construction of peers and wharves along the river front, no obstruction being offered to the free ingress and egress of the water, the tide level would be depressed and the shore level correspondingly raised; changing its paludal character, thereby conducing to the sanitary condition of the district, enhancing the value of the property, rendering it subject to increased taxation to meet the expense incurred and greatly facilitate the commerce of the city. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THOMAS COTTMAN,
Inspector of Street Cleaning.

THE WATER OF LAKE GILEAD.

The accompanying comparative analysis of the waters of Lake Gilead, which is one of the reservoirs purchased by Mr. Tweed for the use of the city, and from which much of the supply of water for the use of this city has been obtained for the last two months, shows it to be remarkably pure. The analysis was made by Professor Chandler, who, during the fall of 1868, made examination of eighteen samples, with which this comparison is made:—

FRANK BLAIR IN MISSOURI.—Frank Blair has been nominated for the lower House in the Missouri Legislature. If he runs General Blair will probably realize the fact that the "post of honor is a private station."

THE POPE AND THE KING.—If the Pope will content himself in Rome he is to have a prince's privileges and a prince's honors. He is not even to be absolutely robbed of territory. A certain limited circle inside the Leonine city is to be allotted to him. This is a wise arrangement. Rome will have two great potentates—a spiritual and a temporal. It will have two grand courts, the one outrivalling the other. Is it unreasonable to conclude that Rome will become for the next twenty years what Paris has been for the last twenty years, the fashionable capital of the world?

"GERMANY AS IT WAS."—Count Bismarck's reported saying the other day in Versailles may or may not be true. But the saying is so good that it will live. It cannot die. It covers a grand fact. "Germany as it was" means that the map of Europe must be reconstructed, that the Fatherland has "lengthened her cords," as well as "strengthened her stakes," and that the German people are never again to bow fearfully to the dictation of France. "Germany as it was" means that Count Bismarck sees the fruit of his labors and the crowning of German unity. "Germany as it was" is not the proud, triumphant Germany of to-day.

THE FISHERY DIFFICULTY.—How is it? Another American vessel has been captured by the Canadian authorities and hauled into a Canadian port for fishing in what are called British waters. Who is in the right? Who is in the wrong? We wish our government to make a clear and positive utterance on the subject. If our fishermen do violate the law, of course they must suffer. If they do not violate the law, they suffer wrong; and the wrong done to the humblest fisherman is a wrong done to the whole American people. In the interests of two great peoples, in the interests of humanity, in fact, it is desirable that this petty wrangling should cease. Little sparks sometimes kindle large fires.

The Late Elections—The Popular Endorsement of General Grant's Administration.

From the general results of the late elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska these facts may be regarded as established:—First—That the people of the United States, by a heavy majority, accept, endorse and approve the administration of General Grant. Second—That the republican party on the platform of this administration are sure of a decisive majority in the popular branch of the next Congress, whereby, the Senate being secure, both Houses will be in accord with the President to the end of his present term. Third—That he is good for a second term against all opposition combinations and any opposing candidate. Fourth—That the democrats have made no headway of any account since 1868. Fifth—That the new element of the colored vote is en masse with the republicans. Sixth—That there is some danger that the democracy may lose New York in November.

Such are the conclusions we draw from the general results of these late elections. The results, surprising to the democrats, are better for the republicans than their blundering managing politicians had expected. General Grant's administration, in short, proves to be stronger among the masses than the republican managers and organs had estimated it. Since the time of General Jackson, in the elections half way between one Presidential contest and another, the party out of power has, as a rule, been the gainers from the apathy and indifference of the party in power. It was generally supposed that such would be the results of these October elections, half way between 1868 and 1872. The republicans were troubled with doubts, divisions and apathy; the democrats appeared to be united, active and confident. The popular mind was supposed to be so much engrossed with the stupendous and momentous events of the great European war as to be indifferent even to the claims of Grant's administration in these elections; but the results have scattered all these fallacies to the winds.

First of all, the people are always ahead of the politicians on the practical issues of the day. The people understand better than the politicians can teach them the safe, sound and trusty policy of Grant's administration, devoted to the retrenchment of expenditures, the saving of the revenues, the reduction of taxations and the payment of the national debt, without disturbing by violent changes that wholesome equilibrium necessary to a steady advance in the prosperity of the general financial and business affairs of the country. Herein lies the great strength of the republican party as developed in these elections; for the democrats made their fight mainly against Grant's administration and his financial measures and policy. They professed, too, upon this general issue to be hopeful of carrying the next House of Representatives, while the republicans were not certain of saving it because of their local discords and general absence of activity or harmony upon their candidates, in Pennsylvania and Ohio especially. In truth, however, the issue between the financial policy of General Grant and the opposition policy of the democrats as an issue between something that is good and substantial for nothing but a change to financial disorders from rash experiments was so plain that the people could not be humbugged by charges of excessive extravagance, favoritism to bondholders and ruinous taxes and corruptions against an administration the record of which is fixed in official facts and figures.

The new element of the colored vote has no doubt been a valuable acquisition to the republicans in these elections, and as from these examples this new element may be counted on the same side in the approaching November elections it becomes an interesting question how far this colored vote may affect the results in New York and New Jersey. From the results of Tuesday's city election in Newark, showing a heavy republican gain, and from the facts that New Jersey fluctuates between the two parties on a majority of from two to three thousand, and that the colored vote in the State is over five thousand, the probabilities are in favor of the opinion that the democracy will lose the State in November. In New York the republicans expect a great reduction of the democratic majority of this city under the new Congressional election laws, which, it seems, from last Tuesday's example in Philadelphia, the national authorities will enforce, if necessary, by a squad of United States marines or soldiers. But, at all events, the democrats, against a general turnout of the republicans, looking at these October results, will have to do their best throughout the State to save our State Assembly in November, and even Hoffman's re-election, from present indications, ceases to be a foregone conclusion.

It may be considered as settled that the republicans will have a decisive majority in the Lower House of the next Congress; and having the Senate, General Grant will have plain sailing to the end of his present term. It may be considered as settled that he will be the republican candidate for re-election in 1872, and will be re-elected. All doubts that may have existed upon these questions have been dissipated in these October elections. What, then, becomes the policy of the democratic party, and especially of the party in New York? The party at large, we suppose, will still continue drifting about without any fixed policy or principles, except opposition to Grant's administration, waiting, still "waiting for something to turn up." But the New York democracy, under the guidance of Tammany Hall, should aim at something better than this.

It is possible that Mr. Tweed, from these late Western elections, in connection with his late Western excursion, is somewhat enlightened in reference to the chances of the New York democratic favorite in 1872. At any rate, he and the other Tammany sachems will be wise in devoting their labors hereafter less to the democratic candidate for the next Presidency than to the interests of the party in New York, which can best be served in studying the interests of the people of the city and the State. Indeed, in this view the main question for Tammany Hall is now, Can we save New York in November?

GOOD NEWS FOR OFFICE-HOLDERS.—It is reported that General Spinner, Treasurer of the United States, will recommend a material increase in the salaries of government officers. This will give a new impetus to the government machine. It is also said President Grant favors the recommendation.

The Military Situation—Difficulties Before the Prussian Army.

Fighting is again reported quite active about Paris. A sortie in force was made by General Ducrot on Friday, between Fort Mont Valérien and St. Cloud, on the west side of Paris, and the Prussians were so severely defeated that they were compelled to abandon the position on the hills back of St. Cloud, whence they were preparing to shell the city. This is an important victory, not only in regard to the indication it affords of General Trochu's intention to cut up his enemy by sorties, but in its effect on the spirits of the soldiery, encouraging them, as it does, to renewed efforts and teaching them the tactics of a sortie. The movement may have been influenced by the news of the French attack near Orleans on the rear defences, and this far it shows that Paris, while orderly and quiet, is also vigilant and ready. Battles have also occurred at Dreux, about forty miles west of Paris, and at Mont Didier, about the same distance north, which resulted in Prussian defeats. These are probably minor affairs, skirmishes between the home guards and the uhlan scouts, but they indicate that the peasantry in the provinces are not frightened by the mere name of uhlans, as they have heretofore been, or they may indicate something more dreadfully suggestive—that the peasantry have been oppressed too much and are at length at bay. The battle at Artenay, near Orleans, is not yet ended. The French troops, among whom were the Papal Zouaves, were undoubtedly badly defeated by a superior force of Prussians, but they took refuge in a wood, where they held their own, and have since been heavily reinforced, and the battle is yet undecided. On this battle depends a great deal more than the prestige of victory for new troops. It may actually settle the question of the further investment of Paris.

Our special correspondent at Versailles, in a telegraphic letter published this morning, shows that the Prussians themselves are in danger of a scarcity of provisions. They have eaten out the country for miles around their immediate neighborhood, and the fierce resistance of the peasants to the requisitions of the uhlans prevents any great supply from that source. They have to depend on their own stock of supplies, which are being transported continually over the long line of the Strasbourg Railway, and with the immense number of men to be fed a break in the line for twenty-four hours may put the whole army upon a slim allowance. Great uneasiness exists in consequence and it has been determined to bombard Paris vigorously, and probably storm it, as soon as the heavy siege guns have arrived and are placed in position. They lack men, too, this immense army. The vigilance of the enemy inside the works renders the duty of investing the city closely a hard matter for the present number of troops, and it is not considered safe to spare any men for a southerly movement. Indeed, the Strasbourg army has been ordered to Paris, instead of Lyons.

The difficulties of the situation are therefore greatly increased for Prussia. Her recent note to the great Powers concerning her inability to feed the French who may surrender with the city does not relieve her from the frightful responsibility of the starvation that now threatens her own army as well as the army and people of Paris. The cruel requisitions that her troops have levied upon the people and the raids that have robbed the peasants of their food have rendered the Prussians alone responsible to the civilized world for the terrible scenes that may ensue when food gives out in the besieged city.

Prince Napoleon in England.

A brief despatch published this morning states that Prince Napoleon, the somewhat erratic, yet very able, cousin of the ex-Emperor of the French, is now in London "intriguing" for the restoration of the empire. Should this information prove to be strictly correct the Prince displays a magnanimity, as well as an activity, worthy of a better cause. Had the excellent advice he gave in his famous and powerful speech delivered in the French Chambers last winter been strictly followed the imperial system would scarcely have been in such a plight as we behold to-day. But since the commencement of his cousin's reign the chief supporters of the now fallen empire have seemed to make a point of belittling and discrediting that member of the Napoleonic family who bears the greatest resemblance, in form and feature, to the first founder of the house. He has been nicknamed "Plon-Plon" and held up to ridicule in a variety of ingenious but very petty ways. Recently, too, the Empress, while still Regent of France, deprived him of his appointments, and it is said that Napoleon III. refused to receive him at Wilhelmshöhe. What, then, he has to expect from a restoration of these unkind relatives is rather difficult to conjecture. His own personal opinions are well known to be republican, and his record points to a destiny not at all imperial. His lot is with the people, and by the triumph of the people he is most likely to have justice done to his undoubted talents. Generosity is a noble trait, but a generosity which compromises the future of a nation, as well as of the man himself, is too romantic for this practical age.

Prince Napoleon has been accused of being too fluent with the tongue. We have often thought the charge to be overstrained, but if he be employed in England now as represented we shall fear that another member of the family has indeed been smitten with the blindness that seems to doom them all.

THE GERMAN STEAMSHIP HERMANN has arrived safely at Bremen. She encountered no French cruisers on the voyage, and found none blockading the German port. It is probable that the line will resume running at once, and, under the French admiral's recent instructions, no very great effort will likely be made by French cruisers to capture any of the steamers.

General Robert E. Lee.

Within the last six months death has been remarkably busy among the great warriors of our civil conflict. With Thomas, Farragut and Lee, the three men who throughout the contest most nearly represented the American idea of the true knightly soldier, the Bayards of the contending forces, have departed from earth. While the reunited Union deeply deplored the loss of Farragut and Thomas, and freely lavished the highest encomiums upon their names and memories, it cannot withhold its tribute to the soldier just dead, who, while warring in an unhappy and illusory cause, pursued his individual course with the true instincts of soldierly honor. While he sought by force of arms, by all the accepted appliances of the military art, and by the energetic exercise of his unquestionable military genius to secure the victory, he never descended to the childish trick of underrating his enemy nor sullied his record with the horrible atrocities of some of his subordinates. Of his course in turning his sword against the Union, in subordinating his duty to the country to his presumed duty to his State, we shall say nothing now that he is dead. Many brighter intellects than Lee's were misled by the dazzling will-o'-the-wisp of State rights. As a brave enemy he is deserving of a tribute, and for his course since he surrendered his sword at Appomattox he deserves high honor. He alone of all the Confederate chiefs who were brave enough to take the consequences of a surrender has fully comprehended the magnanimity of the government. He drew within himself, avoided publicity, persisted in reticence, and, confessing by all his acts that his own cause was lost forever, deported himself with the modest dignity that becomes a fallen chief.

The glories achieved in a civil war are unenviable at the best. The Romans never erected monuments on the battle fields of their civil wars nor permitted ovations to the returning conqueror in an internecine strife; but, as we honored the memories and celebrated the victories of Farragut and Thomas, so will the Southern people honor the memory and celebrate the victories of Lee.

The Approaching Eclipse of the Sun.

At the last session of Congress a sum of thirty thousand dollars was appropriated for the observation of the solar eclipse, which is to be visible from the Mediterranean Sea and the northern part of Africa on the 22d of December, 1870. It was ordered that two army officers, together with two officers of the navy and an assistant from the Washington Naval Observatory, should be associated with the American savans who are to go out on this scientific expedition, of which Professor Pierce, Chief of the Coast Survey, will have the general supervision. By direction of the Secretary of War Major Abbott and Captain Ernst, of the Engineer Corps, have been designated as the army officers to accompany the expedition. Professors Harkness, Hall and Eastman, of the Washington Naval Observatory, will sail on the 2d of November for Liverpool, thence to Malta, and then to Syracuse, Sicily, where they will observe the total eclipse of the sun. They will carry out a complete set of instruments, and their attention will be particularly devoted to the time of apparent contact of the sun and moon, the physical constitution of the corona, and to all the phenomena which the spectroscope, the polariscope, the photometer, the photograph, and the best intruments for magnetic and meteorological observations can reveal. The time of the total eclipse will be about two P. M. on the 22d of December, and if the sky is not hidden by clouds observations may be expected that shall be equally valuable as those which were made on the great total eclipse of August 7, 1869. That eclipse, it will be remembered, was visible almost everywhere in the United States. When not obscured by clouds, it was seen on a regular line running from a central point in Alaska to the coast of North Carolina. Observations made on it along that line and from various points all over the country were immediately telegraphed to the HERALD, which published them on the following day. Never since the total eclipse which occurred February 18, B. C. 3102, and which the Brahmins recorded in their grand astronomical work, "The Surya Siddhanta," has a solar eclipse been so well observed as that of August 7, 1869. It was the last one of the same class to be seen during the remaining term of the nineteenth century, and the astronomers of every nation made special preparations for observing it. The novelty and importance of some of the results which were obtained have stimulated them to make even more extensive preparations for minutely observing the total eclipse which is to be visible from the Mediterranean and the northern part of Africa. Besides the party in charge of Professor Harkness another party will soon sail for Gibraltar and Northern Africa, in charge of Professor Newcomb, with a view of making similar observations. European astronomers will doubtless be sent on the same errand by their respective governments. The results which may be obtained will probably throw much additional light on the mysterious problems concerning the sun. Nor can they fail to prove, like almost all other results of purely scientific investigation, of ultimate practical importance to the dwellers on earth.

THE COOLIE TROUBLES IN PERU.—A terrible coolie insurrection occurred in the north of Peru, about one hundred and forty miles from Lima, early in September, which, from the account of our correspondent at Lima—whose letter is published elsewhere—brought to light some most ferocious instincts on the part of the mild, almond-eyed heathen. About two thousand of them, armed with clubs, knives and axes, murdered the families of the owners of the plantation on which they lived, and then prepared to sack a small village. On the way, however, they encountered two determined white men, who, barricading themselves in a church, drove off the bloody-minded wretches by a vigilant and well directed fire of small arms. This defence gave the villagers time to prepare a breastwork, behind which forty of them repelled the whole Chinese army, which took to the mountains. The whole district of Peru where this occurred is now in dread of another incursion and at the same time is deprived of its field laborers, so that the crops are ruined.

The Theatrical and Concert Season.

The managers have opened the present season, even at an early period, with fair promise to the public of an excellent winter series of entertainments. There are now not less than twenty-five places of amusement inviting the patronage of the public. This is almost unprecedented in this gay city. It leaves London entirely in the background, and is equal to Paris before the dread shadow of war fell upon her. The public have a right to expect this and much more. The theatres and concert rooms are crowded every night. There never was a better opportunity for the managers to supply first class talent at moderate prices than now. Europe has sterner work on hand than the gayeties of the theatre. In Paris the theatres are closed up and the artists are cast adrift to find a livelihood in foreign engagements. This affords a fine opportunity for American managers to bring over the pick and choice of the Opera des Italians and the Opera Comique. We can accommodate them both here in the Academy of Music and in the Grand Opera House. Whatever difficulties lie in the way of the managerial success at the Academy, we presume they can be smoothed over without much trouble. New York can support both houses in their diverse enterprises quite as well as London sustains Drury Lane theatre and the Italian Opera House, and leave a good margin of profit to the managers.

Our managers ought to vie with each other in producing the best talent and the best plays. Even if they find it necessary to import dramas from England for the American stage, as it seems they do, they ought at least to select the dramatic works of first class authors and not the mere driftwood of second rate playwrights. Take, for instance, the play now on the stage at Wallack's, the "Two Roses." It is produced in exquisite taste, but it is the taste of the carpenter, the scene painter and the costumer, wasted upon very dull and stupid material. This should not be so. The "Black Crook" drama, we are happy to say, has nearly played itself out. For this we may consider ourselves indebted in a great measure to Fisk, Jr. He has reduced this style of art to such a point in his opéra bouffe that it ceases to excite any of that kind of interest which rendered Black Crookism infamous and profitable in its early days. It is not likely, then, that the promised revival of the "Black Crook" at Niblo's will be a success.

For many years there never was a better opportunity for a good theatrical season than now. Nilsson has just closed a most remarkable series of concerts, and after a brief absence she will return, and, it is to be hoped, will develop her glorious voice in opera. Seebach is crowding the Fourteenth street theatre every night with audiences who are not dumb to recognize in every character her extraordinary genius. To-night she will ask a verdict upon her capacity to render a new and difficult part in the play of "Love and Intrigue." Those who have appreciated her wonderful power in "Marie Stuart" and "Jane Eyre" will be anxious to see her in this new character. All things considered, including the opportunity of obtaining first class artists from Europe in this hour of trouble—her bombarded capitals, beleaguered cities, voiceless opera houses and dreary theatres, without footlights or tinsel beauties—we ought to have a most brilliant theatrical season this winter.

Scandal Among the Politicians.

It is certainly discreditable to American politics to find that the moment a man is nominated to any political office he is despoiled of whatever decent reputation he may have hitherto held in the community, and is very apt to find himself held up to public contumely, so that it would appear to a foreigner that none but persons of a low standard of morality enter into the arena of politics. The present republican candidate for Governor of this State is no exception to the rule. Hardly was his nomination made before he was publicly charged with misconduct and malfeasance in the two offices which he had previously held—those of Lieutenant Governor of the State and of Assistant United States District Attorney in this city. In the latter office the charge was that he had favored the escape of a slave trader in consideration of a bribe; and the assertion was made on the authority of the then United States Marshal, Mr. Robert Murray. An affidavit in denial of the charge having been published yesterday, purporting to come from the principal in the bribery, if bribery there were, Mayor Hall addressed a note to Marshal Murray requesting him to make a statement of what he knew in the matter; and the Marshal has replied in a communication reaffirming the original charge and giving a circumstantial account of how the facts came to his knowledge. We publish the correspondence and leave our readers to judge for themselves.

SIGNALLING THE APPROACH OF STORMS.—Our government, following the example of the English and some other European governments, and directed thereto by an act of Congress passed at the last session, has made arrangements to have meteorological observations taken at various military stations throughout the country, and to have telegraphic notice given on the seacoast and on the Northern lakes of the approach and force of storms. This plan we have advocated in our columns for a long time. The practical importance of such an undertaking has been sufficiently proved in Europe to warrant us in expecting from it great advantages, particularly in regard to our shipping. Vessels in port can be, by a timely warning of an approaching storm, put in a condition of safety, and vessels about to leave port can be detained in case of expected danger. In various other ways it will prove practically beneficial, to say nothing of its results in a scientific point of view. A pamphlet published by the chief signal officer of the War Department, and from which we publish to-day some extracts, will enable our readers to understand clearly the objects contemplated and the means by which they are to be attained.

NOT RESPECTABLE ENOUGH.—Sheriff O'Brien was rejected by his colleagues of the young democracy as candidate for Mayor because he was not respectable enough, and the party could not afford to go before the people without a reputation as well as a candidate for the highest office in the city. This was very hard on O'Brien, with all his fine clothes, good looks and tasty figure to endorse his respectability. But he had to submit. What is left for him, then, in his hour of affliction, but to fling himself upon the maternal bosom of Tammany, shed bitter tears of penitence and supplicate that a fatted calf may be slaughtered on the spot.

The Lecture of Tom Hughes, M. P.

The same old speech which Englishmen have been always making when they come to talk about this country was the lecture of Mr. Tom Hughes, M. P., at Boston the other night. We have heard the same thing over and over. When this country is prosperous and not in difficulty Englishmen talk very soft and soothingly about us and our institutions, Anglo-Saxon unity and fraternal feelings; but let trouble come, or even the forecast of trouble, and the same silver-tongued orators are the first to turn their back upon us and sympathize with everything hostile to our institutions and government. These platitudes about the English and American people going arm and arm in the advance of civilization and progress are worn out. Of course the American people are to be found in the front rank of progress, not hand in hand with any nation, but a few steps in advance. They belong to a race upon whose stock they have considerably improved, and they are not going to fall behind. When Dickens paid his first visit here, twenty odd years ago, he was very civil in his speeches, but when he returned to England he was as malignant in his books as he was delicate in his speeches. When he paid his second visit, however, he found nothing to condemn in our social life and habits. The satires contained in his writings were superseded by an enforced apology and gilded over with genial palaver. The speeches of English celebrities concerning this country are all of the same stamp. Nobody here appreciates them beyond their value. From the recent effort of the author of "Tom Brown at Rugby" we are disposed to think that he can make a book much better than deliver a lecture.

The New Darien Expedition.

We are glad to learn that Commander Selfridge will undertake about the middle of next November a new Darien expedition. Besides completing his exploration—which the rainy season interrupted—of the San Blas routes, and perhaps making that of the route from Polahka, Commander Selfridge intends to explore thoroughly the Atrato and Truando route, which is now regarded, in accordance with Humboldt's opinion, as the most feasible for an interoceanic ship canal. Of this route we gave a full editorial account on Tuesday. The officers of the new Darien expediton will be selected exclusively from the navy, the telegraphic and other civil corps being dispensed with. The inconveniences inseparably connected with "mixed expeditions" will thus be avoided. A conflict of authority is almost always inevitable in such an expedition unless the province of the scientific corps is accurately defined to their satisfaction and that of the naval officer commanding it. It is highly creditable to the thorough and extensive course of studies at the Naval School in Annapolis that its graduates may be considered as competent to perform the manifold duties of an exploring expedition, which science and commerce count among the most important undertakings of modern times.

THE MCFARLAND-RICHARDSON TRAGEDY IN ANOTHER ACT.—The assassination of a prominent citizen of Cleveland, Ohio, by a husband who imagined his honor to have been outraged, is only another act in the domestic tragedy that occupied the attention of our citizens some time since. It seems that the killer of the wife seducer even relied upon the result of the McFarland case for immunity in the homicide he committed. A call upon New York lawyers is made by the murderer's friends and, no doubt the price of insanity depositions will be immediately enhanced in the Cleveland criminal market. We give to-day further and very interesting particulars in regard to this latest fireside spoliation and its tragical consequences.

PRINCE FREDERICK CHARLES.—It has been reported that Prince Frederick Charles, who is in command of the German forces around Metz, is dead. It is not impossible that this rumor is unfounded. It was previously reported that the Prince had been taken ill with fever. The death of the Prince would be a calamity to Prussia. He is one of the best German generals whom this war has developed. But his death will not alter the situation. It is not impossible that this rumor will prove as foundationless as the rumor regarding Von Moltke.

YACHTING AFFAIRS.

The match race between the Sappho and Cambria, announced for yesterday, did not come off, owing to the absence of wind and the heavy fog that prevailed the entire morning. The Cambria is at present lying inside the Horseshoe and the Sappho is anchored off the Club House, Staten Island. The race has been set down for to-day, and both yachts will probably proceeed at an early hour this morning to the lightship, whence they are to sail twenty miles to windward and back.

In the contest on Tuesday between the Cambria and Dauntless neither vessel turned the stakeboat, as already mentioned. It appears that in the first place the steamer made the twenty miles from the lightship too rapidly for the contesting vessels, which were beating to windward, and that when she came to anchor she was entirely out of sight. Darkness having set in she hoisted two lamps, but, failing to see them, the yachts showed blue lights to indicate their positions. The Dauntless was then (seven o'clock) a good distance ahead, the Cambria standing off on the lee quarter. The blue lights were seen from on board the steamer, but it was not thought they belonged to the yachts. In any case the steamer had no means of attracting attention beyond her two lamps and repeated whistles. Unable to discover her whereabouts, after a long and vigorous search, the contestants eased sheets and returned homeward before the wind. The race, however, will probably be renewed to-morrow under more auspicious circumstances.

CRICKET.

Great International Match.

On Friday and Saturday of the present week the great cricketing event of this season will come off at Germantown, Philadelphia, on which occasion a grand international contest between eleven Americans and eleven Englishmen will take place. The American team will be composed of the flower of the famous Young America Club, the members of which are all Americans, and on whose grounds the match is to be played. Mr. George Newhall will act as their captain. The English eleven will be under the captaincy of Mr. Restall, of the Germantown Club, and will, so far as can be ascertained, comprise the following players:—Messrs. Restall, Hargreaves and McIntyre, of the Germantown Club; Pearson, of the Philadelphia Club; Bance, Norley and Carpenter, of St. George Club; Byron, Rogerson and Kelller, of the New York Club, and A. Eastwood, of the Willow Club.

The Red Sea Cables Again Working—The London Times on the Tehuantepec Canal Route—The Duke of Cambridge's Army Management Denounced.

LONDON, Oct. 12, 1870.

Communication with Aden and India, via the Red Sea cables, was again established this afternoon.

The London Times in its financial article to-day refers discouragingly to the Tehuantepec canal route, but approves that of Nicaragua, and thinks, in view of the Pacific Railroad and similar great American projects, the latter work will be a success.

George Otto Trevelyan, one of the junior Lords of the Admiralty, last evening made a speech to his constituents on the border burghs at Selkirk, Scotland. He complained of the Duke of Cambridge's army management as slow and insufficient in times so critical.

NEW YORK'S CRIMINALS.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1870.

The new Court of Appeals commenced its session yesterday with a large calendar of preferred criminal cases. The first reached was that in which Owen Hand, the Brooklyn murderer, was plaintiff in error. Voluminous briefs were submitted by counsel for Hand and District Attorney Samuel D. Morris. Decision reserved.

The case of Remsen and Hannigan, the police officers convicted in New York General Sessions of robbing a Kentuckian named Wells, was ably argued by ex-Judge S. H. Stuart for plaintiffs in error, and replied to by District Attorney Samuel B. Garvin. Decision reserved.

The case of Jerome Bradley, the bond robber, next followed, and the decision of the Supreme Court was affirmed.

The appeal of the People vs. Patrick McDonald, the notorious emigrant swindler, then came on to be heard. Mr. William F. Howe, counsel for McDonald, quoted from many legal authorities, and urged with great effect the same objections as secured a reversal of the judgment in the General Term of the Supreme Court last June, whereby McDonald was released. Decision reserved.

District Attorney Garvin finished by summing up the case of "Mart" Allen, convicted of robbing John P. Smith, of Connecticut, of $712, and sentenced to the State Prison for five years by the Court of General Sessions in November last. It will be remembered that Allen's counsel, Mr. W. F. Howe, obtained a reversal of his case in the Supreme Court, through which the prison doors were flung open to Allen, and he was permitted to again walk the streets of New York. The same questions were again brought to light to-day in the Court of Appeals, and Mr. Howe very forcibly alluded to the legal technicalities with which the case abounded. Decision in this case also reserved.

NATIONAL PRISON CONGRESS.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12, 1870.

The National Prison Congress commenced its sessions here to-day at ten o'clock A. M., in Thorn's Hall. A permanent organization was accomplished by making Governor R. B. Hayes, of Ohio, President.

Dr. Wines, of the New York Prison Association, gave a general account of the prisons of the United States. He said that there were 40 State prisons, 25 houses of correction and about 2,000 county jails, besides a large number of station houses and lock-ups, chiefly in the cities and large towns; that there were on an average 15,000 prisoners in the State prisons, from 5,000 to 6,000 in the houses of correction, from 40,000 to 50,000 in the common jails, and perhaps as many in the lock-ups; that crime had increased within the last decade, but disproportionately to the increased population.

Dr. Pierce, from the New York House of Refuge, read an elaborate and interesting paper on the reformatories of the United States, in which he traced their history and explained their present condition.

In the evening two papers were read which had been forwarded by foreign gentlemen. The first by F. Brunn, formerly Chancellor of Denmark and now inspector general of prisons in that country, giving an exceedingly interesting account of prison discipline there. Points of great value in the Danish method of prison treatment were developed, well worthy of attention in other countries.

The second paper was by Sir John Bowring, of England. His essay treats on the purposes of prison discipline. The view he took of a prison was that of a moral hospital, in which prisoners were patients. This thought was the key to his theory of prison treatment.

A very able discussion followed in which the question was, whether the highest pecuniary result in prison arrangement was compatible with the highest moral result.

The only paper read in the evening was by Mr. Brockway, under the title of "The Idea of a True Prison System for a State."

EUROPEAN MARKETS.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.—LONDON, Oct. 12.—Consols opened at 92⅜ for both money and the account. American securities quiet. United States five-twenty bonds, 1862, 91½; 1865, old, 90⅜; 1867, 89⅜; ten-forties, 86. Stocks quiet. Erie Railway shares, 18; Illinois Centrals, 114; Atlantic and Great Western, 28⅜.

FRANKFORT BOURSE.—FRANKFORT, Oct. 12.—United States five-twenty bonds are quoted at 95⅛ for the old issue.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.—LIVERPOOL, Oct. 12.—The market opened quiet. Middling uplands, 8⅛d. a 8¼d.; middling Orleans, 8⅜d. a 8⅝d. The sales of the day are estimated at 10,000 bales.

LIVERPOOL BREADSTUFFS MARKET.—LIVERPOOL, Oct. 12.—Wheat 8s. 7d. a 8s. 8d. per cental for No. 2 red Western. Corn 28s. 6d. a 29s. per quarter.

THE ELECTIONS.

Fragmentary returns of Tuesday's elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska come dribbling in upon us. They, however, indicate no material change in the result as announced in the HERALD yesterday.

Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12, 1870.

Complete returns from the Second Congressional district elect Creeley by 414 majority.

Complete returns from the Fourth Congressional district elect Kelley by 2,500 majority.

In the city wards of the Fifth district Harmer (republican), for Congress, has a majority of 41.

Bucks county gives a democratic majority of at least 900—a republican loss—which will elect Reading (democrat).

In the Sixth district the election of Mr. Oliver (republican) is claimed, as is also Mr. Schoonmaker, in the Twelfth. The latter, however, in in doubt.

The vote in the Eighteenth district is very close, both parties claiming the majority. The full democratic ticket for the Senate and Assembly in this district, composed of Lycoming, Union and Snyder counties, is elected, making a gain of two members.

The Nineteenth district (Erie county) gives a republican majority of two thousand, Cameron county gives a republican majority of ninety-five and Clearfield county a democratic majority of twelve hundred.

Mr. Scofield is undoubtedly elected, as the democratic majority in Elk county will be largely overbalanced by the republican majority in Forest, Jefferson, McKean and Warren counties.

Mr. Cessna's election in the Sixteenth is still in doubt, and also Mr. Stewart's, in the Twenty-first district.

In the State Legislature the republicans will have a majority of five in the Senate—a gain of two; the House will stand the same as last year—a republican majority of twenty. In the City Councils the republicans will have a majority of twelve in the Select—a gain of four—and twenty-nine in the Common—a loss of one.

Mayor Fox yesterday protested, both to United States Marshal Gregory and to Governor Geary, against the employment of the marines to keep the peace at the polls, as a violation of the constitution of the United States. Marshal Gregory, in his reply, quoted the act of Congress authorizing the appointing of special deputies during the election for members of Congress, and stated that the marines were called out because he was informed that the deputies he had appointed were arrested by city policemen, who were present at the precinct in question, and were actually engaged in excluding colored voters from the polls.

In Seventeenth district Worrell's (republican) re-election is doubtful.

In Twentieth district Griffith (democrat) has 700 majority over Gilfillan.

In Twenty-first district Foster (democrat) has 600 majority over Stewart.

In the Twenty-third district McJunkin (rep.) is elected.

In the Twenty-fourth district McClelland (dem.) has 900 majority over Donley.

In the Thirteenth district Mercur (rep.) has about 150 majority.

Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12, 1870.

The election returns are meagre but indicate large republican gains throughout the State. The republicans gain one Congressman in the First district and one in the Ninth district. The contest in Schenck's district and in McClurg's district is very close. It may even come out that Schenck is beaten by a small majority.

The State has gone republican by about 15,000 majority. There are one or two very close districts in Southern Ohio.

In the Second district a slight discrepancy in the Eighteenth ward will require a recount for adjustment. The present figures show a majority of 1,517 for Stevenson. The republican majority for the highest candidate in Hamilton county is about 2,500. Special despatches received here from Highland county give Smith, republican, in the Sixth district of Ohio 100 majority. In Clermont the democrats claim 375 majority while the republicans concede only 300.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12, 1870.

Fourteen democratic counties show a republican gain over last year of 3,796; fifteen republican counties show a republican gain of 331. Total gain in twenty-seven counties, 4,127. The republicans gain two Congressmen—Perry and Foster—and probably lose two—Schenck and McClurg.

Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 12, 1870.

The election returns come in slowly. The result on the State ticket is very doubtful. Both parties claim the State. The majority will be very small on either side, and may require the official vote to decide. Republican gains are indicated, however, in small quantities all over the State.

Indianapolis city and county—The returns are almost complete. Republican majority 850 on State ticket.

The republicans gain two members of the Legislature in Evansville.

The city of Evansville has gone republican by 600. Williams' majority is about 850.

Hascall (independent) is nowhere.

Nebraska.

OMAHA, Oct. 12, 1870.

Returns from different portions of the State indicate the re-election of Governor Butler (republican) by about 2,000, and Taffe (republican), for Congress, by about 3,000 majority. The entire republican State ticket is elected.

Thayer will probably be returned to the United States Senate.

NARCISSE.

Yesterday evening was what is termed an "off night" at the Fourteenth Street theatre between the appearances of Madame Seebach, who will this evening present herself for the first time before a New York audience in her grand part of Louisa Miller, in Schiller's magnificent tragedy, "Kabale und Liebe." The piece announced was Brachvogel's "Narcisse," one of the finest dramatic productions of the German muse. For years "Narcisse" has been a favorite of the American stage in both English and German, and Mr. Bandmann won some of his freshest laurels in the title rôle, as he performed it in many of our leading cities on both shores of the continent. The subject and the plot of the play are alike extremely interesting, the scene being laid in that period of the reign of Louis XV. when Madame de Pampadour was the chief favorite of a dissolute monarch and court and by her intrigues brought untold woe on France. Narcisse was a poor musician, but a man of remarkable intellectual gifts, whom Diderot mentions very specially in his celebrated "Conversations." His wife had been enticed away from her home and the husband to whom her beauty, grace and former innocence had been all in all, and had been introduced to a life of splendid shame at Paris. At last she had become the mistress of the King and had grown to such a height of daring ambition that she ventured to plot the separation of Queen Maria Levinska from her royal spouse. Another party, with the good of France at heart, struggled against an infamy which would have elevated an abandoned woman to the throne. This false wife was no other than the too famous Pompadour. The Duc de Choiseul, the Mephistophelian Prime Minister of France, once the lover of this woman, but by her stinging revelation that she had never really cared for him but had sought only to gratify her devouring ambition, become her bitter secret enemy, discovers the early relation between her and Narcisse, who, is now a half crazed beggar, wandering about the streets of Paris. Choiseul arranges a plan by which the unfortunate husband shall be confronted with the faithless wife whom he has never ceased to mourn. The scheme is to introduce him in a play to be performed before Pompadour in the hall of Choiseul's palace, and in this the Minister is aided by a talented actress, Doris Ruinault, who is enthusiastically devoted to the Queen and to the cause of her country, which is rushing to ruin under the influence of Pompadour. But she does not know that the poor wretch for whom she has learned to feel the deepest interest is the wronged husband, until it is too late to recede from the task she has promised to perform. The confrontation takes place as arranged, the shock is terrible, Pompadour is completely unmasked, and, under the fearful denunciations of Narcisse, dies of fright and horror on the stage. He also expires at her feet.

A play like this, in which Brachvogel has displayed all the wealth of extraordinary dramatic genius affords scenes of intensely pathetic and tragic power, and the respectable and attentive audience present last night will unanimously bear us out in saying that the performance was entirely worthy of the occasion. In fact, the house was taken completely by surprise. Mlle. Veneta as Pompadour confirmed all the praise we have hitherto bestowed; Mr. Dombrowski as Choiseal acted his part to the life, and Mlle. Bissinger as Doris was admirable. But the triumph of the evening was on all sides accorded to Mr. Harry in the very difficult emotional part of Narcisse. That gentleman's, performance, hitherto, in second parts, good as it has been, had by no means prepared us for such a revelation. Mr. Harry's impersonation, from the first act onward, rose higher and higher to the loftiest stadium of artistic triumph. In the court scene he deeply interested; in the pagoda and moonlight soliloquies he held every hearer spell-bound; in the closing catastrophe and climax he overpowered the house, and was again and again recalled, amid honest, heartfelt and spontaneous applause. Such a performance of "Narcisse" as we witnessed last night is rare on any boards. It left both Bandmann and Dawison in the shade, and we sincerely hope that it may be repeated for the benefit of the throngs who will fill the theatre, now that they know what an intellectual treat it offers.

Our conscientious thanks are due to the entire company, who acquitted themselves so superbly last night, and to Messrs. Grau we must award most earnest congratulations.

RACING AND TROTTING.

American Jockey Club.

Six races are on the programme for to-day, the first being the Members' Cup Handicap Sweepstakes, one mile and an eighth; the second a sweepstakes of $50 each, play or pay, with $1,000 added, two mile heats; the third a selling sweepstakes, with the usual allowances for low prices, one mile and five-eighths; the fourth a purse race for three year olds, winners penalized with extra weights, one mile and a quarter; the fifth a purse race for two year olds, with similar conditions to the preceding one, three-quarters of a mile, and the sixth will be a match race between the two year old colts of Messrs. Dennison & Crawford and Mr. Belmont.

For the Members' Cup Handicap Sweepstakes there are two entries—Climax and Rapture; and this will be a capital race. In the tow mile heat race there are four entries—Oakleaf, Nannie Douglas, Haric and Midday. This also will be a close affair. The selling race has in it Edenton, Rapture, Oakleaf, Climax and Athlone. In the mile and a quarter Mozart, Lady Petry, Flash of Lightning, Echo, a colt by Doneraile, and Hilarity are entered; and as they are all good three year olds the race should be a fine one. The three-quarters of a mile race has Elsie, Nickajack and Muscus in. The sports of the day will end with a match between the two year olds, and no doubt much money is pending on the result.

POOL SELLING LAST EVENING.

Pools for the five races set down for to-day at Jerome Park were sold last evening at the rooms of the club, 920 Broadway. The gathering in the room was not large, but the bidding was kept up with great spirit throughout the evening. Climax, Rapture, Lady Petry and Mozart were the special favorites, as the figures in the following quotations will show:—

MEMBERS' CUP.

Prospect Park Fair Grounds.

The deluging rain of yesterday morning prevented thousands of the curiously inclined from attending the agricultural and horticultural fair now in progress at the Prospect Park Fair Grounds, and in reality was instrumental in causing a total suspension until to-day of the various matters on the programme. Should the weather be fit and the track in good condition, which it will undoubtedly be, the Prospect Park four-year-old Colt Stakes, amounting to $2,050, in which there are nine entries, and the purse for horses that have never beaten 2:50, seven entries, will be trotted this afternoon. The attractions at the Prospect are of such a nature as will insure a good attendance and a corresponding amount of enthusiasm.

POOL SELLING LAST NIGHT.

In consequence of the heavy rain the track at the Prospect Park Fair Ground was not in order for the races yesterday, and they were consequently postponed until to-day. In the meantime, however, the interest in the races increases, and last night there was a good attendance at the sale of pools at the Assembly billiard rooms in Washington street, Brooklyn. A large number of pools were sold, one being that of the 2:50 class of horses for a purse of $500, and the other being four-year colts for the Park Stakes. In the 2:50 class Lady Hughes was the favorite, and in the colt race the honors seemed to be divided between Nicotine and Socrates. The sales averaged as follows:—

2:50 CLASS—PURSE $500.

Hughes	$50	$50	$50	$50	$50
Coleman	18	14	20	13	12

FOUR-YEAR-OLD COLT RACE.

Socrates	$50	$50	$50	$40	$80
Nicotine	40	36	36	40	70
Field	18	12	10	20	40

Trotting at Springfield, Mass.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 12, 1870.

The rain storm caused a postponement of the races of the Springfield Club, and the programme will be continued one day. The rain did not, however, prevent the finishing of the 2:32 race, and at noon the pool buyers and a few others assembled on the track to ascertain whether their tickets were good for anything or not. When darkness closed in on Tuesday night Belle of Toronto and Thomas Jefferson had each won two heats. In the rain and mud the

was started, and Kansas Chief, Thomas Jefferson and White Fawn contested it sharply, the Chief winning by a length, in 2:40¾.

The sixth heat was won by Jefferson, after a close contest with the Chief, in 2:37¼.

The following is a summary:—

HAMPDEN PARK, SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 12.—Purse of $1,000, for horses that never beat 2:32, mile heats, three in five, in harness; $300 to second, $100 to third horse.

W. B. Smith entered ch. s. Thomas Jefferson	1	6	6	1	2	1
G. P. Carpenter entered Belle of Toronto	3	1	1	4	4	3
G. N. Ferguson entered b. g. Kansas Chief	6	2	5	2	1	2
T. Carpenter entered br. g. Johnny Reb	4	5	3	3	3 r.o.
D. Bigley, entered ch. m. Fanny	5	4	4	6	6 r.o.
D. Mace entered w. g. White Fawn	2	3	2	5	5 r.o.
O. A. Hickok entered s. s. St. Elmo	distanced.

Time—2:32¾, 2:33½, 2:32¾, 2:33½, 2:40¾, 2:37¼.

The Rensselaer Park Races.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1870.

The Fall meeting of the Rensselaer Park Association commenced to-day. For the race for all horses that had never trotted better than three minutes there were nine entries, seven of which started. The purse was $500—$300 to first horse, $150 to second and $50 to third. The race was won by D. Mace's Coquette, James McKee's Lady Brisman taking second money and M. W. Olcott's Pownal Mare third. Five heats were trotted. The best time was 2:45.

The race for all horses that have not trotted better than 2:34 was postponed until Saturday.

Horse Notes.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

I wish you would state in your paper that I will trot Honest Allen and running mate against any horse in the world, mile heats, best three in five, from $1,000 to $5,000 a side; George Wilkes against any stallion, mile heats, best three in five, in harness or to wagons, for the same amount; also against any horse, mile heats, best three in five, to wagons, for $1,000 a side. To be trotted either at Fleetwood or Prospect Park any day within three weeks. Yours truly, WILLIAM H. BORST.

ARMY INTELLIGENCE.

The appointment of Colonel Hatch as a member of the board to examine officers under the new army law has been revoked, as he would not be able to reach Washington from his station in Texas in time for the meeting of the Board, and Colonel Thomas H. Ruger, of the Eighteenth infantry, has been appointed in his place.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

A despatch from London says that the United States steamer Plymouth has arrived at Kiel, though that port is ostensibly closed by the blockade. Other American men-of-war are expected there.

The Secretary of the Navy has ordered a naval general court martial to commence at Washington Navy Yard on the 20th inst. for the trial of Paymasters William G. Marcy, Forbes Parker, James S. Girard and Charles H. Lockwood for alleged defalcation. This court will consist of Admiral L. M. Goldsborough, President; Commodores Henry Walke, Fabius Stanley and Benjamin F. Sands, Captain H. K. Davenport and Paymasters H. M. Heiskill and William B. Boggs.

Captain William G. Temple has been authorized to act as Judge Advocate of court.

GENERAL LEE.

Death of the Great Southern Chief—Virginia's Capital in Mourning—Suspension of Business in Richmond—Resolutions of the Legislature—Where Shall the Hero be Buried?

LEXINGTON, Oct. 12—10 A. M.

General Robert E. Lee breathed his last at thirty minutes past nine o'clock this morning, of congestion of the brain, aged sixty-three years, eight months and twenty-three days.

RICHMOND, Oct. 12, 1870.

The brief telegram of General Lee's relapse this morning had not prepared the community for the sad and sudden intelligence of his death, which was received with evidences of the most profound sorrow. A gloom is spread over the city like that which followed the terrible calamity at the Capitol in April last. The eyes of some of Lee's old veterans were moistened, and women shed tears of sorrow when they heard the sad news. No event could possibly have created more painful regret among a whole people as this, for everybody seems to feel as if they had lost a friend.

To-morrow all the bells of the city churches will be tolled from sunrise to sunset. Business will be generally suspended. Crape will be hung at all the doors of the houses, and the public buildings will be festooned with the traditional emblem of so great an affliction. Religious services will also be held and such appropriate ceremonies as are befitting in the case of such a sad bereavement.

The Chamber of Commerce was in session when the news was announced. That body immediately suspended business and adopted the following resolution:—

That this Chamber of Commerce recommend to its members and the citizens generally to close their places of business and place crape upon their doors during the day, to-morrow, in token of the general grief and as a tribute to the memory of the good and great man who has fallen in the midst of his usefulness and honors.

The Chamber then adjourned to meet on Wednesday next.

The Governor will communicate the death of Virginia's great hero to the General Assembly to-morrow, when an appropriate tribute to his memory will be passed by that body.

It has not yet been decided where the interment will be made. The people of Lexington will insist that he shall be laid with Stonewall Jackson, whose last words were: "Bury me at Lexington, in the valley of Virginia." The family burying ground of the Lees is at Arlington, but this has been so desecrated by negroes that public sentiment everywhere will be averse to his interment there. It is more than likely the Governor will recommend that the honored remains be laid in Hollywood Cemetery, near this city, where so many of the heroes of the Army of Northern Virginia now rest on fame's eternal camping ground.

Sketch of Robert Edmund Lee.

On a quiet autumn morning, in the land which he loved so well, and, as he held, served so faithfully, the spirit of Robert Edmund Lee left the clay which it had so much ennobled and travelled out of this world into the great and mysterious land. Yesterday the expressions of regret which sprang from the few who surrounded the bedside of the dying soldier and Christian will be swelled to-day into one mighty voice of sorrow, resounding throughout our country and extending over all parts of the world where his great genius and his many virtues are known. For not to the Southern people alone shall be limited the tribute of a tear over the dead Virginian. Here in the North, forgetting that the time was when the sword of Robert Edmund Lee was drawn against us—forgetting and forgiving all the years of bloodshed and agony—we have long since ceased to look upon him as the Confederate leader, but have claimed him as one of ourselves; have cherished and felt proud of his military genius as belonging to us; have recounted and recorded his triumphs as our own; have extolled his virtues as reflecting honor upon us—for Robert Edmund Lee was an American, and the great nation which gave him birth would be to-day unworthy of such a son if she regarded him lightly.

Never had mother a nobler son. In him the military genius of America was developed to a greater extent than ever before. In him all that was pure and lofty in mind and purpose found lodgment. Dignified without presumption, affable without familiarity, he united all those charms of manners which made him the idol of his friends and of his soldiers, and won for him the respect and admiration of the world. Even as, in the days of his triumph, glory did not intoxicate, so when the dark clouds swept over him adversity did not depress. From the hour that he surrendered his sword at Appomattox to the fatal autumn morning he passed among men noble in his quiet, simple dignity, displaying neither bitterness nor regret over the irrevocable past. He conquered us in misfortune by the grand manner in which he sustained himself, even as he dazzled us by his genius when the tramp of his soldiers resounded through the valleys of Virginia.

And for such a man we are all tears and sorrow to-day. Standing beside his grave men of the South and men of the North can mourn with all the bitterness of four years of warfare erased by this common bereavement. May this unity of grief—this unselfish manifestation over the loss of the Bayard of America—in the season of dead leaves and withered branches which this death ushers in, bloom and blossom like the distant coming spring into the flowers of a heartier accord!

EARLY CAREER.

Robert E. Lee was born in Virginia, in the year 1808. His father was the celebrated General Henry Lee (named by his contemporaries, in familiarity, Harry Lee), the known friend and warm eulogist of George Washington. Like all the Lees, deceased had ever a strong affection for his native State. During the early days of the Revolution, when our forefather's struggled to secure the independence we now enjoy, the Lees distinguished themselves in liberty's cause and labored faithfully and energetically for America's freedom. General Robert E. Lee, whose death we are called upon this day to chronicle, received a liberal education, and was admitted to West Point as a cadet in 1825; four years later he graduated with honor from this school, which has given to the American nations almost all of the most brilliant, able and accomplished soldiers which are to be found in the pages of American history. Lee was second in his class of forty-six members, among whom we find the names of Joseph E. Johnston, O. M. Mitchell and C. P. Buckingham, all of whom have attained eminence in the profession of arms. Johnson distinguished himself on the Confederate side, and the gallant Mitchell, the accomplished scholar, as well as the intrepid soldier, a name of which every American feels proud, has already passed away.

A VISIT TO EUROPE.

Shortly after leaving West Point Lieutenant Lee made a voyage to Europe, where his manners and acquirements secured him the entrée to the best society of the European capitals. The young Virginian became a favorite abroad, and though his visit there was one of pleasure and enjoyment he nevertheless found occasion to busy himself with inquiries into matters appertaining to the profession which he had chosen. This experience, slender as it was, proved of advantage to him afterwards. He stored his mind with what was useful, and when in future years he had to draw upon this store of knowledge he did so but to improve and adapt it for his own advantage. On his return home he rejoined his regiment. In 1836 he was promoted from second to first lieutenant, and two years later, in 1838, he was made captain. The year 1845 saw him appointed a member of the Board of Engineers.

WAR WITH MEXICO.

In 1846 the trouble which for some time had been brewing between the United States and the restless and fiery republic of Mexico was brought to a head. The American army marched for the frontier and entered Mexican soil. Robert E. Lee was chief engineer of the army in Mexico. The gallantry of his conduct at Cerro Gordo won for him his promotion to major April 18, 1846. In the summer following the fierce and bloody conflicts of Contreras and Churubusco took place, and at both Lee's bravery was so conspicuous that his promotion to a lieutenant colonelcy followed on August 20. The storming of Chapultepec, where so many brave men met death, afforded Lee another chance to distinguish himself, and for his conduct on that bloody day he was rewarded with a colonelcy. At Chapultepec, Lee was badly wounded. When the Mexican war was brought to a close he was reappointed a member of the Board of Engineers, which position he continued to hold until 1852, when he was raised to the post of Superintendent of West Point Military Academy, which he held till March, 1855, when he was appointed lieutenant colonel of cavalry. On the 16th of March, 1861, he was appointed colonel of cavalry, and on the 25th day of the following month he resigned his commission in the United States Army and offered his sword to Virginia.

HIS REASON FOR JOINING THE REBELLION.

It has, we think, never been denied that when the secession movement began he was opposed to it. In conversation he is reported to have said that he did not believe the election of Mr. Lincoln a sufficient cause for dissolving the Union. Furthermore, there is no doubt that General Lee felt an ardent affection for the Union. But he had been reared in the school of State rights, and he resigned his commission because he held that his first allegiance was due to his native State. Had Virginia never seceded he never would have taken up arms against the national government. Thus, however much we may condemn the act, we can hardly blame the man. His motives were as pure as could be. No man mourned his defection more than General Scott, who regarded him as, next to General Albert Sydney Johnston, the best officer in the army.

HIS MILITARY OPERATIONS IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Virginia accepted the offer of Lee, and appointed him Commander-in-Chief of the State forces. Before long the confederacy was organized, and Jeff Davis commissioned Lee a full general. Five of these full generals were appointed—Cooper, Lee, Albert Sydney Johnston, G. T. Beauregard and Joseph E. Johnston. Cooper was Adjutant General of the government. Beauregard and Joseph E. Johnston were in the North and Central Virginia, Albert Sydney Johnston was ordered to the west and Lee was assigned to duty in West Virginia. His field of operations was small and his resources for campaigning next to nothing. The organization of his forces was so defective that it hardly existed. Lee importuned the authorities for the means to hold West Virginia, but in vain. All the strength of the confederacy was directed to the armies organizing under Beauregard and Joe Johnson. As a consequence Lee effected worse than nothing. His half-armed, undisciplined troops were beaten and a large territory lost to the South in a few weeks.

IN COMMAND OF THE ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA.

Bull Run had been fought and lost by the Union army. Months of inactivity followed, broken only by the disastrous engagement at Ball's Bluff and a few minor combats. The year 1862 opened, however, actively. Grant's army was set in motion and Fort Donelson captured. Immediately after Nashville was evacuated and the whole of Tennessee thrown open. In this critical situation Beauregard was sent to the West to aid Albert Sydney Johnston and Joseph E. Johnston remained in command in Northern Virginia. But on the 31st of May Joe Johnston was wounded at the battle of Seven Pines, and it became a question for a few days as to who would succeed him. General Lee was ordered to take command of the army. He did so under most inauspicious circumstances. Not only was he laboring under the cloud of recent disasters, but the army was dispirited and almost demoralized. Discipline scarcely existed in its ranks. Within a month after Lee came a marked change was noticeable. His energy, well seconded by the efforts of the rebel authorities, soon made his men confident and resolute. For weeks he remained on the defensive, deaf to all clamors to advance, but determined to move only when his preparations were complete. At length he gave the order and his army advanced upon the federal forces besieging Richmond. For seven days the two giants met in battle, and the carnage on both sides was fearful. Lee's plan was to destroy McClellan utterly. Two things prevented its consummation—first the stubborn and heroic resistance of the Union army, and next the dilatoriousness of Hugh and Magruder in not moving in time from Petersburg to cut off the retreat to the James river. But though he failed to capture McClellan's army he undeniably gained a great triumph in raising the siege of Richmond. This done he advanced his army rapidly in the direction of Washington, routed Pope at Manassas in August, and crossing the Potomac river fought the battle of Antietam on September 17. It is doubtful, notwithstanding his repulse, if he would have left Maryland had the people risen to aid him as he expected them to do when he entered the State. Finding them indifferent, if not hostile, he withdrew his army into Virginia. The Union forces followed him; Burnside took command, and Lee beat him at Fredericksburg December 12-16. Hooker next led the Union forces and was signally defeated at Chancellorsville in the battle of May 1 to 4 of 1863. This was the critical point in the fortunes of the confederacy, and here Lee made the only mistake of his military career. He invaded Pennsylvania, instead of remaining in Virginia and sending part of his army to Mississippi to aid in the relief of Vicksburg. Gettysburg followed and his army was repulsed and forced to retreat to Virginia. When General Grant opened the campaign of 1864 the cause of the Confederacy was on the wane. Nevertheless, it was in this campaign that Lee displayed the greatest military genius. He fought against overwhelming numbers every step of the way to Petersburg, handling his men with a skill which excited the admiration of even his opponents. Every flank movement made to cut him off from his base was foiled, and when the two armies finally settled down for the long and laborious siege of Petersburg Grant's losses had nearly equalled the entire strength of Lee's army. What came after the siege scarcely needs recounting. The defence was as heroic as the assault was gallant and determined. Attack upon attack failed until April 2, when Grant threw the whole weight of his army upon the attenuated line of Lee and crushed it. The retreat—a hopeless one from the start—failed, and on the 9th of April General Lee and the remnant of his army surrendered.

SINCE THE WAR.

The war over, General Lee returned to his home in Virginia and retired to private life. Elected president of Washington College, in Lexington, Va., his letter of acceptance showed how well he had accepted the political situation. "It is the duty of every citizen," he wrote, "in the present condition of the country to do all in his power to aid in the restoration of peace and harmony, and in no way to oppose the policy of the State or general government directed to that object." But once only was he tempted to take part in politics, and that was in 1868, when General Rosecrans visited White Sulphur Springs. But beyond giving his opinion then as to what would be the best course to be pursued towards the South, he never interfered in political matters. All his time and attention were devoted to Washington College, which he made popular and prosperous. When an effort was made by Judge Underwood to have him indicted for treason he wrote General Grant a letter on the subject. The General promptly replied that according to the terms of surrender his indictment would be an act of bad faith on the part of the government. Accordingly the movement to prosecute him was abandoned, and about the same time he sent in an application for pardon through Grant, who very generously endorsed it and used his influence to have it accorded. Between the two great military leaders of the country, in fact, there existed the kindest of feelings. President Grant has more than once expressed his admiration of Lee's public and private virtues, and will, we have no doubt, feel as much regret at his death as any of his fellow citizens.

THE END.

In person General Lee was a notably handsome man. He was tall of stature and admirably proportioned; his features were regular and most amiable in appearance, and in his manners he was courteous and dignified. In social life he was much admired. As a slaveholder he was beloved by his slaves for his kindness and consideration towards them. General Lee was also noted for his piety. He was an Episcopalian, and was a regular attendant at church. Having a perfect command over his temper, he was never seen angry, and his most intimate friends never heard him utter an oath. Indeed, it is doubtful if there are many men of the present generation who unite so many virtues and so few vices in each of themselves as did General Lee. He came nearer the ideal of the soldier and Christian general than any man we can think of, for he was a greater soldier than Havelock and equally as devout a Christian. In his death our country has lost a son in whom she might well be proud, and for whose services she might have stood in need had he lived a few years longer; for we are certain that, had occasion required it, General Lee would have given to the United States the benefit of all his great talents.

DEATH OF JUDGE GILBERT DEAN.

A telegram from Poughkeepsie announces the death of Hon. Gilbert Dean, at his residence in that city, at fifteen minutes past two o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased was a native of this State, having been born in Pleasant Valley, Dutchess county, during the early part of the present century. He entered the Amenia Seminary in May, 1837, and from thence went to Yale College in September of the same year, and graduated in 1841 with such men as Professor Emerson, Frank P. Blair, General Wadsworth and R. Storrs Willis. He took the first prize in mathematics and in composition, and was first President of the Linonian Society, beating Donald G. Mitchell for the position. On leaving college Mr. Dean went to Pine Plains, where he studied law, and on being admitted to the bar in 1844 moved to Poughkeepsie, where he began the practice of his profession, and in which he speedily rose to eminence. But few lawyers outside of this city have done a larger legal business in New York than he did. In 1850 he was nominated for representive in Congress by the democracy and was elected by a good majority. On the expiration of his term he was again nominated and re-elected by an increased vote; but early in 1855 he resigned the position to accept the office of Judge of the Supreme Court of New York. As a member of Congress Judge Dean was conspicuous for the able speeches he delivered and for the measures he introduced. He was a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and as such presented the famous resolutions, which were passed, thanking Captain Ingraham for the energy he displayed in the case of Koszta, the Hungarian. In 1856 he left the bench of the Supreme Court and came to New York, practising his profession here for some time. He was one of the counsel for the municipal authorities in the case of the city of New York against the Metropolitan Police. He was also engaged in the trial of the slaver Gordon, who was executed in this city, and also took part in the trial of Police Superintendent Kennedy. From the outbreak of the rebellion Mr. Dean declared in favor of its suppression, and throughout the conflict was known as a war democrat. At the same time he vigorously opposed the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus in the loyal States. In 1863 Mr. Dean was elected a member of the State Assembly from the Twenty-first ward, and served his term with credit. Since then he had held no office, but in the calm of civil life spent the remainder of his days.

MERCURY AND THE BLOOD FIEND.

A Man Shot and Stabbed on Board the Alaska at Aspinwall—Arrest of the Assailant—Another Man Robbed the Same Night and He Again Robbed by Another—Arrest of the Latter and Recovery of a Portion of the Goods.

On the arrival at this port last night of the steamship Alaska, Captain A. H. Gray, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, from Aspinwall on the 10th inst., word was sent to Captain McDonnell, of the Twenty-eighth precinct, to send an officer on board, and immediately left, accompanied by detectives Abe Riker and Jacob Von Gerichten. On going on board they found James Lynch, aged twenty-nine, of Troy, N. Y., in irons, and he was immediately conveyed to the station house, where formal complaint was made by John Collins, of Boston, Mass., a passenger on the Alaska, charging him with having on the night of the 3d inst., in the port of Aspinwall, feloniously assaulted him with a pistol and knife, inflicting severe, but not fatal wounds. The wounds were received in a mêlée between the two men. They were examined by the surgeon at police headquarters and pronounced not fatal, consisting of a pistol shot wound in the neck, the ball still remaining embedded in the back of the left shoulder, and knife wound on the left side of the head.

Henry Powell, a bartender, who could give no residence, was arrested at the same time and conveyed to the station house on complaint of Tim Ryan, of Washington street, New York, charged with stealing from complainant a gold watch and chain of value of ninety dollars and $250 in money, at Aspinwall on the same night. Ryan was returning from California, and the fact of his having a valuable watch and some money being known, excited the cupidity of a butcher, name unknown, who, with some accomplices, waylaid and robbed him while walking on the shore, and were immediately beset by Powell and some associates, and robbed in turn. Powell was the only one of the two gangs who came on to this city. Upon searching him the watch was found in his boot and the chain in a back pants pocket. The money was not recovered, and is supposed to have been left with some one of the gang in Aspinwall.

The two prisoners were immediately taken before Captain Kelso, of the Central Office, who holds them for further action by the Commissioners, before whom they will be taken at an early day.

Collins, whose wounds are now becoming very painful, will be sent to the hospital this morning, being conveyed on board for the present, at his own request.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12, 1870.

Appointment of Solicitor General.

Benjamin H. Bristow has just been appointed Solicitor General, under the law organizing the Department of Justice, with the Attorney General as its head. Mr. Bristow has served for some years past as United States Attorney for the State of Kentucky; he was also an officer in the late war. The President several weeks ago expressed his preference for that gentleman, but delayed making the appointment until the return of Attorney General Akerman, with whom he had a conference on the subject. The salary of the office is $7,500. In case of a vacancy in the office of Attorney General, or in his absence or disability, the Solicitor General has the power to exercise all the duties of the office.

Hurricane in the Gulf of Mexico.

A hurricane prevailed in the Gulf of Mexico and on the coast of Florida from the 1st to the 3d inst., blowing in a northeast direction. Pieces of wreck were seen floating. Owing to the hurricane the cable between Punta Rosa and Key West has not been repaired.

Transportation of the Cuban Mails.

The Postmaster General to-day issued an order for the Cuban mails from Southern cities to be sent to Cedar Keys, Fla., and thence taken to Havana by the Roberts line of steamers.

Marriage of an Octogenarian.

Hymen held full sway here yesterday. There were four marriages in high life, and the town was in an agitation of delight over the connubial events. One of the weddings deserves a special mention—that of Mr. Matthew Waite, an octogenarian, to Mrs. Julia A. Tarleton, a fascinating widow. The ceremony took place at the private residence of a friend on Massachusetts avenue, Rev. B. Peyton Brown, of Wesley chapel, officiating, in the presence of a few of the intimate friends of the parties. The happy pair are well known throughout the District, particularly among the Methodists, both of them having been for a long series of years zealous members of that Church.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

J. S. Fisher, of Australia, has returned to this city from Canada, and is stopping at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Mr. Fisher is one of the wealthiest landowners of Australia; he is a great horse connoisseur, and, it is asserted, has the finest and largest imported stud owned in Australia. He is here on a tour of pleasure and will in a few days leave for San Francisco, by the overland route.

Count Catacazy, the Russian Minister; Baron Lederer, the Austrian Minister, and Colonel Freyre, the Peruvian Minister, are sojourning at the Clarendon, in order to escape the dulness of the capital.

J. V. L. Pruyn, of Albany, ex-Member of Congress, and President of the State Board of Commissioners of Public Charities, is at the Brevoort House. Mr. Pruyn is in the city upon business connected with the many associations, both public and private, of which he is an officer.

Jefferson Davis returns from Europe by the City of Russia, and will stop, while in this city, at the New York Hotel, where rooms have been prepared for his advent.

Governor J. E. English and staff, of Connecticut, are expected to arrive in this city to-day. Rooms have been engaged for the party at the Grand Central Hotel. They come upon the invitation of the Ninth regiment, Colonel James Fisk, Jr., to attend the reception to be given by the Ninth in honor of the four visiting battalions from New England, viz., the Amoskeag Veterans, of Manchester, N. H.; the Newburyport Veterans, of Newburyport, Mass.; the Putnam Phalanx, of Hartford, Conn., and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, of Boston. The reception is to be given at the armory of the Twenty-second regiment this evening.

Miss Eliza Weathersby, one of Lina Edwin's beautiful blonde burlesquers, was reported a day or two since as having been married. Miss Weathersby denies having entered into any such alliance, and says "there is not the slightest foundation to justify the report." What a pity, and Eliza so pretty, too!

THE QUALITY OF MERCY.

Metropolitan Benevolence—Succor for the Wounded in the European War—The Foundlings—Relief for Cuba—St. Anne's Church and Parochial Schools.

Scarcely had the news of the frightful butchery of the first battles of the war now raging in France been published when our benevolent citizens commenced the organization of societies for the purpose of collecting money and stores for the relief of the victims. American, German and French societies vied with each other in this noble work, which still goes on, and although contributions for the sufferers in the conflict of arms was freely given, the charities at home were not forgotten. Below will be found notices of meetings, bazaars, and fairs now being held or to be held in this city for charitable purposes:—

THE RELIEF OF THE WOUNDED.

The American branch of the International Committee for the relief of the wounded in the Franco-Prussian war, known as the "American Association for Relief of Misery of Battle Fields," appeal to the humane and generous for money to enable them to worthily second the efforts of the European organization in alleviating the sufferings of the sufferers in France and Germany. Contributions in money should be addressed to Howard Potter, banking house of Brown Brothers, No. 61 Wall street. The Rev. Dr. Bellows is president of the association.

THE NEW YORKER MAENNERCHOR,

in conjunction with the Nineteenth ward Lese Verein, are arranging for a grand vocal and instrumental concert and dramatic recitations at the Terrace Garden, on Fifty-eighth street and Third avenue, the total receipts being destined to swell the fund contributed in aid of the German wounded in the present war. Mr. Mollenhauer's orchestra and Miss Rhode's Dramatic Company are expected to assist.

FAIR IN AID OF THE WOUNDED.

Preparations are now being made for a grand fair "in aid of the wounded soldiers within the German lines and to the widows and orphans in Germany," to be held on the 17th inst., corner of Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth streets and Broadway, under the presidency of Mrs. Consul General J. Roesing and a number of other distinguished ladies. Among the many benevolent enterprises of this sort and for like purposes this fair will not be the least. In fact it already promises to be a great success.

A LADIES' CUBAN COMMITTEE.

The Executive Committee of ladies, organized for the purpose of collecting subscriptions for the suffering people of Cuba—of which Mrs. Judge Roosevelt is president—earnestly appeal to our citizens for aid. They urge that the poor victims of Spanish oppression, deprived of their natural protectors and losing whatever means they may possess by confiscation, are absolutely moneyless, friendless and shelterless, sure that Americans cannot be indifferent to the sufferings of a struggling sister people and will not forget the sympathy and generosity for which they are distinguished. The ladies ask for money, clothing, new or old, and any article whatever that may be sold at fair or auction. Donations will be received by Mrs. Judge Roosevelt, at No. 836 Broadway.

NEW YORK FOUNDLING HOSPITAL.

A grand metropolitan fair, under charge of the Sisters of Charity, is now open at the Armory of the Twenty-second regiment, Fourteenth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues. The proceeds are to be devoted to the erection of a permanent foundling asylum, the want of which is severely felt by the noble sisters, to whom the public owe so much. The fair will be open until the 23d of next month. No more worthy enterprise commands the attention of the benevolent public to-day than this which the Sisters of Charity are so actively engaged in promoting.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH AND PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS.

The ladies of St. Anne's Church intend to hold a fair at the Academy of Music, from Monday, 24th October, to Saturday, November 5, for the purpose of assisting in the erection of the new church and parochial schools. Besides the ordinary attractions of a fair Gratulla's band will give a concert every evening.

THE LADIES' RELIEF COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of ladies connected with the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Tuesday last an organization was formed for the purpose of collecting money for the construction fund of the church, the relief of the poor, and to perform such charitable and Christian work as may be within its power. The name of the organization is "the Ladies' Relief Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest." Mrs. Ogden Hoffman was elected directress, Mrs. J. C. Bache secretary, and Mrs. Charles C. Leeds treasurer. The association intend to have a grand fair for the benefit of the Construction fund in December. An exhibition of wax work for the same object will be held on the 20th inst.

SUICIDE IN JERSEY CITY.

One of the most shocking cases of suicide ever known in Jersey occurred at four o'clock yesterday afternoon in Jersey City. A man named James Flerin, employed in a jewelry establishment, went into a vacant lot at the corner of Monticello avenue and Bowden street and drew a pocket knife across his throat with such force that the windpipe, jugular vein and carotid artery were severed. The gash extended from ear to ear. The body was taken in charge by the police, and, Coroner Burns being notified, an inquest was commenced. From all the statements given in evidence it appears that the unfortunate man was addicted to drink to such an extent that it is believed he was crazy when he committed suicide. The inquest was adjourned till to-morrow evening.

PROPOSALS.

IMPROVEMENT OF TAUNTON RIVER.
OFFICE OF THE U. S. ENGINEERS, Oct. 8, 1870.
Proposals will be received at this office until 12 M. on the 19th of this month for dredging a channel through the shoals in the Taunton river, commencing at a point called the "Needles," situated 3½ miles below Taunton.
The channel is to be 60 feet wide and 4½ feet deep at low water, involving an excavation at the Needles of about 4,000 cubic yards. The dredging will be continued up the river until the whole amount available ($10,000) is expended.
The material to be dredged is hard, compact gravel, intermixed with boulders.
The dredged material is to be deposited on the flats opposite Dighton, inside of "Grassy Island" or "Dighton Rock," or at Pine Hill Bend, or near the piers of the old bridge, provided that proper bulkheads be constructed at the two last places to prevent the material being again washed into the channel.
Proposals must state the price per cubic yard for dredging and depositing the material in the places indicated. Also the price per cubic yard for the removal to the shore of all boulders that cannot be brought up by the shovel of the dredge.
Proposals must be endorsed on the envelope, "Proposals for Taunton River." Blank forms for proposals and guarantee, upon which all bids must be made out to insure consideration, can be obtained at this office upon application.
J. G. FOSTER, Lieutenant-Colonel Engineers.

PROPOSALS FOR REVENUE STAMPS.
Proposals will be received until Tuesday, the 1st day of November next, at twelve o'clock at noon, for furnishing complete Revenue Stamps of the following classes, denominations and sizes in present use and as hereinafter specified, viz:—

CLASS I.
ADHESIVE STAMPS—General and Proprietary, viz.:—
General—One cent, two cents, three cents, four cents, five cents, six cents, ten cents, fifteen cents, twenty cents, twenty-five cents, thirty cents, forty cents, fifty cents, sixty cents, seventy cents, one dollar, one dollar and thirty cents, one dollar and fifty cents, one dollar and sixty cents, one dollar and ninety cents, two dollars, two dollars and fifty cents, three dollars, three dollars and fifty cents, five dollars, ten dollars, twenty dollars, twenty-five dollars, fifty dollars and two hundred dollars.
Proprietary—One cent, two cents, three cents, four cents and five cents.

CLASS II.
BEER STAMPS—Hogsheads, barrels, half barrels, third barrels, quarter barrels, sixth barrels and eighth barrels.

CLASS III.
STAMPS FOR DISTILLED SPIRITS, tax paid—10 gallons, 20 gallons, 30 gallons, 40 gallons, 50 gallons, 60 gallons, 70 gallons, 80 gallons, 90 gallons, 100 gallons, 110 gallons, 120 gallons and 130 gallons.

CLASS IV.
STAMPS FOR DISTILLED SPIRITS. "other than tax paid"—Distillery warehouse, rectified spirits and wholesale liquor dealers.

CLASS V.
TOBACCO STAMPS—Half pound, 1 pound, 2 pounds, 3 pounds, 5 pounds, 10 pounds, 15 pounds, 20 pounds, 21 pounds, 22 pounds, 40 pounds and 60 pounds.

Class 1—To be gummed, dried and perforated and prepared for issue in sheets.
Class 2—Without gumming and perforation; prepared for issue in sheets. 20 stamps on a sheet.
Class 3—Without gumming, to be engraved with nine coupons and one stub attached to each stamp, each stamp and stub to be numbered in serial numbers and bound in book form. Each book to contain 150 stamps, 3 on a page, and the book to be appropriately lettered and numbered. Bidders will also make proposals for this class of stamps as above, 200 stamps to the book.
Class 4—Without gumming and perforation. Each stamp to have an engraved stub attached; stamps and stubs to be numbered in serial numbers and bound in book form; each book to contain 400 stamps, 4 on a page, and bound, lettered and numbered.
Class 5—Half pound to 5 pounds, inclusive, without gumming and perforation, to be issued in sheets, 12 stamps on a sheet. All the other denominations mentioned, excepting the 15 pounds, to be engraved with stub attached, stamps and stubs to be numbered in serial numbers and bound in book form, each book to contain 400 stamps, 5 stamps on a page, and bound, lettered and numbered. The 15 pound stamps to be as above, with the addition of nine coupons attached to each stamp. Bids are also asked for the half to 5 pounds stamps, inclusive, to be prepared and bound in book form, as above described, with stubs, but without the coupons.
Specimens of the above mentioned stamps may be seen at the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and series and descriptions taken therefrom.
Bidders will state the price per thousand stamps separately, inclusive and exclusive of papers deliverable at their place of business, and also at the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in Washington. The cost of delivery should be given both inclusive and exclusive of the cost of packing and boxing.
Bids will be made separately for printing in one and two colors. Stamps of Class 1 the principal color to be permanent and the other fugitive. All the other classes mentioned to be printed in permanent colors. The additional cost of printing a tint upon the stamps printed in one color should also be stated.
Bidders will state in their bids the mode of printing proposed by them, whether plate printing or surface printing. Each bid to be accompanied with a specimen of the style of engraving and the quality of paper proposed to be furnished, and the accepted bidder before the final consummation of a contract will be required to furnish proof impressions of the engravings of the several kinds and denominations of stamps.
The contract will require all designs, dies and plates to be prepared, and dies and plates to be kept bright and sharp, and that new and additional designs, dies and plates shall be made, either for the present kinds and denominations of stamps or others, without charge, at the pleasure of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and all such designs, dies and plates to be the property of and delivered to the United States Treasury Department at the termination of the contract or whenever demanded by said department. That the stamps shall be prepared and delivered of such kinds and denominations and in such quantities and at such times as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the time being may direct.
And that all measures and precautions which the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall deem necessary to take in order to protect the government against fraud or negligence on the part of the contractor or his employes shall be taken at the proper charge and expense of the contractor.
No bids will be considered except from parties who have been or are actually engaged in the business of steel engraving and printing, and provided with all the necessary facilities to execute the work promptly and give the requisite protection to the stamps, dies and plates in their possession.
Parties not known to the department will furnish proof as to these points. Bidders will state the time from the date of the contract, if awarded, when they will be ready to commence delivering the stamps, and their daily capacity for delivery thereafter. Bids may be made for any one class of stamps mentioned in this notice or for all.
Each bid must be accompanied by a guarantee of at least two responsible persons that in case the bid is accepted and a contract entered into they will become sureties in such reasonable sum as may be required by the government for the faithful performance of the contract.
The contract to be made for not less than one year nor more than three years, as may be agreed upon. In awarding the contract the Commissioner reserves the right to reject any or all proposals in case it shall appear to be for the interest of the government to do so.
Proposals should be carefully sealed and marked "Proposals for Revenue Stamps," and addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
C. DELANO,
OCT. 10, 1870. Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
Approved—GEORGE S. BOUTWELL, Secretary.

SALES AT AUCTION.

ALLEN B. MINER, AUCTIONEER, BY ALLEN B. MINER & BROTHER, LATE HENRY H. LEEDS & MINER. (Established 1847.) Salesrooms 95 Chambers and 77 Reade streets. Leeds' Art Galleries 817 and 819 Broadway. Auction Notice. Messrs. ALLEN B. MINER & BROTHER will give their personal attention, as customary for the past 24 years, to sales of Household Furniture at the residence of families declining housekeeping, and at their spacious salesrooms, 95 Chambers street, extending through to 77 Reade street; also to stocks of Merchandise at owners' stores, and Works of Art, Libraries, &c., at their galleries as above. ALLEN B. MINER. HENRY D. MINER.

ALLEN B. MINER, AUCTIONEER. By ALLEN B. MINER & BROTHER, Late Henry H. Leeds & Miner. (Established 1847.) Salesrooms 95 Chambers and 77 Reade streets, Art Galleries, 817 and 819 Broadway. Thursday, October 13, at 11 o'clock, at our salesrooms, 95 Chambers and 77 Reade streets. Private Library of Standard Works. Also an invoice of elegantly bound and illustrated Books, comprising the works of Shakspeare, Dickens, Irving, Spark's Washington, Goldsmith, Southey, Scott, Byron, Moore, Reade, Bulwer, Allison, Spencer's History of the United States, Thackeray, Bayard Taylor and others. The above are now on exhibition, are all complete, fine editions and particularly worthy of attention.

ADRIAN H. MULLER, AUCTIONEER. Peremptory sale, by order of executrix, of valuable Villa Sites on Washington Heights and 54 Lots on Broadway. ADRIAN H. MULLER, P. R. WILKINS & CO., will sell at auction, on Tuesday, October 25, at 12 o'clock, at the Exchange Salesroom, 111 Broadway, by order of the executrix of Lucius Chittenden, deceased, 17 Villa Sites, containing an area of from 15 to 23 lots each, situate on Washington Heights, adjoining the elegant villas of the Hon. William M. Tweed, James Gordon Bennett, Joseph Potter and James Fisher, Esqs. This property is a part of a large tract on the Heights purchased by the late Mr. Chittenden in his lifetime, and was reserved as being the choicest and most desirable property on the Heights. It commands an extensive view of the Hudson and Harlem rivers and of the beautiful valley lying between the Heights and Harlem river, and for healthfulness of location, beauty, grandeur and variety of scenery is not surpassed by any property on New York island or its vicinity. The new river Boulevard, now being laid out under the direction of the Central Park Commissioners, and which runs through the westerly portion of this property, will, when completed, add greatly to its accessibility; and its course being along the high land on the bank of the Hudson river and the Riverside Park will afford the most beautiful and picturesque drive on the island; the property is also but a short drive from the Central Park. Also 54 Lots adjoining the above described property and fronting on Broadway, which is to be widened, making it one of the best roads on the island. The new tower at High Bridge reservoir, now nearly finished, will when completed distribute the Croton water through houses that may be erected on the highest point. The property will be sold under restrictions against nuisances. Seventy per cent may remain on bond and mortgage of the premises. Maps at the office of the auctioneer, No. 7 Pine street, or at the office of Messrs. STALLKNECHT & HALL, Attorneys, No. 29 Nassau street.

IMPORTANT FROM PERU.

Insurrection of Chinese Laborers on the Cotton Estates.

A Three Days Battle and Flight of the Coolies.

Forty Whites and Three Hundred Chinamen Killed.

The steamship Alaska, Captain Gray, from Aspinwall October 4, arrived at this port last night, with the Pacific mails and a small amount of treasure.

Affairs at Panama continued dull, and no news from the interior had been received. The news from Central America and Chile is unimportant.

THE INSURRECTION OF CHINESE LABORERS IN PERU.

LIMA, Sept. 14, 1870.

On the 4th inst. an occurrence took place in the vicinity of Lima that will have a serious influence upon the future agricultural prosperity of the country. It is probably well known that for a number of years past the necessity has existed for the importation of large numbers of Chinese laborers, since the extensive estates along the coast found it impossible to procure a sufficient force of workmen from the limited Indian and Mestizo population. During the last fourteen years more than forty-five thousand coolies have thus been introduced into Peru, generally of the worst possible class, and having contracts for a certain length of time, receiving miserable pay and worse treatment. On many occasions risings of the Chinese have taken place, in some instances followed by fatal results, but never in such a general degree as that referred to at the beginning of this communication. The cotton estates of Pativilca and Galpon are situated in the fertile valley of Supe, about one hundred and fifty miles north of Lima, and for a long time have been noted for their productiveness, owing to the skill and energy of the owners. On these plantations nearly twelve hundred Chinese were employed, and in the immediate vicinity in the neighboring estates more than four thousand of the coolies were contracted. Several months since symptoms of dissatisfaction were noted among these laborers, but the overseers and owners, trusting to their authority and power, paid but little attention to these manifestations. Unfortunately, no precautions were taken against surprise. The Chinese, left in tranquillity, were able to mature their plans and concert their programme of action. The opportunity selected could not have been more favorable.

An agent of the estate of Pativilca had arrived from Lima with a large sum of money destined for the payment of the laborers, and the purchase of cotton from the surrounding planters. While this person, together with the overseer, the physician, and several other employés, were at supper on the night of the 4th inst. the dining room doors were suddenly broken open, and a crowd of nearly two hundred coolies, armed with stakes, pickaxes, shovels, scythes, and every imaginable weapon, burst in upon the astonished whites. In less time than required to narrate it the Chinese had murdered all of their victims save one, who, being grievously wounded, fell under the table and was thought dead. Sacking the house and securing the revolvers and rifles on hand, the insurgents proceeded to the adjacent hacienda of Galpon and there repeated the same barbarities. Not satisfied with killing the whites they encountered, the most revolting atrocities were practised on their dead bodies, and delicate women and children subjected to shameful and cruel torture. The number of the Chinese now amounted to 1,100, their movements appeared to be directed with some degree of intelligence by one who seemed to be hailed as chief, and having secured all the money and valuables to be found in the estates, a larger game was attempted in the sacking of the little village of Barranca, about three miles distant.

In the meantime the owner of an estate that lay on the road to that village was notified by a friendly coolie of the approach and designs of the marauders. Hastily placing his wife and family in the chapel belonging to the plantation, he, with another friend, strongly barred the doors, and received the advancing column with the fire of their rifles. The Chinese were vigorous in the attack, but, unaccustomed to the use of firearms, they fell easily before the defenders of the church. In less than two hours these two brave men had killed and wounded more than sixty of the assailants. So desperate, indeed, had become the attempts of the latter that a retreat was determined upon, and the accomplishment of their design to sack the town. Here the inhabitants had had time to make some slight preparations for defence. An impromptu breastwork was erected at the entrance to the village, and forty men, well armed, were posted behind it to resist the assault. In a short time the Chinese, reinforced to the number of 2,000, appeared in front, and actually sent the leader I have mentioned to parley with the defenders regarding surrender. Hardly had he opened his mouth on this interesting topic when a well-directed rifle ball put an end to his existence and eloquence. The Chinese, goaded to madness by this loss, threw themselves upon the barricade. The fight for a few moments was hand to hand, and the whites suffered severely under the knives and weapons of their assailants. Soon, however, the power of gunpowder began to assert itself, the coolies retired to a distance, and appeared to be deliberating upon their future movements.

At this juncture the brave defender of the church, having placed his family in a place of safety and found several companions, appeared in their rear, and commenced such a vigorous fire upon them that in a short time all order was forgotten and the insurgents were in a headlong flight.

Telegrams had been sent to Lima asking for help, and on the morning of the 6th the Prefect, with a couple of hundred soldiers, arrived at the scene of conflict. The Chinese by this time had dispersed to the mountains. The soldiers, after securing the few who could be found, started in pursuit, and are still on the march. The results of this terrible tragedy are forty murdered among the whites and nearly three hundred Chinese killed. But the crops were destroyed, and the coolies seeking refuge in the hills, roaming in bands and devastating the unprotected hamlets they find in the way, are not only lost to their owners, but still form a dangerous element to peace and security. Great excitement is manifested at this unhappy event, the number of Chinamen throughout the republic being so great as to cause general uneasiness and distrust, while the planters are perplexed where to find laborers for their estates, which, if left uncultivated, in an incredibly short time are almost irretrievably ruined.

Bills have been introduced into Congress prohibiting the importation of these demons for the future and expelling from the country all those now fulfilling their contract. It may be that the proposition will be approved, but the great agricultural interest at stake has to receive the most mature consideration. After the liberation of the slaves in Peru a law was enacted forbidding the introduction of more negroes. This will probably be reconsidered, and if so the United States might be benefited by the proceeding. In many cases the treatment accorded to the Chinese is excessively harsh, but on the estates which have been the theatre of this sad affair the greatest kindness and lenity have been proverbial. Hereafter in districts so thickly populated with this class of people the government will station sufficient bodies of men to suppress any attempts at similar risings. The loss from the burning of the cotton crops and buildings will probably amount to several hundred thousand dollars.

LIMA, Sept. 22, 1870.

The Chinese insurrection mentioned in my last communication is now beginning to be productive of troublesome results. The troops have found it impossible to discover the hiding places of a large number of the coolies, they having taken refuge far in the interior and in the fastnesses of the neighboring mountains. Consequently, several of the most valuable estates in that section of the republic are paralyzed, and will doubtless continue in that condition for some time to come. The loss is much greater than was at first supposed. A million of dollars will possibly not cover the damages suffered by the planters. But the most serious consequence of the outbreak is the feeling produced on the public, and the general opinion that some effective stop must be put to the further importation of such labor into the republic. A proceeding like this would inflict incalculable injury on the agricultural portion of the population, as upon the Chinese all depend for the means of cultivating their estates, the number of native laborers to be found being notoriously insufficient. A bill introduced into Congress to this effect was not approved, and a motion made to authorize a company to procure negroes from the United States and Africa was also defeated, the members of Congress appearing to view it as an effort to re-establish slavery in Peru. Slavery in its most revolting form is certainly preferable to the manner in which the Chinese are treated on some of the sugar haciendas, and despite the action of the American Legation, under instructions from the government at Washington to ameliorate their condition, the authorities of Peru have shown but little zeal in the effort.

The problem now before the people is difficult to solve. If Chinese for the future are prohibited from entering the republic European labor must be sought and the obstacles to be overcome in such an enterprise seem of some magnitude.

POLITICAL.

CITY POLITICS.

Colored Republicans in Council—Butler and Sharpe, Adams and Turpin, Wright and Hyte—Black and White Fraternizing.

The lately enfranchised colored republicans of this city gathered in immense numbers last night and crowded Cooper Institute, from door to platform. A large proportion of the audience were ladies, and a band of white musicians entertained them before the hour for opening the meeting. Dr. McDonough called the audience to order, and nominated as chairman of the meeting Mr. John J. Zuille, of the Freedmen's Savings Bank, who was unanimously elected. The Rev. N. H. Turpin opened the proceeding with prayer, after which Mr. Zuille made a few remarks. They had gathered, he said, to ratify the nominations of the republican party in this State—because that party had adopted the Thirteenth amendment to the national constitution, which forever prohibited slavery in this country; because that party had also adopted the Fourteenth amendment, which settled the rights of citizenship and representation; and because that party had furthermore adopted the Fifteenth amendment, which regulates the right of suffrage without regard to color or previous condition of servitude. The republican party has made the white men of the country think more of themselves than they formerly did, and now no decent white man thinks of insulting a colored man on account of his color. It has also made blacks think more of themselves, because they have the suffrage.

Mr. CHARLES L. REASON then read a preamble and resolutions, which were enthusiastically adopted. They set forth that whereas the republican party had abolished slavery and given the colored people the suffrage, and was really the party of liberty and progress, they should give it their undivided support; that General Grant's administration, because of its great reduction of the public debt and the removal of taxes, should receive their hearty approval; that the practical measures of the republicans generally show them to be eminent statesmen and truly attached to public interest and public weal; and that, putting all these things together, they find Woodford and Kaufman, the chosen State candidates of the republican party, to be men in every way worthy of the support of the colored people of this city, and chiefly because they are in favor of financial integrity and the purity of the ballot box.

Mr. ADAMS was here introduced and entertained the audience with a song, entitled "Woodford's Dream," whose burden was that Governor Hoffman was "going up Salt river." It was sung to a familiar tune, and the audience received it with tremendous applause and joined in the chorus.

The Rev. WILLIAM F. BUTLER was the first regular speaker. He thanked God and the people that he had been privileged to be the first colored speaker to address the first colored republican ratification meeting that had ever been gathered in New York; and he looked upon the meeting as an evidence of what the colored people will do at the polls next November. Their opponents, he said, might take a lesson from them. They had opened their meeting with prayer, because they trusted not in men or measures, but in that God who had brought them into that new liberty which they now enjoy. He then sailed into the degenerate colored men who had sold or agreed to sell their votes to the democratic party. He had heard there were such men in this city. They should not vote with that party—either with the young or the old democracy—for they are both the same rabbit though the tail is a little different. (Laughter and applause.) No colored man for a mere personal advantage had any right to vote against the interests of his race or people and give up everything gained by the war. Could he strip the audience he would find many a stripe still on their backs which were laid there by the democratic party. The audience could never forget the dark days of slavery and the Fugitive Slave law, nor the darker days of July, 1863, and they owed nothing to the democratic party, either under the fifteenth amendment or any other, and he hoped that every colored man who should vote for the democratic ticket next month would be marked. Mr. Butler's speech was so full of ludicrous humor that the audience were kept continually in roars of laughter.

United States Marshal GEORGE H. SHARPE was the next speaker. He recognized the privilege of addressing the audience as the proudest in his life. His address was composed mainly of moral reflections and quotations from religious poetry and literature. He had nothing to say against the democratic party, but he made a strong appeal for their support of the republican party. There are three great phases, he said, in our national life. The first was when we separated from the mother country and maintained our independence; the second when we put down internal revolution, and we are now in the third phase, trying to maintain the purity of our republican institutions and to make this the freest country under heaven. Of what use, he asked, is the suffrage to us if our neighbor can vote twenty times before we can vote once? But if this trick is practiced next month, as suggested by a previous speaker, some city lamp-posts may be ornamented with repeaters.

The Rev. N. H. Turpin said that though the head of the serpent, slavery, had been killed, its tail, prejudice, still existed; but he hoped this campaign would finish that also. If the colored people were good enough to fight the democratic party of Jeff Davis on the battle field they are good enough to fight the same party at the ballot box. He wanted prejudice destroyed, so that colored mechanics could work in shops here with white men, or without them, and that colored gentlemen could get meals in hotels or restaurants as white men do.

Mr. Wright, of Albany, who had swallowed five hundred pages of Webster's unabridged, made a choice selection from his supper in apologizing for his attenuated form, and then sang "John Brown's Body Marching On," with modern variations. The audience joined heartily in the chorus. General Hyte, of Kentucky, and others followed with brief addresses, and the meeting terminated at a late hour. Some of the old darkies "got glorious," and shouted and cheered as if they would raise the roof off the building, and pledged themselves with all their might to sustain the republican party and its candidates.

The Young Democracy Assembly Conventions

The Assembly nominating conventions of the "Regular" (Young) Democracy were held last evening in the following Assembly districts. All the districts not reported adjourned without making nominations:—

Second district—William Walsh.
Third district—James Hayes.
Sixth district—Anthony Miller.
Seventh district—Howard T. Marston.
Ninth district—Alexander V. Davidson.
Eleventh district—John McGowan.
Eighteenth district—Leander Buck.

At the Nineteenth district Young Democracy Assembly Convention, corner of Broadway and Seventieth street, last night, only one delegate appeared, and he had come "all the way from the neighborhood of High Bridge." He said the candidate would probably be Roswell D. Hatch. There seemed to be some misunderstanding about the matter, as the only room in the building was engaged for the weekly meeting of the Thomas C. Fields Association. At nine o'clock the president, vice president and the secretary of that association had not put in an appearance, although there was a large attendance of members of the association.

NEW YORK STATE POLITICS.

Public Discussion Between Woodford and Hoffman.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1870.

General Woodford has written a letter to the Governor asking him to meet him for public discussion. The following is the correspondence:—

To his Excellency, JOHN T. HOFFMAN:—

SIR—In 1866 you invited the republican candidate for the Governorship to join you in a public discussion of the political questions at issue in that canvass. I have been informed that in 1868 you also invited the then republican candidate to a like discussion, and a fortnight having passed since your renomination, and not having heard from you, I invite you to a joint discussion of the issues of the pending canvass as presented on the platforms of the democratic and republican parties of this State, upon which we have been respectively nominated; such joint discussion to be held at the public meetings between October 15 and November 3, and one-half of the number of such meetings shall be at places to be named on your part, and the remaining held at places to be named on mine. This letter will be handed you by Mr. Parker, of Potsdam, who is authorized to receive your answer and to make any arrangements as to details in my behalf. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

STEWART L. WOODFORD.

STATE OF NEW YORK, EXECUTIVE CHAMBERS, ALBANY, Oct. 11, 1870.

To the Hon. STEWART L. WOODFORD, Potsdam, St. Lawrence county:—

SIR—I am directed by the Governor to acknowledge the receipt this day of your letter, dated Potsdam, October 6, inviting him to a joint discussion with you of the issues of the pending canvass, and to inform you, also, that his attention has been called to a speech, in which you express a wish to discuss with him topics which would involve personalities, namely: charges made by you that he was elected by fraud, and charges made by others, not by him, affecting your own personal and official integrity. He directed me to say, in reply, that, having in 1866 and 1868, when he was merely a candidate for office, made a personal canvass of the State, the opposing candidates never meeting him, and addressed the people on many occasions, he deems it unnecessary to do it again; and that, in his judgment, discussions of a personal nature between opposing candidates for high office should always be avoided. He directs me further to say, that having for two years been speaking almost daily by his official acts and messages to the people, they have before them material upon which to form their judgment of his administration, and do not, he is confident, expect or desire him to leave the Executive chair and the duties pertaining to it for the purpose of discussing either political or personal questions with you. Should he speak at all during the canvass he will do so at the request of his fellow citizens, at such time and place as may be most convenient to them and him. Very respectfully,

JOHN D. VAN BUREN, Private Secretary.

Congressional and Assembly Nominations.

The democrats of Ulster and Greene have nominated Joseph H. Tuthill for Congress.

The republicans of the First district of Ulster have nominated Cyrus Burnans for the Assembly.

The democrats of the Third district of Ulster have nominated Charles H. Krack for the Assembly.

The democrats of Onondaga yesterday nominated to the Assembly W. D. Stewart from the First district, John Munro from the Second and Allen H. Avery from the Third.

SCANDAL AMONG POLITICIANS.

The Charge of Corruption Against Mr. Woodford Repeated and Affirmed—Ex-Marshal Murray's Reminiscences of the Slave Trade Bribery Case.

The following correspondence passed yesterday between Mayor Hall and ex-Marshal Murray relative to charges made against the republican candidate for Governor and malfeasance in office while he was Assistant United States District Attorney:—

OCTOBER 12, 1870.

MY DEAR SIR—When I was District Attorney I remember hearing, as part of the prison gossip, that you had many interviews with Appleton Oaksmith. If not incompatible with your views please answer the following question:—

Did Appleton Oaksmith in any interview say whether or no he had held as a defendant any direct or indirect communication with Assistant District Attorney Woodford, and if so what was the statement by Oaksmith?

My object in writing is based upon a despatch in the Times, and upon an editorial mixing me up with a charge against Woodford of having had connection of a pecuniary character with Oaksmith. I never made that charge, however, but am nevertheless curious to weigh any statement Oaksmith made to you with one made per cable. Yours, very truly,

A. OAKEY HALL.

MARSHAL MURRAY.

REPLY OF MARSHAL MURRAY.

MY DEAR SIR—In answer to your inquiry I have to state that, after Appleton Oaksmith's conviction at Boston in the United States District Court, on charge of fitting out a slaver in New Bedford, he wrote me a letter, desiring an interview with me, which I declined, and sent an agent; but Mr. Oaksmith insisting on seeing me, I went personally and saw him in his cell. I was with him three hours the first day; about half that time on the following day. At this interview he submitted propositions to me which he desired presented to the President. He promised to do certain things in aid of the Government to suppress the slave trade, provided he was pardoned. He wrote out his propositions, which were handed to Mr. Seward in person by me. The government declined to accede. During the interviews I questioned him with reference to the bonding and subsequent escape of the bark Augusta. He stated to me that he made an arrangement with Mr. Capen, Woodford's father-in-law, who kept a ship chandlery store in South street, near Old slip, which was that the bark Augusta was to be bonded. Mr. Capen was to be a government appraiser. The value of the vessel was to be appraised at a low figure. Mr. Oaksmith was to pay Mr. Capen $5,000. After I kicked up a row in reference to this appraisement Mr. Woodford became frightened and moved to set it aside, and new appraisers were appointed, who valued the vessel and cargo at just double what Mr. Capen had. The vessel was discharged, after being bonded, when Oaksmith made an arrangement with Capen that Woodford was to refuse the process to retake the vessel. But, in consequence of the vessel having been doubled in value by the new appraisement, Oaksmith only paid Capen $3,000 instead of $5,000. When Oaksmith went to the Custom House to clear the vessel Woodford went to the Collector as the counsel of Oaksmith, but, it being about three o'clock, the Collector was gone, and then Oaksmith and Woodford went to R. F. Andrews, Esq., the Surveyor, where Woodford demanded assistance in clearing Oaksmith's vessel, which the Surveyor refused. Subsequently, however, a clearance was had from the Coastwise Clearance Clerk, on the representation of Oaksmith and Woodford together that the vessel was going to Greenport, Long Island, to fit out as a whaler. Such were Oaksmith's statements. He and Woodford during the troubles were dining almost daily together at Delmonico's. Very truly, yours,

ROBERT MURRAY.

MASSACHUSETTS POLITICS.

Meeting of the Democratic State Convention—Nomination of Candidates for State Offices—The "Heathen Chinee" Denounced and Female Suffrage Treated Tenderly.

FITCHBURG, Sept. 12, 1870.

The democracy of Massachusetts, a plucky if not a powerful organization, held their State Convention in this town to-day. There were between 800 and 900 delegates present, representing 236 cities and towns. The proceedings were protracted, and not remarkably harmonious, except upon the broader political issues. The question of woman suffrage was lugged in by Mrs. Livermore and Lucy Stone Blackwell, but the fair advocates, instead of appearing in the Convention, forced it through a friendly delegate. They were in town, however, and last evening got up a spontaneous meeting, which afforded them an opportunity of expounding their cause in the presence of a large number of the assembled politicians.

To-day's Convention having been called to order by J. N. DUNHAM, of Pittsfield, that gentleman proceeded, in an address of brief duration, to encourage the infusion of new life into the party which had been so long a hopeless minority in Massachusetts; and when he had finished J. M. KEITH, of Boston, was unanimously chosen to preside over the further proceedings of the body. He, of course, indulged in a preliminary address, in which he spoke of his opponents as despots, excluding, perhaps, Andrew Johnson. The currency of the country he denominated as irredeemable paper, which had destroyed all legitimate trade and encouraged such a system of speculation as to almost ruin the working and middling classes of the country. Commerce, too, has been driven away and our harbors and wharves are passing into disuse or rotting away entirely. And all this is the result of the prolonging of the power of the republican party. This same despotic power is also responsible for the incarceration of thousands of men to prevent them from exercising their right of suffrage, and in no section are their barbarous acts more sad and transparent than in North Carolina and Georgia. If, he added, the national debt has been reduced the people are entitled to the credit for submitting to enormous taxation, for the ordinary expenses of the government have been increased in every branch by millions and millions. Continuing his remarks, Mr. Keith highly eulogized the democratic party, and on concluding he was warmly applauded.

Mr. COX, of Cambridge, then presented the memorial of the Massachusetts Women's Suffrage Association, together with their resolutions, as offered at the republican convention in Worcester, and also the following additional resolve:—

Resolved, That the democratic party of Massachusetts, holding that the cardinal principle of our government, of "No taxation without representation," should not be limited in its purposes and efforts to sex any more than to race and to social condition, and fully recognizing the justice of the claim of female citizens to a share in the elective franchise, will do all in its power to place in the hands of the noble women of this State that glorious instrument of equality and individual right—the ballot.

The reading of the concluding clause of the resolve was greeted with a general titter, which finally culminated in a loud laugh all around, and during the levity Mr. HOAGET, of Lowell, indulged in some observations which were hardly in keeping with decency.

The memorial and resolve were at length considered and referred to the Committee on Resolutions.

Mr. WILLIS, of Boston, now moved the nomination, by acclamation, of John Quincy Adams, of Quincy, as the candidate for Governor.

Then followed shouts of applause, mingled with a cry of opposition from a sturdy specimen of yeomanry from the interior, who insisted upon the Convention listening to his arguments in favor of a ballot, which he concluded by a motion for an informal ballot.

The motion was lost, however, and Mr. Adams was then nominated by acclamation, with only two dissenting voices, the act being followed by round after round of hearty cheers. The balance of the ticket was then nominated as follows:—

For Lieutenant Governor—James Chattaway, of Springfield.
For Secretary of State—Luther Stevenson, Jr., of Hingham.
For Treasurer—Levi Heywood, of Gardiner.
For Auditor—Phineas Allen, of Pittsfield.
For Attorney General—William W. Warren, of Brighton.

JOHN T. TARBOX, of Lawrence, occupied the Convention for a few moments in an address relative to the Labor Reform party, expressing the opinion that they should cultivate the co-operation and sympathy of that party:—

The following platform was then reported and adopted:—

Resolved, That the country demands from each political party at this time a bold and outspoken assertion of its policy upon the living questions of the day, and that the attempt on the part of the radical party to perpetuate its power by merely boasting of its past achievements is futile. No record, however fair, can atone for its wilful neglect of the industrial interests of the country, for the loss of our commercial importance, for over five years of peace wasted in attempting to govern the country upon a theory that could only be excused by the necessities of war.

Resolved, That in declaring its policy now the democratic party had only to revert to its cardinal principles of opposition to all consolidation or concentration of power in any hands, and to every unnecessary exercise of power, even where the right to exercise it is clearly given; not the most, but the least possible government, being best conducive to the happiness of mankind. In conformity with this maxim the party now, as heretofore, will resist every stretch of power by either federal or State governments, or by any one of the co-ordinate branches of either, and every plan of legislation which involves an undue interference with the reserved rights of the citizen, either in its direct purpose or by requiring for its attainments a resort to arbitrary and inquisitorial practices.

Resolved, That, proceeding upon those established principles, we adopt as our own the resolutions of our party in the great State of New York; that our tariff of duties, like all taxes, should have the one only lawful purpose of obtaining necessary revenue, and that the present system of favoritism, miscalled protection, laying taxes for the special benefit of a few capitalists, is simple robbery of the rest of the people; and that, except so far as the legitimate expenses of the government may require, free trade is the legitimate policy of the country; that we demand the simplification of our system of internal revenue, the abolition of useless and inquisitorial taxes, and the reduction of the whole volume of taxation now in excess of the wants of the government and the exigencies of public credit;

Resolved, That grants of land or money or credit either by the federal or State government to individuals, or to corporations formed for mere purposes of private gain, are all in some sort a diversion of the public assets from their legitimate uses, involve the State in unnecessary complications with special interests, lead to gross corruption, and are inconsistent with a reasonable regard for the safety of popular institutions.

Resolved, That it is our proud boast that the oppressed of all nations can find with us a safe asylum and here enjoy the blessings of a free government; that consistency with our professions, not less than the highest welfare of both native and foreign born, require that all who come to these shores should, as soon as practicable, become citizens and have their equal influence in political affairs; and we denounce as unrepublican and monstrous the attempt by Congress and our Legislature to prevent the naturalization of the poor by multiplying the expenses and the difficulties of complying with the necessary legal penalties.

Resolved, That on the other hand, independently of the question as to the expediency of bringing into intimate political and social relations two diverse races of men, we believe it to be wrong to stimulate by artificial means the irruption to our community of swarms of Mongolians, who have neither the wish nor the aptitude to assume the duties and responsibilities of citizenship, and are brought here by interested capitalists only as so much bone and muscle to lower the dignity of labor, degrade the condition of our working men and create and perpetuate distinct classes in our social system.

Resolved, That the labor of the country, weak by its necessities in its defence against the cupidity of capitalists and its ability to compel a recognition of its just rights, especially needs and merits the protection of just, equal and adequate laws, and that in view of the fact that the present high cost of living and consequent inadequacy of wages to provide sufficient means of support for our poorer people, are mainly due to the unjust currency system, the arbitrary and excessive taxation, and the many and great monopolies which have been inflicted upon us by the policy of the republican party; the claim made by that party at its recent State Convention, that it has any sympathy with labor or the laborer, is preposterous and absurd.

Resolved, That we affirm our absolute hostility to every attempt to influence the decision of political questions by the formation of proscriptive organizations.

Resolved, That while we must regard it as an existing fact that suffrage is a right and not a privilege, and that any restriction upon its exercise should be founded in unmistakable policy, we consider the proposition to extend the suffrage to the women of this Commonwealth as involving too many social considerations to be summarily treated as a mere political question; but there is a pressing duty upon the people of this State to remove, at once and forever, all property or other exercise of that right by every man who is a citizen of the United States.

Resolved, That the implied censure passed by the Republican Convention at Worcester upon the national administration, for its failure to vindicate the claims of the country against Great Britain, meets our warm approval, and that its foreign, as in its internal policy, the administration deserves our unqualified condemnation.

THE CAMPAIGN IN TENNESSEE.

A Southern Back Down on State Sovereignty.

General Brown, democratic candidate for Governor of Tennessee, in a speech at Cleveland, reiterated the declaration, a correspondent tells us, that the words "sovereign States" used in the democratic platform had no reference to any purpose of practical secession, and that the term "sovereign" was employed, as it had ever been, expressing a simple fact that the States were sovereign, save to the extent that they had invested the federal Union with conceded and clearly defined powers.

LOSS OF THE SHIP J. S. DE WOLF.

Heroic Conduct on the Ocean—A Sinking Ship and an Angry Sea—The Crew Saved by the Steamship Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin, United States mail steamship of the Guion line, which arrived at this port last night, left Queenstown on Friday evening, September 30, and for a single day proceeded quietly on her way, making excellent time. But upon Saturday night a storm arose, which seemed to increase in fury during the six following days.

Upon Wednesday, October 5, at nine o'clock A. M., when we were in latitude 50 deg. 21 min., north, and longitude 38 deg. 17 min., west, we saw a sailing ship in the distance, with her mainmast gone and the signal of distress raised. In a short time she raised the numbers indicating that she was sinking. Captain Williams immediately changed the course of the Wisconsin and put in the direction of the sinking ship, which proved to be the J. S. DeWolf, of St. Johns, N. B., Captain John Spain commanding. She was loaded with a general cargo, sailing from Liverpool for Philadelphia. Her mainmast was carried away at about midnight, and at two o'clock in the morning, shipping a heavy sea, her deck was broken entirely in; thus all hopes of saving her were gone. Her lifeboats were broken and rendered useless.

Captain Spain says he considered his case perfectly hopeless, because he thought that, even should he fall in with some ship disposed to be friendly, it would be impossible to man and lower a life-boat upon such an angry sea and in the midst of such a frightful storm. But there was stuff on board the Wisconsin out of which heroes are made. Charles McDermott, the second officer, stepped forward and called for volunteers to go with him to the rescue of the sinking crew. Inspired by the example of their noble officer, six men promptly manned the lifeboat, and their names are worthy of mention in a roll of honor:—James Lamb, Josiah Manchester, John E. Lewis, David Owens, Thomas McEvoy and John Rees. As the boat was lowered to the water and was tossed like a feather every heart on the deck beat quick with anxiety for the fate of the seven men who were dignifying manhood by their deed of noble daring.

In just an hour's time the lifeboat returned with eight of the crew of the sinking ship, and they being hauled on board the steamship, the lifeboat again put out, and though the wreck was now distant more than a mile, returned with the remaining eleven of the crew of the J. S. DeWolf. And thus, without loss of life or injury to any one, nineteen lives were rescued from imminent and certain death by the cool, determined, but modest bravery of officer Charles McDermott and his six noble seamen. Sure it is that if the fifty cabin passengers of the Wisconsin in this voyage could promote this officer, he would soon take a step higher in the service which he honors; and this not only for the single act here recounted, but for the true merit of which this one act is but an index.

Upon Tuesday, October 11, at six o'clock P. M., the officers and crew, the cabin and steerage passengers and the rescued men assembled on deck, and Judge Pierce of Philadelphia, on behalf of the passengers addressed these seven men of the lifeboat in appropriate and appreciative terms, and presented them with a purse raised by the passengers as an evidence of the regard they had for their valor.

Captain Spain wishes through these columns to express his gratitude to the officers and men of the Wisconsin, who were instrumental in saving his own life and the lives of his crew.

THE OLIVER FORGERY CASE.

The Examination Yesterday—The Lease and the Signatures.

The examination into the charge of forgery preferred against William F. Oliver, of Hempstead, by his brother Thomas, was continued before Justice Snedeker, in Jamaica, yesterday. From the plain facts of the case it appears that William F. Oliver, the defendant, holds possession of the Eagle Mills and farm by virtue of a lease executed by his father, for which he pays an annual rental of $500, and for which $2,000 has been offered, and therefore the litigation involves $10,000, as the lease is for five years. The complaint alleges that the signature of William Oliver, the father, is a forgery, executed for the purpose of defrauding the legal heirs of the deceased. Several parties have been sworn as to the genuineness of the signature, and it is testified by them to be a forgery. Several bank tellers from New York were present to testify in comparison between the signature to the lease and the signature to other documents alleged to be valid, but they were legally incompetent and excluded by the Court. They gave as their voluntary opinion that the signature to the lease was spurious, and would not be received by them if attached to a check. By comparison it would appear that the signature was forged. A bond, executed by William Oliver to Mr. Willetts, was produced, and the signature thereto compared with that on the lease, but there is no resemblance. The signature said to be that of the father to the lease is written in a tremulous hand and larger than the genuine signature. The letters "Wm.," for William, are very large. The letter "l" in Oliver is very heavy, and would seem to have been made in a moment of temporary neglect. It bears great resemblance to the same letter in the signature of William F. Oliver, the lessee.

It has been testified that before Surrogate Covert the defendant stated that he knew nothing of the lease until after his father's death, which was in August of this year, while the lease bears date February 1. The wife of the defendant is witness to the execution of the lease, and made acknowledgment before Daniel Clark, Notary Public, after which it was filed. This raises a novel point as to guilt, as the wife of the defendant has been excluded from testifying. The defendant's counsel hope to establish a defence by proving malice.

THE CANADIANS IN COUNCIL.

A Columbus Anniversary Proposed.

The following circular, in French, was sent to a number of prominent French Canadian residents of the city:—

Three Hundred and Seventy-eighth Anniversary of the Discovery of America.—On the 12th of October, 1492, Christopher Columbus discovered the continent we inhabit. It would be a credit to the Canadians to be the first in inaugurating the celebration of this anniversary forever memorable in the history of America. It is the opinion of those who have organized the commemoration of this great event that this date should be the starting point for an earnest effort to bring at the earliest moment the political union of Canada with the United States. You are therefore invited to attend a meeting to be held with the double purpose just mentioned, on Wednesday, October 12, at eight o'clock P. M., at Masonic Hall, Thirteenth street, between Third and Fourth avenues. Signed by the committee—Messrs. Henri Gosselin, Thomas Boucher, E. Welling, F. X. Cloutier, E. Bonin, L. E. Demers, George Batchelor.

In consequence of this call a preliminary meeting was organized, in which matters were earnestly talked over, and which culminated in the appointment of a committee of three, composed of Professor Batchelor, F. X. Cloutier and L. E. Demers, to prepare resolutions and make other arrangements for a formal meeting on the second Wednesday of November next.

THE LEXINGTON AVENUE STABBING CASE.

Mattie Dean, otherwise Mattie Nading, was released on bail yesterday by Justice Coulter in the sum of $1,000. A person by the name of Michael Finnegin, who owns a lot, he says, on the north side of Seventy-ninth street, between First avenue and avenue A, became her bondsman. Finnegin said he lived at No. 156 East Fifty-seventh street.

SAILED.

Steamships Java, and Colorado, Liverpool; Mississippi, New Orleans.

Shipping Notes.

The storm of Tuesday night and yesterday morning filled the cellars along West and South streets, damaging in many instances valuable goods. The aggregate loss to the merchants in those localities on the occasion of the periodical visitations of these "young floods" on their premises can hardly be estimated. The goods on many of the piers along the rivers suffered much from the same cause.

There arrived at this port from foreign ports during the month of September 849 vessels, of which there were men-of-war, 2; steam yachts, 1; steamships, 59; ships, 39; barks, 76; brigs, 91; schooners, 79; canal boats, 2.

The Cunard line steamship Algeria, Captain LeMesseurier, will leave the company's wharf, foot of Grand street, Jersey City, to-day (Thursday), at 8 AM, for Queenstown and Liverpool.

Marine Disasters.

SHIP WADSWORTH, from England for Quebec, with coal, is ashore and on fire at Louisburg, CB.

SHIP AUSTRIA, Delano, which arrived at New Orleans 24th ult from Boston, was struck on the passage out by a heavy sea, and of 98 carboys of vitriol on deck all but one were broken. Capt Delano was badly burned by the vitriol from his knees down. Under deck the ship had a large and valuable cargo of assorted merchandise, and an examination discloses the fact that it has been damaged to the estimated amount of $60,000, the vitriol having penetrated through the decks. The hull of the vessel did not sustain much damage, but her spare rigging is spoiled. Negotiations have been progressing between the consignees and the underwriters, and it is understood that the latter do not consider that they insured against vitriol as one of the ordinary dangers of the sea, and they will, therefore, decline to pay the losses. The ship and cargo are now in charge of the Port Wardens.

SCHR EMMA P DOUGLASS, which left City Point, Va, Sept 6, with a cargo of wheat, valued at $9000, for the New Bedford Flour Mill, is supposed to have foundered, not having been heard of since her departure. Cargo insured in the New England office, Boston.

SCHR EMMA D FINNEY, from St Marys, Ga, for Philadelphia, which put into Charleston Oct 9, leaking and with loss of rudder, had been 30 miles N of Hatteras when she was driven back. Off Cape Romaine, passed a wreck with what appeared to be a dead body lashed to it.

LIVERPOOL, Oct 12—The steamship England, which arrived at this port from New York, reports Oct 1 passed an abandoned vessel, laden with timber. Her name is Black Swan.

SCHAARHORN, Oct 12—Five hundred barrels of petroleum have been saved of the cargo of ship Progress, with part of her inventory. One of the schooners engaged in taking out her cargo has been wrecked.

TEXEL, Sept 28—The Alberti, Harriman, from New York, arrived here to-day with sails split, &c.

Miscellaneous.

STEAMERS C W LORD, from Havana for New York, and TILLIE, from Galveston for New York, which put into Charleston 9th inst, were short of coal.

QUICK PASSAGE—The brig F H Odiorne (Br), Capt Horn, which arrived at New York Oct 10, with coal, made the round voyage from this port to Little Glace Bay, CB, and back, in 20 days, 7 of which were spent in port.

Notice to Mariners.

A dangerous obstruction to navigation has been discovered by Geo W Fuller, the submarine diver, about 4½ miles SE of Bridgeport light. Mr Fuller was cruising in that vicinity looking for a vessel loaded with coal, which is known to have foundered while trying to make Black Rock harbor, and discovered the two masts of a schooner just even with or but a few feet below the surface of the water. He at first supposed the vessel to be the one he was in search of, but on going down he found her to be loaded with corn. She stands upright on her bottom, and in a very dangerous position. The condition of her cabin, which was also examined, indicated that her crew had left her in the most hurried manner. She is supposed to have been run down some time in August last by an eastern bound steamer.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE 301 MOTT STREET, NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1870.
At a meeting of the Board of Health of the Health Department of the city of New York, held at its office, 301 Mott street, on the 5th day of October, 1870, the following resolution was adopted:—
Resolved, That section 145 of the Sanitary Code be amended so as to read as follows:—
Section 145. That no captain, agent or person having charge of or attached to any ferryboat, sailing or other vessel, nor any person in charge of any car, stage or other vehicle, or public or private conveyance, shall convey or allow to be conveyed thereon, or by any means aforesaid; nor shall any person convey or allow to be carried or conveyed in any manner from or in the city of New York, the dead body of any human being, or any part thereof, without a permit therefor from this Department. And the proper coupon for that purpose attached to any such permit when issued shall be preserved and returned to this Department, as its regulations may require, by the proper officer or person on such boat or vessel, and by the proper person in charge of any train of cars or vehicle on which any such body may be carried from said city.
Provided, however, that the same effect shall be given under this section to a burial or transit permit issued by the Health Officer of the city of Brooklyn as to a burial or transit permit issued from this Department when the death of the person named in the permit shall have occurred in the city of Brooklyn. JOSEPH S. BOSWORTH, President.
EMMONS CLARK, Secretary.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE UNDERSIGNED, MEMBERS OF THE BAR OF the city of New York, believing that the time has arrived when party distinctions should be ignored in the choice of an official occupying the position of the first minister of justice in the first city of America, have resolved to recommend our example to the voters of this city, and urge the nomination of MATTHEW T. BRENNAN to the office of Sheriff.
We believe that his past public services are a guarantee of the fidelity and honesty he will exhibit in this position, and we advise all good citizens to vote for him, without regard to political bias or prejudice.
Deeming the time more fitting for an expression of opinion before any party nominations are made, rather than after, we ask all who are in favor of electing to this post an upright, experienced and faithful public servant to unite with us in conveying this desire to MATTHEW T. BRENNAN that he will consent to be a candidate for the office of High Sheriff of New York city.

Sale of Stock Pledged as Security for Money Loaned.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Clarentine W. Pillott vs. William C. Pickersgill & Co. and John R. Gardner.—Mr. Gardner is the agent in this city of Pickersgill & Co., bankers, in London. In April, 1867, Pillott & Son loaned of Pickersgill & Co. $30,000 on pledge of stock belonging to Miss Pillott, daughter of William Pillott, the same being sureties in the bond of the father as trustee for his daughter. The banking firm wished Mr. Pillott to obtain authority from his daughter to pledge the stock in question. In January last Miss Pillott caused to be tendered $30,030. Mr. Gardner claimed that they had a banker's lien upon the sureties. As Pickersgill & Co. had drawn against certain cotton shipped to Liverpool, Mr. Pillott claimed that a banker's lien did not apply to such a case, and also denied that the relation of banker and customer had ever existed. Mr. Pillott now files this bill, claiming that in his capacity as trustee for his daughter she is entitled to the residue of securities by paying $30,000. It is claimed by Pickersgill & Co. that the whole amount of indebtedness, some $50,000, has not been paid. The case came up on a motion for an injunction to restrain a threatened sale of the stocks in question by Pickersgill & Co. It was argued at great length on both sides.

John W. Whiting and A. J. Vanderpool for plaintiff, and Messrs. Leroque & McFarland for defendants.

Decisions.

By Judge Cardozo.

Vanderpool Recor, &c., vs. Rapp.—Motion granted on payment of ten dollars costs. Judgment, &c., to stand as security, and defendant to stipulate to refer, if plaintiff so elect, and to proceed on two days' notice.

Niegel et al. vs. Tanenbaum.—The order has been properly settled.

Saygard vs. Wright.—Motion granted; five dollars costs to abide event of action.

Third Avenue Savings Bank vs. Wheeler, Jr., et al.—Motion denied.

Boyle vs. Miller et al.—I cannot approve the surety.

Georgiana V. Fisher vs. George M. Fisher.—Proof of default wanted. Upon producing that report will be confirmed and decree granted.

O'Brien vs. Caffe.—Motion granted.

Sargent vs. Cass.—Motion granted.

Traphagen vs. Curry.—Motion granted on payment of ten dollars costs, on defendant's stipulating to refer and to proceed on two days' notice. Judgment, &c., to stand as security.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Before Judges Monell, McCunn and Spencer.

Emily S. Cunningham, Plaintiff and Respondent, vs. Walter M. Conger et al.—This action for personal injuries to the plaintiff, caused by being run over by a horse and wagon driven by a servant of the defendants, is an old one, the injuries having been inflicted November 22, 1866, and damages originally laid at $5,000. The referee to whom the case was referred found for plaintiff and damages at $2,000, for which judgment was entered. Counsel for appellant admitted the facts, but urged the damages as excessive. For the respondent it was claimed that the amount of damages was clearly warranted by the proof of the great suffering and injuries she sustained. The Court took the papers and reserved its decision.

Liability of Trustees for the Debts of Insolvent Corporations.

Simmons vs. Tappan.—This is an action brought against the defendant, as trustee, to recover a debt of the Montana Mill Company, on the ground that he neglected to file the annual certificate required by law. The debt, for about $4,050, existed in January, 1866, and it was admitted that no report was filed either in this or the succeeding year. In April, 1866, the company became insolvent and ceased to do business. The plaintiff admitted that the cause of action through failure to file the report in 1866 was barred by the statute of limitations in 1869, and insisted that a new cause of action accrued to him in January, 1867, and that as he brought this suit on the 4th of January, 1870, it was not barred by the statute. On the part of the defendant it was claimed that the statute does not require an insolvent corporation that has ceased to do business to file any report whatever, and that when the liability of the trustee was once fixed it could not be extended by a subsequent failure on his part to file the report. The Court reserved its decision. The case was tried before Judge Jones, when he directed a verdict for the plaintiff, and the exceptions to be referred to the General Term.

A Banking Case—Altered Drafts.

Before Judge Joseph F. Daly and a Jury.

The First National Bank of St. Louis vs. The Ninth National Bank of the City of New York.—This action was brought to recover $4,823 50, with interest from December 27, 1867, under the following state of facts:—Early in the fall of 1866 the cashier of the First National Bank of St. Louis made two drafts on the Ninth National Bank of this city, one of which was for five dollars, payable to the order of J. P. Custer, and the other for $6 50, payable to the order of S. O. Sales. The amounts in these two drafts were erased by a chemical process, $2,115 being substituted for $5, and $2,730 for $6 50. Defendants paid both and charged them to the plaintiffs. On the part of the defendants the forgery was admitted, but they claimed that the payment of the drafts was due to the gross carelessness of the plaintiffs in not having written the amounts of the drafts across their faces, and they also accused the plaintiffs of further negligence in not having advised them by letter of the amounts for which the drafts had been drawn.

The Judge charged the jury that it was for them to determine whether the plaintiffs were culpably careless.

The jury found in favor of the plaintiffs for the full amount claimed.

Decision.

By Judge Robinson.

Ritchie vs. Burgess.—The defence of payment stated on information and belief is not frivolous. Motion denied, with ten dollar costs to defendant to abide event.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Recorder Hackett.

LARCENIES AND BURGLARIES.

Assistant District Attorney Tweed conducted the business of the court yesterday and succeeded in obtaining a number of pleas from prisoners.

Mary Dooley, who stole from Fanny Dannebaum, by whom she was employed as a servant, diamond earrings and other jewelry, valued at $300, pleaded guilty. The Recorder said he would give her a day to tell the officers where the earrings were, and if she did so he would not impose the severest penalty of the law. She was removed to the dock and became very abusive to the officers, remarking that she would not tell where the jewelry was. His Honor, having been informed of her conduct, ordered her to be placed at the bar and sentenced her for five years to the State Prison.

George Wilson, who was indicted for burglary in the second degree, pleaded guilty to the third grade of that offence. On the 18th of July he entered the dwelling house of Edward Michling, No. 85 avenue B, and stole tablecloths and shirts valued at eighty dollars.

Bernard Smith pleaded guilty to grand larceny from the person, the charge being that on the 14th of September he stole a gold watch and chain from Carrie Engle while she stood on the sidewalk in front of her premises. There was another similar charge against this prisoner. Wilson and Smith were sent to the State prison for five years.

Thomas Kirwan, who was charged with stealing a gold watch and chain, valued at $260, from John Sheehan on the 23th of September, pleaded guilty to the indictment.

William J. Smith pleaded guilty to petit larceny from the person, he having on the 16th of August stole a composition watch valued at five dollars from James W. Smith.

Charles Moore, who burglariously entered the premises of Hans Gottoch, 159 Forsyth street, on the 2d instant, pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree.

Kirwan, Smith and Moore were each sent to the State prison for four years and six months.

John George pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, the indictment charging that on the 1st of July he stole a set of billiard balls valued at twenty dollars, and a coat worth twenty dollars, the property of David DeWitt. The sentence was two years and six months' imprisonment in the State Prison at hard labor.

Joseph Bauer, who on the 2d of September stole thirty-five dollars' worth of cigars belonging to Fitz Johansen, pleaded guilty to grand larceny, and being under twenty-one years of age, the Court sent him to the Penitentiary for one year.

David Reiss pleaded guilty to forgery in the fourth degree. He was charged with forging an order for two American calf skins purporting to be drawn by Solomon Rosenthal.

John B. Denninger was charged with obtaining a carcass of meat by trick and device from Jacob Heister on the 23d of September, and pleaded guilty to obtaining goods by false pretences.

These prisoners were each sent to the Penitentiary for one year.

William Fells was tried upon a charge of stealing $153 worth of ready made clothing from the store of Israel Marks, 42 Baxter street. As there was no evidence to sustain the indictment Mr. Tweed abandoned the case.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY—A YOUNG FIRST WARD GARROTER SENT TO THE STATE PRISON FOR TWENTY YEARS.

Patrick Brennan and Peter Scanlan were placed on trial in the afternoon charged with robbery in the first degree. Mr. Townsend was assigned to defend them. The complainant, John Kane, a laboring man, who came from up the Hudson river to New York on the 9th of this month, testified that while he was on the corner of Morris and West streets he was attacked and violently beaten by a crowd of young men who robbed him of eighteen dollars. He positively identified Brennan as being one of the men, who held him, but could not swear to the other. He gave the alarm that he was murdered, which brought an officer to the spot, who pursued these young men, who ran down to a pier and hid under it. He caught Brennan and Scanlan, but the other one got away in the dark.

The officer testified that he saw Scanlan with the crowd that night before Kane was robbed; he and the sergeant ran after the young men, and the sergeant jumped into the water after them and fired his pistol to frighten them.

The Recorder observed that, while he was morally convinced that Scanlan was associated with Brennan in the commission of the robbery, there was no legal proof of it, and they would, therefore, have to acquit him. The jury accordingly rendered a verdict of guilty against Brennan and acquitted Scanlan.

The Recorder, in sentencing Brennan, said he understood he had just served out a term of imprisonment for shooting at an officer, and was a very bad young fellow. He and the class of men in the community to which he belonged were fully advised by his (the Recorder's) colleague, Judge Bedford, that severe sentences would be imposed upon men clearly convicted of robbery. His Honor sentenced Brennan to the State Prison for twenty years and discharged Scanlan with a caution.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Non-Fulfilment of a Contract.

Before Judge Pratt.

Henry W. Catlin vs. Thomas D. Wilson.—The plaintiff, it will be remembered, sued to recover $20,000 for the non-fulfilment of an agreement made with the defendant for the exchange of property. The case was reported in the HERALD of yesterday. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of plaintiff and assessed damages at $1,783.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

The South Brooklyn Child Murder.

Before Judge Pratt and Associate Justices.

The case of Michael Lovett, who was indicted for the murder of his infant child in Van Brunt street, on the 11th of August last, was called yesterday morning. Lovett quarrelled with his wife on the day in question and threw a knife at her, but the weapon missed the woman and struck their child, instantly killing it.

When the case was called on yesterday morning Mr. Keady, for defence, stated that the senior counsel, Mr. C. S. Spencer, was unavoidably absent, and he (Mr. K.) therefore asked for a postponement of the trial until to-day, which was granted.

CITY COURT.

Damages Against the Sheriff.

Before Judge McCue.

Walter McGovern vs. Anthony Walter, Sheriff.—The plaintiff sued to recover damages in the sum of $5,000, for the alleged unlawful seizure of the stock and fixtures of his store, corner of Leonard and Skillman streets. The seizure was made on the 25th of February last by a deputy sheriff.

The defence was that the seizure was made in pursuance of a judgment obtained by William E. Brockway on the 15th of February. Verdict in favor of plaintiff for $1,800.

BROOKLYN COURT CALENDARS.

IS RICHARD WINTHROP MAD?

Interesting "Lunacy" Case—The Difference Between Beggars Who Are Insane and Rich Men Who Are Claimed to be Crazy.

In the winter of 1869 an old gentleman named Richard Winthrop, owning considerable property and of good social standing in this city, was declared a lunatic by virtue of an inquisition issued by the Court, in pursuance of which his wife and daughter were appointed his committee and took possession of his home and property. He now comes in and petitions the Court for a suspension of these proceedings, and asks that a supersedeus may issue for that purpose, and that he may be restored to his rights, having entirely recovered, &c. Affidavits annexed to the petition of eminent physicians and merchants declare Mr. Winthrop to be perfectly sane and fit to take care of himself and property. The matter is now undergoing investigation before Nathaniel Jarvis, Jr., the referee to whom it was referred. So far as the testimony has developed as yet it appears that the daughter of the old gentleman fell in love with one "Ned Mullen;" that the courtship was aided and abetted by her mother, Mrs. Winthrop; that Mr. Winthrop having forbid his daughter, for whom he was saving all his money and property, to keep company with "Ned," and she paying no heed to his advice, he became so irate that he sold his property, was forbidden the house by his wife, and was otherwise treated badly by both his wife and daughter. This is one side of the case, and the other will be developed at the next hearing before Mr. Jarvis.

There is one thing in this case that may be relied upon, to wit:—If Mr. Winthrop is a lunatic there is fair reason to assume that four out of five men who may be met in a random walk on Broadway are lunatic also. In conversation he is remarkably clear, concise and full of detail, and possesses a knowledge of the technique of the legal proceedings in this case which may perhaps yet astonish some of the lawyers. A curious inquiry also suggests itself in relation to all these cases of commission in lunacy, and that is, how is it that when people are poor there is no trouble in proving them to be lunatics? They may be bundled off to Blackwell's Island by proceedings that will not occupy more than ten minutes of judicial time. But it always happens that where there is any considerable amount of property in the case great exertions are required to prove a sufficient degree of madness, and a violent temper in aged persons is eagerly concluded to be "lunacy."

OBSTRUCTING THE SIDEWALK.—One Denver gentleman shot another, and was promptly arrested for "obstructing the sidewalk." He was discharged, though, when he clearly demonstrated that the way the deceased stood it was impossible to have shot him in any way so that he would not fall across the sidewalk.

ATMOSPHERIC PHENOMENA.

Preparations of the War Department for Observing and Signalling the Course of Storms—History of the Experiment—Signal Stations.

The chief signal officer of the War Department has furnished us with a copy of a pamphlet prepared by him, entitled "Government Telegrams and Reports for the Benefit of Commerce," embracing much information respecting the subject of noting and telegraphing the approach of storms. A few extracts from the pamphlet will show the importance of the work which is now being undertaken by the United States government in obedience to an act of Congress introduced last session in the House of Representatives by Mr. Paine, of Wisconsin, and passed by both houses:—

The special characteristic of modern efforts in the development of meteorological science consists in co-operation among observers laboring in different fields, and thus securing the data for determining the simultaneous condition of the atmosphere over extended regions of country.

It is only by this means that the laws which govern the occurrence, motion, direction and propagation of atmospheric disturbances can be ascertained. As soon as this truth was recognized and acted upon the important fact was developed that storms moved in certain fixed directions, and at such rates of speed as permitted telegraphic notice of their approach to be given to places lying in their paths.

The practicability of utilizing this knowledge for the benefit of the commercial interest became at once apparent, and resulted in the organization of systems of storm warnings in several of the European countries most interested in maritime affairs.

To the late Admiral Fitzroy, of the British Navy, belongs the honor of having been the first to put in operation a practical system of weather forecasts and storm signals, based on deductions made from numerous observations received by telegraph daily at a central point.

The first cautionary or storm warning signals were made in England in February, 1861, and in August of the same year published forecasts of the weather were tried with success, so that by the spring of 1862 sufficient experience had been gained to justify the adoption of the system still in use.

A broad general average is kept in view, referring to a day or more in advance, and to a district rather than to one time or place only. Showers at particular places, or merely local squalls, are disregarded.

In some instances forecasts are made for two days in advance, and with fair success.

The following data are given in these telegraphic reports, viz.:—Height of barometer, height of thermometer, difference of wet bulb thermometer, true direction of wind, force of wind, condition of the sky, amount and time of rain or snow, sea disturbance.

From comparisons with the record for the two winters of 1864-5 and 1865-6, it appears that of 163 warnings sent during the first of these winters seventy-one were realized, and during the second winter seventy-six; and out of 101 storms which occurred eighty-nine were signalled during the first winter and ninety-four during the second winter.

In 1861 the Imperial Observatory of Paris commenced publishing, in the form of a daily bulletin, weather reports from different points in France, which proved so interesting to the scientific world and useful to navigation that the system was extended throughout Europe, reports from each principal city being received daily in Paris, where they are discussed and the results transmitted by mail to all parts of the world in the successive numbers of the International Bulletin.

In Russia a system of meteorological observations has been established, forming a network of stations throughout the empire, from which simultaneous daily reports are made to St. Petersburg, where they are collected and published for the benefit of commerce and distributed throughout Europe.

In Italy a similar system has been in operation for some years, and valuable reports are also made from Holland, Austria and Norway, but not issued daily in the bulletin form.

In Austria alone 118 stations are reported where observations are taken by scientific men, who labor without remuneration, and the results of whose labors are annually published by the government.

In Germany and Denmark, where the telegraphs are under government control, telegraphic announcement of the approach of storms is sent to all seaports by the operators who are specially charged with the performance of this duty.

The importance of regular meteorological reports was early recognized in this country, for the Medical Department, United States Army, commenced taking observations in 1819. The States of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio followed in 1825, 1827 and 1842 respectively, and the Smithsonian reports in 1849. These observations, while valuable to the scientific world as studies for future application, or in reference to the sanitary condition of localities, were at first of no immediate benefit, and it was only when the introduction of the telegraph made their rapid transmission possible that attention was drawn to the possibility of practical storm warnings.

"Be it resolved, &c., That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and required to provide for taking meteorological observations at the military stations in the interior of the continent and at other points in the States and Territories of the United States, and for giving notice on the Northern lakes and on the seacoast, by magnetic telegraph and marine signals, of the approach and force of storms."

The plan so far determined upon by the War Department contemplates the simultaneous observation of atmospheric phenomena, the telegraphic transmission of reports of these observations and the widespread publication of the reports at all points where they will be of service to the commercial interests of the country.

The following have been designated as stations of observation and report, or of report alone, and will be occupied as rapidly as arrangements can be effected:—

Plaister Cove, N. S.; St. John, N. B.; Portland, Me.; Boston, Mass.; New Haven, Conn.; New York city, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D. C.; Wilmington, N. C.; Charleston, S. C.; Augusta, Ga.; Savannah, Ga.; Lake City, Fla.; Key West, Fla.; Montgomery, Ala.; Mobile, Ala.; New Orleans, La.; Jackson, Miss.; Memphis, Tenn.; Nashville, Tenn.; Louisville, Ky.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Knoxville, Tenn.; Albany, N. Y.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Oswego, N. Y.; Rochester, N. Y.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Cleveland, Ohio; Toledo, Ohio; Detroit, Mich.; Chicago, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; St. Louis, Mo.; Milwaukee, Wis.; St. Paul, Minn.; Duluth, Minn.; Omaha, Neb.; Cheyenne, Dac.; Corinne, Utah; Santa Fe, N. M.; Fort Benton, N. M.; San Francisco, Cal.; Pittsburg, Pa.

The War Department has shown every disposition to give the fullest effect to the action of Congress in this matter, and to make it of the widest utility. The organization has been rapidly effected, observers instructed and supplied with instruments, and minute arrangements made with the Western Union Telegraph Company and the International Ocean Telegraph Company for the transmission of the reports. The practical co-operation of chambers of commerce, boards of trade, of underwriters and of scientific establishments is sought for the valuable suggestions it is hoped may thus be had, how most to aid the interests they represent. The press is to be furnished reports gratuitously to render their diffusion as general and speedy as possible.

THE FUNERAL OF SUPERINTENDENT JOURDAN.

General Order on the Subject—The Fire Department to Participate—Brooklyn's Honors to the Dead Superintendent.

The funeral of the deceased Superintendent, as already announced, will take place this morning from St. Patrick's Cathedral, in Mulberry street, near Prince. The arrangements, of which Judges Dowling and Brennan have charge, are of the most complete description, and if the weather be fine the demonstration is likely to be a very imposing one. The Fire Department will be represented by a detachment from each company in the city in full uniform. They will take position in line immediately behind the police detachment.

The following is the order of procession:—

Band.
Board of Police Commissioners.
Surgeons of Police.
Clerks of Police.
Ex-Commissioners and ex-Superintendents of Police.
Chiefs of Police and officials of other cities.
Detective Squad.
Police Force in three battalions of eight companies each.
A detachment of Firemen from each city company.
Pall Bearers. The Corpse. Pall Bearers.
Relatives and friends of deceased.
Mayor and Common Council.
Citizens generally.

The following general order was issued to police captains yesterday:—

The death of John Jourdan, Superintendent of Police, has been already announced to the police force. By his death the Police Department and the community have been deprived of the counsel and services of an energetic, fearless, discreet and incorruptible officer and of a warm and true friend. His obsequies will be observed on Thursday, the 13th inst. It is fitting, and must be the desire of the members of the force which he adorned by an unblemished and efficient official career, to pay a marked tribute to his memory by taking an appropriate part in the funeral ceremonies. His remains will be taken from his late residence, 198 Prince street, at half-past nine in the morning to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where high mass will be celebrated.

You will report for escort duty to Inspector Dilks, at the Central Office, 300 Mulberry street, at half-past eight o'clock A. M., on Thursday, the 13th inst., with your off platoon, including sergeants and roundsmen, in full winter uniform (omitting overcoats), with white gloves, belts and batons. Captains Copeland, Mount, Allaire and Helme are detailed as special aids and will report to Inspector Dilks at the same time and place. The route of march from St. Patrick's Cathedral will be through Mulberry street to Bleecker, thence to Broadway, up Broadway to Fourteenth street, thence through Fourteenth street to Fifth avenue, thence up Fifth avenue to Twenty-third street, thence through Twenty-third street to the ferry at the East river. The precincts through which the funeral procession is to pass will employ their reserve force to keep the streets open and unobstructed.

J. S. BOSWORTH,

ADJOURNMENT OF THE SUPREME COURT.

Mr. Justice Cardozo issued the following order yesterday:—

OCTOBER 12, 1870.—CHAMBERS SUPREME COURT.—This branch of the court will stand adjourned to-morrow in respect to the late Mr. John Jourdan, and a suitable mention of the cause of the interruption of the public business will be entered on the minutes.

It is the only tribute beyond my personal participation in his obsequies which it is in my power to pay to the memory of a friend for whom I had great regard, and who was a martyr to his devotion to the duties of his high office. The public may well mourn him as one whose place it will be difficult to fill.

ALBERT CARDOZO.

BROOKLYN HONORS TO THE DEAD SUPERINTENDENT.

The flags of the station houses of Brooklyn have been at half-mast since Monday last out of respect to the memory of Superintendent Jourdan, of the New York police. The bell of the Seventh precinct station house, by which the funeral cortege will pass on its way to Calvary Cemetery to-day, will be tolled as the procession files past.

THE STATE TAX.

Valuation of Kings County—The Tax to Be Levied This Year.

The President of the Kings county Board of Supervisors yesterday received a communication from the State Board of Equalization of Taxes, stating that the latter body had fixed the aggregate valuation of property in Kings county at the sum of $194,106,451. The State tax to be levied upon this amount for the current fiscal year is $1,409,760. The tax is 7 41-156 mills on the dollar. For schools, 1¼ mills; for general purposes, 1½ mills; for bounty debt, 2½ mills; for new capitol, ½ mill; for canal floating debt, ½ mill; to pay awards of appraisers and Canal Board for 1868-69 and deficiency of appropriations of 1869, ½ mill; for new work and extra repairs, 1 mill; for Champlain Canal, 1-78 mill. The valuation of this county in 1869 was $154,451, and the State tax, which was 5½ mills, produced $869,012.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WALL STREET,
WEDNESDAY, Oct. 12—6 P. M.

The interest manifested in the revived speculation in Wall street was attested by no better sign than the presence of so great a throng at the Stock Exchange to-day, despite the dreary and dismal state of the weather. The Long Room was foggy with the vapor from the smoking garments of the crowd; the tiled floor was a marsh of muddy water; dripping umbrellas constantly contributed to the "demnition moist, unpleasant" state of affairs. But above all rang the noise and din of business. Old brokers and young brokers shook hands and congratulated each other on the resumption of activity and the prospect of an unlimited supply of "orders."

GOLD STRONG—113¾ A 114.

Inasmuch as the course of events hinged to a considerable extent upon the influences affecting the gold market, it is only proper to begin the narrative of the day with the story of that department. The great obstinacy which gold has shown in the interim since our civil war is due in no little degree to the constitutional bullishness of those who will never believe in the stability of our government. Politics has a word describing this class of people. Its synonym in the Gold Room is "bull." Nearly all the commercial failures since the war have been due to the fact that the bankrupts could not and would not see the inevitable consequences of the steady recovery of the country from the prostration of the war and of the enterprise and prosperity begotten of the reign of peace. The parties who have thus interrupted the national progress of the financial situation and endeavored to throw obstacles in the march to the resumption of specie payments have called out an equally powerful class of speculators, whose combat in the arena of the Gold Room was to-day unusually interesting. It is speculation in gold which keeps it from its real level. There are, of course, legitimate transactions connected with the sale of gold for delivery; but it is the sale without a corresponding mercantile transaction that makes gold unnecessarily scarce. The "bulls" in gold created a strong diversion this afternoon by suddenly circulating a rumor that they intended to make a "squeeze" to-morrow, and the "bears" were so frightened that some bought in their gold, raising the price up to 114, while others, braving the threat, engaged their gold for to-morrow at rates ranging from 1-16 to 3-32. It is, of course, impossible at this time to say what may be done; but, in view of the fact that Secretary Boutwell will probably order the prepayment, without rebate, as early as the 15th inst., of the November coin interest on the public debt, the movement may be simply for the purpose of enabling the "bulls" to unload before the government gold comes on the street and breaks up the stringency in the gold loan market. At this season of the year, with the cotton receipts increasing from week to week and with constantly increasing exports of produce of all kinds, it is against all logic that gold should advance. If the "bears" are made to pay for their indulgence in the temptation to speculate against the decline the public will thank the "bulls." But that the triumph of the latter will be short-lived is obvious. The public will thus see both sides of the speculative fight punished. The course of the gold market is shown in the table:—

10 A. M.	113¾	2 P. M.	113⅞
10:30 A. M.	113⅝	3 P. M.	113⅞
11 A. M.	113¾	3:59 P. M.	114
11:55 A. M.	113⅞	4 P. M.	113⅞
12 M.	113⅞	5:30 P. M.	113⅞ a 114
1 P. M.	113⅞

In the gold loan market the rate ranged from "flat" to 3-64 for borrowing. The Java, for Europe, took out $152,951 in specie. The operations of the Gold Exchange Bank were as follows:—

Gold cleared	$37,993,000
Gold balances	1,600,067

FOREIGN EXCHANGE WEAK AND LOWER.

The supply of commercial bills drawn against exports of cotton and produce is growing in quantity, and, consequently, forcing a steady decline in the rates for foreign exchange. Prime short sight sterling is now offered at 109½. The following shows the range of quotations:—Sterling sixty days, commercial, 107¾ a 108¼; good to prime bankers', 108⅝ a 108⅞; short sight, 109¼ a 109⅜; Antwerp, 5.22½ a 5.16¼; Hamburg, 35⅝ a 35⅞; Amsterdam, 40⅛ a 40¼; Frankfort, 40⅜ a 40⅝; Bremen, 77¼ a 78¼; Prussian thalers, 70⅜ a 71⅛.

THE STOCK MARKET ACTIVE.

The buoyancy at the Stock Exchange continued throughout the sessions of the boards, and a further sharp advance was made in most of the more active shares. Late in the day there were sales to realize, which were followed by the report of an intended "squeeze" in gold and of an organization to "lock up" money. The effect was a reaction from the highest prices of the day and a lower and unsettled market. At the close there was more steadiness and the final street dealings were dull in tone.

THE EXTREME FLUCTUATIONS.

The highest and lowest prices of the leading speculative stocks were as follows:—

The annual election of the Western Union Telegraph Company was held this afternoon. The list of the directors chosen and a report of the proceedings appear in another column.

MONEY MORE ACTIVE.

There was an active demand for money at six per cent among the stock brokers, and some small houses paid seven per cent. On the other hand, the supply at the latter figure was so abundant that lenders of abundant means were "carrying" stocks at seven per cent. The government dealers were supplied at five to six per cent.

The Comptroller of the Currency has issued a call to the national banks requiring them to report their condition as they stood at the close of business on the 8th inst.

THE GOVERNMENT GOLD SALE.

The offer of a million of gold at the Sub-Treasury elicited bids for a total of $5,540,000, at prices ranging from 112.50 a 113.70. The million was placed at 113.45 a 113.70.

GOVERNMENT BONDS STRONG.

The government bond market was strong and higher. The Treasury will buy two millions to-morrow. The following were the final street quotations:—United States currency sixes, 111⅛ a 111¾; do., 1881, registered, 114 a 114½; do. do., coupon, 114 a 114½; do. five-twenties, registered, May and November, 108⅜ a 108½; do. do., 1862, coupon, do., 112⅞ a 113; do. do., 1864, do. do., 111⅛ a 111¼; do. do., 1865, do. do., 111⅞ a 112; do. do., registered, January and July, 110⅛ a 110⅝; do. do., 1865, coupon, do., 110⅛ a 110⅝; do. do., 1867, do. do., 110⅛ a 110⅝; do. do., 1868, do. do., 110⅜ a 110⅞; do. ten-forties, registered, 106⅞ a 107; do. do., coupon, 106⅞ a 107.

THE SOUTHERN STATE BONDS QUIET.

The Southern State bonds were quiet and generally steady, closing as follows:—Tennessee, ex coupon, 62½ a 62¾; do., new, 60½ a 60⅝; Virginia, ex coupon, 62½ a 63½; do., new, 65 a 67; do., registered stock, old, 52 a 52½; Georgia sixes, 80 a 82; do. sevens, 90 a 91; do. do., old, 90 a 92; North Carolina, ex coupon, 48 a 49; do., funding, 1866, 39 a 41; do. do., 1868, 33 a 34; do., new, 27 a 28; do., special tax, 23 a 23½; Missouri sixes, 90⅞ a 91⅛; do., Hannibal and St. Joseph, 91 a 92; Louisiana sixes, 71 a 72; do., new, 66 a 68; do. levee sixes, 76 a 78; do. do., eights, 87½ a 89; do. penitentiary sevens, 75 a 80; do. railroad eights, 78 a 80; Alabama fives, 70 a 72; do. eights, 101 a 102; do. railroad eights, 94 a 100; South Carolina sixes, 80 a 85; do., new, January and July, 68 a 69; do., new, April and October, 66 a 70; do., registered stock, old, 70 a 75; Arkansas sixes, 61 a 64; do. sevens, 67 a 70.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 12—6 P. M.

COFFEE.—We heard of no further sales of Rio, which however, was held with firmness at former prices. Of Laguayra 2,200 bags, ex Emma Dean, were sold on private terms. Other kinds were quiet but unchanged. We quote:—Rio, ordinary cargoes, 14¼c. a 14¾c.; fair do., 15c. a 15¼c.; good do., 16c. a 16¼c.; prime do., 17c. a 17½c.; extremes for lots, 14¼c. a 18c.; Java (government bags), 20c. a 22c.; do. 19,858 grass mats, 20c. a 22c.; Singapore do., 18c. a 19c.; Ceylon, 17¼c. a 19c.; Maracaibo, 16c. a 18¼c.; Laguayra, 16¼c. a 18c.; Jamaica, 14c. a 16c.; St. Domingo (gold, in bond), 8¼c. a 9c.; Ceara, 16c. a 17c.; Costa Rica, 15¼c. a 18c.; Manila, 16c. a 17c.; Mexican, 15c. a 18c.; Savanilla, 15½c. a 18c.—all gold, duty paid.

COTTON.—With continued heavy offerings the market for this staple was heavy, and prices further receded ⅛c. per lb., as will be seen by reference to our quotations subjoined. At the reduction, however, a good business was transacted, exporters being the principal operators. Including 539 bales to arrive there were sold 2,428 bales, of which 1,349 were for export, 763 for spinning and 186 on speculation. For future delivery prices were about ⅛c. off, with only a moderate demand and fair offerings, the market closing rather heavy at the reduction. The sales were 200 bales, basis low middling, for October, at 15⅛c.; 1,500 do. for November, at 15⅛c. a 15 1-16c. a 15c.; 900 do. for December, at 15⅛c. a 15c.; 200 do. for February, at 15⅛c., and (late yesterday) 300 do. for October, at 15⅛c. a 15 3-16c.; 600 do. for November, at 15 3-16c. a 15⅛c.; 200 do. for December, at 15⅛c. a 15⅛c.; 100 do., for January, at 15⅛c.; 200 do., for February, at 15⅛c.; 200 do., f. o. b. in New Orleans, at 14⅛c.; 100 do., f. o. b. in Charleston, and 1,000 do. average low middling, for November to March (200 each month), on private terms. The closing quotations for lots on the spot were as follows:—

FREIGHTS.—The market was only moderately active, but rates were firm, and in some cases higher. Grain room to Liverpool advanced ⅛d., closing at 8d. by sail and 8½d. by steam. The chartering business was quiet, though full rates were still demanded. The engagements were:—To Liverpool, 7,500 bushels wheat at 7d., in bulk; 7,500 do. do., in bags, at 8d.; 40 tons oil cake at 23s. 6d., and, per steamer, 500 bales cotton at ½d., and 30,000 bushels wheat at 8½d. To London, per steamer, 1,500 bbls. flour at 2s. 3d. To Bristol, 200 tons oilcake, in bags, at 22s. 6d. The charters were:—Two vessels (now in Boston), each with about 2,000 bales cotton, from Savannah to Cork, for orders, at ⅝d. if to Liverpool, 9-16d. if to the Continent. A brig to Jamaica and back (general cargo), on private terms. A vessel to Antwerp, with 4,500 bbls. petroleum, at or about 5s. 3d., and a bark, from Philadelphia to Hamburg, with 2,700 do., at 5s. 9d.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.—Receipts 14,141 bbls. flour, 300 do. and 200 bags corn meal, 6,610 bushels wheat, 25,588 do. corn, 26,252 do. oats, 38,588 do. barley, and 2,800 do. malt. The flour market was steady except for shipping extras, which were scarce and firmer without being quotably higher. The sales were about 15,000 bbls. Southern flour was in moderate demand at steady prices; sales 600 bbls. Rye flour was dull but unchanged; sales 200 bbls. Corn meal continued to rule dull and nominal; no sales were reported. Buckwheat flour was selling at $3 75 a $4 per cwt. We quote:—

—Wheat was fairly active and about 1c. higher, closing quiet with the advance lost. The sales comprised about 130,000 bushels at $1 15 a $1 17 for old No. 2 Chicago, $1 13 a $1 20 for Milwaukee, $1 28 for new No. 2, $1 30 a $1 31 for New No. 1—closing at $1 30—$1 30½ for Illinois winter, $1 32 a $1 35 for amber winter, $1 30 for poor white, $1 25 for common Southern amber. Rye was dull. Sales 3,500 bushels at 95c. for new Western, and 92c. for State. Corn was scarce and 1c. a 2c. higher. The sales were about 25,000 bushels at 88c. a 89½c. for mixed Western, and 90c. for yellow State. Of barley malt 500 bushels were sold on private terms. Oats were steady, with sales of about 75,000 bushels at 52c. a 52½c. for Western, 48½c. a 49c. for old do., and 57c. for choice Ohio. Barley was in moderate demand at about former figures. Sales 25,000 bushels at $1 03 for two-rowed State, and $1 15 for Western.

HAY.—The market was fairly active, the demand being good, and prices were firm, at $1 05 a $1 10 for shipping; $1 15 a $1 25 for retail lots; $1 a $1 10 for long rye straw, and 75c. a 90c. for short do.

HOPS.—The market was dull, the sales being confined to small lots, at prices within the range of 12c. a 20c. for new and 8c. a 15c. for old. Holders were generally anxious to realize.

MOLASSES.—The market was quiet, and prices were heavy and nominal, except for the grocery grades, which were steady at our quotations. There were sold 200 hogsheads Cuba muscovado, at 32c.; 106 do. Porto Rico, at 40c. a 52c. and a small lot Barbados, at 40c. We quote:—

	New Crop.
Cuba—Centrifugal and mixed	22c. a 25c.
Clayed	28c. a 35c.
Muscovado, refining	28c. a 38c.
Muscovado, grocery	32c. a 42c.
Porto Rico	37c. a 68c.
English Islands	30c. a 60c.
New Orleans	8.c. a 90c.

NAVAL STORES.—Spirits turpentine was still in demand, and closed strong at 46½c. for merchantable lots in yard. The stock is about exhausted. There were sold 350 bbls. at 45c. a 46c. on the spot and to arrive. Crude turpentine was still dull and nominal. Rosin was almost neglected, but prices were firm for strained, which was still sparingly offered. Sales, 300 bbls., at $2 10. A few small lots were sold within the range of $2 15 a $2 40 for No. 2, $2 50 a $3 50 for No. 1, $3 75 a $4 75 for pale, and $5 a $7 for extra do. and window glass. Tar was dull at our last quotations.

OILS.—Linseed was still quiet, but steady in value; small lots from crushers were selling at 86c. a 88c. Other kinds were dull, but steady, at the quotations in our last issue.

PROVISIONS.—Receipts, 1,100 bbls. pork, 117 do. beef. The market for pork was only moderately active, and prices were heavy and lower, closing at about $26 25 for Western, for October delivery. There were sold 750 bbls., on the spot and for October, at $26 35 a $26 50, including small lots at $26 37½ a $26 50, and 750 do., for November, at $26. Dressed hogs were quiet and lower, closing at 10¼c. a 10⅜c. Live hogs were in moderate request at 8¼c. a 9¼c., with arrivals of 3,454 head, which were chiefly for slaughterers. The market for lard was quiet, owing to the small offerings and the high prices demanded; there were no sales of prime Western steam at the close below 15½c. The sales were 125 packages at 15c. a 16¼c. for city and Western, and 250 tierces for December delivery at 14⅜c., closing at 14¼c. Beef hams were dull and heavy; sales about 70 bbls. at $32 a $32 50—chiefly at $32. Tierce beef was dull and prices were nominal at our former quotations. We heard of no sales. Beef in bbls., was in light demand at former prices. A few small sales were made within the range of $11 a $15 for plain mess and $16 a $18 for extra do. Bacon was dull and heavy for long clear at 15c.; no sales. For cut meats the market was dull, but values were without alteration. Small sales of pickled hams were made at 19c. We quote:—Pickled hams, 18½c. a 19½c.; smoked shoulders, 16½c. a 17c., and smoked and bagged hams, 21½c. a 23c.

PETROLEUM.—The market for crude, in bulk, was dull and heavy, though prices were no lower. The closing price for round lots was 12c., though some holders refused to sell below 12½c. On the creek the market was dull and we heard of no sales. The closing prices were about $3 05 on the upper road and $3 10 on the lower. Crude in bbls. was inactive and nominal at about 14½c. Of naphtha we heard of no sales. The market for refined oil was rather more active, but with increased offerings prices were heavy and lower for both October and November. The sales were 2,000 bbls., on the spot and for October, at 25c. a 25¼c., including a small lot to fill a vessel, at 25¼c.; 500 do., for November, at 24¼c.; 3,000 do., for November, at 24¼c., and (rumored) a cargo of about 3,000 bbls., on private terms, the market closing at 25c. for October, and 24½c. for November. Jobbing lots were only moderately dealt in, but steady in value. We quote:—27½c. a 28½c., the latter price for prime white. In Philadelphia the market was decidedly more active, but at rather lower prices. There were sold 1,500 bbls. for October to December (500 each month) at 24½c., 4,000 do. for November at 24c., 2,500 do. for October at 25c., 5,000 do. for the 25th October at 25½c. a 25¼c., and 2,000 do. for the same delivery at 25c., closing at 25c. a 25½c.

RICE.—Carolina was slow of sale, but steady in value. About 70 tierces were sold at 9c. a 9½c. Of Rangoon 150 bags, in lots, were sold at 7c. a 7½c.

STEARINE.—The market was dull, the demand being only for small lots; but prices were steady, especially for prime lots. Common to prime quoted at 14c. a 19c.

SEEDS.—Linseed was more active, and sales were made of 1,500 bags in Boston at $2 20, gold, duty paid, and to arrive there 4,000 bags, per Kentuckian, at $2 12½c. do., without time. Grass were dull and nominal at 9½c. a 10c. for clover, $4 25 a $4 75 for timothy and $2 20 a $2 30 for rough flax.

SUGAR.—The demand for raw was less active than yesterday, and only a moderate business was consummated, but the market was steady at the prices previously current. The sales were 625 hhds., part at 9⅛c. a 10⅛c. for Cuba and Porto Rico, 1,660 boxes at 10c. a 11⅛c. and 25,665 bags Manila at 9⅛c. Refined was quiet at the following quotations:—Hard, 13⅛c. a 13⅛c.; soft white, 12⅜c. a 12⅞c.; extra C, 12⅛c. a 12⅜c., and yellow, 11⅛c. a 12⅛c. We quote:—Cuba—Inferior to common refining, 9c. a 9⅛c.; fair refining, 9⅛c.; good refining, 10c.; fair to good grocery, 10⅛c. a 10⅜c.; prime to choice grocery, 10⅜c. a 11c.; centrifugal (hhds. and boxes), 9⅛c. a 11⅛c.; molasses (hhds. and boxes), 8⅛c. a 10c.; melado, 5c. a 8⅛c. Havana—Boxes Dutch standard, Nos. 7 to 9, 9⅛c. a 9⅛c.; do., 10 to 12, 9⅞c. a 10⅛c.; do., 13 to 15, 10⅛c. a 11⅛c.; do., 16 to 18, 11⅞c. a 12⅛c.; do., 19 to 20, 12⅛c. a 13⅛c.; do., white, 13⅛c. a 13⅛c. Porto Rico—Refining grades, 9⅛c. a 10c.; do., grocery grades, 10⅛c. a 11⅛c.

TALLOW.—The demand was a trifle more active and prices were steady for prime lots. Sales 90,000 lbs., within the range of 8⅛c. a 9⅛c., the latter price for choice city.

WHISKEY.—Receipts, 375 bbls. The demand was good at about former figures, and sales were made of 700 bbls., at 84⅛c. a 89⅛c., chiefly at 89c. a 89⅛c.

STREET CLEANING.

The following report on street cleaning was yesterday made to the Board of Health and is now published for the first time:—

HEALTH DEPARTMENT, 301 MOTT STREET.

TO THE BOARD OF HEALTH—Colonel EMMONS CLARK, Secretary:—

GENTLEMEN—I have the honor to report, on the part of the Contractor of Street Cleaning, a general compliance with the conditions of his contract and the requisitions of your honorable body. But, disclaiming any intention to criticise coordinate branches of the city government, or excusing shortcomings of the contractor, I am constrained to make the statement that the aspect of the streets and the performance of the work of street cleaning could be greatly improved by a rigid execution of the city ordinances. In the first place, in absolutely requiring builders to protect the gutters from encumbrance by covering them previous to placing their materials of construction on the sides of the streets. By requiring those engaged in breaking pavement for repairing pipes and sewers to remove the debris after the pavement is replaced. By requiring the street pavers to remove in some definite time the sand spread over new pavement and by preventing the occupants of tenement houses from throwing their garbage in the streets.

The reports of the Inspectors of Street Cleaning, conflicting so frequently with those of the Street Contractor, imposed upon me greatly increased labor for their verification; as the inspector was obliged to report in his list of omissions all the parts of streets cleaned after he had inspected a section of his district. To remedy this, instructions were issued to the inspectors to ascertain the hours in which the streets were to be swept, to follow the sweepers and report accurately the result of their observations, which will obviate the necessity for continual verification of discrepant reports. In the unpaved streets ordered cleaning is done by scraping up dirt and hauling it away, sweeping being impracticable. The question of dumping the sweepings is one that has demanded considerable attention. Complaint being made of the deposit of street sweepings for the extension of East 109th street to the river, I very thoroughly investigated the matter, and have no hesitation in pronouncing the opinion that, instead of its being detrimental to health, it conduces to the general sanitary condition of the locality. The sweepings being covered by earth, which readily absorbs the gas disengaged by the eremacausis of the organic matter in them, can have no deleterious effect on the citizens of the district. While the elevation of the soil above the dead diurnal inundation and consecutive exposure to the direct rays of the sun from the flux and reflux of the tides diminishes the pyrexygenetic source in an exact ratio to the extent of surface excluded from the genetic operation, with due deference to opposite views, I should respectfully suggest, in lieu of arresting the work on 109th street, the propriety of encouraging similar enterprises in the extension of the streets between Ninety-second and 110th streets, across the low grounds to the East river, and draining the intermediate spaces. If the removal of the rock from Gridiron, Pot Rock, Way's Reef, &c., could be effected and used in the construction of peers and wharves along the river front, no obstruction being offered to the free ingress and egress of the water, the tide level would be depressed and the shore level correspondingly raised; changing its paludal character, thereby conducing to the sanitary condition of the district, enhancing the value of the property, rendering it subject to increased taxation to meet the expense incurred and greatly facilitate the commerce of the city. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THOMAS COTTMAN,

THE WATER OF LAKE GILEAD.

The accompanying comparative analysis of the waters of Lake Gilead, which is one of the reservoirs purchased by Mr. Tweed for the use of the city, and from which much of the supply of water for the use of this city has been obtained for the last two months, shows it to be remarkably pure. The analysis was made by Professor Chandler, who, during the fall of 1868, made examination of eighteen samples, with which this comparison is made:—

FRANK BLAIR IN MISSOURI.—Frank Blair has been nominated for the lower House in the Missouri Legislature. If he runs General Blair will probably realize the fact that the "post of honor is a private station."

THE POPE AND THE KING.—If the Pope will content himself in Rome he is to have a prince's privileges and a prince's honors. He is not even to be absolutely robbed of territory. A certain limited circle inside the Leonine city is to be allotted to him. This is a wise arrangement. Rome will have two great potentates—a spiritual and a temporal. It will have two grand courts, the one outrivalling the other. Is it unreasonable to conclude that Rome will become for the next twenty years what Paris has been for the last twenty years, the fashionable capital of the world?

"GERMANY AS IT WAS."—Count Bismarck's reported saying the other day in Versailles may or may not be true. But the saying is so good that it will live. It cannot die. It covers a grand fact. "Germany as it was" means that the map of Europe must be reconstructed, that the Fatherland has "lengthened her cords," as well as "strengthened her stakes," and that the German people are never again to bow fearfully to the dictation of France. "Germany as it was" means that Count Bismarck sees the fruit of his labors and the crowning of German unity. "Germany as it was" is not the proud, triumphant Germany of to-day.

THE FISHERY DIFFICULTY.—How is it? Another American vessel has been captured by the Canadian authorities and hauled into a Canadian port for fishing in what are called British waters. Who is in the right? Who is in the wrong? We wish our government to make a clear and positive utterance on the subject. If our fishermen do violate the law, of course they must suffer. If they do not violate the law, they suffer wrong; and the wrong done to the humblest fisherman is a wrong done to the whole American people. In the interests of two great peoples, in the interests of humanity, in fact, it is desirable that this petty wrangling should cease. Little sparks sometimes kindle large fires.

The Late Elections—The Popular Endorsement of General Grant's Administration.

From the general results of the late elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska these facts may be regarded as established:—First—That the people of the United States, by a heavy majority, accept, endorse and approve the administration of General Grant. Second—That the republican party on the platform of this administration are sure of a decisive majority in the popular branch of the next Congress, whereby, the Senate being secure, both Houses will be in accord with the President to the end of his present term. Third—That he is good for a second term against all opposition combinations and any opposing candidate. Fourth—That the democrats have made no headway of any account since 1868. Fifth—That the new element of the colored vote is en masse with the republicans. Sixth—That there is some danger that the democracy may lose New York in November.

Such are the conclusions we draw from the general results of these late elections. The results, surprising to the democrats, are better for the republicans than their blundering managing politicians had expected. General Grant's administration, in short, proves to be stronger among the masses than the republican managers and organs had estimated it. Since the time of General Jackson, in the elections half way between one Presidential contest and another, the party out of power has, as a rule, been the gainers from the apathy and indifference of the party in power. It was generally supposed that such would be the results of these October elections, half way between 1868 and 1872. The republicans were troubled with doubts, divisions and apathy; the democrats appeared to be united, active and confident. The popular mind was supposed to be so much engrossed with the stupendous and momentous events of the great European war as to be indifferent even to the claims of Grant's administration in these elections; but the results have scattered all these fallacies to the winds.

First of all, the people are always ahead of the politicians on the practical issues of the day. The people understand better than the politicians can teach them the safe, sound and trusty policy of Grant's administration, devoted to the retrenchment of expenditures, the saving of the revenues, the reduction of taxations and the payment of the national debt, without disturbing by violent changes that wholesome equilibrium necessary to a steady advance in the prosperity of the general financial and business affairs of the country. Herein lies the great strength of the republican party as developed in these elections; for the democrats made their fight mainly against Grant's administration and his financial measures and policy. They professed, too, upon this general issue to be hopeful of carrying the next House of Representatives, while the republicans were not certain of saving it because of their local discords and general absence of activity or harmony upon their candidates, in Pennsylvania and Ohio especially. In truth, however, the issue between the financial policy of General Grant and the opposition policy of the democrats as an issue between something that is good and substantial for nothing but a change to financial disorders from rash experiments was so plain that the people could not be hambugged by charges of excessive extravagance, favoritism to bondholders and ruinous taxes and corruptions against an administration the record of which is fixed in official facts and figures.

The new element of the colored vote has no doubt been a valuable acquisition to the republicans in these elections, and as from these examples this new element may be counted on the same side in the approaching November elections it becomes an interesting question how far this colored vote may affect the results in New York and New Jersey. From the results of Tuesday's city election in Newark, showing a heavy republican gain, and from the facts that New Jersey fluctuates between the two parties on a majority of from two to three thousand, and that the colored vote in the State is over five thousand, the probabilities are in favor of the opinion that the democracy will lose the State in November. In New York the republicans expect a great reduction of the democratic majority of this city under the new Congressional election laws, which, it seems, from last Tuesday's example in Philadelphia, the national authorities will enforce, if necessary, by a squad of United States marines or soldiers. But, at all events, the democrats, against a general turnout of the republicans, looking at these October results, will have to do their best throughout the State to save our State Assembly in November, and even Hoffman's re-election, from present indications, ceases to be a foregone conclusion.

It may be considered as settled that the republicans will have a decisive majority in the Lower House of the next Congress; and having the Senate, General Grant will have plain sailing to the end of his present term. It may be considered as settled that he will be the republican candidate for re-election in 1872, and will be re-elected. All doubts that may have existed upon these questions have been dissipated in these October elections. What, then, becomes the policy of the democratic party, and especially of the party in New York? The party at large, we suppose, will still continue drifting about without any fixed policy or principles, except opposition to Grant's administration, waiting, still "waiting for something to turn up." But the New York democracy, under the guidance of Tammany Hall, should aim at something better than this.

It is possible that Mr. Tweed, from these late Western elections, in connection with his late Western excursion, is somewhat enlightened in reference to the chances of the New York democratic favorite in 1872. At any rate, he and the other Tammany sachems will be wise in devoting their labors hereafter less to the democratic candidate for the next Presidency than to the interests of the party in New York, which can best be served in studying the interests of the people of the city and the State. Indeed, in this view the main question for Tammany Hall is now, Can we save New York in November?

GOOD NEWS FOR OFFICE-HOLDERS.—It is reported that General Spinner, Treasurer of the United States, will recommend a material increase in the salaries of government officers. This will give a new impetus to the government machine. It is also said President Grant favors the recommendation.

The Military Situation—Difficulties Before the Prussian Army.

Fighting is again reported quite active about Paris. A sortie in force was made by General Ducrot on Friday, between Fort Mont Valérien and St. Cloud, on the west side of Paris, and the Prussians were so severely defeated that they were compelled to abandon the position on the hills back of St. Cloud, whence they were preparing to shell the city. This is an important victory, not only in regard to the indication it affords of General Trochu's intention to cut up his enemy by sorties, but in its effect on the spirits of the soldiery, encouraging them, as it does, to renewed efforts and teaching them the tactics of a sortie. The movement may have been influenced by the news of the French attack near Orleans on the rear defences, and this far it shows that Paris, while orderly and quiet, is also vigilant and ready. Battles have also occurred at Dreux, about forty miles west of Paris, and at Mont Didier, about the same distance north, which resulted in Prussian defeats. These are probably minor affairs, skirmishes between the home guards and the uhlan scouts, but they indicate that the peasantry in the provinces are not frightened by the mere name of uhlans, as they have heretofore been, or they may indicate something more dreadfully suggestive—that the peasantry have been oppressed too much and are at length at bay. The battle at Artenay, near Orleans, is not yet ended. The French troops, among whom were the Papal Zouaves, were undoubtedly badly defeated by a superior force of Prussians, but they took refuge in a wood, where they held their own, and have since been heavily reinforced, and the battle is yet undecided. On this battle depends a great deal more than the prestige of victory for new troops. It may actually settle the question of the further investment of Paris.

Our special correspondent at Versailles, in a telegraphic letter published this morning, shows that the Prussians themselves are in danger of a scarcity of provisions. They have eaten out the country for miles around their immediate neighborhood, and the fierce resistance of the peasants to the requisitions of the uhlans prevents any great supply from that source. They have to depend on their own stock of supplies, which are being transported continually over the long line of the Strasbourg Railway, and with the immense number of men to be fed a break in the line for twenty-four hours may put the whole army upon a slim allowance. Great uneasiness exists in consequence and it has been determined to bombard Paris vigorously, and probably storm it, as soon as the heavy siege guns have arrived and are placed in position. They lack men, too, this immense army. The vigilance of the enemy inside the works renders the duty of investing the city closely a hard matter for the present number of troops, and it is not considered safe to spare any men for a southerly movement. Indeed, the Strasbourg army has been ordered to Paris, instead of Lyons.

The difficulties of the situation are therefore greatly increased for Prussia. Her recent note to the great Powers concerning her inability to feed the French who may surrender with the city does not relieve her from the frightful responsibility of the starvation that now threatens her own army as well as the army and people of Paris. The cruel requisitions that her troops have levied upon the people and the raids that have robbed the peasants of their food have rendered the Prussians alone responsible to the civilized world for the terrible scenes that may ensue when food gives out in the besieged city.

Prince Napoleon in England.

A brief despatch published this morning states that Prince Napoleon, the somewhat erratic, yet very able, cousin of the ex-Emperor of the French, is now in London "intriguing" for the restoration of the empire. Should this information prove to be strictly correct the Prince displays a magnanimity, as well as an activity, worthy of a better cause. Had the excellent advice he gave in his famous and powerful speech delivered in the French Chambers last winter been strictly followed the imperial system would scarcely have been in such a plight as we behold to-day. But since the commencement of his cousin's reign the chief supporters of the now fallen empire have seemed to make a point of belittling and discrediting that member of the Napoleonic family who bears the greatest resemblance, in form and feature, to the first founder of the house. He has been nicknamed "Plon-Plon" and held up to ridicule in a variety of ingenious but very petty ways. Recently, too, the Empress, while still Regent of France, deprived him of his appointments, and it is said that Napoleon III. refused to receive him at Wilhelmshöhe. What, then, he has to expect from a restoration of these unkind relatives is rather difficult to conjecture. His own personal opinions are well known to be republican, and his record points to a destiny not at all imperial. His lot is with the people, and by the triumph of the people he is most likely to have justice done to his undoubted talents. Generosity is a noble trait, but a generosity which compromises the future of a nation, as well as of the man himself, is too romantic for this practical age.

Prince Napoleon has been accused of being too fluent with the tongue. We have often thought the charge to be overstrained, but if he be employed in England now as represented we shall fear that another member of the family has indeed been smitten with the blindness that seems to doom them all.

THE GERMAN STEAMSHIP HERMANN has arrived safely at Bremen. She encountered no French cruisers on the voyage, and found none blockading the German port. It is probable that the line will resume running at once, and, under the French admiral's recent instructions, no very great effort will likely be made by French cruisers to capture any of the steamers.

General Robert E. Lee.

Within the last six months death has been remarkably busy among the great warriors of our civil conflict. With Thomas, Farragut and Lee, the three men who throughout the contest most nearly represented the American idea of the true knightly soldier, the Bayards of the contending forces, have departed from earth. While the reunited Union deeply deplored the loss of Farragut and Thomas, and freely lavished the highest encomiums upon their names and memories, it cannot withhold its tribute to the soldier just dead, who, while warring in an unhappy and illusory cause, pursued his individual course with the true instincts of soldierly honor. While he sought by force of arms, by all the accepted appliances of the military art, and by the energetic exercise of his unquestionable military genius to secure the victory, he never descended to the childish trick of underrating his enemy nor sullied his record with the horrible atrocities of some of his subordinates. Of his course in turning his sword against the Union, in subordinating his duty to the country to his presumed duty to his State, we shall say nothing now that he is dead. Many brighter intellects than Lee's were misled by the dazzling will-o'-the-wisp of State rights. As a brave enemy he is deserving of a tribute, and for his course since he surrendered his sword at Appomattox he deserves high honor. He alone of all the Confederate chiefs who were brave enough to take the consequences of a surrender has fully comprehended the magnanimity of the government. He drew within himself, avoided publicity, persisted in reticence, and, confessing by all his acts that his own cause was lost forever, deported himself with the modest dignity that becomes a fallen chief.

The glories achieved in a civil war are unenviable at the best. The Romans never erected monuments on the battle fields of their civil wars nor permitted ovations to the returning conqueror in an internecine strife; but, as we honored the memories and celebrated the victories of Farragut and Thomas, so will the Southern people honor the memory and celebrate the victories of Lee.

The Approaching Eclipse of the Sun.

At the last session of Congress a sum of thirty thousand dollars was appropriated for the observation of the solar eclipse, which is to be visible from the Mediterranean Sea and the northern part of Africa on the 22d of December, 1870. It was ordered that two army officers, together with two officers of the navy and an assistant from the Washington Naval Observatory, should be associated with the American savans who are to go out on this scientific expedition, of which Professor Pierce, Chief of the Coast Survey, will have the general supervision. By direction of the Secretary of War Major Abbott and Captain Ernst, of the Engineer Corps, have been designated as the army officers to accompany the expedition. Professors Harkness, Hall and Eastman, of the Washington Naval Observatory, will sail on the 2d of November for Liverpool, thence to Malta, and then to Syracuse, Sicily, where they will observe the total eclipse of the sun. They will carry out a complete set of instruments, and their attention will be particularly devoted to the time of apparent contact of the sun and moon, the physical constitution of the corona, and to all the phenomena which the spectroscope, the polariscope, the photometer, the photograph, and the best instruments for magnetic and meteorological observations can reveal. The time of the total eclipse will be about two P. M. on the 22d of December, and if the sky is not hidden by clouds observations may be expected that shall be equally valuable as those which were made on the great total eclipse of August 7, 1869. That eclipse, it will be remembered, was visible almost everywhere in the United States. When not obscured by clouds, it was seen on a regular line running from a central point in Alaska to the coast of North Carolina. Observations made on it along that line and from various points all over the country were immediately telegraphed to the HERALD, which published them on the following day. Never since the total eclipse which occurred February 18, B. C. 3102, and which the Brahmins recorded in their grand astronomical work, "The Surya Siddhanta," has a solar eclipse been so well observed as that of August 7, 1869. It was the last one of the same class to be seen during the remaining term of the nineteenth century, and the astronomers of every nation made special preparations for observing it. The novelty and importance of some of the results which were obtained have stimulated them to make even more extensive preparations for minutely observing the total eclipse which is to be visible from the Mediterranean and the northern part of Africa. Besides the party in charge of Professor Harkness another party will soon sail for Gibraltar and Northern Africa, in charge of Professor Newcomb, with a view of making similar observations. European astronomers will doubtless be sent on the same errand by their respective governments. The results which may be obtained will probably throw much additional light on the mysterious problems concerning the sun. Nor can they fail to prove, like almost all other results of purely scientific investigation, of ultimate practical importance to the dwellers on earth.

THE COOLIE TROUBLES IN PERU.—A terrible coolie insurrection occurred in the north of Peru, about one hundred and forty miles from Lima, early in September, which, from the account of our correspondent at Lima—whose letter is published elsewhere—brought to light some most ferocious instincts on the part of the mild, almond-eyed heathen. About two thousand of them, armed with clubs, knives and axes, murdered the families of the owners of the plantation on which they lived, and then prepared to sack a small village. On the way, however, they encountered two determined white men, who, barricading themselves in a church, drove off the bloody-minded wretches by a vigilant and well directed fire of small arms. This defence gave the villagers time to prepare a breastwork, behind which forty of them repelled the whole Chinese army, which took to the mountains. The whole district of Peru where this occurred is now in dread of another incursion and at the same time is deprived of its field laborers, so that the crops are ruined.

The Theatrical and Concert Season.

The managers have opened the present season, even at an early period, with fair promise to the public of an excellent winter series of entertainments. There are now not less than twenty-five places of amusement inviting the patronage of the public. This is almost unprecedented in this gay city. It leaves London entirely in the background, and is equal to Paris before the dread shadow of war fell upon her. The public have a right to expect this and much more. The theatres and concert rooms are crowded every night. There never was a better opportunity for the managers to supply first class talent at moderate prices than now. Europe has sterner work on hand than the gayeties of the theatre. In Paris the theatres are closed up and the artists are cast adrift to find a livelihood in foreign engagements. This affords a fine opportunity for American managers to bring over the pick and choice of the Opera des Italiens and the Opéra Comique. We can accommodate them both here in the Academy of Music and in the Grand Opera House. Whatever difficulties lie in the way of the managerial success at the Academy, we presume they can be smoothed over without much trouble. New York can support both houses in their diverse enterprises quite as well as London sustains Drury Lane theatre and the Italian Opera House, and leave a good margin of profit to the managers.

Our managers ought to vie with each other in producing the best talent and the best plays. Even if they find it necessary to import dramas from England for the American stage, as it seems they do, they ought at least to select the dramatic works of first class authors and not the mere driftwood of second rate playwrights. Take, for instance, the play now on the stage at Wallack's, the "Two Roses." It is produced in exquisite taste, but it is the taste of the carpenter, the scene painter and the costumer, wasted upon very dull and stupid material. This should not be so. The "Black Crook" drama, we are happy to say, has nearly played itself out. For this we may consider ourselves indebted in a great measure to Fisk, Jr. He has reduced this style of art to such a point in his opéra bouffe that it ceases to excite any of that kind of interest which rendered Black Crookism infamous and profitable in its early days. It is not likely, then, that the promised revival of the "Black Crook" at Niblo's will be a success.

For many years there never was a better opportunity for a good theatrical season than now. Nilsson has just closed a most remarkable series of concerts, and after a brief absence she will return, and, it is to be hoped, will develop her glorious voice in opera. Seebach is crowding the Fourteenth street theatre every night with audiences who are not dumb to recognize in every character her extraordinary genius. To-night she will ask a verdict upon her capacity to render a new and difficult part in the play of "Love and Intrigue." Those who have appreciated her wonderful power in "Marie Stuart" and "Jane Eyre" will be anxious to see her in this new character. All things considered, including the opportunity of obtaining first class artists from Europe in this hour of trouble—her bombarded capitals, beleaguered cities, voiceless opera houses and dreary theatres, without footlights or tinsel beauties—we ought to have a most brilliant theatrical season this winter.

Scandal Among the Politicians.

It is certainly discreditable to American politics to find that the moment a man is nominated to any political office he is despoiled of whatever decent reputation he may have hitherto held in the community, and is very apt to find himself held up to public contumely, so that it would appear to a foreigner that none but persons of a low standard of morality enter into the arena of politics. The present republican candidate for Governor of this State is no exception to the rule. Hardly was his nomination made before he was publicly charged with misconduct and malfeasance in the two offices which he had previously held—those of Lieutenant Governor of the State and of Assistant United States District Attorney in this city. In the latter office the charge was that he had favored the escape of a slave trader in consideration of a bribe; and the assertion was made on the authority of the then United States Marshal, Mr. Robert Murray. An affidavit in denial of the charge having been published yesterday, purporting to come from the principal in the bribery, if bribery there were, Mayor Hall addressed a note to Marshal Murray requesting him to make a statement of what he knew in the matter; and the Marshal has replied in a communication reaffirming the original charge and giving a circumstantial account of how the facts came to his knowledge. We publish the correspondence and leave our readers to judge for themselves.

SIGNALLING THE APPROACH OF STORMS.—Our government, following the example of the English and some other European governments, and directed thereto by an act of Congress passed at the last session, has made arrangements to have meteorological observations taken at various military stations throughout the country, and to have telegraphic notice given on the seacoast and on the Northern lakes of the approach and force of storms. This plan we have advocated in our columns for a long time. The practical importance of such an undertaking has been sufficiently proved in Europe to warrant us in expecting from it great advantages, particularly in regard to our shipping. Vessels in port can be, by a timely warning of an approaching storm, put in a condition of safety, and vessels about to leave port can be detained in case of expected danger. In various other ways it will prove practically beneficial, to say nothing of its results in a scientific point of view. A pamphlet published by the chief signal officer of the War Department, and from which we publish to-day some extracts, will enable our readers to understand clearly the objects contemplated and the means by which they are to be attained.

NOT RESPECTABLE ENOUGH.—Sheriff O'Brien was rejected by his colleagues of the young democracy as candidate for Mayor because he was not respectable enough, and the party could not afford to go before the people without a reputation as well as a candidate for the highest office in the city. This was very hard on O'Brien, with all his fine clothes, good looks and tasty figure to endorse his respectability. But he had to submit. What is left for him, then, in his hour of affliction, but to fling himself upon the maternal bosom of Tammany, shed bitter tears of penitence and supplicate that a fatted calf may be slaughtered on the spot.

The Lecture of Tom Hughes, M. P.

The same old speech which Englishmen have been always making when they come to talk about this country was the lecture of Mr. Tom Hughes, M. P., at Boston the other night. We have heard the same thing over and over. When this country is prosperous and not in difficulty Englishmen talk very soft and soothingly about us and our institutions, Anglo-Saxon unity and fraternal feelings; but let trouble come, or even the forecast of trouble, and the same silver-tongued orators are the first to turn their back upon us and sympathize with everything hostile to our institutions and government. These platitudes about the English and American people going arm and arm in the advance of civilization and progress are worn out. Of course the American people are to be found in the front rank of progress, not hand in hand with any nation, but a few steps in advance. They belong to a race upon whose stock they have considerably improved, and they are not going to fall behind. When Dickens paid his first visit here, twenty odd years ago, he was very civil in his speeches, but when he returned to England he was as malignant in his books as he was delicate in his speeches. When he paid his second visit, however, he found nothing to condemn in our social life and habits. The satires contained in his writings were superseded by an enforced apology and gilded over with genial palaver. The speeches of English celebrities concerning this country are all of the same stamp. Nobody here appreciates them beyond their value. From the recent effort of the author of "Tom Brown at Rugby" we are disposed to think that he can make a book much better than deliver a lecture.

The New Darien Expedition.

We are glad to learn that Commander Selfridge will undertake about the middle of next November a new Darien expedition. Besides completing his exploration—which the rainy season interrupted—of the San Blas routes, and perhaps making that of the route from Polahka, Commander Selfridge intends to explore thoroughly the Atrato and Truando route, which is now regarded, in accordance with Humboldt's opinion, as the most feasible for an interoceanic ship canal. Of this route we gave a full editorial account on Tuesday. The officers of the new Darien expediton will be selected exclusively from the navy, the telegraphic and other civil corps being dispensed with. The inconveniences inseparably connected with "mixed expeditions" will thus be avoided. A conflict of authority is almost always inevitable in such an expedition unless the province of the scientific corps is accurately defined to their satisfaction and that of the naval officer commanding it. It is highly creditable to the thorough and extensive course of studies at the Naval School in Annapolis that its graduates may be considered as competent to perform the manifold duties of an exploring expedition, which science and commerce count among the most important undertakings of modern times.

THE MCFARLAND-RICHARDSON TRAGEDY IN ANOTHER ACT.—The assassination of a prominent citizen of Cleveland, Ohio, by a husband who imagined his honor to have been outraged, is only another act in the domestic tragedy that occupied the attention of our citizens some time since. It seems that the killer of the wife seducer even relied upon the result of the McFarland case for immunity in the homicide he committed. A call upon New York lawyers is made by the murderer's friends and, no doubt the price of insanity depositions will be immediately enhanced in the Cleveland criminal market. We give to-day further and very interesting particulars in regard to this latest fireside spoliation and its tragical consequences.

PRINCE FREDERICK CHARLES.—It has been reported that Prince Frederick Charles, who is in command of the German forces around Metz, is dead. It is not impossible that this rumor is unfounded. It was previously reported that the Prince had been taken ill with fever. The death of the Prince would be a calamity to Prussia. He is one of the best German generals whom this war has developed. But his death will not alter the situation. It is not impossible that this rumor will prove as foundationless as the rumor regarding Von Moltke.

YACHTING AFFAIRS.

The match race between the Sappho and Cambria, announced for yesterday, did not come off, owing to the absence of wind and the heavy fog that prevailed the entire morning. The Cambria is at present lying inside the Horseshoe and the Sappho is anchored off the Club House, Staten Island. The race has been set down for to-day, and both yachts will probably proceed at an early hour this morning to the lightship, whence they are to sail twenty miles to windward and back.

In the contest on Tuesday between the Cambria and Dauntless neither vessel turned the stakeboat, as already mentioned. It appears that in the first place the steamer made the twenty miles from the lightship too rapidly for the contesting vessels, which were beating to windward, and that when she came to anchor she was entirely out of sight. Darkness having set in she hoisted two lamps, but, failing to see them, the yachts showed blue lights to indicate their positions. The Dauntless was then (seven o'clock) a good distance ahead, the Cambria standing off on the lee quarter. The blue lights were seen from on board the steamer, but it was not thought they belonged to the yachts. In any case the steamer had no means of attracting attention beyond her two lamps and repeated whistles. Unable to discover her whereabouts, after a long and vigorous search, the contestants eased sheets and returned homeward before the wind. The race, however, will probably be renewed to-morrow under more auspicious circumstances.

CRICKET.

Great International Match.

On Friday and Saturday of the present week the great cricketing event of this season will come off at Germantown, Philadelphia, on which occasion a grand international contest between eleven Americans and eleven Englishmen will take place. The American team will be composed of the flower of the famous Young America Club, the members of which are all Americans, and on whose grounds the match is to be played. Mr. George Newhall will act as their captain. The English eleven will be under the captaincy of Mr. Restall, of the Germantown Club, and will, so far as can be ascertained, comprise the following players:—Messrs. Restall, Hargreaves and McIntyre, of the Germantown Club; Pearson, of the Philadelphia Club; Bance, Norley and Carpenter, of St. George Club; Byron, Rogerson and Keller, of the New York Club, and A. Eastwood, of the Willow Club.

Arrival of the Steamer Hermann at Bremen—No French Cruisers Encountered—The Blockade Raised.

BERLIN, Oct. 12, 1870.

The steamship Hermann, of the North German Lloyd, which left New York on the evening of the 26th of September for Bremen, has arrived at the latter port in safety.

Her officers report no blockaders in sight of the coast. No French cruisers were encountered on the voyage.

Commerce to German ports may now be regarded as fully resumed.

The Blockade—The French Fleet Sighted off Heligoland.

LONDON, Oct. 12, 1870.

The French fleet has been sighted off Heligoland. The authorities at Altona and other ports have been warned to remove outer buoys and lights of their harbors to prevent surprise.

BELGIUM.

The Prussian Minister at Brussels Retained—Protest Against the Despoliation of the Pope.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 12, 1870.

The report that the Prussian Minister at Brussels has been recalled, which has been lately extensively published, is untrue.

An enthusiastic meeting was held at Mechlin yesterday to protest against the deposition of the Pope. The Archbishop of Mechlin presided, and among the participants in the proceedings were the Archbishops of Buffalo and Calcutta. The protest was unanimously adopted.

ITALY.

Enthusiastic Reception of General La Marmora at Rome.

FLORENCE, Oct. 12, 1870.

Lieutenant General La Marmora entered Rome yesterday, and was received with hearty demonstrations of welcome by the people.

ENGLAND.

The Red Sea Cables Again Working—The London Times on the Tehuantepec Canal Route—The Duke of Cambridge's Army Management Denounced.

LONDON, Oct. 12, 1870.

Communication with Aden and India, via the Red Sea cables, was again established this afternoon.

The London Times in its financial article to-day refers discouragingly to the Tehuantepec canal route, but approves that of Nicaragua, and thinks, in view of the Pacific Railroad and similar great American projects, the latter work will be a success.

George Otto Trevelyan, one of the junior Lords of the Admiralty, last evening made a speech to his constituents on the border burghs at Selkirk, Scotland. He complained of the Duke of Cambridge's army management as slow and insufficient in times so critical.

NEW YORK'S CRIMINALS.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1870.

The new Court of Appeals commenced its session yesterday with a large calendar of preferred criminal cases. The first reached was that in which Owen Hand, the Brooklyn murderer, was plaintiff in error. Voluminous briefs were submitted by counsel for Hand and District Attorney Samuel D. Morris. Decision reserved.

The case of Remsen and Hannigan, the police officers convicted in New York General Sessions of robbing a Kentuckian named Wells, was ably argued by ex-Judge S. H. Stuart for plaintiffs in error, and replied to by District Attorney Samuel B. Garvin. Decision reserved.

The case of Jerome Bradley, the bond robber, next followed, and the decision of the Supreme Court was affirmed.

The appeal of the People vs. Patrick McDonald, the notorious emigrant swindler, then came on to be heard. Mr. William F. Howe, counsel for McDonald, quoted from many legal authorities, and urged with great effect the same objections as secured a reversal of the judgment in the General Term of the Supreme Court last June, whereby McDonald was released. Decision reserved.

District Attorney Garvin finished by summing up the case of "Hari" Allen, convicted of robbing John P. Smith, of Connecticut, of $712, and sentenced to the State Prison for five years by the Court of General Sessions in November last. It will be remembered that Allen's counsel, Mr. W. F. Howe, obtained a reversal of his case in the Supreme Court, through which the prison doors were flung open to Allen, and he was permitted to again walk the streets of New York. The same questions were again brought to light to-day in the Court of Appeals, and Mr. Howe very forcibly alluded to the legal technicalities with which the case abounded. Decision in this case also reserved.

NATIONAL PRISON CONGRESS.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12, 1870.

The National Prison Congress commenced its sessions here to-day at ten o'clock A. M., in Thorn's Hall. A permanent organization was accomplished by making Governor R. B. Hayes, of Ohio, President.

Dr. Wines, of the New York Prison Association, gave a general account of the prisons of the United States. He said that there were 40 State prisons, 25 houses of correction and about 2,000 county jails, besides a large number of station houses and lock-ups, chiefly in the cities and large towns; that there were on an average 15,000 prisoners in the State prisons, from 5,000 to 6,000 in the houses of correction, from 40,000 to 50,000 in the common jails, and perhaps as many in the lock-ups; that crime had increased within the last decade, but disproportionately to the increased population.

Dr. Pierce, from the New York House of Refuge, read an elaborate and interesting paper on the reformatories of the United States, in which he traced their history and explained their present condition.

In the evening two papers were read which had been forwarded by foreign gentlemen. The first by F. Brunn, formerly Chancellor of Denmark and now inspector general of prisons in that country, giving an exceedingly interesting account of prison discipline there. Points of great value in the Danish method of prison treatment were developed, well worthy of attention in other countries.

The second paper was by Sir John Bowring, of England. His essay treats on the purposes of prison discipline. The view he took of a prison was that of a moral hospital, in which prisoners were patients. This thought was the key to his theory of prison treatment.

A very able discussion followed in which the question was, whether the highest pecuniary result in prison arrangement was compatible with the highest moral result.

The only paper read in the evening was by Mr. Brockway, under the title of "The Idea of a True Prison System for a State."

EUROPEAN MARKETS.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.—LONDON, Oct. 13.—Consols opened at 92⅜ for both money and the account. American securities quiet. United States five-twenty bonds, 1862, 91½; 1865, old, 90¼; 1867, 89⅛; ten-forties, 86. Stocks quiet. Erie Railway shares, 18; Illinois Centrals, 114; Atlantic and Great Western, 28¼.

FRANKFORT BOURSE.—FRANKFORT, Oct. 12.—United States five-twenty bonds are quoted at 95½ for the old issue.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.—LIVERPOOL, Oct. 12.—The market opened quiet. Middling uplands, 8⅞d. a 9⅛d.; middling Orleans, 8⅝d. a 9⅜d. The sales of the day are estimated at 10,000 bales.

LIVERPOOL BREADSTUFFS MARKET.—LIVERPOOL, Oct. 12.—Wheat 8s. 7d. a 8s. 8d. per cental for No. 2 red Western. Corn 28s. 6d. a 29s. per quarter.

THE ELECTIONS.

Fragmentary returns of Tuesday's elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska come dribbling in upon us. They, however, indicate no material change in the result as announced in the HERALD yesterday.

Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12, 1870.

Complete returns from the Second Congressional district elect Creeley by 414 majority.

Complete returns from the Fourth Congressional district elect Kelley by 2,500 majority.

In the city wards of the Fifth district Harmer (republican), for Congress, has a majority of 41.

Bucks county gives a democratic majority of at least 900—a republican loss—which will elect Reading (democrat).

In the Sixth district the election of Mr. Oliver (republican) is claimed, as is also Mr. Schoonmaker, in the Twelfth. The latter, however, is in doubt.

The vote in the Eighteenth district is very close, both parties claiming the majority. The full democratic ticket for the Senate and Assembly in this district, composed of Lycoming, Union and Snyder counties, is elected, making a gain of two members.

The Nineteenth district (Erie county) gives a republican majority of two thousand, Cameron county gives a republican majority of ninety-five and Clearfield county a democratic majority of twelve hundred.

Mr. Scofield is undoubtedly elected, as the democratic majority in Elk county will be largely overbalanced by the republican majority in Forest, Jefferson, McKean and Warren counties.

Mr. Cessna's election in the Sixteenth is still in doubt, and also Mr. Stewart's, in the Twenty-first district.

In the State Legislature the republicans will have a majority of five in the Senate—a gain of two; the House will stand the same as last year—a republican majority of twenty. In the City Councils the republicans will have a majority of twelve in the Select—a gain of four—and twenty-nine in the Common—a loss of one.

Mayor Fox yesterday protested, both to United States Marshal Gregory and to Governor Geary, against the employment of the marines to keep the peace at the polls, as a violation of the constitution of the United States. Marshal Gregory, in his reply, quoted the act of Congress authorizing the appointing of special deputies during the election for members of Congress, and stated that the marines were called out because he was informed that the deputies he had appointed were arrested by city policemen, who were present at the precinct in question, and were actually engaged in excluding colored voters from the polls.

In Twentieth district Griffith (democrat) has 700 majority over Gilfillan.

In Twenty-first district Foster (democrat) has 600 majority over Stewart.

In the Twenty-third district McJunkin (rep.) is elected.

In the Twenty-fourth district McClelland (dem.) has 900 majority over Donley.

In the Thirteenth district Mercur (rep.) has about 150 majority.

Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12, 1870.

The election returns are meagre but indicate large republican gains throughout the State. The republicans gain one Congressman in the First district and one in the Ninth district. The contest in Schenck's district and in McClurg's district is very close. It may even come out that Schenck is beaten by a small majority.

The State has gone republican by about 15,000 majority. There are one or two very close districts in Southern Ohio.

In the Second district a slight discrepancy in the Eighteenth ward will require a recount for adjustment. The present figures show a majority of 1,517 for Stevenson. The republican majority for the highest candidate in Hamilton county is about 2,500. Special despatches received here from Highland county give Smith, republican, in the Sixth district of Ohio 100 majority. In Clermont the democrats claim 375 majority while the republicans concede only 300.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12, 1870.

Fourteen democratic counties show a republican gain over last year of 3,796; fifteen republican counties show a republican gain of 331. Total gain in twenty-seven counties, 4,127. The republicans gain two Congressmen—Perry and Foster—and probably lose two—Schenck and McClurg.

Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 12, 1870.

The election returns come in slowly. The result on the State ticket is very doubtful. Both parties claim the State. The majority will be very small on either side, and may require the official vote to decide. Republican gains are indicated, however, in small quantities all over the State.

Indianapolis city and county—The returns are almost complete. Republican majority 850 on State ticket.

The republicans gain two members of the Legislature in Evansville.

The city of Evansville has gone republican by 600. Williams' majority is about 850.

Hascall (independent) is nowhere.

Nebraska.

OMAHA, Oct. 12, 1870.

Returns from different portions of the State indicate the re-election of Governor Butler (republican) by about 2,000, and Taffe (republican), for Congress, by about 3,000 majority. The entire republican State ticket is elected.

Thayer will probably be returned to the United States Senate.

NARCISSE.

Yesterday evening was what is termed an "off night" at the Fourteenth Street theatre between the appearances of Madame Seebach, who will this evening present herself for the first time before a New York audience in her grand part of Louisa Miller, in Schiller's magnificent tragedy, "Kabale und Liebe." The piece announced was Brachvogel's "Narcisse," one of the finest dramatic productions of the German muse. For years "Narcisse" has been a favorite of the American stage in both English and German, and Mr. Bandmann won some of his freshest laurels in the title rôle, as he performed it in many of our leading cities on both shores of the continent. The subject and the plot of the play are alike extremely interesting, the scene being laid in that period of the reign of Louis XV. when Madame de Pompadour was the chief favorite of a dissolute monarch and court and by her intrigues brought untold woe on France. Narcisse was a poor musician, but a man of remarkable intellectual gifts, whom Diderot mentions very specially in his celebrated "Conversations." His wife had been enticed away from her home and the husband to whom her beauty, grace and former innocence had been all in all, and had been introduced to a life of splendid shame at Paris. At last she had become the mistress of the King and had grown to such a height of daring ambition that she ventured to plot the separation of Queen Maria Levinska from her royal spouse. Another party, with the good of France at heart, struggled against an infamy which would have elevated an abandoned woman to the throne. This false wife was no other than the too famous Pompadour. The Duc de Choiseul, the Mephistophelian Prime Minister of France, once the lover of this woman, but by her stinging revelation that she had never really cared for him but had sought only to gratify her devouring ambition, become her bitter secret enemy, discovers the early relation between her and Narcisse, who, is now a half crazed beggar, wandering about the streets of Paris. Choiseul arranges a plan by which the unfortunate husband shall be confronted with the faithless wife whom he has never ceased to mourn. The scheme is to introduce him in a play to be performed before Pompadour in the hall of Choiseul's palace, and in this the Minister is aided by a talented actress, Doris Ruinault, who is enthusiastically devoted to the Queen and to the cause of her country, which is rushing to ruin under the influence of Pompadour. But she does not know that the poor wretch for whom she has learned to feel the deepest interest is the wronged husband, until it is too late to recede from the task she has promised to perform. The confrontation takes place as arranged, the shock is terrible, Pompadour is completely unmasked, and, under the fearful denunciations of Narcisse, dies of fright and horror on the stage. He also expires at her feet.

A play like this, in which Brachvogel has displayed all the wealth of extraordinary dramatic genius affords scenes of intensely pathetic and tragic power, and the respectable and attentive audience present last night will unanimously bear us out in saying that the performance was entirely worthy of the occasion. In fact, the house was taken completely by surprise. Mlle. Veneta as Pompadour confirmed all the praise we have hitherto bestowed; Mr. Dombrowski as Choiseul acted his part to the life, and Mlle. Bissinger as Doris was admirable. But the triumph of the evening was on all sides accorded to Mr. Harry in the very difficult emotional part of Narcisse. That gentleman's performance, hitherto, in second parts, good as it has been, had by no means prepared us for such a revelation. Mr. Harry's impersonation, from the first act onward, rose higher and higher to the loftiest stadium of artistic triumph. In the court scene he deeply interested; in the pagoda and moonlight soliloquies he held every hearer spell-bound; in the closing catastrophe and climax he overpowered the house, and was again and again recalled, amid honest, heartfelt and spontaneous applause. Such a performance of "Narcisse" as we witnessed last night is rare on any boards. It left both Bandmann and Dawison in the shade, and we sincerely hope that it may be repeated for the benefit of the throngs who will fill the theatre, now that they know what an intellectual treat it offers.

Our conscientious thanks are due to the entire company, who acquitted themselves so superbly last night, and to Messrs. Grau we must award most earnest congratulations.

RACING AND TROTTING.

American Jockey Club.

Six races are on the programme for to-day, the first being the Members' Cup Handicap Sweepstakes, one mile and an eighth; the second a sweepstakes of $50 each, play or pay, with $1,000 added, two mile heats; the third a selling sweepstakes, with the usual allowances for low prices, one mile and five-eighths; the fourth a purse race for three year olds, winners penalized with extra weights, one mile and a quarter; the fifth a purse race for two year olds, with similar conditions to the preceding one, three-quarters of a mile, and the sixth will be a match race between the two year old colts of Messrs. Dennison & Crawford and Mr. Belmont.

For the Members' Cup Handicap Sweepstakes there are two entries—Climax and Rapture; and this will be a capital race. In the two mile heat race there are four entries—Oakleaf, Nannie Douglas, Haric and Midday. This also will be a close affair. The selling race has in it Edenton, Rapture, Oakleaf, Climax and Athlone. In the mile and a quarter Mozart, Lady Petry, Flash of Lightning, Echo, a colt by Doneraile, and Hilarity are entered; and as they are all good three year olds the race should be a fine one. The three-quarters of a mile race has Elsie, Nickajack and Mascus in. The sports of the day will end with a match between the two year olds, and no doubt much money is pending on the result.

POOL SELLING LAST EVENING.

Pools for the five races set down for to-day at Jerome Park were sold last evening at the rooms of the club, 920 Broadway. The gathering in the room was not large, but the bidding was kept up with great spirit throughout the evening. Climax, Rapture, Lady Petry and Mozart were the special favorites, as the figures in the following quotations will show:—

MEMBERS' CUP.

Prospect Park Fair Grounds.

The deluging rain of yesterday morning prevented thousands of the curiously inclined from attending the agricultural and horticultural fair now in progress at the Prospect Park Fair Grounds, and in reality was instrumental in causing a total suspension until to-day of the various matters on the programme. Should the weather be fit and the track in good condition, which it will undoubtedly be, the Prospect Park four-year-old Colt Stakes, amounting to $2,050, in which there are nine entries, and the purse for horses that have never beaten 2:50, seven entries, will be trotted this afternoon. The attractions at the Prospect are of such a nature as will insure a good attendance and a corresponding amount of enthusiasm.

POOL SELLING LAST NIGHT.

In consequence of the heavy rain the track at the Prospect Park Fair Ground was not in order for the races yesterday, and they were consequently postponed until to-day. In the meantime, however, the interest in the races increases, and last night there was a good attendance at the sale of pools at the Assembly billiard rooms in Washington street, Brooklyn. A large number of pools were sold, one being that of the 2:50 class of horses for a purse of $500, and the other being four-year colts for the Park Stakes. In the 2:50 class Lady Hughes was the favorite, and in the colt race the honors seemed to be divided between Nicotine and Socrates. The sales averaged as follows:—

2:50 CLASS—PURSE $500.

Hughes	$50	$50	$50	$50	$50
Coleman	18	14	20	13	12

FOUR-YEAR-OLD COLT RACE.

Socrates	$50	$50	$50	$40	$60
Nicotine	40	36	36	40	70
Field	18	12	10	20	40

Trotting at Springfield, Mass.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 12, 1870.

The rain storm caused a postponement of the races of the Springfield Club, and the programme will be continued one day. The rain did not, however, prevent the finishing of the 2:32 race, and at noon the pool buyers and a few others assembled on the track to ascertain whether their tickets were good for anything or not. When darkness closed in on Tuesday night Belle of Toronto and Thomas Jefferson had each won two heats. In the rain and mud the

was started, and Kansas Chief, Thomas Jefferson and White Fawn contested it sharply, the Chief winning by a length, in 2:40¾.

The sixth heat was won by Jefferson, after a close contest with the Chief, in 2:37½.

The following is a summary:—

HAMPDEN PARK, SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 12.—Purse of $1,000, for horses that never beat 2:32, mile heats, three in five, in harness; $300 to second, $100 to third horse.

W. S. Smith entered ch. s. Thomas Jefferson	1	6	6	1	2	1
G. P. Carpenter entered Belle of Toronto	3	1	1	4	4	3
G. N. Ferguson entered b. g. Kansas Chief	6	2	5	2	1	2

D. Mace entered w. g. White Fawn	2	3	2	5	5	r.o.
O. A. Hickok entered s. s. St. Elmo	distanced.

Time—2:32¾, 2:33½, 2:32¾, 2:33½, 2:40¾, 2:37½.

The Rensselaer Park Races.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1870.

The Fall meeting of the Rensselaer Park Association commenced to-day. For the race for all horses that had never trotted better than three minutes there were nine entries, seven of which started. The purse was $500—$300 to first horse, $150 to second and $50 to third. The race was won by D. Mace's Coquette, James McKee's Lady Brisman taking second money and M. W. Olcott's Pownal Mare third. Five heats were trotted. The best time was 2:45.

The race for all horses that have not trotted better than 2:34 was postponed until Saturday.

Horse Notes.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

I wish you would state in your paper that I will trot Honest Allen and running mate against any horse in the world, mile heats, best three in five, from $1,000 to $5,000 a side; George Wilkes against any stallion, mile heats, best three in five, in harness or to wagons, for the same amount; also against any horse, mile heats, best three in five, to wagons, for $1,000 a side. To be trotted either at Fleetwood or Prospect Park any day within three weeks. Yours truly,

WILLIAM H. BORST.

ARMY INTELLIGENCE.

The appointment of Colonel Hatch as a member of the board to examine officers under the new army law has been revoked, as he would not be able to reach Washington from his station in Texas in time for the meeting of the Board, and Colonel Thomas H. Ruger, of the Eighteenth infantry, has been appointed in his place.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

A despatch from London says that the United States steamer Plymouth has arrived at Kiel, though that port is ostensibly closed by the blockade. Other American men-of-war are expected there.

The Secretary of the Navy has ordered a naval general court martial to commence at Washington Navy Yard on the 20th inst. for the trial of Paymasters William G. Marcy, Forbes Parker, James S. Girard and Charles H. Lockwood for alleged defalcation. This court will consist of Admiral L. M. Goldsborough, President; Commodores Henry Walke, Fabius Stanley and Benjamin F. Sands, Captain H. K. Davenport and Paymasters H. M. Heiskill and William B. Boggs.

Captain William G. Temple has been authorized to act as Judge Advocate of court.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Horse Talk is the name of a new local sheet. Its jokes are jockey-lar. It seeks no aims, for its Shakspearian motto is "Richard is hoarse with calling thee to arms."

GENERAL LEE.

Death of the Great Southern Chief—Virginia's Capital in Mourning—Suspension of Business in Richmond—Resolutions of the Legislature—Where Shall the Hero be Buried?

LEXINGTON, Oct. 12—10 A. M.

General Robert E. Lee breathed his last at thirty minutes past nine o'clock this morning, of congestion of the brain, aged sixty-three years, eight months and twenty-three days.

RICHMOND, Oct. 12, 1870.

The brief telegram of General Lee's relapse this morning had not prepared the community for the sad and sudden intelligence of his death, which was received with evidences of the most profound sorrow. A gloom is spread over the city like that which followed the terrible calamity at the Capitol in April last. The eyes of some of Lee's old veterans were moistened, and women shed tears of sorrow when they heard the sad news. No event could possibly have created more painful regret among a whole people as this, for everybody seems to feel as if they had lost a friend.

To-morrow all the bells of the city churches will be tolled from sunrise to sunset. Business will be generally suspended. Crape will be hung at all the doors of the houses, and the public buildings will be festooned with the traditional emblem of so great an affliction. Religious services will also be held and such appropriate ceremonies as are befitting in the case of such a sad bereavement.

The Chamber of Commerce was in session when the news was announced. That body immediately suspended business and adopted the following resolution:—

That this Chamber of Commerce recommend to its members and the citizens generally to close their places of business and place crape upon their doors during the day, to-morrow, in token of the general grief and as a tribute to the memory of the good and great man who has fallen in the midst of his usefulness and honors.

The Chamber then adjourned to meet on Wednesday next.

The Governor will communicate the death of Virginia's great hero to the General Assembly to-morrow, when an appropriate tribute to his memory will be passed by that body.

It has not yet been decided where the interment will be made. The people of Lexington will insist that he shall be laid with Stonewall Jackson, whose last words were: "Bury me at Lexington, in the valley of Virginia." The family burying ground of the Lees is at Arlington, but this has been so desecrated by negroes that public sentiment everywhere will be averse to his interment there. It is more than likely the Governor will recommend that the honored remains be laid in Hollywood Cemetery, near this city, where so many of the heroes of the Army of Northern Virginia now rest on fame's eternal camping ground.

Sketch of Robert Edmund Lee.

On a quiet autumn morning, in the land which he loved so well, and, as he held, served so faithfully, the spirit of Robert Edmund Lee left the clay which it had so much ennobled and travelled out of this world into the great and mysterious land. Yesterday the expressions of regret which sprang from the few who surrounded the bedside of the dying soldier and Christian will be swelled to-day into one mighty voice of sorrow, resounding throughout our country and extending over all parts of the world where his great genius and his many virtues are known. For not to the Southern people alone shall be limited the tribute of a tear over the dead Virginian. Here in the North, forgetting that the time was when the sword of Robert Edmund Lee was drawn against us—forgetting and forgiving all the years of bloodshed and agony—we have long since ceased to look upon him as the Confederate leader, but have claimed him as one of ourselves; have cherished and felt proud of his military genius as belonging to us; have recounted and recorded his triumphs as our own; have extolled his virtues as reflecting honor upon us—for Robert Edmund Lee was an American, and the great nation which gave him birth would be to-day unworthy of such a son if she regarded him lightly.

Never had mother a nobler son. In him the military genius of America was developed to a greater extent than ever before. In him all that was pure and lofty in mind and purpose found lodgment. Dignified without presumption, affable without familiarity, he united all those charms of manners which made him the idol of his friends and of his soldiers, and won for him the respect and admiration of the world. Even as, in the days of his triumph, glory did not intoxicate, so when the dark clouds swept over him adversity did not depress. From the hour that he surrendered his sword at Appomattox to the fatal autumn morning he passed among men noble in his quiet, simple dignity, displaying neither bitterness nor regret over the irrevocable past. He conquered us in misfortune by the grand manner in which he sustained himself, even as he dazzled us by his genius when the tramp of his soldiers resounded through the valleys of Virginia.

And for such a man we are all tears and sorrow to-day. Standing beside his grave men of the South and men of the North can mourn with all the bitterness of four years of warfare erased by this common bereavement. May this unity of grief—this unselfish manifestation over the loss of the Bayard of America—in the season of dead leaves and withered branches which this death ushers in, bloom and blossom like the distant coming spring into the flowers of a heartier accord!

EARLY CAREER.

Robert E. Lee was born in Virginia, in the year 1806. His father was the celebrated General Henry Lee (named by his contemporaries, in familiarity, Harry Lee), the known friend and warm eulogist of George Washington. Like all the Lees, deceased had ever a strong affection for his native State. During the early days of the Revolution, when our forefathers struggled to secure the independence we now enjoy, the Lees distinguished themselves in liberty's cause and labored faithfully and energetically for America's freedom. General Robert E. Lee, whose death we are called upon this day to chronicle, received a liberal education, and was admitted to West Point as a cadet in 1825; four years later he graduated with honor from this school, which has given to the American nations almost all of the most brilliant, able and accomplished soldiers which are to be found in the pages of American history. Lee was second in his class of forty-six members, among whom we find the names of Joseph E. Johnston, O. M. Mitchell and C. P. Buckingham, all of whom have attained eminence in the profession of arms. Johnson distinguished himself on the Confederate side, and the gallant Mitchell, the accomplished scholar, as well as the intrepid soldier, a name of which every American feels proud, has already passed away.

A VISIT TO EUROPE.

Shortly after leaving West Point Lieutenant Lee made a voyage to Europe, where his manners and acquirements secured him the entrée to the best society of the European capitals. The young Virginian became a favorite abroad, and though his visit there was one of pleasure and enjoyment he nevertheless found occasion to busy himself with inquiries into matters appertaining to the profession which he had chosen. This experience, slender as it was, proved of advantage to him afterwards. He stored his mind with what was useful, and when in future years he had to draw upon this store of knowledge he did so but to improve and adapt it for his own advantage. On his return home he rejoined his regiment. In 1836 he was promoted from second to first lieutenant, and two years later, in 1838, he was made captain. The year 1845 saw him appointed a member of the Board of Engineers.

WAR WITH MEXICO.

In 1846 the trouble which for some time had been brewing between the United States and the restless and fiery republic of Mexico was brought to a head. The American army marched for the frontier and entered Mexican soil. Robert E. Lee was chief engineer of the army in Mexico. The gallantry of his conduct at Cerro Gordo won for him his promotion to major April 18, 1846. In the summer following the fierce and bloody conflicts of Contreras and Churubusco took place, and at both Lee's bravery was so conspicuous that his promotion to a lieutenant colonelcy followed on August 20. The storming of Chapultepec, where so many brave men met death, afforded Lee another chance to distinguish himself, and for his conduct on that bloody day he was rewarded with a colonelcy. At Chapultepec, Lee was badly wounded. When the Mexican war was brought to a close he was reappointed a member of the Board of Engineers, which position he continued to hold until 1852, when he was raised to the post of Superintendent of West Point Military Academy, which he held till March, 1855, when he was appointed lieutenant colonel of cavalry. On the 16th of March, 1861, he was appointed colonel of cavalry, and on the 25th day of the following month he resigned his commission in the United States Army and offered his sword to Virginia.

HIS REASON FOR JOINING THE REBELLION.

It has, we think, never been denied that when the secession movement began he was opposed to it. In conversation he is reported to have said that he did not believe the election of Mr. Lincoln a sufficient cause for dissolving the Union. Furthermore, there is no doubt that General Lee felt an ardent affection for the Union. But he had been reared in the school of State rights, and he resigned his commission because he held that his first allegiance was due to his native State. Had Virginia never seceded he never would have taken up arms against the national government. Thus, however much we may condemn the act, we can hardly blame the man. His motives were as pure as could be. No man mourned his defection more than General Scott, who regarded him as, next to General Albert Sydney Johnston, the best officer in the army.

HIS MILITARY OPERATIONS IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Virginia accepted the offer of Lee, and appointed him Commander-in-Chief of the State forces. Before long the confederacy was organized, and Jeff Davis commissioned Lee a full general. Five of these full generals were appointed—Cooper, Lee, Albert Sydney Johnston, G. T. Beauregard and Joseph E. Johnston. Cooper was Adjutant General of the government. Beauregard and Joseph E. Johnston were in the North and Central Virginia, Albert Sydney Johnston was ordered to the west and Lee was assigned to duty in West Virginia. His field of operations was small and his resources for campaigning next to nothing. The organization of his forces was so defective that it hardly existed. Lee importuned the authorities for the means to hold West Virginia, but in vain. All the strength of the confederacy was directed to the armies organizing under Beauregard and Joe Johnson. As a consequence Lee effected worse than nothing. His half-armed, undisciplined troops were beaten and a large territory lost to the South in a few weeks.

IN COMMAND OF THE ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA.

Bull Run had been fought and lost by the Union army. Months of inactivity followed, broken only by the disastrous engagement at Ball's Bluff and a few minor combats. The year 1862 opened, however, actively. Grant's army was set in motion and Fort Donelson captured. Immediately after Nashville was evacuated and the whole of Tennessee thrown open. In this critical situation Beauregard was sent to the West to aid Albert Sydney Johnston and Joseph E. Johnston remained in command in Northern Virginia. But on the 31st of May Joe Johnston was wounded at the battle of Seven Pines, and it became a question for a few days as to who would succeed him. General Lee was ordered to take command of the army. He did so under most inauspicious circumstances. Not only was he laboring under the cloud of recent disasters, but the army was dispirited and almost demoralized. Discipline scarcely existed in its ranks. Within a month after Lee came a marked change was noticeable. His energy, well seconded by the efforts of the rebel authorities, soon made his men confident and resolute. For weeks he remained on the defensive, deaf to all clamors to advance, but determined to move only when his preparations were complete. At length he gave the order and his army advanced upon the federal forces besieging Richmond. For seven days the two giants met in battle, and the carnage on both sides was fearful. Lee's plan was to destroy McClellan utterly. Two things prevented its consummation—first the stubborn and heroic resistance of the Union army, and next the dilatoriousness of Hugh and Magruder in not moving in time from Petersburg to cut off the retreat to the James river. But though he failed to capture McClellan's army he undeniably gained a great triumph in raising the siege of Richmond. This done he advanced his army rapidly in the direction of Washington, routed Pope at Manassas in August, and crossing the Potomac river fought the battle of Antietam on September 17. It is doubtful, notwithstanding his repulse, if he would have left Maryland had the people risen to aid him as he expected them to do when he entered the State. Finding them indifferent, if not hostile, he withdrew his army into Virginia. The Union forces followed him: Burnside took command, and Lee beat him at Fredericksburg December 12-16. Hooker next led the Union forces and was signally defeated at Chancellorsville in the battle of May 1 to 4 of 1863. This was the critical point in the fortunes of the confederacy, and here Lee made the only mistake of his military career. He invaded Pennsylvania, instead of remaining in Virginia and sending part of his army to Mississippi to aid in the relief of Vicksburg. Gettysburg followed and his army was repulsed and forced to retreat to Virginia. When General Grant opened the campaign of 1864 the cause of the Confederacy was on the wane. Nevertheless, it was in this campaign that Lee displayed the greatest military genius. He fought against overwhelming numbers every step of the way to Petersburg, handling his men with a skill which excited the admiration of even his opponents. Every flank movement made to cut him off from his base was foiled, and when the two armies finally settled down for the long and laborious siege of Petersburg Grant's losses had nearly equalled the entire strength of Lee's army. What came after the siege scarcely needs recounting. The defence was as heroic as the assault was gallant and determined. Attack upon attack failed until April 2, when Grant threw the whole weight of his army upon the attenuated line of Lee and crushed it. The retreat—a hopeless one from the start—failed, and on the 9th of April General Lee and the remnant of his army surrendered.

SINCE THE WAR.

The war over, General Lee returned to his home in Virginia and retired to private life. Elected president of Washington College, in Lexington, Va., his letter of acceptance showed how well he had accepted the political situation. "It is the duty of every citizen," he wrote, "in the present condition of the country to do all in his power to aid in the restoration of peace and harmony, and in no way to oppose the policy of the State or general government directed to that object." But once only was he tempted to take part in politics, and that was in 1868, when General Rosecrans visited White Sulphur Springs. But beyond giving his opinion then as to what would be the best course to be pursued towards the South, he never interfered in political matters. All his time and attention were devoted to Washington College, which he made popular and prosperous. When an effort was made by Judge Underwood to have him indicted for treason he wrote General Grant a letter on the subject. The General promptly replied that according to the terms of surrender his indictment would be an act of bad faith on the part of the government. Accordingly the movement to prosecute him was abandoned, and about the same time he sent in an application for pardon through Grant, who very generously endorsed it and used his influence to have it accorded. Between the two great military leaders of the country, in fact, there existed the kindest of feelings. President Grant has more than once expressed his admiration of Lee's public and private virtues, and will, we have no doubt, feel as much regret at his death as any of his fellow citizens.

THE END.

In person General Lee was a notably handsome man. He was tall of stature and admirably proportioned; his features were regular and most amiable in appearance, and in his manners he was courteous and dignified. In social life he was much admired. As a slaveholder he was beloved by his slaves for his kindness and consideration towards them. General Lee was also noted for his piety. He was an Episcopalian, and was a regular attendant at church. Having a perfect command over his temper, he was never seen angry, and his most intimate friends never heard him utter an oath. Indeed, it is doubtful if there are many men of the present generation who unite so many virtues and so few vices in each of themselves as did General Lee. He came nearer the ideal of the soldier and Christian general than any man we can think of, for he was a greater soldier than Havelock and equally as devout a Christian. In his death our country has lost a son in whom she might well be proud, and for whose services she might have stood in need had he lived a few years longer; for we are certain that, had occasion required it, General Lee would have given to the United States the benefit of all his great talents.

DEATH OF JUDGE GILBERT DEAN.

A telegram from Poughkeepsie announces the death of Hon. Gilbert Dean, at his residence in that city, at fifteen minutes past two o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased was a native of this State, having been born in Pleasant Valley, Dutchess county, during the early part of the present century. He entered the Amenia Seminary in May, 1837, and from thence went to Yale College in September of the same year, and graduated in 1841 with such men as Professor Emerson, Frank P. Blair, General Wadsworth and R. Storrs Willis. He took the first prize in mathematics and in composition, and was first President of the Linonian Society, beating Donald G. Mitchell for the position. On leaving college Mr. Dean went to Pine Plains, where he studied law, and on being admitted to the bar in 1844 moved to Poughkeepsie, where he began the practice of his profession, and in which he speedily rose to eminence. But few lawyers outside of this city have done a larger legal business in New York than he did. In 1850 he was nominated for representative in Congress by the democracy and was elected by a good majority. On the expiration of his term he was again nominated and re-elected by an increased vote; but early in 1855 he resigned the position to accept the office of Judge of the Supreme Court of New York. As a member of Congress Judge Dean was conspicuous for the able speeches he delivered and for the measures he introduced. He was a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and as such presented the famous resolutions, which were passed, thanking Captain Ingraham for the energy he displayed in the case of Koszta, the Hungarian. In 1856 he left the bench of the Supreme Court and came to New York, practising his profession here for some time. He was one of the counsel for the municipal authorities in the case of the city of New York against the Metropolitan Police. He was also engaged in the trial of the slaver Gordon, who was executed in this city, and also took part in the trial of Police Superintendent Kennedy. From the outbreak of the rebellion Mr. Dean declared in favor of its suppression, and throughout the conflict was known as a war democrat. At the same time he vigorously opposed the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus in the loyal States. In 1863 Mr. Dean was elected a member of the State Assembly from the Twenty-first ward, and served his term with credit. Since then he had held no office, but in the calm of civil life spent the remainder of his days.

MERCURY AND THE BLOOD FIEND.

A Man Shot and Stabbed on Board the Alaska at Aspinwall—Arrest of the Assailant—Another Man Robbed the Same Night and He Again Robbed by Another—Arrest of the Latter and Recovery of a Portion of the Goods.

On the arrival at this port last night of the steamship Alaska, Captain A. H. Gray, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, from Aspinwall on the 10th inst., word was sent to Captain McDonnell, of the Twenty-eighth precinct, to send an officer on board, and immediately left, accompanied by detectives Abe Riker and Jacob Von Gerichten. On going on board they found James Lynch, aged twenty-nine, of Troy, N. Y., in irons, and he was immediately conveyed to the station house, where formal complaint was made by John Collins, of Boston, Mass., a passenger on the Alaska, charging him with having on the night of the 8th inst., in the port of Aspinwall, feloniously assaulted him with a pistol and knife, inflicting severe, but not fatal wounds. The wounds were received in a melée between the two men. They were examined by the surgeon at police headquarters and pronounced not fatal, consisting of a pistol shot wound in the neck, the ball still remaining embedded in the back of the left shoulder, and knife wound on the left side of the head.

Henry Powell, a bartender, who could give no residence, was arrested at the same time and conveyed to the station house on complaint of Tim Ryan, of Washington street, New York, charged with stealing from complainant a gold watch and chain of value of ninety dollars and $250 in money, at Aspinwall on the same night. Ryan was returning from California, and the fact of his having a valuable watch and some money being known, excited the cupidity of a butcher, name unknown, who, with some accomplices, waylaid and robbed him while walking on the shore, and were immediately beset by Powell and some associates, and robbed in turn. Powell was the only one of the two gangs who came on to this city. Upon searching him the watch was found in his boot and the chain in a back pants pocket. The money was not recovered, and is supposed to have been left with some one of the gang in Aspinwall.

The two prisoners were immediately taken before Captain Kelso, of the Central Office, who holds them for further action by the Commissioners, before whom they will be taken at an early day.

Collins, whose wounds are now becoming very painful, will be sent to the hospital this morning, being conveyed on board for the present, at his own request.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12, 1870.

Appointment of Solicitor General.

Benjamin H. Bristow has just been appointed Solicitor General, under the law organizing the Department of Justice, with the Attorney General as its head. Mr. Bristow has served for some years past as United States Attorney for the State of Kentucky; he was also an officer in the late war. The President several weeks ago expressed his preference for that gentleman, but delayed making the appointment until the return of Attorney General Akerman, with whom he had a conference on the subject. The salary of the office is $7,500. In case of a vacancy in the office of Attorney General, or in his absence or disability, the Solicitor General has the power to exercise all the duties of the office.

Hurricane in the Gulf of Mexico.

A hurricane prevailed in the Gulf of Mexico and on the coast of Florida from the 1st to the 3d inst., blowing in a northeast direction. Pieces of wreck were seen floating. Owing to the hurricane the cable between Punta Rosa and Key West has not been repaired.

Transportation of the Cuban Mails.

The Postmaster General to-day issued an order for the Cuban mails from Southern cities to be sent to Cedar Keys, Fla., and thence taken to Havana by the Roberts line of steamers.

Marriage of an Octogenarian.

Hymen held full sway here yesterday. There were four marriages in high life, and the town was in an agitation of delight over the connubial events. One of the weddings deserves a special mention—that of Mr. Matthew Waite, an octogenarian, to Mrs. Julia A. Tarleton, a fascinating widow. The ceremony took place at the private residence of a friend on Massachusetts avenue, Rev. B. Peyton Brown, of Wesley chapel, officiating, in the presence of a few of the intimate friends of the parties. The happy pair are well known throughout the District, particularly among the Methodists, both of them having been for a long series of years zealous members of that Church.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

J. S. Fisher, of Australia, has returned to this city from Canada, and is stopping at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Mr. Fisher is one of the wealthiest landowners of Australia; he is a great horse connoisseur, and, it is asserted, has the finest and largest imported stud owned in Australia. He is here on a tour of pleasure and will in a few days leave for San Francisco, by the overland route.

Count Catacazy, the Russian Minister; Baron Lederer, the Austrian Minister, and Colonel Freyre, the Peruvian Minister, are sojourning at the Clarendon, in order to escape the dulness of the capital.

J. V. L. Pruyn, of Albany, ex-Member of Congress, and President of the State Board of Commissioners of Public Charities, is at the Brevoort House. Mr. Pruyn is in the city upon business connected with the many associations, both public and private, of which he is an officer.

Jefferson Davis returns from Europe by the City of Russia, and will stop, while in this city, at the New York Hotel, where rooms have been prepared for his advent.

Governor J. E. English and staff, of Connecticut, are expected to arrive in this city to-day. Rooms have been engaged for the party at the Grand Central Hotel. They come upon the invitation of the Ninth regiment, Colonel James Fisk, Jr., to attend the reception to be given by the Ninth in honor of the four visiting battalions from New England, viz., the Amoskeag Veterans, of Manchester, N. H.; the Newburyport Veterans, of Newburyport, Mass.; the Putnam Phalanx, of Hartford, Conn., and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, of Boston. The reception is to be given at the armory of the Twenty-second regiment this evening.

Miss Eliza Weathersby, one of Lina Edwin's beautiful blonde burlesquers, was reported a day or two since as having been married. Miss Weathersby denies having entered into any such alliance, and says "there is not the slightest foundation to justify the report." What a pity, and Eliza so pretty, too!

THE QUALITY OF MERCY.

Metropolitan Benevolence—Succor for the Wounded in the European War—The Foundlings—Relief for Cuba—St. Anne's Church and Parochial Schools.

Scarcely had the news of the frightful butchery of the first battles of the war now raging in France been published when our benevolent citizens commenced the organization of societies for the purpose of collecting money and stores for the relief of the victims. American, German and French societies vied with each other in this noble work, which still goes on, and although contributions for the sufferers in the conflict of arms was freely given, the charities at home were not forgotten. Below will be found notices of meetings, bazaars, and fairs now being held or to be held in this city for charitable purposes:—

THE RELIEF OF THE WOUNDED.

The American branch of the International Committee for the relief of the wounded in the Franco-Prussian war, known as the "American Association for Relief of Misery of Battle Fields," appeal to the humane and generous for money to enable them to worthily second the efforts of the European organization in alleviating the sufferings of the sufferers in France and Germany. Contributions in money should be addressed to Howard Potter, banking house of Brown Brothers, No. 61 Wall street. The Rev. Dr. Bellows is president of the association.

THE NEW YORKER MAENNERCHOR,

in conjunction with the Nineteenth ward Lese Verein, are arranging for a grand vocal and instrumental concert and dramatic recitations at the Terrace Garden, on Fifty-eighth street and Third avenue, the total receipts being destined to swell the fund contributed in aid of the German wounded in the present war. Mr. Hellenbauer's orchestra and Miss Rhode's Dramatic Company are expected to assist.

FAIR IN AID OF THE WOUNDED.

Preparations are now being made for a grand fair "in aid of the wounded soldiers within the German lines and to the widows and orphans in Germany," to be held on the 17th inst., corner of Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth streets and Broadway, under the presidency of Mrs. Consul General J. Roesing and a number of other distinguished ladies. Among the many benevolent enterprises of this sort and for like purposes this fair will not be the least. In fact it already promises to be a great success.

A LADIES' CUBAN COMMITTEE.

The Executive Committee of ladies, organized for the purpose of collecting subscriptions for the suffering people of Cuba—of which Mrs. Judge Roosevelt is president—earnestly appeal to our citizens for aid. They urge that the poor victims of Spanish oppression, deprived of their natural protectors and losing whatever means they may possess by confiscation, are absolutely moneyless, friendless and shelterless, sure that Americans cannot be indifferent to the sufferings of a struggling sister people and will not forget the sympathy and generosity for which they are distinguished. The ladies ask for money, clothing, new or old, and any article whatever that may be sold at fair or auction. Donations will be received by Mrs. Judge Roosevelt, at No. 836 Broadway.

NEW YORK FOUNDLING HOSPITAL.

A grand metropolitan fair, under charge of the Sisters of Charity, is now open at the Armory of the Twenty-second regiment, Fourteenth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues. The proceeds are to be devoted to the erection of a permanent foundling asylum, the want of which is severely felt by the noble sisters, to whom the public owe so much. The fair will be open until the 23d of next month. No more worthy enterprise commands the attention of the benevolent public to-day than this which the Sisters of Charity are so actively engaged in promoting.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH AND PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS.

The ladies of St. Anne's Church intend to hold a fair at the Academy of Music, from Monday, 24th October, to Saturday, November 5, for the purpose of assisting in the erection of the new church and parochial schools. Besides the ordinary attractions of a fair Grafulla's band will give a concert every evening.

THE LADIES' RELIEF COMMITTEE.

At a meeting of ladies connected with the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Tuesday last an organization was formed for the purpose of collecting money for the construction fund of the church, the relief of the poor, and to perform such charitable and Christian work as may be within its power. The name of the organization is "the Ladies' Relief Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest." Mrs. Ogden Hoffman was elected directress, Mrs. J. C. Bache secretary, and Mrs. Charles C. Leeds treasurer. The association intend to have a grand fair for the benefit of the Construction fund in December. An exhibition of wax work for the same object will be held on the 20th inst.

SUICIDE IN JERSEY CITY.

One of the most shocking cases of suicide ever known in Jersey occurred at four o'clock yesterday afternoon in Jersey City. A man named James Fierin, employed in a jewelry establishment, went into a vacant lot at the corner of Monticello avenue and Bowden street and drew a pocket knife across his throat with such force that the windpipe, jugular vein and carotid artery were severed. The gash extended from ear to ear. The body was taken in charge by the police, and, Coroner Burns being notified, an inquest was commenced. From all the statements given in evidence it appears that the unfortunate man was addicted to drink to such an extent that it is believed he was crazy when he committed suicide. The inquest was adjourned till to-morrow evening.

PROPOSALS.

OFFICE OF THE U. S. ENGINEERS, Oct. 8, 1870.

Proposals will be received at this office until 12 M. on the 19th of this month for dredging a channel through the shoals in the Taunton river, commencing at a point called the "Needles," situated 3½ miles below Taunton.

The channel is to be 60 feet wide and 4½ feet deep at low water, involving an excavation at the Needles of about 4,800 cubic yards. The dredging will be continued up the river until the whole amount available ($10,000) is expended.

The material to be dredged is hard, compact gravel, intermixed with boulders.

The dredged material is to be deposited on the flats opposite Dighton, inside of "Grassy Island" or "Dighton Rock," or at Pine Hill Bend, or near the piers of the old bridge, provided that proper bulkheads be constructed at the two last places to prevent the material being again washed into the channel.

Proposals must state the price per cubic yard for dredging and depositing the material in the place indicated. Also the price per cubic yard for the removal to the shore of all boulders that cannot be brought up by the shovel of the dredge.

Proposals must be endorsed on the envelope, "Proposals for Taunton River." Blank forms for proposals and guarantee, upon which all bids must be made out to insure consideration, can be obtained at this office upon application.

J. G. FOSTER, Lieutenant-Colonel Engineers.

PROPOSALS FOR REVENUE STAMPS.

Proposals will be received until Tuesday, the 1st day of November next, at twelve o'clock at noon, for furnishing complete Revenue Stamps of the following classes, denominations and sizes in present use and as hereinafter specified, viz:—

CLASS I.

ADHESIVE STAMPS—General and Proprietary, viz.:—

General—One cent, two cents, three cents, four cents, five cents, six cents, ten cents, fifteen cents, twenty cents, twenty-five cents, thirty cents, forty cents, fifty cents, sixty cents, seventy cents, one dollar, one dollar and thirty cents, one dollar and fifty cents, one dollar and sixty cents, one dollar and ninety cents, two dollars, two dollars and fifty cents, three dollars, three dollars and fifty cents, five dollars, ten dollars, twenty dollars, twenty-five dollars, fifty dollars and two hundred dollars.

Proprietary—One cent, two cents, three cents, four cents and five cents.

CLASS II.

BEER STAMPS—Hogsheads, barrels, half barrels, third barrels, quarter barrels, sixth barrels and eighth barrels.

CLASS III.

STAMPS FOR DISTILLED SPIRITS, tax paid—10 gallons, 20 gallons, 30 gallons, 40 gallons, 50 gallons, 60 gallons, 70 gallons, 80 gallons, 90 gallons, 100 gallons, 110 gallons, 120 gallons and 150 gallons.

CLASS IV.

STAMPS FOR DISTILLED SPIRITS. "other than tax paid"—Distillery warehouse, rectified spirits and wholesale liquor dealers.

CLASS V.

TOBACCO STAMPS—Half pound, 1 pound, 2 pounds, 3 pounds, 5 pounds, 10 pounds, 15 pounds, 20 pounds, 21 pounds, 22 pounds, 40 pounds and 60 pounds.

Class 1—To be gummed, dried and perforated and prepared for issue in sheets.

Class 2—Without gumming and perforation; prepared for issue in sheets. 20 stamps on a sheet.

Class 3—Without gumming, to be engraved with nine coupons and one stub attached to each stamp, each stamp and stub to be numbered in serial numbers and bound in book form. Each book to contain 150 stamps, 3 on a page, and the book to be appropriately lettered and numbered. Bidders will also make proposals for this class of stamps as above, 300 stamps to the book.

Class 4—Without gumming and perforation. Each stamp to have an engraved stub attached; stamps and stubs to be numbered in serial numbers and bound in book form; each book to contain 400 stamps, 4 on a page, and bound, lettered and numbered.

Class 5—Half pound to 5 pounds, inclusive, without gumming and perforation, to be issued in sheets, 12 stamps on a sheet. All the other denominations mentioned, excepting the 15 pounds, to be engraved with stub attached, stamps and stubs to be numbered in serial numbers and bound in book form; each book to contain 400 stamps, 5 stamps on a page, and bound, lettered and numbered. The 15 pound stamps to be as above, with the addition of nine coupons attached to each stamp. Bids are also asked for the half to 5 pounds stamps, inclusive, to be prepared and bound in book form, as above described, with stubs, but without the coupons.

Specimens of the above mentioned stamps may be seen at the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and series and descriptions taken therefrom.

Bidders will state the price per thousand stamps separately, inclusive and exclusive of papers deliverable at their place of business, and also at the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in Washington. The cost of delivery should be given both inclusive and exclusive of the cost of packing and boxing.

Bids will be made separately for printing in one and two colors. Stamps of Class 1 the principal color to be permanent and the other fugitive. All the other classes mentioned to be printed in permanent colors. The additional cost of printing a tint upon the stamps printed in one color should also be stated.

Bidders will state in their bids the mode of printing proposed by them, whether plate printing or surface printing. Each bid to be accompanied with a specimen of the style of engraving and the quality of paper proposed to be furnished, and the accepted bidder before the final consummation of a contract will be required to furnish proof impressions of the engravings of the several kinds and denominations of stamps.

The contract will require all designs, dies and plates to be prepared, and dies and plates to be kept bright and sharp, and that new and additional designs, dies and plates shall be made, either for the present kinds and denominations of stamps or others, without charge, at the pleasure of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and all such designs, dies and plates to be the property of and delivered to the United States Treasury Department at the termination of the contract or whenever demanded by said department. That the stamps shall be prepared and delivered of such kinds and denominations and in such quantities and at such times as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the time being may direct.

And that all measures and precautions which the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall deem necessary to take in order to protect the government against fraud or negligence on the part of the contractor or his employés shall be taken at the proper charge and expense of the contractor.

No bids will be considered except from parties who have been or are actually engaged in the business of steel engraving and printing, and provided with all the necessary facilities to execute the work promptly and give the requisite protection to the stamps, dies and plates in their possession.

Parties not known to the department will furnish proof as to these points. Bidders will state the time from the date of the contract, if awarded, when they will be ready to commence delivering the stamps, and their daily capacity for delivery thereafter. Bids may be made for any one class of stamps mentioned in this notice or for all.

Each bid must be accompanied by a guarantee of at least two responsible persons that in case the bid is accepted and a contract entered into they will become sureties in such reasonable sum as may be required by the government for the faithful performance of the contract.

The contract to be made for not less than one year nor more than three years, as may be agreed upon. In awarding the contract the Commissioner reserves the right to reject any or all proposals in case it shall appear to be for the interest of the government to do so.

Proposals should be carefully sealed and marked "Proposals for Revenue Stamps," and addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

C. DELANO,
OCT. 10, 1870. Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
Approved—GEORGE S. BOUTWELL, Secretary.

ADRIAN H. MULLER, AUCTIONEER.
Peremptory sale, by order of executrix, of valuable Villa Sites on Washington Heights and 54 Lots on Broadway.
ADRIAN H. MULLER, P. R. WILKINS & CO., will sell at auction, on Tuesday, October 25, at 12 o'clock, at the Exchange Salesroom, 111 Broadway, by order of the executrix of Lucius Chittenden, deceased, 17 Villa Sites, containing an area of from 15 to 23 lots each, situate on Washington Heights, adjoining the elegant villas of the Hon. William M. Tweed, James Gordon Bennett, Joseph Foster and James Fisher, Esqs. This property is a part of a large tract on the Heights purchased by the late Mr. Chittenden in his lifetime, and was reserved as being the choicest and most desirable property on the Heights. It commands an extensive view of the Hudson and Harlem rivers and of the beautiful valley lying between the Heights and Harlem river, and for healthfulness of location, beauty, grandeur and variety of scenery is not surpassed by any property on New York island or its vicinity. The new river Boulevard, now being laid out under the direction of the Central Park Commissioners, and which runs through the westerly portion of this property, will, when completed, add greatly to its accessibility; and its course being along the high land on the bank of the Hudson river and the riverside Park will afford the most beautiful and picturesque drive on the island; the property is also but a short drive from the Central Park. Also 54 lots adjoining the above described property and fronting on Broadway, which is to be widened, making it one of the best roads on the island. The new tower at High Bridge reservoir, now nearly finished, will when completed distribute the Croton water through houses that may be erected on the highest point. The property will be sold under restrictions against nuisances. Seventy per cent may remain on bond and mortgage of the premises. Maps at the office of the auctioneer, No. 7 Pine street, or at the office of Messrs. STALLKNECHT & HALL, Attorneys, No. 20 Nassau street.

ABSOLUTE AND UNRESERVED SALE OF MAGNIFICENT PROPERTY AT DOBBS' FERRY, ON THE HUDSON.
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1870,
On the premises, at 12 o'clock,
18 PLOTS ON BROADWAY, CONTINUATION OF WEST SIDE BOULEVARD.
25 ACRES, divided in Elegant Building Sites, all with fine river and mountain views and within three minutes' walk of depot. Communication by steamboat and cars frequent after May 1. Hudson River trains will run hourly and the New York and Boston Road through Saw Mill Valley will be completed for travel next summer. This property is considered the choicest and most desirable on the river, both for investment and immediate improvement. This property is restricted against nuisances and is first class in every respect. Terms easy. Special cars will be attached to the 11 o'clock express train of the Hudson River Railroad on day of the sale.

IMPORTANT FROM PERU.

Insurrection of Chinese Laborers on the Cotton Estates.

A Three Days Battle and Flight of the Coolies.

Forty Whites and Three Hundred Chinamen Killed.

The steamship Alaska, Captain Gray, from Aspinwall October 4, arrived at this port last night, with the Pacific mails and a small amount of treasure.

Affairs at Panama continued dull, and no news from the interior had been received. The news from Central America and Chile is unimportant.

THE INSURRECTION OF CHINESE LABORERS IN PERU.

LIMA, Sept. 14, 1870.

On the 4th inst. an occurrence took place in the vicinity of Lima that will have a serious influence upon the future agricultural prosperity of the country. It is probably well known that for a number of years past the necessity has existed for the importation of large numbers of Chinese laborers, since the extensive estates along the coast found it impossible to procure a sufficient force of workmen from the limited Indian and Mestizo population. During the last fourteen years more than forty-five thousand coolies have thus been introduced into Peru, generally of the worst possible class, and having contracts for a certain length of time, receiving miserable pay and worse treatment. On many occasions risings of the Chinese have taken place, in some instances followed by fatal results, but never in such a general degree as that referred to at the beginning of this communication. The cotton estates of Pativilca and Galpon are situated in the fertile valley of Supe, about one hundred and fifty miles north of Lima, and for a long time have been noted for their productiveness, owing to the skill and energy of the owners. On these plantations nearly twelve hundred Chinese were employed, and in the immediate vicinity in the neighboring estates more than four thousand of the coolies were contracted. Several months since symptoms of dissatisfaction were noted among these laborers, but the overseers and owners, trusting to their authority and power, paid but little attention to these manifestations. Unfortunately, no precautions were taken against surprise. The Chinese, left in tranquillity, were able to mature their plans and concert their programme of action. The opportunity selected could not have been more favorable.

An agent of the estate of Pativilca had arrived from Lima with a large sum of money destined for the payment of the laborers, and the purchase of cotton from the surrounding planters. While this person, together with the overseer, the physician, and several other employés, were at supper on the night of the 4th inst. the dining room doors were suddenly broken open, and a crowd of nearly two hundred coolies, armed with stakes, pickaxes, shovels, scythes, and every imaginable weapon, burst in upon the astonished whites. In less time than required to narrate it the Chinese had murdered all of their victims save one, who, being grievously wounded, fell under the table and was thought dead. Sacking the house and securing the revolvers and rifles on hand, the insurgents proceeded to the adjacent hacienda of Galpon and there repeated the same barbarities. Not satisfied with killing the whites they encountered, the most revolting atrocities were practised on their dead bodies, and delicate women and children subjected to shameful and cruel torture. The number of the Chinese now amounted to 1,100, their movements appeared to be directed with some degree of intelligence by one who seemed to be hailed as chief, and having secured all the money and valuables to be found in the estates, a larger game was attempted in the sacking of the little village of Barranca, about three miles distant.

In the meantime the owner of an estate that lay on the road to that village was notified by a friendly coolie of the approach and designs of the marauders. Hastily placing his wife and family in the chapel belonging to the plantation, he, with another friend, strongly barred the doors, and received the advancing column with the fire of their rifles. The Chinese were vigorous in the attack, but, unaccustomed to the use of firearms, they fell easily before the defenders of the church. In less than two hours these two brave men had killed and wounded more than sixty of the assailants. So desperate, indeed, had become the attempts of the latter that a retreat was determined upon, and the accomplishment of their design to sack the town. Here the inhabitants had had time to make some slight preparations for defence. An impromptu breastwork was erected at the entrance to the village, and forty men, well armed, were posted behind it to resist the assault. In a short time the Chinese, reinforced to the number of 2,000, appeared in front, and actually sent the leader I have mentioned to parley with the defenders regarding surrender. Hardly had he opened his mouth on this interesting topic when a well-directed rifle ball put an end to his existence and eloquence. The Chinese, goaded to madness by this loss, threw themselves upon the barricade. The fight for a few moments was hand to hand, and the whites suffered severely under the knives and weapons of their assailants. Soon, however, the power of gunpowder began to assert itself, the coolies retired to a distance, and appeared to be deliberating upon their future movements.

At this juncture the brave defender of the church, having placed his family in a place of safety and found several companions, appeared in their rear, and commenced such a vigorous fire upon them that in a short time all order was forgotten and the insurgents were in a headlong flight.

Telegrams had been sent to Lima asking for help, and on the morning of the 6th the Prefect, with a couple of hundred soldiers, arrived at the scene of conflict. The Chinese by this time had dispersed to the mountains. The soldiers, after securing the few who could be found, started in pursuit, and are still on the march. The results of this terrible tragedy are forty murdered among the whites and nearly three hundred Chinese killed. But the crops were destroyed, and the coolies seeking refuge in the hills, roaming in bands and devastating the unprotected hamlets they find in the way, are not only lost to their owners, but still form a dangerous element to peace and security. Great excitement is manifested at this unhappy event, the number of Chinamen throughout the republic being so great as to cause general uneasiness and distrust, while the planters are perplexed where to find laborers for their estates, which, if left uncultivated, in an incredibly short time are almost irretrievably ruined.

Bills have been introduced into Congress prohibiting the importation of these demons for the future and expelling from the country all those now fulfilling their contract. It may be that the proposition will be approved, but the great agricultural interest at stake has to receive the most mature consideration. After the liberation of the slaves in Peru a law was enacted forbidding the introduction of more negroes. This will probably be reconsidered, and if so the United States might be benefited by the proceeding. In many cases the treatment accorded to the Chinese is excessively harsh, but on the estates which have been the theatre of this sad affair the greatest kindness and lenity have been proverbial. Hereafter in districts so thickly populated with this class of people the government will station sufficient bodies of men to suppress any attempts at similar risings. The loss from the burning of the cotton crops and buildings will probably amount to several hundred thousand dollars.

LIMA, Sept. 22, 1870.

The Chinese insurrection mentioned in my last communication is now beginning to be productive of troublesome results. The troops have found it impossible to discover the hiding places of a large number of the coolies, they having taken refuge far in the interior and in the fastnesses of the neighboring mountains. Consequently, several of the most valuable estates in that section of the republic are paralyzed, and will doubtless continue in that condition for some time to come. The loss is much greater than was at first supposed. A million of dollars will possibly not cover the damages suffered by the planters. But the most serious consequence of the outbreak is the feeling produced on the public, and the general opinion that some effective stop must be put to the further importation of such labor into the republic. A proceeding like this would inflict incalculable injury on the agricultural portion of the population, as upon the Chinese all depend for the means of cultivating their estates, the number of native laborers to be found being notoriously insufficient. A bill introduced into Congress to this effect was not approved, and a motion made to authorize a company to procure negroes from the United States and Africa was also defeated, the members of Congress appearing to view it as an effort to re-establish slavery in Peru. Slavery in its most revolting form is certainly preferable to the manner in which the Chinese are treated on some of the sugar haciendas, and despite the action of the American Legation, under instructions from the government at Washington to ameliorate their condition, the authorities of Peru have shown but little zeal in the effort.

The problem now before the people is difficult to solve. If Chinese for the future are prohibited from entering the republic European labor must be sought and the obstacles to be overcome in such an enterprise seem of some magnitude.

POLITICAL.

CITY POLITICS.

Colored Republicans in Council—Butler and Sharpe, Adams and Turpin, Wright and Hyte—Black and White Fraternizing.

The lately enfranchised colored republicans of this city gathered in immense numbers last night and crowded Cooper Institute, from door to platform. A large proportion of the audience were ladies, and a band of white musicians entertained them before the hour for opening the meeting. Dr. McDonough called the audience to order, and nominated as chairman of the meeting Mr. John J. Zuille, of the Freedmen's Savings Bank, who was unanimously elected. The Rev. N. H. Turpin opened the proceeding with prayer, after which Mr. Zuille made a few remarks. They had gathered, he said, to ratify the nominations of the republican party in this State—because that party had adopted the Thirteenth amendment to the national constitution, which forever prohibited slavery in this country; because that party had also adopted the Fourteenth amendment, which settled the rights of citizenship and representation; and because that party had furthermore adopted the Fifteenth amendment, which regulates the right of suffrage without regard to color or previous condition of servitude. The republican party has made the white men of the country think more of themselves than they formerly did, and now no decent white man thinks of insulting a colored man on account of his color. It has also made blacks think more of themselves, because they have the suffrage.

Mr. CHARLES L. REASON then read a preamble and resolutions, which were enthusiastically adopted. They set forth that whereas the republican party had abolished slavery and given the colored people the suffrage, and was really the party of liberty and progress, they should give it their undivided support; that General Grant's administration, because of its great reduction of the public debt and the removal of taxes, should receive their hearty approval; that the practical measures of the republicans generally show them to be eminent statesmen and truly attached to public interest and public weal; and that, putting all these things together, they find Woodford and Kaufman, the chosen State candidates of the republican party, to be men in every way worthy of the support of the colored people of this city, and chiefly because they are in favor of financial integrity and the purity of the ballot box.

Mr. ADAMS was here introduced and entertained the audience with a song, entitled "Woodford's Dream," whose burden was that Governor Hoffman was "going up Salt river." It was sung to a familiar tune, and the audience received it with tremendous applause and joined in the chorus.

The Rev. WILLIAM F. BUTLER was the first regular speaker. He thanked God and the people that he had been privileged to be the first colored speaker to address the first colored republican ratification meeting that had ever been gathered in New York; and he looked upon the meeting as an evidence of what the colored people will do at the polls next November. Their opponents, he said, might take a lesson from them. They had opened their meeting with prayer, because they trusted not in men or measures, but in that God who had brought them into that new liberty which they now enjoy. He then sailed into the degenerate colored men who had sold or agreed to sell their votes to the democratic party. He had heard there were such men in this city. They should not vote with that party—either with the young or the old democracy—for they are both the same rabbit though the tail is a little different. (Laughter and applause.) No colored man for a mere personal advantage had any right to vote against the interests of his race or people and give up everything gained by the war. Could he strip the audience he would find many a stripe still on their backs which were laid there by the democratic party. The audience could never forget the dark days of slavery and the Fugitive Slave law, nor the darker days of July, 1863, and they owed nothing to the democratic party, either under the fifteenth amendment or any other, and he hoped that every colored man who should vote for the democratic ticket next month would be marked. Mr. Butler's speech was so full of indicrous humor that the audience were kept continually in roars of laughter.

United States Marshal GEORGE H. SHARPE was the next speaker. He recognized the privilege of addressing the audience as the proudest in his life. His address was composed mainly of moral reflections and quotations from religious poetry and literature. He had nothing to say against the democratic party, but he made a strong appeal for their support of the republican party. There are three great phases, he said, in our national life. The first was when we separated from the mother country and maintained our independence; the second when we put down internal revolution, and we are now in the third phase, trying to maintain the purity of our republican institutions and to make this the freest country under heaven. Of what use, he asked, is the suffrage to us if our neighbor can vote twenty times before we can vote once? But if this trick is practiced next month, as suggested by a previous speaker, some city lamp-posts may be ornamented with repeaters.

The Rev. N. H. Turpin said that though the head of the serpent, slavery, had been killed, its tail, prejudice, still existed; but he hoped this campaign would finish that also. If the colored people were good enough to fight the democratic party of Jeff Davis on the battle field they are good enough to fight the same party at the ballot box. He wanted prejudice destroyed, so that colored mechanics could work in shops here with white men, or without them, and that colored gentlemen could get meals in hotels or restaurants as white men do.

Mr. Wright, of Albany, who had swallowed five hundred pages of Webster's unabridged, made a choice selection from his supper in apologizing for his attenuated form, and then sang "John Brown's Body Marching On," with modern variations. The audience joined heartily in the chorus. General Hyte, of Kentucky, and others followed with brief addresses, and the meeting terminated at a late hour. Some of the old darkies "got glorious," and shouted and cheered as if they would raise the roof off the building, and pledged themselves with all their might to sustain the republican party and its candidates.

The Young Democracy Assembly Conventions.

The Assembly nominating conventions of the "Regular" (Young) Democracy were held last evening in the following Assembly districts. All the districts not reported adjourned without making nominations:—

Second district—William Walsh.
Third district—James Hayes.
Sixth district—Anthony Miller.
Seventh district—Howard T. Marston.
Ninth district—Alexander V. Davidson.
Eleventh district—John McGowan.
Eighteenth district—Leander Buck.

At the Nineteenth district Young Democracy Assembly Convention, corner of Broadway and Seventieth street, last night, only one delegate appeared, and he had come "all the way from the neighborhood of High Bridge." He said the candidate would probably be Roswell D. Hatch. There seemed to be some misunderstanding about the matter, as the only room in the building was engaged for the weekly meeting of the Thomas C. Fields Association. At nine o'clock the president, vice president and the secretary of that association had not put in an appearance, although there was a large attendance of members of the association.

NEW YORK STATE POLITICS.

Public Discussion Between Woodford and Hoffman.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 12, 1870.

General Woodford has written a letter to the Governor asking him to meet him for public discussion. The following is the correspondence:—

To his Excellency, JOHN T. HOFFMAN:—

SIR—In 1866 you invited the republican candidate for the Governorship to join you in a public discussion of the political questions at issue in that canvass. I have been informed that in 1868 you also invited the then republican candidate to a like discussion, and a fortnight having passed since your renomination, and not having heard from you, I invite you to a joint discussion of the issues of the pending canvass as presented on the platforms of the democratic and republican parties of this State, upon which we have been respectively nominated; such joint discussion to be held at the public meetings between October 15 and November 3, and one-half of the number of such meetings shall be at places to be named on your part, and the remaining held at places to be named on mine. This letter will be handed you by Mr. Parker, of Potsdam, who is authorized to receive your answer and to make any arrangements as to details in my behalf. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

STEWART L. WOODFORD.

STATE OF NEW YORK, EXECUTIVE CHAMBERS,
ALBANY, Oct. 11, 1870.

To the Hon. STEWART L. WOODFORD, Potsdam, St. Lawrence county:—

SIR—I am directed by the Governor to acknowledge the receipt this day of your letter, dated Potsdam, October 6, inviting him to a joint discussion with you of the issues of the pending canvass, and to inform you, also, that his attention has been called to a speech, in which you express a wish to discuss with him topics which would involve personalities, namely: charges made by you that he was elected by fraud, and charges made by others, not by him, affecting your own personal and official integrity. He directed me to say, in reply, that, having in 1866 and 1868, when he was merely a candidate for office, made a personal canvass of the State, the opposing candidates never meeting him, and addressed the people on many occasions, he deems it unnecessary to do it again; and that, in his judgment, discussions of a personal nature between opposing candidates for high office should always be avoided. He directs me farther to say, that having for two years been speaking almost daily by his official acts and messages to the people, they have before them material upon which to form their judgment of his administration, and do not, he is confident, expect or desire him to leave the Executive chair and the duties pertaining to it for the purpose of discussing either political or personal questions with you. Should he speak at all during the canvass he will do so at the request of his fellow citizens, at such time and place as may be most convenient to them and him. Very respectfully,

JOHN D. VAN BUREN, Private Secretary.

Congressional and Assembly Nominations.

The democrats of Ulster and Greene have nominated Joseph H. Tuthill for Congress.

The republicans of the First district of Ulster have nominated Cyrus Burnans for the Assembly.

The democrats of the Third district of Ulster have nominated Charles H. Krack for the Assembly.

The democrats of Onondaga yesterday nominated to the Assembly W. D. Stewart from the First district, John Munro from the Second and Allen H. Avery from the Third.

SCANDAL AMONG POLITICIANS.

The Charge of Corruption Against Mr. Woodford Repeated and Affirmed—Ex-Marshal Murray's Reminiscences of the Slave Trade Bribery Case.

The following correspondence passed yesterday between Mayor Hall and ex-Marshal Murray relative to charges made against the republican candidate for Governor and malfeasance in office while he was Assistant United States District Attorney:—

OCTOBER 12, 1870.

MY DEAR SIR—When I was District Attorney I remember hearing, as part of the prison gossip, that you had many interviews with Appleton Oaksmith. If not incompatible with your views please answer the following question:—

Did Appleton Oaksmith in any interview say whether or no he had held as a defendant any direct or indirect communication with Assistant District Attorney Woodford, and if so what was the statement by Oaksmith?

My object in writing is based upon a despatch in the Times, and upon an editorial mixing me up with a charge against Woodford of having had connection of a pecuniary character with Oaksmith. I never made that charge, however, but am nevertheless curious to weigh any statement Oaksmith made to you with one made per cable. Yours, very truly,

A. OAKEY HALL.

MARSHAL MURRAY.

REPLY OF MARSHAL MURRAY.

MY DEAR SIR—In answer to your inquiry I have to state that, after Appleton Oaksmith's conviction at Boston in the United States District Court, on charge of fitting out a slaver in New Bedford, he wrote me a letter, desiring an interview with me, which I declined, and sent an agent; but Mr. Oaksmith insisting on seeing me, I went personally and saw him in his cell. I was with him three hours the first day; about half that time on the following day. At this interview he submitted propositions to me which he desired presented to the President. He promised to do certain things in aid of the Government to suppress the slave trade, provided he was pardoned. He wrote out his propositions, which were handed to Mr. Seward in person by me.

The government declined to accede. During the interviews I questioned him with reference to the bonding and subsequent escape of the bark Augusta. He stated to me that he made an arrangement with Mr. Capen, Woodford's father-in-law, who kept a ship chandlery store in South street, near Old slip, which was that the bark Augusta was to be bonded. Mr. Capen was to be a government appraiser. The value of the vessel was to be appraised at a low figure. Mr. Oaksmith was to pay Mr. Capen $5,000. After I kicked up a row in reference to this appraisement Mr. Woodford became frightened and moved to set it aside, and new appraisers were appointed, who valued the vessel and cargo at just double what Mr. Capen had. The vessel was discharged, after being bonded, when Oaksmith made an arrangement with Capen that Woodford was to refuse me process to retake the vessel. But, in consequence of the vessel having been doubled in value by the new appraisement, Oaksmith only paid Capen $3,000 instead of $5,000. When Oaksmith went to the Custom House to clear the vessel Woodford went to the Collector as the counsel of Oaksmith, but, it being about three o'clock, the Collector was gone, and then Oaksmith and Woodford went to R. F. Andrews, Esq., the Surveyor, where Woodford demanded assistance in clearing Oaksmith's vessel, which the Surveyor refused. Subsequently, however, a clearance was had from the Coastwise Clearance Clerk, on the representation of Oaksmith and Woodford together that the vessel was going to Greenport, Long Island, to fit out as a whaler. Such were Oaksmith's statements. He and Woodford during the troubles were dining almost daily together at Delmonico's. Very truly, yours,

ROBERT MURRAY.

MASSACHUSETTS POLITICS.

Meeting of the Democratic State Convention—Nomination of Candidates for State Offices—The "Heathen Chinee" Denounced and Female Suffrage Treated Tenderly.

FITCHBURG, Sept. 12, 1870.

The democracy of Massachusetts, a plucky if not a powerful organization, held their State Convention in this town to-day. There were between 890 and 900 delegates present, representing 236 cities and towns. The proceedings were protracted, and not remarkably harmonious, except upon the broader political issues. The question of woman suffrage was lugged in by Mrs. Livermore and Lucy Stone Blackwell, but the fair advocates, instead of appearing in the Convention, forced it through a friendly delegate. They were in town, however, and last evening got up a spontaneous meeting, which afforded them an opportunity of expounding their cause in the presence of a large number of the assembled politicians.

To-day's Convention having been called to order by J. N. DUNHAM, of Pittsfield, that gentleman proceeded, in an address of brief duration, to encourage the infusion of new life into the party which had been so long a hopeless minority in Massachusetts; and when he had finished J. M. KEITH, of Boston, was unanimously chosen to preside over the further proceedings of the body. He, of course, indulged in a preliminary address, in which he spoke of his opponents as despots, excluding, perhaps, Andrew Johnson. The currency of the country he denominated as irredeemable paper, which had destroyed all legitimate trade and encouraged such a system of speculation as to almost ruin the working and middling classes of the country. Commerce, too, has been driven away and our harbors and wharves are passing into disuse or rotting away entirely. And all this is the result of the prolonging of the power of the republican party. This same despotic power is also responsible for the incarceration of thousands of men to prevent them from exercising their right of suffrage, and in no section are their barbarous acts more sad and transparent than in North Carolina and Georgia. If, he added, the national debt has been reduced the people are entitled to the credit for submitting to enormous taxation, for the ordinary expenses of the government have been increased in every branch by millions and millions. Continuing his remarks, Mr. Keith highly eulogized the democratic party, and on concluding he was warmly applauded.

Mr. COX, of Cambridge, then presented the memorial of the Massachusetts Women's Suffrage Association, together with their resolutions, as offered at the republican convention in Worcester, and also the following additional resolve:—

Resolved, That the democratic party of Massachusetts, holding that the cardinal principle of our government, of "No taxation without representation," should not be limited in its purposes and efforts to sex any more than to race and to social condition, and fully recognizing the justice of the claim of female citizens to a share in the elective franchise, will do all in its power to place in the hands of the noble women of this State that glorious instrument of equality and individual right—the ballot.

The reading of the concluding clause of the resolve was greeted with a general titter, which finally culminated in a loud laugh all around, and during the levity Mr. HOAGET, of Lowell, indulged in some observations which were hardly in keeping with decency.

The memorial and resolve were at length considered and referred to the Committee on Resolutions.

Mr. WILLIS, of Boston, now moved the nomination, by acclamation, of John Quincy Adams, of Quincy, as the candidate for Governor.

Then followed shouts of applause, mingled with a cry of opposition from a sturdy specimen of yeomanry from the interior, who insisted upon the Convention listening to his arguments in favor of a ballot, which he concluded by a motion for an informal ballot.

The motion was lost, however, and Mr. Adams was then nominated by acclamation, with only two dissenting voices, the act being followed by round after round of hearty cheers. The balance of the ticket was then nominated as follows:—

For Lieutenant Governor—James Chattaway, of Springfield.
For Secretary of State—Luther Stevenson, Jr., of Hingham.
For Treasurer—Levi Heywood, of Gardiner.
For Attorney General—William W. Warren, of Brighton.

JOHN T. TARBOX, of Lawrence, occupied the Convention for a few moments in an address relative to the Labor Reform party, expressing the opinion that they should cultivate the co-operation and sympathy of that party:—

The following platform was then reported and adopted:—

Resolved, That the country demands from each political party at this time a bold and outspoken assertion of its policy upon the living questions of the day, and that the attempt on the part of the radical party to perpetuate its power by merely boasting of its past achievements is futile. No record, however fair, can atone for its wilful neglect of the industrial interests of the country, for the loss of our commercial importance, for over five years of peace wasted in attempting to govern the country upon a theory that could only be excused by the necessities of war.

Resolved, That in declaring its policy now the democratic party had only to revert to its cardinal principles of opposition to all consolidation or concentration of power in any hands, and to every unnecessary exercise of power, even where the right to exercise it is clearly given; not the most, but the least possible government, being best conducive to the happiness of mankind. In conformity with this maxim the party now, as heretofore, will resist every stretch of power by either federal or State governments, or by any one of the co-ordinate branches of either, and every plan of legislation which involves an undue interference with the reserved rights of the citizen, either in its direct purpose or by requiring for its attainments a resort to arbitrary and inquisitorial practices.

Resolved, That, proceeding upon those established principles, we adopt as our own the resolutions of our party in the great State of New York; that our tariff of duties, like all taxes, should have the one only lawful purpose of obtaining necessary revenue, and that the present system of favoritism, miscalled protection, having taxes for the special benefit of a few capitalists, is simple robbery of the rest of the people; and that, except so far as the legitimate expenses of the government may require, free trade is the legitimate policy of the country; that we demand the simplification of our system of internal revenue, the abolition of useless and inquisitorial taxes, and the reduction of the whole volume of taxation now in excess of the wants of the government and the exigencies of public credit;

Resolved, That grants of land or money or credit either by the federal or State government to individuals, or to corporations formed for mere purposes of private gain, are all in some sort a diversion of the public assets from their legitimate uses, involve the State in unnecessary complications with special interests, lead to gross corruption, and are inconsistent with a reasonable regard for the safety of popular institutions.

Resolved, That it is our proud boast that the oppressed of all nations can find with us a safe asylum and here enjoy the blessings of a free government; that consistency with our professions, not less than the highest welfare of both native and foreign born, require that all who come to these shores should, as soon as practicable, become citizens and have their equal influence in political affairs; and we denounce as unrepublican and monstrous the attempt by Congress and our Legislature to prevent the naturalization of the poor by multiplying the expenses and the difficulties of complying with the necessary legal penalties.

Resolved, That on the other hand, independently of the question as to the expediency of bringing into intimate political and social relations two diverse races of men, we believe it to be wrong to stimulate by artificial means the irruption to our community of swarms of Mongolians, who have neither the wish nor the aptitude to assume the duties and responsibilities of citizenship, and are brought here by interested capitalists only as so much bone and muscle to lower the dignity of labor, degrade the condition of our working men and create and perpetuate distinct classes in our social system.

Resolved, That the labor of the country, weak by its necessities in its defense against the cupidity of capitalists and its ability to compel a recognition of its just rights, especially needs and merits the protection of just, equal and adequate laws, and that in view of the fact that the present high cost of living and consequent inadequacy of wages to provide sufficient means of support for our poorer people, are mainly due to the unjust currency system, the arbitrary and excessive taxation, and the many and great monopolies which have been inflicted upon us by the policy of the republican party; the claim made by that party at its recent State Convention, that it has any sympathy with labor or the laborer, is preposterous and absurd.

Resolved, That we affirm our absolute hostility to every attempt to influence the decision of political questions by the formation of proscriptive organizations.

Resolved, That while we must regard it as an existing fact that suffrage is a right and not a privilege, and that any restriction upon its exercise should be founded in unmistakable policy, we consider the proposition to extend the suffrage to the women of this Commonwealth as involving too many social considerations to be summarily treated as a mere political question; but there is a pressing duty upon the people of this State to remove, at once and forever, all property or other exercise of that right by every man who is a citizen of the United States.

Resolved, That the implied censure passed by the Republican Convention at Worcester upon the national administration, for its failure to vindicate the claims of the country against Great Britain, meets our warm approval, and that its foreign, as in its internal policy, the administration deserves our unqualified condemnation.

THE CAMPAIGN IN TENNESSEE.

A Southern Back Down on State Sovereignty.

General Brown, democratic candidate for Governor of Tennessee, in a speech at Cleveland, reiterated the declaration, a correspondent tells us, that the words "sovereign States" used in the democratic platform had no reference to any purpose of practical secession, and that the term "sovereign" was employed, as it had ever been, expressing a simple fact that the States were sovereign, save to the extent that they had invested the federal Union with conceded and clearly defined powers.

LOSS OF THE SHIP J. S. DE WOLF.

Heroic Conduct on the Ocean—A Sinking Ship and an Angry Sea—The Crew Saved by the Steamship Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin, United States mail steamship of the Guion line, which arrived at this port last night, left Queenstown on Friday evening, September 30, and for a single day proceeded quietly on her way, making excellent time. But upon Saturday night a storm arose, which seemed to increase in fury during the six following days.

Upon Wednesday, October 5, at nine o'clock A. M., when we were in latitude 50 deg. 21 min., north, and longitude 38 deg. 17 min., west, we saw a sailing ship in the distance, with her mainmast gone and the signal of distress raised. In a short time she raised the numbers indicating that she was sinking. Captain Williams immediately changed the course of the Wisconsin and put in the direction of the sinking ship, which proved to be the J. S. DeWolf, of St. Johns, N. B., Captain John Spain commanding. She was loaded with a general cargo, sailing from Liverpool for Philadelphia. Her mainmast was carried away at about midnight, and at two o'clock in the morning, shipping a heavy sea, her deck was broken entirely in; thus all hopes of saving her were gone. Her lifeboats were broken and rendered useless.

Captain Spain says he considered his case perfectly hopeless, because he thought that, even should he fall in with some ship disposed to be friendly, it would be impossible to man and lower a life-boat upon such an angry sea and in the midst of such a frightful storm. But there was stuff on board the Wisconsin out of which heroes are made. Charles McDermott, the second officer, stepped forward and called for volunteers to go with him to the rescue of the sinking crew. Inspired by the example of their noble officer, six men promptly manned the lifeboat, and their names are worthy of mention in a roll of honor:—James Lamb, Josiah Manchester, John E. Lewis, David Owens, Thomas McEvoy and John Rees. As the boat was lowered to the water and was tossed like a feather every heart on the deck beat quick with anxiety for the fate of the seven men who were dignifying manhood by their deed of noble daring.

In just an hour's time the lifeboat returned with eight of the crew of the sinking ship, and they being hauled on board the steamship, the lifeboat again put out, and though the wreck was now distant more than a mile, returned with the remaining eleven of the crew of the J. S. DeWolf. And thus, without loss of life or injury to any one, nineteen lives were rescued from imminent and certain death by the cool, determined, but modest bravery of officer Charles McDermott and his six noble seamen. Sure it is that if the fifty cabin passengers of the Wisconsin in this voyage could promote this officer, he would soon take a step higher in the service which he honors; and this not only for the single act here recounted, but for the true merit of which this one act is but an index.

Upon Tuesday, October 11, at six o'clock P. M., the officers and crew, the cabin and steerage passengers and the rescued men assembled on deck, and Judge Pierce of Philadelphia, on behalf of the passengers addressed these seven men of the lifeboat in appropriate and appreciative terms, and presented them with a purse raised by the passengers as an evidence of the regard they had for their valor.

Captain Spain wishes through these columns to express his gratitude to the officers and men of the Wisconsin, who were instrumental in saving his own life and the lives of his crew.

THE OLIVER FORGERY CASE.

The Examination Yesterday—The Lease and the Signatures.

The examination into the charge of forgery preferred against William F. Oliver, of Hempstead, by his brother Thomas, was continued before Justice Snedeker, in Jamaica, yesterday. From the plain facts of the case it appears that William F. Oliver, the defendant, holds possession of the Eagle Mills and farm by virtue of a lease executed by his father, for which he pays an annual rental of $500, and for which $2,000 has been offered, and therefore the litigation involves $10,000, as the lease is for five years. The complaint alleges that the signature of William Oliver, the father, is a forgery, executed for the purpose of defrauding the legal heirs of the deceased. Several parties have been sworn as to the genuineness of the signature, and it is testified by them to be a forgery. Several bank tellers from New York were present to testify in comparison between the signature to the lease and the signature to other documents alleged to be valid, but they were legally incompetent and excluded by the Court. They gave as their voluntary opinion that the signature to the lease was spurious, and would not be received by them if attached to a check. By comparison it would appear that the signature was forged. A bond, executed by William Oliver to Mr. Willetts, was produced, and the signature thereto compared with that on the lease, but there is no resemblance. The signature said to be that of the father to the lease is written in a tremulous hand and larger than the genuine signature. The letters "Wm.," for William, are very large. The letter "I" in Oliver is very heavy, and would seem to have been made in a moment of temporary neglect. It bears great resemblance to the same letter in the signature of William F. Oliver, the lessee.

It has been testified that before Surrogate Covert the defendant stated that he knew nothing of the lease until after his father's death, which was in August of this year, while the lease bears date February 1. The wife of the defendant is witness to the execution of the lease, and made acknowledgment before Daniel Clark, Notary Public, after which it was filed. This raises a novel point as to guilt, as the wife of the defendant has been excluded from testifying. The defendant's counsel hope to establish a defence by proving malice.

Wind at sunset SW.

Shipping Notes.

The storm of Tuesday night and yesterday morning filled the cellars along West and South streets, damaging in many instances valuable goods. The aggregate loss to the merchants in those localities on the occasion of the periodical visitations of these "young floods" on their premises can hardly be estimated. The goods on many of the piers along the rivers suffered much from the same cause.

There arrived at this port from foreign ports during the month of September 849 vessels, of which there were men-of-war, 2; steam yachts, 1; steamships, 79; ships, 89; barks, 76; brigs, 91; schooners, 79; canal boats, 2.

The Cunard line steamship Algeria, Captain LeMessurier, will leave the company's wharf, foot of Grand street, Jersey City, to-day (Thursday), at 8 AM, for Queenstown and Liverpool.

Marine Disasters.

SHIP WADDSWORTH, from England for Quebec, with coal, is ashore and on fire at Louisburg, CB.

SHIP AUSTRIA, Delano, which arrived at New Orleans 24th ult from Boston, was struck on the passage out by a heavy sea, and of 98 carboys of vitriol on deck all but one were broken. Capt Delano was badly burned by the vitriol from his knees down. Under deck the ship had a large and valuable cargo of assorted merchandise, and an examination discloses the fact that it has been damaged to the estimated amount of $60,000, the vitriol having penetrated through the decks. The hull of the vessel did not sustain much damage, but her spare rigging is spoiled. Negotiations have been progressing between the consignees and the underwriters, and it is understood that the latter do not consider that they insured against vitriol as one of the ordinary dangers of the sea, and they will, therefore, decline to pay the losses. The ship and cargo are now in charge of the Port Warden.

SCHR EMMA P DOUGLASS, which left City Point, Va, Sept 6, with a cargo of wheat, valued at $9000, for the New Bedford Flour Mill, is supposed to have foundered, not having been heard of since her departure. Cargo insured in the New England office, Boston.

SCHR EMMA D FINNEY, from St Marys, Ga, for Philadelphia, which put into Charleston Oct 9, leaking and with loss of rudder, had been 50 miles N of Hatteras when she was driven back. Off Cape Romaine, passed a wreck with what appeared to be a dead body lashed to it.

LIVERPOOL, Oct 12—The steamship England, which arrived at this port from New York, reports Oct 1 passed an abandoned vessel, laden with timber. Her name is Black Swan.

SCHAARHORN, Oct 12—Five hundred barrels of petroleum have been saved of the cargo of ship Progress, with part of her inventory. One of the schooners engaged in taking out her cargo has been wrecked.

TEXEL, Sept 28—The Alberti, Harriman, from New York, arrived here to-day with sails split, &c.

Notice to Mariners.

A dangerous obstruction to navigation has been discovered by Geo W Fuller, the submarine diver, about 4½ miles SE of Bridgeport light. Mr Fuller was cruising in that vicinity looking for a vessel loaded with coal, which is known to have foundered while trying to make Black Rock harbor, and discovered the two masts of a schooner just even with or but a few feet below the surface of the water. He at first supposed the vessel to be the one he was in search of, but on going down he found her to be loaded with corn. She stands upright on her bottom, and in a very dangerous position. The condition of her cabin, which was also examined, indicated that her crew had left her in the most hurried manner. She is supposed to have been run down some time in August last by an eastern bound steamer.

Constant Fire from the French—Prussians Waiting for Their Heavy Guns—Strength and Position of the Besieging Army—A Question of Supplies—The Prussians Relentless—Bad News—Anxiety—Great Efforts to Capture Paris—Why the French Army at Tours Don't Move—Arrival of the King—A Grand Reception—A Civil Prefect at Versailles.

LONDON, Oct. 12, 1870.

The following letter has been received from the correspondent of the NEW YORK HERALD at the headquarters of the German army besieging Paris:—

VERSAILLES, Oct. 5, 1870.

The French keep up a constant fire from their cannon and small arms daily, but the besiegers make no reply, the Prussians tactics being merely to keep a tight grip upon the French and a sharp lookout while awaiting the arrival of their heavy guns. I am told that they will soon be here, but certainly they have been slow coming. The fault is to be found in the dilatoriness in repairing the railroad line between Toul and Meaux.

THE INVESTING ARMY—ITS STRENGTH AND POSITION.

At present the effective strength of the besieging army is three hundred thousand men. From St. Germain to the west is the Fifth corps, which connects with and supports the Sixth corps. After this latter come in order the Bavarian corps, the Eleventh Prussian, the Prussian Guards, the Saxon and Wurtemberg corps and the Fourth Prussian corps.

A QUESTION OF SUPPLIES.

Hitherto the army has subsisted mostly off the country, and wherever they camped they soon cleared out everything to eat. There being nothing left now the Germans are compelled to depend upon their own stores, which are being brought in as rapidly as possible. The cavalry scour the country around Paris for a great distance and along the lines of communication to the Vosges, but the government cannot trust to the chances of forage to feed the large numbers encircling Paris. This fact, if it does not create uneasiness, at least makes the military leaders eager for action.

THE GERMANS RELENTLESS.

The longer the delay the more bitter becomes the determination to press the war to a close with energy. Paris will, therefore, be bombarded instantly when the siege guns are mounted. Not a single measure, however severe and seemingly cruel, will be left untried to compel a peace. In fact, the most intelligent officers of the Prussian army begin to feel uneasy, knowing that the chances of war are terribly uncertain.

BAD NEWS FROM BEFORE METZ.

Adverse accounts have been received at headquarters of the health of the army of Prince Frederick Charles, now lying before Metz. Should Bazaine succeed in escaping with even the loss of half his army, it is feared that what does get away might become the nucleus of a force likely to prove dangerous in view of the impossibility of sparing any men from before Paris. Indeed, more men are needed here, and the army lately besieging Strasbourg has been ordered to reinforce this army instead of going south towards Lyons.

GREAT EFFORTS TO CAPTURE PARIS.

It is evident that General Von Moltke has resolved to concentrate every available man before Paris, with a view to making a determined effort to capture the French capital at once. It will, therefore, be seen readily that the most momentous events hang upon the question whether Paris is strong enough for a long resistance to assault. This question is purely enigmatical, hence it is felt that the future is full of doubt.

COMMUNICATIONS INTACT.

At present, however, no inconvenience is felt from the operations of the Franc-tireurs and Gardes Mobile. The rear of this army is unmolested and it is not expected that there will be the least interruption to the lines of communication, field telegraphs or military posts. Nothing of the kind has yet occurred to any extent, and prisoners and peasants report that the straggling parties of French have been recalled to the south and northeast for the purpose of aggregation and organization.

WHY THE FRENCH FORCES AT TOURS REFUSE TO MOVE.

A ceremonious dinner party was given yesterday by the Crown Prince of Prussia, at his new dwelling. During the festivities he authoritatively communicated the news that the French army at Tours, numbering 60,000 men, had refused to march forward under the leadership of the generals appointed by the Provisional Government.

A HOPE OF PEACE.

I am informed to-day, from good sources, that there is still a great possibility that the fallen ends of the rope dropped by Bismarck and Favre will again be taken up. It is rumored that General Burnside is the agent between the two, and will again enter Paris on a diplomatic mission. It is said that the Parisians live in the hope of peace being concluded, and cannot believe in the reality of a bombardment.

MILITARY REVIEWS.

ARRIVAL OF KING WILLIAM.

The handsome prefective palace, erected under the empire, on the Avenue de Paris, has been appropriated for the King's headquarters here. His Majesty arrived this evening at five o'clock, followed by his staff, ministers, baggage, horses, carriages, &c. His arrival is not only quite an event to the army and the citizens of Versailles, but is a significant display in the eyes of all Europe. Versailles at last sees another sovereign of the "divine right" school after a long occupation of the French throne by a parvenu.

HIS RECEPTION.

There was a grand turnout of the officers and men of the army to receive the King. Troops were paraded and stationed to serve as a guard of entry and of honor full three hours before the first dusty wagon was descried on the horizon. A full band was stationed just outside the gates to strike up a loyal hymn when the sovereign alighted from his carriage. On the other side of the gate was a brilliant bevy of staff officers, among whom were the dukes of Coburg, Augustenberg and Wurtemberg. Princes Leopold, Hohenzollern, Mecklenburg Strelitz, and Wurtemberg and their officers in waiting. Besides these were a number of generals already highly distinguished in war and a good sprinkling of American officers, including Generals Sheridan, Burnside, Forsyth, Hazen, Percy and Herbert, and Mr. Forbes.

THE PEOPLE OF VERSAILLES.

The citizens turned out to but little extent to satisfy their curiosity, though at the bottom the whole population was dying to catch a glimpse of the conqueror. The only elements which showed any force were the blue blouses, old women in white caps and children. They were seen peeping behind the line of soldiers, curious and silent. The better class considered it a point of patriotism to remain housed, but numbers were seen peeping slyly through half closed windows.

APPROACH OF THE KING.

Towards dusk the King's black stallions began to come in, led by mounted grooms, then the fourgons and the baggage of his Majesty, the ministers and headquarters officers. After these there lapsed some ten minutes, when a detachment of lancers galloped up. The vanguard of the royal cortége drew up across the avenue, with their carbines by their side and cocked pistols in their right hands. They were quickly followed by a body of stalwart dragoons and a few mounted equerries, after which came another troop of lancers, with long lances carried upright, who took position on the flank of the rest. Then came, at a quick pace, an open carriage containing the King and the Crown Prince, covered by dust and preceded by outriders. They were announced as they approached by war cheers rolling from regiment to regiment. These, with the burst of music from the band, rendered the scene quite exciting.

INTO THE PALACE.

When the carriage halted the King and the Crown Prince alighted, both looking remarkably vigorous and active. They shook hands cordially with several officers, and instead of entering the palace at once proceeded along the line to the color company drawn up in front, conversing with the Crown Prince, General Blumenthal and others. As he returned the salute of the men he disappeared through the gates of the palace, first turning to give a general salute.

VON MOLTKE NOT SEEN—BISMARCK CONSPICUOUS.

PRUSSIAN CIVIL GOVERNMENT IN VERSAILLES.

The Prussian Civil Prefect has arrived from Ferrieres and is now lodged by the side of the King's headquarters, in a small sized house. A card at the door gives notice to the public of Versailles that "the public are hereby informed that the Prefect will receive persons for the transaction of business from nine o'clock in the morning till twelve o'clock noon. Those wishing an interview in other hours will make application."

THE MILITARY OPERATIONS.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

Reported French Victory Before Paris—Further Accounts of the Battle Near Orleans—The French Overpowered and Beaten—Cowardice of the Regulars—Gallantry of the Raw Troops—Garibaldi Gone to the Front—Prussian Atrocities—Count de Palikao and the Government—General War News.

TOURS, Oct. 12, 1870.

No news has been received from Paris to-day. A balloon expedition is preparing here for an attempt to descend into Paris.

A FRENCH VICTORY BEFORE PARIS.

The Ministry has just received the following news of an important French victory. The courier who brought the intelligence was permitted to pass through the Prussian lines:—

A battle occurred on Friday, the 7th inst., between Fort Mont du Valerien and St. Cloud, on the west side of Paris, the French, under General Ducrot, having made a sortie in force.

The Prussians were completely defeated and were forced to retreat to Versailles, entirely surrendering the position they had lately occupied, and from which they might have shelled the western part of Paris.

MORE FIGHTING NEAR ORLEANS.

The Minister of War has made public the following intelligence, contained in a telegram from Orleans, dated at a late hour last evening:—

The scene of the battle to-day was so near this city that balls and shell fell in the outskirts. The Prussians are near Gallens. The troops sent from Tours to reinforce the Fifteenth corps have formed a junction with that body near Artenay.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE FIGHTING.

The messengers who were sent to Orleans yesterday, where the battle was going on, have returned. They make the following report:—The French were in much smaller force than the Prussians, and were literally crushed by their superior artillery, and driven back into the suburbs of the town. Some barricades had been erected there, and our forces took advantage of the shelter these afforded. The Papal Zouaves and Mobiles behaved most courageously, but the regular troops fled at almost the first fire. None of the regular troops made much resistance. Many threw away their arms in their flight.

PEOPLE FLYING BEFORE THE PRUSSIAN ADVANCE.

The Prussians opened fire on the town after the French defeat, and owing to the barricades many fires occurred. The railway depot was destroyed in this way, as well as many other large establishments.

At last accounts the people of Orleans were flying in all directions. At a late hour last evening the Prussians had pushed south to Beaugency and Meung, beyond Orleans, and it is feared that the Papal Zouaves will be surrounded and captured.

REINFORCEMENTS FOR THE FRENCH.

The other French troops in that neighborhood are in a good position, and heavy reinforcements were sent forward to them during the night. It is reported that some heavy guns have also gone forward from Bourges. The French troops at Beaugency and Meung are excellent. They are composed chiefly of the National Guard and the Mobiles, and they are determined to resist to the last.

GARIBALDI GONE TO THE FRONT.

THE FRENCH DRIVEN ACROSS THE LOIRE.

Official reports from Beaugency state that the Prussians entered Orleans last night. The French forces are on the left bank of the Loire. They received to-day heavy reinforcements, including ten batteries of field artillery.

SWAPPING HORSES.

General La Matterouge has been removed from the command of the troops here and General Palandene appointed to succeed him.

PRUSSIANS RETREATING FROM MONT DIDIER.

A despatch from Moreuil, dated at midnight last night, reports that the enemy's scouts near Mont Didier beat a hasty retreat to-day on the approach of the Franc-tireurs and Mobiles.

FRENCH SUCCESS AT DREUX.

A telegram from Chateauden, dated to-day, reports that the enemy has been beaten back with loss at Dreux.

THE GOVERNMET AND COUNT PALIKAO.

The government denies that there is any foundation for the report that Count de Palikao has been asked to resume command of the Army of Lyons.

GAMBETTA'S LATEST ORDER.

Minister Gambetta has given orders that complete returns of the armed forces of France be made to his department. He has also sent a number of young energetic men into the Provinces to organize military movements, but with instructions not to meddle with politics.

REPEATED STORIES OF PRUSSIAN ATROCITIES.

Advices from various parts of France repeat the statements that the Prussians are committing the greatest atrocities upon helpless towns. Where the Franc-tireurs gain advantages the Prussians have not only seized the authorities of the towns and demanded restitution for the captured Prussians on pain of the death of the authorities and the burning down of the towns, but have also exacted that the Franc-tireurs themselves be delivered up for execution. In view of this frightful state of affairs the government is reported to have again brought the subject to the attention of the Prussian military authorities as well as to the foreign ambassadors to France.

RETALIATION FOR PRUSSIAN ATROCITIES.

The government has repeated its determination to retaliate for all Prussian atrocities. If the municipal authorities of Ablis are executed an equal number of Prussian prisoners will be shot.

THE ITALIAN VOLUNTEERS.

Signor Frappoli, Grand Master of the Free Masons of Italy, who is to superintend the organization of the Italian volunteers, has arrived in Tours.

GARIBALDI IN BAD HEALTH.

General Garibaldi will not take the field at present. His health is quite delicate and he will require a season of rest before engaging in active operations.

VARIOUS WAR ITEMS.

The government is fully satisfied with the good faith of General Bourbaki.

Five franc pieces with the emblem of the republic have just appeared from the mint.

Severe fighting has been renewed before St. Quentin.

The journals La Gazette de France and L'Union publish an anti-republican address from the Count de Chambord to the people of France.

The Moniteur to-day prints a letter of thanks from M. Gambetta to the Americans, Messrs. May and Reynolds, who presented to the government the balloon in which they escaped from Paris.

Bismarck Willing for an Election in France—Paris Resolute—Intrigues of Prince Napoleon—The Map of Germany—Bismarck Wants France Powerless—Various Items.

LONDON, Oct. 12, 1870.

General Burnside has conveyed to Jules Favre Count von Bismarck's assurance of Germany's willingness to permit the elections to be held.

PARIS RESOLUTE AND PREPARED.

Advices from the city of Paris to the 6th instant represent the people steadfast, quiet and orderly, and without any anxiety on the question of food. They claim to be fully prepared for any assault the Prussians may make.

INTRIGUES OF PRINCE NAPOLEON.

BISMARCK ON THE MAP OF GERMANY.

A correspondent of one of the morning journals here furnishes the following interesting scene which occurred recently at Versailles:—

Early in the evening Count Bismarck entered the hotel, dusty and hungry. He was attended by only a few officers. He ordered dinner in the salle à manger, which was already crowded with people. Recognizing General Burnside at the table with Generals Sheridan and Forsyth and Mr. Forbes, he saluted them, and joining them chatted pleasantly and jocularly, especially regarding Forbes' visit to Paris. Some one at this time called the Count's attention to a map of Germany hanging on the wall overhead. "Yes, Germany as it was," was the significant reply.

BISMARCK WANTS FRANCE POWERLESS.

The Times this morning has an article going to prove that Count Bismarck's obvious policy is to render France powerless for offence or defence hereafter.

THE SITUATION AT METZ.

Late advices have been received from the army besieging Metz. Up to Thursday last the Prussians had burned twenty small villages in that neighborhood, and executed 150 peasants for carrying on an illicit warfare. Bazaine's soldiers were said to be greatly dissatisfied with the situation, and had counselled a surrender.

THE CAPTURES AT STRASBOURG.

A telegram from Berlin says that the official account of the surrender of Strasbourg is just published there. By the capitulation eleven hundred guns of all sorts, twelve thousand Chassepots, three tons of ammunition and fifty locomotives of the Paris and Strasbourg Railroad, which had been collected there, fell into Prussian hands. The carpenters, masons and other laborers of the city have been impressed to repair the fortifications.

AMMUNITION FOR BIG GUNS.

A telegram from Cologne, dated to-day, says that a writer in the Frankfort Gazette has seen colossal bombs, holding 140 pounds of powder, going forward to Paris.

M. JULES FAVRE'S REPORT ON HIS MISSION.

The Foreign Office last night favored us with a reprint from the Moniteur of Wednesday, the 28th inst., of the official report made by M. Jules Favre to the members of the government of the national defence regarding his mission to the Prussian headquarters at Ferrieres. The report issued at Tours on Tuesday as an official bulletin of the government delegation, was prefaced by the following statement:—"M. Lutz, of the Rhone, who set out from Paris on Sunday in a balloon, brings to us this morning the report of M. Jules Favre, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, on his interview with Count Bismarck. The report of M. Favre appeared in the Official Journal on the 23d of September, at Paris. It will be seen from the report with what sort of an enemy we have to do, and that France henceforth must reckon only upon herself." The report, which we received at a late hour, and which we translate from the original French, is as follows:—

MY DEAR COLLEAGUES—The close union of all our citizens, and especially that of the members of the government, is now more than ever a necessity for the public safety. Every one of our acts ought to cement it. What I have just done on my own responsibility was inspired with that feeling, and will have the result which I have had the honor to explain to you in detail. But that will not suffice. We are a government of publicity. If during negotiations secrecy is indispensable, yet the fact, once consummated, should be placed in the clearest light. We are nothing except by the opinion of our fellow citizens, and they must judge us every hour, and, to be able to judge, they have the right to know everything. I considered that it would be my duty to go to the headquarters of the enemy. I went there, and I have rendered you an account of the self-imposed mission. I now recount to my country the reasons which prevailed with me, the object I proposed, and what I believe I have attained. I have no need to recall the policy inaugurated by us, which the Minister of Foreign Affairs was particularly charged to formulate. We are, before all things, men of peace and liberty. Down to the very last moment we opposed the war which the Imperial government was about to undertake in an exclusively dynastic interest; and, when that government fell we declared that we should preserve more energetically than ever in a policy of peace. That declaration we made when, by the criminal folly of one man and his counsellors, our armies were destroyed; our glorious Bazaine and his valiant soldiers blockaded behind Metz; Strasbourg, Toul, Phalsburg crushed by bombshells, and the victorious enemy marching upon our capital. Never was a situation more cruel. It inspired, nevertheless, no feeling of despair in the nation, and we believed that we were its faithful interpreters when we laid down clearly this condition: Not an inch of our territory, not a stone of our fortresses. If, then, at that moment when a fact so considerable as that of the overthrow of the originator of the war had just been accomplished, Prussia had wished to treat upon the basis of an indemnity to be agreed upon, peace would have been made; it would have been accepted as a universal blessing; it would have become a certain pledge of reconciliation between two nations which an odious policy alone has fatally divided. We hoped that humanity and self-interest, rightly understood, would have achieved that victory, splendid for all; for it would have opened a new era, and the statesmen who should associate their names with it would have had, in so doing, for their guides, philosophy, reason, justice—for their recompense, the blessings and prosperity of peoples. It was with these ideas that I undertook the perilous task which you confided to me. It was my duty first to ascertain the dispositions of the other European governments, and to seek their support. The imperial government had either wholly neglected, or had alienated, that support. It entered on the war without an ally, without serious negotiation; everywhere around was either hostility or indifference; and it thus reaped the bitter fruit of a policy which wounded every neighboring State either by its menaces or by its pretensions. Scarcely were we established in the Hotel de Ville before a diplomatist, whose name we are hardly now at liberty to reveal, came to ask to enter into relations with us. The next day your Ministers received the representatives of all the Powers. The republic of the United States, the Helvetian republic, Italy, Spain and Portugal, officially recognized the republic of France. The other governments authorized their agents to enter into official relations with us, so as to permit us at once to exchange friendly communications. I should give to this statement, already too much expanded, an unnecessary amplitude if I were to recount in detail the brief but instructive history of the negotiations which followed. I believe I may affirm that they will not be wholly without advantage for our moral credit. I permit myself only to say that everywhere we found honorable sympathies. My object was to group them together, and to determine the Powers who were the signatories of the neutral league to intervene directly with Prussia, taking for their base the conditions I have laid down. Four of the Powers offered to do this; and I have declared to them my gratitude, in the name of my country, for so doing, but I wished to have the concurrence of two others. One of these promised me an individual action with respect to which she reserved to herself liberty, and the other proposed to be my intermediary with Prussia. She even went one step farther, at the instance of an Envoy Extraordinary from France. She undertook directly to recommend my proposal. I asked much more; but I refused no assistance, considering that the interest shown for us was a force not to be neglected. Nevertheless, time was passing, and every hour brought the enemy nearer. A prey to the most poignant emotions, I promised to myself not to permit the siege of Paris to begin without attempting a supreme effort, even though I should have to make it alone. Our interest in doing this need not be explained. Prussia remained silent, and no one interrogated her. That situation was untenable. It permitted the enemy to lay upon us the responsibility of continuing the struggle; it condemned us to ascertain her intentions for ourselves. It was necessary to escape from the position. In spite of my repugnance, I determined to make use of the good offices that were tendered to me; and on the 10th of September a telegram reached M. Bismarck asking him if he would enter into conference upon the conditions of negotiation. The first response was an objection drawn from the irregularity of our government. Meanwhile the Chancellor of the Confederation of the North did not insist upon that, but inquired what guarantees we offered for the execution of a treaty. This second difficulty having been removed by me it was necessary to proceed further. A proposal was made that I should send a courier, which I accepted. At the same time a telegram was despatched directly to M. Bismarck, and the Prime Minister of the Power which served as our intermediary informed our Envoy Extraordinary that France was able to act alone; he added that it was desirable that I should not hesitate to go to the headquarters. Our Envoy, who thoroughly knew my mind, replied that I was ready to make all the sacrifices necessary to discharge my duty; that there were few so painful as to traverse the lines of the enemy to seek out our conqueror, but that he believed I should not shrink even from that. Two days afterwards the courier returned. After a thousand obstacles he had seen the Chancellor, who told him that he was disposed of his own accord to have an interview with me. I should have preferred a direct reply to the telegram of our intermediary, but it was delayed. The investment of Paris was progressing. There was no time for hesitation, and I resolved to set out. It was only necessary for me to bear in mind that this negotiation, until it was accomplished, was to be ignored. I recommended secrecy, and I was grievously surprised on returning yesterday evening to learn that it had not been observed. A culpable indiscretion had been committed. A journal—the Electeur Libre—previously disavowed by the government had taken advantage of it; an inquiry has been set on foot, which I hope will lead to this double abuse being punished. I had pushed so far the scrupulous regard for secrecy that I observed it even towards yourselves, my dear colleagues. I could not resolve to do that without lively regret, but I knew your patriotism and your affection, and I was sure to be absolved. I believed myself bound to obey an imperious necessity. One time I told you of the agitation of my mind, and I said that it would be at rest only when I had done everything that was possible for man to do to bring this horrible war to an honorable conclusion. Recalling the conversation which arose from this beginning, I feared some objections, and I was decided. I wished, in meeting M. de Bismarck, to be free from every engagement, in order to have the privilege of not making any. I make these acknowledgments sincerely. I make them to the country, in order to release you from a responsibility which I alone assume. If my mission be a mistake I alone must bear the penalty. I had meanwhile to consult the Minister of War, who had wished to give me an officer to conduct me to the avant-postes. We did not consider the situation of the headquarters. We thought they were at Grosbois. We moved towards the enemy by the Porte de Charenton. I suppress all the details of this unhappy journey, which was full of interest, but the incidents of which would not be in their place in this report. Conducted to Villeneuve-Saint-Georges, where was the General-in-Chief commanding the Sixth corps, I learned rather late in the afternoon that the headquarters were at Meaux. The General proposed to me to send an officer as bearer of the following letter, which I had prepared for transmission to M. de Bismarck:—

"M. LE COMTE—I have always believed that before undertaking serious hostilities under the walls of Paris it was impossible that an honorable arrangement should not have been attempted. The person who had the honor of waiting on your Excellency two days ago has made me gather from his words the expression on your part of a similar desire. I have come to the avant-postes to put myself at the disposition of your Excellency. I expect you will let me know how and where I can have the honor of conferring with you for a few moments. I have, &c.,

"JULES FAVRE."

We were separated by a distance of forty-eight kilometres. The next morning at six o'clock I received a reply, of which this is a copy:—

"I have just received the letter your Excellency has had the goodness to write to me, and it will give me the greatest pleasure if you will come to see me to-morrow here at Meaux. Prince Biron, the bearer of this, will see that your Excellency is conducted across our lines. I have, &c.,

"DE BISMARCK."

At nine o'clock the escort was ready and I left with it. When we arrived near Meaux, about three in the afternoon, I was stopped by an aide-de-camp, who told me that Count Bismarck had left Meaux with the King, to go to Ferrieres for the night. I went back and proceeded to a farm which had been pillaged, as were all the houses which I passed on my route. At the end of an hour M. de Bismarck joined me. It was difficult for us to consult in such a place. One habitation—the Chateau de la Haute Maison, belonging to the Count de Rillac—was in the vicinity, and we proceeded thither. Our conversation took place in a salon, in which debris of all sorts was lying about. I would fain report to you that conversation in its entirety, as I dictated it to a secretary the next day. Every detail of it is important. I at once specified the object of my mission. Having made him acquainted by my circular with the intentions of the French government, I wished to know those of the Prussian Minister. It seemed to me inexcusable that two nations should, without previous explanations, continue a terrible war which would inflict deep suffering on the conquerors, notwithstanding the advantages they had gained. Caused by the power of one man this war had no longer a raison d'etre when France had become mistress of herself. I pledged myself for her love of peace, but at the same time for her indomitable resolution not to accept any condition which should make that peace a brief and threatening truce. M. de Bismarck said that if he believed such a peace was possible he would sign it at once. The opposition had always condemned the war. But the power which that opposition represented was no longer anything but precarious. If within a few days Paris were not taken, it would be overthrown by the mob. I interrupted him to say that we had not a mere mob at Paris, but a population which was intelligent and devoted; which knew our intentions and which would not make itself an accomplice of the enemy in obstructing our defence. As regarded our power, we were ready to place it in the hands of the Assembly already convoked. "This assembly," replied the Count, "will have designs which nothing can make us foresee. But if it obey the sentiment of France, it will wish for war. You will no more forget the capitulation of Sedan than Waterloo—than Sadowa, which did not concern you." Then he insisted at length on the wish of France, the accomplishment of which had been prevented, to attack Germany and to take away a part of its territory. From the time of Louis XIV. to that of Napoleon III. her tendencies had not changed, and that when war was declared the Corps Legislatif had received the words of the Minister with acclamation. I remarked to him that the majority of the Corps Legislatif had some weeks before called out for peace; that that majority, chosen by the Monarch, had believed itself bound to follow him blindly; but that the nation, which had been consulted twice, at the elections of 1869 and at the vote on the plebiscite, had persistently clung to a policy of peace and liberty. The conversation on this subject was prolonged—the Count maintaining his opinion, whilst I defended mine; and, as I pressed him strongly on these conditions, he replied, in effect, that the security of his country commanded him to guard the territory which protected it. He repeated several times, "Strasbourg is the key to the house: I must have it." I then asked him to be more explicit. "It is useless," he replied, "since we cannot listen to you. It is a matter to arrange later." I asked him to do it at once. He said then that the two departments of Bas Rhin and Haut Rhin, a part of the Moselle, with Metz, Chateau-Salins, and Soissons were indispensable, and that he could not give them up in the negotiation. I then remarked that the assent of the people of whom he was thus disposing was more than doubtful, and that the public opinion of Europe would not be satisfied with it. "I know well," he replied, "that they are not with us. They will impose an unpleasant job on us, but we cannot suffer it. I am sure that in a short time we shall have a new war with you. We wish to make it with all our advantages." I protested as I should against such solutions of the question. I said that two important elements of the discussion had been forgotten—Europe, which would find these proposals to be exorbitant, and oppose them; then the new right—the progress of civilization and manners—which was opposed to such conditions. I added that, so far as we were concerned, we would never accept them. We could, I stated, perish as a nation, but we would not suffer dishonor; besides, the country alone was competent to decide regarding a cession of territory. We have no doubt about its feeling, but we are willing to consult it. Opposite to it Prussia is arrayed. And, to be brief, it is clear that influenced by the intoxication of victory, she wishes for the destruction of France. The Count protested, taking his position behind the absolute necessity of the national guarantee. I continued:—"If it is not an abuse of strength on your part—concealing secret designs—let us summon the Assembly. We will resign into its hands our powers; it will nominate a definitive government which will consider your conditions." "For the execution of this plan," replied the Count, "an armistice would be necessary, and I do not wish for that at any price." The conversation took a turn ever more and more painful. Evening approached. I asked M. de Bismarck for a second interview at Ferrieres, where he was going to stay for the night, and we left each for his own destination. As I wished to fulfil my mission to the end, I had to return to several questions on which we had spoken, and to conclude. So in meeting the Count about half-past nine in the evening I observed that the intelligence which would be put in my possession would be conveyed to my government and to the French public, and I would engage that nothing would be published except what had been agreed upon between us. "Do not give yourself that trouble," he replied; "I give you full liberty. I do not see any disadvantage in revealing it." We then pursued the discussion, which was prolonged until midnight. I insisted particularly upon the necessity of summoning an Assembly. The Count appeared to become convinced by degrees and to return to the subject of the armistice. I asked for fifteen days. We discussed the conditions. He expressed himself in a very qualified way, and reserved his privilege of consulting the King. He consequently postponed our conversation until the next day at eleven o'clock. I have only one word to say; for in reproducing this sad story my heart is agitated by all the emotions which have tortured it for the last three days, and I hasten to the end. I was at the Chateau de Ferrieres at eleven o'clock. The Count left the King at a quarter to twelve, and I heard from him the conditions which were required for an armistice. They were contained in a text written in the German language, of which he gave me the sense verbally. He demanded as a guarantee the occupation of Strasburg, of Toul and of Phalsburg; and as to the demand of the previous evening that the Assembly should meet at Paris, he desired in that case to have added a fort commanding the city—that of Mont Valerian—for instance. At this point I interrupted him by saying, "It will be much more simple to ask us for Paris itself. How do you suppose a French Assembly can deliberate under your cannon? I have had the honor of telling you that I shall faithfully transmit our interview to the government, but I really do not know that I dare tell them that you have made to me such a proposition." "Let us seek another combination," he replied. Then I spoke to him of the Assembly meeting at Tours, and of no material guarantee being given in the neighborhood of Paris. He then proposed to speak of this proposition to the King, and, returning to the question of the occupation of Strasbourg, he added:—"The city is about to fall into our hands—it is now only a question of days—so I ask that the garrison should surrender themselves prisoners of war." At these words I was moved by grief, and rising, I said, "You forget that you are speaking to a Frenchman, Count. To sacrifice an heroic garrison—the admiration of ourselves and of the entire world—would be a piece of cowardice; and I do not promise that I shall not say you attempted to impose such a condition." The Count replied that he had no intention to wound me—that he only conformed to the laws of war; and that if the King consented that article might be modified. He then went and saw the King, and, returning in a quarter of an hour, said his Majesty accepted the proposition with regard to Tours, but insisted on the garrison of Strasbourg being retained as prisoners of war. My strength was now exhausted, and for an instant I feared it would fail me altogether. I turned to hide the emotion which nearly choked me, and, apologizing for my involuntary weakness, I took my leave with these simple words:—"I was deceived, Count, in coming here, but I do not repent. I have suffered sufficiently for my own excuse, and, moreover, I only came in deference to a sense of duty. I will report to my government all that you have told me, and if they think proper to send me back to you, however painful it may be to my own feelings I shall have the honor of seeing you again. I am grateful to you for the kindness you have shown towards me, but I fear there is no other means remaining than to let events take their course. The population of Paris is courageous, and resolved to make any sacrifice. Their heroism must change the course of events. Even if you conquer you will not make them submit. All France entertains the same sentiments. So long as we can find an element of resistance we will fight you. It will be a struggle between two peoples who ought rather to join hands. I hoped for a different solution, and I do part deeply grieved, but, nevertheless, full of hope." I added nothing to this speech, which was eloquent by its simplicity. I may now be permitted to conclude, and to tell you what is my idea of the effect of these interviews. I sought peace, and I found an inflexible determination in favor of war and conquest. I asked for the possibility of eliciting the opinion of France, represented by a freely elected assembly; and I was answered by a display of the Caudine Forks beneath which we were first required to pass. I make no recriminations. I confine myself to a statement of facts for the consideration of my country and of Europe. I do not attempt to deny that I ardently desired peace, and that the three days' spectacle of our ravaged country increased that desire to such a point that I was forced to call all my courage to my aid in order not to fail in the task I had undertaken. I desired not less keenly an armistice, in order that the nation might be consulted on the terrible question which fate has placed before us. You know now the preliminary conditions that were sought to be imposed upon us. With me, and without discussion, you have been unanimously of opinion that it was our duty to repel a proffered humiliation. I have a profound conviction that, in spite of the sufferings she is now enduring, and that are yet to be borne, our indignant country will share our resolution. It was with her sentiments I believed myself inspired in writing the following despatch to M. de Bismarck, which closed the negotiation:—

"M. LE COMTE—I have faithfully expressed to my colleagues in the Government of National Defence the declaration that your Excellency has been good enough to make to me. I regret to have to make known to your Excellency that that government has not been able to accept your propositions. They will accept an armistice having for its object the election and meeting of a National Assembly, but they cannot subscribe to the contingent conditions. As to myself, I can say with a clear conscience that I have done my utmost to stop the effusion of blood, and to restore peace to two nations which would be so much benefited by that blessing. I have only been stopped by an imperious duty, which required me not to yield the honor of my country, which has determined energetically to resist such a sacrifice. I and my colleagues associate ourselves without reserve in that determination. God, our Judge, will decide on our destinies. I have faith in His justice. I have, &c.,

"SEPT. 21, 1870. "JULES FAVRE."

I have done, my dear colleagues, and you will think with me that if I have failed in my mission it has still not been altogether useless. It has proved that we have not deviated. From the first we have conducted a war which we condemned beforehand, but which we accepted in preference to dishonor. We have done more, for we have laid bare the equivocation on which Prussia relied and let Europe now assist us in dissipating it altogether. In invading our soil she gave her word to the world that she was attacking Napoleon and his soldiers, but would respect the nation. We know now what to think of that statement. Prussia requires three of our departments, two fortified cities, one of 100,000, the other of 75,000 inhabitants, and eight or ten smaller ones, also fortified. She knows that the populations she wishes to tear from us repulse her; but she seizes them, nevertheless, replying with the edge of the sword to their protestations against such an outrage on their civic liberty and their moral dignity. To the nation that demands the opportunity of self-consultation she proposes the guarantee of her cannon planted at Mount Valerien, and protecting the scene of their deliberations. That is what we know, and what I am authorized to make public. Let the nation that hears this either rise at once, or at once disavow us when we counsel resistance to the bitter end. Paris is resolved to take the latter course. The departments are organizing and coming to our assistance. The last word is not yet spoken in this struggle, where now force is arrayed against right. It depends upon our constancy that the balance should rest on the side of justice and liberty. Receive, my dear colleagues, the fraternal homage of my unalterable devotion.

The Vice President of the Government of National Defence and Minister of Foreign Affairs,

BROOKLYN CITY NEWS.

Henry Russell, a workman, fell from a scaffold while at work on the Puritan church, corner of Lafayette and Marcy avenues yesterday, and striking on his head, was severely, but not fatally injured. The height of the scaffold was ten feet.

Justice Walsh issued a warrant yesterday on complaint of Inspector Fiske charging Dr. Jacob Gerstt, of Meserole street, Williamsburg, for violating the Health code, by falsely representing himself to be an officer of the Sanitary Bureau.

The balance remaining in the hands of the Park Commissioners on the 1st of October was $70,778, since which time $27,298 has been expended. The Commissioners have made a requisition for $100,000 for Park purposes. The plans for the pedestrian course were also adopted, the cost of which work is to be $32,000.

Peter Talley, John Gillen, James and William McCloskey were engaged in conversation with Philip Eckhardt, a pedlar, in Spencer street, at a late hour on Tuesday night, when Philip discovered the loss of $140, which he missed from his pockets. He accused his friends, the gentlemen above named, of the theft, and summoned an officer, who took the party to the station house on Myrtle avenue. They are held for examination.

A BOY FRIGHTENED TO DEATH.

The Peril of Raiding on Farmers—What Came of Stealing Potatoes and Chestnuts—A Sad Affair.

On Saturday last a boy named Joseph Peele, fifteen years of age, and son of Mr. James Peele, one of the stockholders of the Machinists' Association establishment, of Paterson, went out with some companions to gather chestnuts in the woods surrounding that city. The party had gathered some chestnuts and some potatoes, which they were roasting on a fire they had built under a tree on a farm belonging to Mr. Jacob S. Rogers, of Paterson, when two Germans employed upon the farm approached them. One of these seized young Peele, while the other boys ran away. It is alleged that the man then tied the boy Peele to the tree and was about lashing him with the end of a whip when the boy struggled and cried so hard and manifested such evidences of abject terror that the man thought best to let him go.

Young Peele went home that night and was taken with slight pains in his stomach, which continued at intervals, until on Monday the symptoms extended to the regions of the heart and became so serious as to confine him to his bed. They continued to grow more severe until they resulted in the boy's death on Tuesday evening.

Dr. Robertson, who attended the boy, could find no external marks of violence whatever, but said there was every evidence that the immediate cause of death was congestion of the heart. It is his opinion, and the opinion of others, that the boy was frightened to death, and that (if the alleged report is true), being of a very excitable nature, he had been so frightened and struggled so hard to get loose that in the effort he ruptured one of the smaller blood vessels, which gradually caused a congestion of the heart.

No Coroner's inquest was held, and the parents objected to a post-mortem examination, so that the case possibly will end just where it is.

The party of boys, in whose company young Peele was, have, it is said, caused much trouble to the farmers around Patterson, trespassing on their grounds, stealing fruit and doing other acts of mischief. So that mayhap the man in charge of Mr. Roger's farm, in this case, may have been exasperated when he met them. The name of the man has not been ascertained.

A NEWARK HOAX.

A flaming sensation, setting forth that a woman named Barbara Smith, of Corey street, Newark, together with her three grown up daughters, had been abused, outraged and robbed in a fiendish manner by John Smith, who had wedded Mrs. Smith only last September, found its way yesterday into an obscure local sheet, proverbially eager to grab at any canard, however silly, such as the Ryerson-"Snoozer"-Rafferty scandal sell. It appears that for some time past the police court and station house authorities have suffered serious annoyance through the manœuvres of certain hungry Bohemians, who thought nothing of abstracting documents from pigeon-holes in a surreptitious manner and giving publicity to matters that would best serve the ends of justice to keep quiet. In order to effectually put a quietus on this procedure in a quiet way a document was drawn out in the form of an affidavit made by Barbara Smith, as above, duly signed, and then laid behind the Police Court bar, "loose and careless." Of course there is not a scintillation of truth in the story from beginning to end. It is proper to say in this case, however, that the "sell" did not reach the parties intended, although the object in view will no doubt be gained nevertheless.

A MUSICAL FRAUD.

Singular Predicament of an Audience—A Concert that Was Not a Concert.

A music teacher named August Huber, who has for some time past been giving lessons on the pianoforte to the daughters of several wealthy residents in Mount Vernon, Westchester county, absconded from that village on Monday evening, under circumstances which leave little room to doubt that he is an arrant swindler. It appears that Huber announced, with a grand flourish, a vocal and instrumental concert for that evening, and having collected a considerable sum received from the sale of tickets, in addition to borrowing fifty dollars from one of his patrons, decamped, leaving his victimized audience of nearly two hundred persons, vainly awaiting the melodiousness of those dulcet strains which had been "promised to the ear but broken to the hope." Since his departure it has been ascertained that Huber has been guilty of similar tricks at Bridgeport, Conn., and other places. He is said to possess considerable musical ability and a decided penchant for the Teutonic national beverage.

NEW YORK CITY.

Local and General Paragraphs of Metropolitan News.

The following record will show the changes in the temperature for the past twenty-four hours in comparison with the corresponding day of last year, as indicated by the thermometer at Hudnut's pharmacy, HERALD Building, corner of Ann street:—

Rev. H. M. Gallagher, of Brooklyn, lectures to-night in Plymouth Baptist church, Fifty-first street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues. Subject:—"Put Money in Thy Purse."

On Tuesday night a man, whose name is unknown, committed suicide by jumping into the dock foot of pier 33, East river. The body was recovered yesterday afternoon by James Burke and John Leary, and sent to the Morgue.

A lad named James Memder died yesterday afternoon in Mount Sinai Hospital from the effects of injuries received the day previous by being caught in the machinery of the Eagle pencil factory, West Twenty-seventh street.

William Tinsman, one of the witnesses in the Scannel shooting affray, was yesterday held to bail in the sum of $1,000 by Justice Cox, at Jefferson Market, charged with stealing two horses, one coach and two sets of harness, valued at $425; from Bernard R. Quinn, of 429 West Forty-second street, on the 8th inst.

The devotional exercises of the orthodox Israelites in honor and commemoration of the Feast of Tabernacles, known in Hebrew as Succoth, closed on Tuesday evening. Only prayer and psalms are chanted after this for the next four days, and manual or "servile" labor is permitted until the next great feast day, Shemine Azereth, except on the coming Sabbath.

Mr. Bernard Smyth, the Tax Receiver, gives notice that the tax books for real estate will be opened for payment on Saturday next, October 15. A deduction at the rate of seven per cent per annum, calculated from the date of payment to the first day of December, will be made on all taxes paid previous to the first day of November.

The Italian Rifle Association (Colombo Guard) held their fourth annual festival and target excursion at Sulzer's East River Park yesterday. G. Cavagnaro is captain of the organization and Solari Felice secretary. The association in their festivities thus commemorate each year the landing in America of Christopher Columbus, their distinguished countryman.

William Robinson, a sailor, was yesterday committed by Alderman Coman, at the Tombs, on a charge of having, with two other men, not yet arrested, robbed Mary Jantzen, 103½ Cherry street, of $130. Mary alleges that she had entered her room in company with two men, and that Robinson followed her in and then knocked her down on the floor, in doing which he was assisted by the two other men for the purpose of the robbery.

August Labelle, a Frenchman, was arraigned before Justice Cox, at Jefferson Market, yesterday morning, by officer Smith, of the Eighth precinct, upon complaint of a girl of the town named Anna Lecoste, of No. 159 Greene street, charged with beating and kicking her in such a brutal manner on Tuesday night that she was compelled to jump from the first story window for protection. He was committed to answer a charge of felonious assault.

Coroner Keenan was yesterday called to hold an inquest on the body of Patrick Culligan, whose death was the result of injuries received on the boulevard road, near Eighty-sixth street, by being run over by a wagon loaded with cobble-stones. While driving the team it is supposed that the deceased fell from the wagon, the wheels of which passed over his body. Michael Culligan, living at No. 9 West Forty-second street, testified that deceased, who was his brother, had been drinking to excess of late, and he may have been intoxicated at the time of the accident. Deceased was thirty-seven years of age and a native of Ireland.

A Law Association was organized at No. 23 Third avenue, opposite Cooper Institute, last night. The association is named the New York Law Association, and has adopted a constitution and bylaws for its purposes, its objects to discuss legal questions, and its officers as elected for the ensuing term are Louis Levy, President; Timothy Donovan, Vice President; Naldorf H. Phillips, Recording Secretary; Aaron Levy, Corresponding Secretary; Denis J. Cody, Treasurer, and Samuel Goldberg, Rudolph Sampter and William Doll as the Executive Committee. The association will meet next Wednesday evening at the same place to initiate new applicants.

There was a meeting yesterday afternoon at 53 Exchange place of the committee appointed June 24 by the Central American Transit Company, to watch over the united interests of their own body and also those of the now defunct Atlantic and Pacific Ship Canal and the accessory transit companies, especially in reference to the project of a ship canal via Nicaragua, and to take all necessary steps to acquaint the public mind thereon, and also to urge upon Congress and our government to adopt the Nicaragua route for the great national work of uniting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The committee is composed of William Butler Duncan, Richard Schell, Solon Humphreys, William H. Webb, Denning Duer, J. Howard Wainright, William M. Clarke, Francis Morris, and John E. Rady, who presided on the occasion of the present meeting. No business was transacted on account of the absence of some of the committee members.

MASONIC.

The Grand Commandary of Knights Templars at Utica—Election of Officers.

UTICA, Oct. 12, 1870.

Grand Commander, George Babcock, Troy; Deputy Grand Commander, Robert N. Brown, Buffalo; Grand Generalissimo, Frank L. Stowell, Olean, N. Y.; Grand Captain, General Weed Belden, Syracuse; Grand Prelate, Rev. J. G. Webster, Palmyra; Grand Senior Warden, A. E. Lytle, Auburn; Grand Junior Warden, Charles Roome, New York; Grand Treasurer, John S. Perry, Troy; Grand Recorder, Robert Macy, New York; Grand Standard Bearer, Robert Black, Brooklyn; Grand Sword Bearer, Townsend Fonday, Albany; Grand Warden, W. Kempster, Utica; Grand Lecturer, Joseph B. Chaffee, Binghamton; Grand Sentinel, A. Fuller, Albany.

The next conclave will be held in Albany on the second Tuesday of October, 1871.

AMERICAN SOCIAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION.

BOSTON, Oct. 12, 1870.

The annual meeting of the Social Science Association was held to-day in Truman Place chapel. The Secretary's report showed the whole number of members of the association to be 434. A sinking fund has been subscribed for the completion and publication of an emigrant's hand book, which now amounts to nearly $5,000.

A list of officers for the ensuing year was presented for adoption by the association.

A member protested against the ticket presented because no woman's name was among the candidates.

After discussion it was moved that the names of Mrs. Parkman and Miss May be added to the Board of Directors.

Mrs. Dall spoke several times, and stated that the nomination of the two ladies associated with her last year was made a jest of instead of being serious, as declared by the President. She was willing to go out of the association without resigning, were it necessary to its interests.

The President replied that he did not intend to interfere in the election of officers, but it was his province, as chairman of the meeting, to state the facts.

Mr. Washburn advocated the leaving the matter with the Board, and he hoped there would be one meeting where men and women could co-operate without introducing the subject that is exciting so much discussion.

The motion was carried, and Mrs. Parkman and Miss May were added to the Board by an unanimous vote.

The President then made an address and the meeting dissolved.

INTERESTING RELIGIOUS CEREMONY.

The corner stone of a new Reformed church was laid with appropriate ceremonies in presence of a numerous assemblage at Mount Vernon, Westchester county, yesterday afternoon. In the box deposited beneath the stone were a number of articles, including gold and silver coins of the United States and a copy of the NEW YORK HERALD. Addresses were delivered by the pastor, Rev. M. H. Hutton, and other clergymen. The new edifice will be eighty by forty-two feet in dimensions, with a tower sixty feet high, and will accommodate about 500 persons. It will be composed of Eastchester marble, which has been generously donated by a gentleman residing at Bronxville. The estimated cost of the structure is $25,000, nearly all of which has been subscribed.

PESTILENCE IN THE BAY.

A Visit to West Bank Hospital.

The Yellow Fever Among the Troops on Governor's Island—Heroism of the Drummer Boys—Harrowing Scenes in the Hospital—Drowning Preferred to Fever—Suicide of a Pilot—The Death Record.

Since the breaking out of yellow fever as an epidemic in our midst, and especially since its ravages among the troops on Governor's Island, immediately underneath the nostrils of New York and adjacent cities, there have been published and circulated from month to month various rumors in relation to the origin of the plague and the details of its ravages. For months the HERALD has warned the people almost daily of what they might expect in case the wise restrictions of the Health Officer were removed or permitted to be disregarded; while other journals have as persistently sought to counteract the measures of Dr. Carnochan and cast aspersions upon his motives. The result has been that a narrow-minded and avaricious clique of self-styled merchants, who are really the agents and consignees of British coasting vessels, aided by a New York merchant prominent in Washington politics and abetted by a Bohemian press, have so far evaded the quarantine regulations as to introduce to the city one of the most relentless and terrible of all forms of pestilence. By means of the press and politician have gratified their malice, the Shylocks have added to their hoard of pennies and the lives of scores of brave men have been sacrificed to a loathsome and frightful disease.

At a short distance from the wharf where the barks coming through the Kill von Kull discharged their cargoes, while the merchants were sneering at the idea of contagion and the papers above alluded to were still crying bugaboo, there was many a poor fellow who had faced death a hundred times undaunted who found himself stricken down at last by an impalpable, irresistible enemy. There were lying in down the bay, poor fellows with hopeless eyes, who turned listlessly over to die, so sick and dulled in mind that they could not even frame their thoughts in words for a last message to the distant "loved ones at home." And now, while the Health Officer of Brooklyn is trying to persuade the public that the contagion originated on Staten Island and was introduced from that point, and the wiseacres of the Board of Health listen sympathizingly, shrewd doctors are comparing notes of late mysterious cases in New York and Brooklyn, and shaking their heads over the apparent spreading of an infection that has already found a firm foothold.

To settle this question of the origin of the epidemic, so that the authorities may devote their exclusive attention to its suppression, a HERALD reporter was despatched to Staten Island, and, after nearly two days' diligent inquiries at all the landings and of persons residing in the interior, found that no case of yellow fever had been known there since 1858. On the morning of the third day the reporter, having finished his inquiries, was at Tompkinsville, and called upon Dr. Reid, one of the deputies of the Health Officer. He there learned that the number of persons living on Governor's Island was about 500, there being 200 regular troops and about 300 recruits, soldiers' wives, &c. Dr. Reid also called his attention to the heroic conduct of

who to the number of a dozen or more volunteered to go with the sick to the West Bank Hospital in the capacity of nurses and attendants. As the brave lads had never been attacked by the yellow fever themselves, and were placing their lives in great danger, he thought they deserved the most honorable mention. The reporter soon after hinted that he should be much pleased to visit the West Bank Hospital in person and see the patients, but as his proposition was very coolly received he did not repeat it. A short time after, his interview occurred Dr. Reid went on board one of the boats at the Quarantine wharf and left for the lower bay, while the reporter strolled down the pier to inspect the steamer Fletcher, which with steam up, was lying at the dock. As he walked down the pier he passed two men, one of whom was saying, "We won't get to the West Bank till noon at this rate, and I wonder

WHAT KEEPS THE DOCTOR?"

These men came from the Fletcher, and the reporter on arriving at the end of the pier went on board. The pilot, with one of the deck hands, was busy tacking a piece of canvas over a broken pane on the pilot house and the lower deck was for the moment clear. Strolling about the boat a door was observed above which was a porcelain sign, "Private." The gale was blowing in fresh and strong, and with each surge of the sea the boat rolled considerably, so that every moment the sliding door was thrown open; then as the sea struck again the door closed. In one of these moments when open it exposed to view the interior of the cabin beyond. The reporter observed a sofa standing close up against the port side, and just at that moment saw a gentleman attired very like himself, in a pilot coat and wearing a glazed navy cap, coming down the pier. This gentleman was accompanied by two or three others, and just behind the group was a woman. A second glance showed the gentleman in navy dress to be Dr. Carnochan, the Health Officer, and in a moment there flashed through the mind of the "interviewer" a new plan of operation. The conversation overheard upon the pier lead to the conclusion that the Health Officer was going down on the steamer to the West Bank, and now was afforded

THE GRAND CHANCE.

The reporter entered the private cabin, wheeled the sofa a little from its position, and making a bed of his heavy coat lay quietly down behind it. A moment later the Doctor came on board and the following conversation took place just within hearing:—

"Doctor, we have an insurance on $80,000, and every day the Mississippi lies in quarantine entails so much loss on us. Now, won't you let her pass up to-night?"

"Sir, there were two cases of yellow fever on board your ship; one of the men died, and the other cannot, I think, survive. Do you want me to pass that vessel up with the contagion on board?"

"But you see, Doctor, every day is so much loss to us, and the weather is growing colder. I don't want to endanger the public health, but I want to get the vessel up."

"I don't see how you can do it, sir. I wish to facilitate commerce as much as I can, but I must protect the city. Besides, sir, though a heavy wind is blowing now, the temperature is above temperate, and there is a great deal of danger. You must remember that there is and that one of your men has just died with the contagion. It is liable to break out at any moment among the others."

"But, Doctor, every day the Mississippi lies there we are losing money."

The rest of the conversation was drowned in a tumult, for the Doctor ordered the lines cast off. Then there was a cry from the shore and a woman wished to see the Health Officer, probably the same who had been observed coming down the pier behind the group. A man shouted, "She wants to send a message to her husband at the hospital," and then came another delay. Presently some one peered into the room and shut the door. The jar of the revolving wheels shook the boat, and the reporter fell asleep. He awoke hearing a loud thump, followed by a grating noise and and felt that the wheels were still and the vessel rising and falling with a regular motion. Drawing his cap down over his face and throwing the collar of his overcoat up he ascended the gangway and found himself on the upper deck, and the Fletcher moored to the wharf of a miniature island built in the mouth of the bay. This island covers an area of scarcely more than an acre, and was built of great jagged stones sunk in a crib upon a bar or bank of sand. Through the centre of this and facing the ocean is a long, low structure of wood, ending in a square sort of cottage house, and having appended to it, like ribs from the spine, some dozen low, long buildings on each side, all painted a dazzling white. A plank walk leads up these buildings from the wharf. At the angle of the structure were the Health Officer and his assistants. The reporter walked leisurely forward, greeted with a stare of mute astonishment by the pilots, and, passing down the gang plank, followed the retiring cortége. Passing around to the opposite side of the structure, facing the sea, he found an open door, and quietly entered a hall leading to a parlor. He was received with courtesy by the only person present, and a moment later came face to face with the Health Officer, who regarded him with a look of bewilderment. The door was at this moment thrown open and the physicians passed through to examine the wards. The reporter followed at a respectful distance.

THE FIRST WARD ENTERED

is a long building of a single story, with high ceiling. Like other wards, it is over 120 feet in length, and perhaps twenty feet in width; is pierced by the grated apertures in the ceiling for ventilation and has six large windows on each side. Like the exterior, this and every other room visited was of almost dazzling white. Ranged on one side of this room were eighteen beds and on the other side fifteen. Each was occupied save two, and the occupants were all soldiers. They were young men, not one, perhaps, being over thirty, and many of them were just passing the verge of manhood, with scarcely a sign of beard. The beds were mattresses, on common iron camp frames, and were placed at intervals of ten to twelve feet apart. The Health Officer passed down the aisle, some eight feet wide, between the rows of beds, and by his constant nods of recognition seemed a frequent—perhaps more than daily—visitor. Behind him were gathered in a group Assistant Surgeon Steinberg and acting Assistant Surgeon Gibbs, of the army; Dr. McCartney and Captain O'Rourke. Dr. Reid was absent at the time boarding the vessels in lower quarantine. Soon they came to the lower end of the room and formed a group about the bed of a poor fellow who had but just been attacked with the black vomit. Dr. Carnochan came close to the head of his bed and asked him in the loud voice in which he had spoken since entering the room, "How do you feel to-day, my boy?" The man regarded him with a stolid stare.

THE DOCTOR (louder)—How do you feel this morning?

The man looked steadily at him with open mouth, and the Doctor repeated the question for the third time. Then the sick man seemed by a struggle to comprehend the question. He answered, "I feel better."

"You think you will get along now, don't you?" said the Doctor, trying to speak cheerily, though his voice trembled and his eye grew dim.

"Yes; I'm getting well now," and the poor man resumed his stolid, staring look.

The reporter stepped back a little way and looked up the line. Two-thirds of the faces were turned toward him with a vacant, heedless look, and some of them, as he glanced at them, turned slowly away. One of them, a man of perhaps five and twenty, felt under his pillow, without moving his head, and drew forth a number of letters; then selecting one he looked at it long and earnestly, and carefully replacing it with the others hid them once more. In every face was the same stolid look, and every one seemed stupid and deaf. Perhaps had a cannon been fired within ten paces of them they would scarcely have changed a muscle. Then their eyes were apparently all red with weeping, and the fixed, hopeless gaze was something so unearthly, so horrible, that he who has seen it will carry it with him to the grave.

As the party entered this room the attendants, boys in blue jackets, and convalescents, in long gray robes, retired, and on entering the

they were seen, some standing in a group, others about the beds of the dying.

"Are there any cases of black vomit since yesterday?" asked Dr. Carnochan; and he was taken to the bedside of one who evidently had but a few hours to live. He spoke to him many times, but the man hardly opened his eyes, and then closed their lids over a profound, impenetrable stare. The reporter approached one at a little distance away and said:—"You are getting much better, are you not?" The man, whose eyes had lost something of their redness and their film, tried hard to seem interested, and muttered "Yes;" then failing in the attempt, he gave a fixed, vacant look at his questioner and drooped his head. The party passed to the

WARD FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Three middle aged women were lying in this ward and a number of little children were playing about. The latter were in the enjoyment of robust health, and presented a strong contrast to their poor mothers, who, while exhibiting the same stolid look of the men in other wards, occasionally sent a glance of vivid, hopeless agony toward their children. In one little room—perhaps twelve by fourteen feet—was the mate of the steamship George Washington,

A CONVALESCENT, WITH A TERRIBLE APPETITE,

who thought he was nearly well enough to leave. He was a fine-looking fellow, with long brown beard, and was loud in his praise of the kindness shown him by the Health Officer and those in immediate charge. In another room of the same size was a very pretty lady, Mrs. Turin, of the steamship Bienville. This lady was apparently a creole, and her great, lustrous eyes and intensely black hair contrasted finely with a skin more yellow than saffron. She was quite anxious to leave the West Bank, though she stated she had been most kindly cared for. Indeed, she acted much like a spoiled child, asking at one moment in the most whining manner that she might "go home on Saturday," and the next moment pouting at the possibility of a refusal. Then other patients were visited, and among them one man apparently dying and speechless, from on board the steamer Mississippi, which, according to the owner, should be at the Brooklyn docks at this moment. Having finished an inspection of the hospital, the party returned on board the steamer, where Dr. Carnochan soon thawed out sufficiently to give the reporter the following facts:—

SOLDIERS ADMITTED TO THE HOSPITAL FROM GOVERNOR'S ISLAND.

Sick	71	Convalescent	11

Died	13

FROM ON SHIPBOARD.

Steamship Bienville	1
Steamship De Soto	1
Steamship Mississippi (one dead)	2
Steamship General Sherman	1

In addition to these facts Dr. Reid, who had been taken on board from a small boat, stated that among the remarkable occurrences showing the fear people had of the disease was the suicide of the mate of the Pope Catlin. This steamer being employed to take the sick from Governor's Island to the West Bank, the mate became so terrified by apprehensions of danger from the contagion that he leaped overboard, with a couple of life preservers, and has not since been seen or heard from.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Fat Melting at 106th Street—Response to General McDowell's Letter.

The Board held a special open meeting yesterday afternoon, President Bosworth in the chair. On resolution of Commissioner Manierre the Comptroller was requested to place $15,000 to the credit of the Board, for the purpose of liquidating the indebtedness of the board to the clerical force. In answer to an inquiry, Dr. Morris stated that he had sent four inspectors to the fat melting establishment at the foot of 106th street, and all reported that the place is conducted without offence. The Doctor stated that in a few days he would make a special inspection of the place, in company with the President. The Board then adjourned. Immediately after the members of the Commission proceeded to the rooms of President Bosworth, where they were locked in for some time, preparing an answer to the scathing letter of General McDowell. It will not be made public until a future meeting of the Board. It has leaked out that General McDowell wrote the letter in question after receiving such instructions from the War Department.

CRIME IN WILLIAMSBURG.

Attempted Murders—Arson and Burglary.

William Dutton, the colored man who was so brutally assaulted on Sunday morning last, at the corner of Broadway and Eleventh street, as reported in yesterday's HERALD, remained in an unconscious condition last evening at his residence No. 22 Montrose avenue. His assailants are still at large. Dutton was employed in a photographic establishment in South Brooklyn and was of good general character.

On Tuesday night, while Charles J. Quinn and Thomas Murphy were engaged in an altercation at the corner of Withers and Lorimer streets, the former stabbed the latter five times in the lower part of the body with a sharp pocket-knife, inflicting wounds which are likely to prove fatal. Murphy is at the City Hospital, and his assailant was committed to the county jail by Justice Voorhies yesterday.

At about half-past four o'clock yesterday morning unknown persons set fire to the residence of George Williams, corner of Graham avenue and Johnson street, by pouring kerosene oil over the front hall. The flames were discovered in time to prevent a fire that would probably have resulted in loss of life. This was the second attempt made to burn the same dwelling.

Officers Short and Whitenour, of the Sixth precinct, yesterday morning arrested two supposed burglars in the neighborhood of Ainslie street and Union avenue, while a third effected his escape. On being taken to the Morrell street station house the prisoners gave the names of Charles McGarven and William Broach. The officers had to draw their revolvers on the prisoners before they surrendered, one of them attempting to strike down officer Whitenour with a heavy screw-driver nearly two feet long, such as is often used by cracksmen. The other had a chisel in his possession, which showed evidence of recent use. These prisoners are hard looking customers, one of them about twenty-five years of age and the other twenty. They are unknown to the police of the precinct where they were captured.

Officer Short yesterday arrested George Sherman, a youth of sixteen, for stealing a gold watch from the residence of Mrs. Kromode, No. 411 Grand street, on the 5th inst. The officer also recovered the watch and found a large number of pawn tickets sewed up in the lining of Sherman's cap.

A DISTRESSING CASE.

Disappearance of a Man Who Was Suffering from Typhoid Fever.

For some days past George Geitz and his wife, residing in Main street, Union Hill, N. J., have both been suffering from typhoid fever. On Tuesday afternoon George jumped out of bed, and, having dressed himself, left the house and has not since been seen in that neighborhood. His wife observed that he was laboring under great excitement and called out to him not to go out of doors lest his disease might become serious, but he paid no attention to her and she was unable to leave her bed. It has been ascertained that he visited a lager beer saloon in Weehawken late in the afternoon, but from the time he left that house no trace of him was found. It is feared that he committed suicide.

THE POLITICAL PHŒNIX.

The Era of Revolutions—Jimmy O'Brien, the Political Phœnix—How He Was "Laid Out" and How He Arose Again—Jimmy in the Role of the Prodigal Son—The Vacant Police Commissionership His "Fatted Calf"—Other Tammany Candidates in the Field—Two Military Worthies Suggested Therefor—The Commotion in the Republican Camp—The Murphy Regime and What It is Coming to.

This is peculiarly the era of revolutions and political upheavings. The very elements themselves seem to have been startled into an abnormal state of agitation and disquietude by the events which, following so rapidly on each other of late, have convulsed the nations and peoples of the earth. And yet we are only in the throes of those events which have produced such sudden and wonderful changes, and which still teem with consequences and results that no human eye can foresee or human mind foretell. In Europe we have seen the successor of St. Peter deprived of that temporal power which eleven centuries had bequeathed to him as a divine right—that power wrested from him by a king against whom but a few years ago he hurled, but in vain, the anathemas of the Church. Anathema or Benedicite, it was all the same, however. The era of progress is not to be stayed or checked now, and the Pope finds himself in his old age like another Priam, standing alone amid the ruins of the power which he alone survives to mourn over.

In France we have seen within the past few months the "Man of Destiny" go forth from the Tuileries, panoplied in war, surrounded by the chivalry of the empire, in the full assurance of reaping a rich harvest of fame and glory, and bequeathing a dynasty to his son which his great uncle first established. A few short weeks thereafter saw his puissance overthrown, his armies defeated, captured and slain, and himself, the Cæsar who so long "kept the world in awe," a captive in the hands of the enemy he went forth to conquer. But the end is not yet. The republic looms up over the empire, and the men who are sworn to support it are made of such stuff that no concussion of arms will affright and no misfortune or temporary defeats will turn them from the great task they have undertaken to accomplish.

OUR LOCAL POLITICAL REVOLUTION.

We turn, however, from the contemplation of the great events which are convulsing the Continent of Europe, and take a glance at affairs nearer home, which, though the change may appear as one "from the sublime to the ridiculous," have yet a deep interest for the politician, the place-hunter and the hangers-on of party, as well as to the citizens at large, whose welfare depends so much upon good municipal government.

O'BRIEN'S RESURRECTION.

In last Tuesday's issue we published a graphic and faithful account of the "great political funeral," with all the incidents of note connected therewith; how Ledwith overreached O'Brien in the race for the Mayoralty; how the latter rebelled, but ultimately succumbed, and again, after drawing a long breath, how O'Brien rose like a Phœnix from its ashes, prepared to renew the contest with his adversaries on a new field. The duty of resurrecting the late defunct O'Brien and presenting him enacting a new rôle in the drama, together with other important political movements anent the day of election now devolves upon us.

HOW O'BRIEN WAS "LAID OUT" AND HOW HE ROSE AGAIN.

When, as previously stated, Tom Murphy, Ledwith and Fox at last decided that Jimmy O'Brien was to be thrown overboard from all consideration in connection with the Mayorality, in deference to the high Puritanic Union League and administration sentiment, and that the pure and immaculate Police Justice Ledwith should be the accepted candidate of the republican party for Mayor, O'Brien became a changed man. Of course he would not be rejected or cast aside merely on account of a combination against him between his friends and the republican leaders, and he insisted on an appeal to the general committee of his own faction. Ledwith and Fox, however, had manipulated everything so cleverly that Jimmy was badly beaten—"beaten out of his boots" in fact—on a count of votes. Jimmy might have have gone out and hanged himself, which, being Sheriff, he had a perfect right to do if he chose; but he swore he'd "be hanged if he would"—that he'd "see them hanged first;" and so Jimmy, whose political funeral we attended the other day, has thrown off the cerements which Murphy, Fox and Ledwith prepared for him, and is to be seen any night of the week enjoying the glimpses of the moon in and around the Jackson Club, of which he continues to be a bright and shining light, notwithstanding the extinguisher put upon him.

JIMMY'S REVENGE.

No sooner had Jimmy risen again from his political death and taken communion with himself than he determined to give the "finishing touch," as Lentz the hangman would say, to the ruin of the party he could no longer rule. He knew the right market to carry his wares to, and rumor hath it that notwithstanding the dread oath which was to bind the republican conspirators with their associates of the John Real democracy, he sold himself body and breeches over again to the Tammany Regency. Fox, at the meeting which nominated Ledwith for Mayor on Monday night last, declared that he was authorized to say that Sheriff O'Brien would support the ticket. If he calls O'Brien's late action a "backing of his friends" he may take it for all it is worth.

THE IRISH CATHOLIC VOTE—THE BREECHES POCKET WAR.

The first element of disunion and strife between the worthies Ledwith and O'Brien was upon the vexed question as to which of them carried in his breeches pocket the Irish Catholic vote. It may not be very complimentary to our Irish fellow citizens to be informed that there was a dispute upon the point, but such is the fact. Ledwith first asserted that he "carried the Irish Catholic vote in his breeches pocket," and claimed thereupon the leadership of the O'Brien-John Real faction on the strength of that vote. O'Brien had engineered the secession movement from its inception in the Assembly Hall in Albany to the moment that the "angel of destruction" flapped her ominous wings over the councils of the young Braves and set their wisdom at naught, and was from the first the recognized leader of the remnant of the secession faction after their first defeat. But when putting forth his claims to the nomination for the Mayorality, Ledwith referred to the political power he carried in his breeches pocket. O'Brien, not to be outdone in presumption, asserted that it was he and not his opponent who carried the Irish Catholic vote in his breeches pocket. And so a new faction fight arose between the O'Brien breeches pocket men and the Ledwith breeches pocket men; a fight as frivolous and absurd as that described by Gulliver as waged between the sticklers for breaking the egg at the big end and the sticklers for breaking it at the small end, from which controversy the adherents of either party were dubbed the big-enders and the little-enders. This was the first rock the two worthies split upon. The next—the Mayoralty question—broke the frail bark to pieces, the two rivals starting on rafts in different directions for the first port they could reach.

O'BRIEN AS THE PRODIGAL SON.

Jimmy, the ex-leader of the John Real democracy, like another prodigal, returned to his old governor, the big boss—Tweed—and penitently avowed his late crimes and misdemeanors. He was warmly received by the fatherly Tweed, but whether the particular fatted calf that Jimmy expects to be sacrificed at his shrine is the one intended to celebrate his return to the Tammany fold or not remains to be seen. Jimmy's fatted calf is the vacant Police Commissionership. He is already in the field hunting for it. He thinks that as Brennan takes his place in the Sheriff's office, he ought to have Brennan's place in the Police Board. If the place was elective Tammany might give him the nomination; but it is a question whether such a dose would not be too much for even the well physicked voters of the city. Every man in his place is a good maxim, but whether a seat at the Police Board is just the one that the outgoing Sheriff would grace is one there may be two opinions about. The position, however, is not elective, but is an appointment by the Mayor. Boss Tweed may wheedle and promise Jimmy his influence with Mayor Hall to get him the appointment; but we say to Jimmy now, in the ever memorable words of the Boss himself, "You know how it is yourself, Jimmy." The thing can't be done. Mayor Hall will not, to reward political treason twice repeated, entertain for a single moment the idea of putting such a man as O'Brien in a position which, from the great influence for good or evil its incumbents possess, ought to be filled by the best and purest of our citizens. Whether the expectant Jimmy comes under that category Mayor Hall will have officially to determine. But the Mayor is not the man to sell and mart the city offices for gold or other considerations to undeservers, and so that question, so far as O'Brien is concerned, may be considered settled.

THE VACANT POLICE COMMISSIONERSHIP.

While upon this subject it may interest our readers to learn who are the candidates in the field for the place vacated by the coming Sheriff, Matthew T. Brennan. We have already stated that the present Sheriff, James O'Brien, claims the position in virtue (?) of his double treason to party and to party pledges. Having had his claims to the nomination to the Mayoralty candidacy contemptuously scouted by his late associates in the John Real democracy movement, he traitorously abandoned that tag, rag and bobtail of a party—sold them out clean so far as his own faction adherents go—and begged readmission into the Tammany fold. They say Jimmy is a good organizer, and, no doubt, to make their victory more overwhelming in November next, the Tammany leaders have put Jimmy into a state of probation, accepting his recantation and buoying him up with the promise of a fat place one of these days. But O'Brien aspires to the vacant Commissionership, and consequently he may be as well counted in as a candidate with a few other aspirants to the office, any one of them having just as good a chance as Jimmy, and "nothing more." First is Magnus Gross; then comes John Mullaly, by the grace of Boss Tweed a Commissioner of Health, and third on the list, or fourth, counting O'Brien, Mr. Ottendorfer. The Mayor will hardly select any of those named, and they may as well attend to present duties or direct their attention to some other vacant office, as the Police Commissionership is not for any of them. There are two most worthy citizens spoken of in this connection, either of whom would be an acquisition to the Board and whose appointment would be hailed with entire satisfaction by the whole community. These are General Fitz John Porter and General Franklin. Either of these gentlemen would bring an experience from the very best field for such an office—the field of military service, military energy, promptness and discipline. It is to be hoped that Mayor Hall, in the interest of the citizens at large, will at least give the refusal of the office to either of these talented and capable men; and it is to be further hoped that to whichever of them the appointment is offered he will accept. At all events the office could not be more worthily disposed of.

COMMOTION IN THE REPUBLICAN CAMP—THE MURPHY REGIME.

There is great commotion in the republican camp at the shape things are taking. For the first time the honest republican voter finds himself the dupe not only of ambitious leaders hungering after offices within the gift of the organization, but he finds also his vote has become the subject of barter and sale to the hostile party, with whom the republican leaders have made treacherous compact and with whom the voter has no affiliation whatever. Under Murphy's political régime at the Custom House the party has become more and more disorganized, until now it has fallen so low as to join hands with the ragtag and bobtail of the old Tammany party. As the representative of the administration party in this city Collector Murphy has brought the administration and its local policy into contempt, and the very alliances he has made to strengthen it tend more and more to its weakness and final overthrow. Murphy is no political organizer; he has none of the qualities of a leader. He would take things easy if he could. Like Macbeth, he would be great; is not without ambition; would not play false, but yet would wrongly win. And, therefore, not seeing at first his way clear to the sway and mastership of Collector of the Port, he bamboozled the President into the belief that he alone could prop up the tottering fabric of republicanism in this State and secure its vote for a Presidential renomination in 1872. How well he has succeeded thus far let the result of the Saratoga Convention and the continual disintegration of the party since testify. The President would be very glad to be relieved of his man Tom, but, military strategist as he has proved himself to be, he is not sufficiently versed in political tactics to successfully manœuvre or bring about so desirable an end as this. Perhaps, too, he remembers a little apothegm of the late President—"never swap horses crossing the stream"—and so Tom may be safe enough in his possession of the Custom House till after the November elections.

THE REPUBLICAN OFFICE-HOLDERS UNDER TAMMANY TO BE READ OUT OF THE PARTY.

The republican office-holders under Tammany are doomed to grief. There is mutiny in the Citizens' Association, open war in the republican ranks proper, and a hostile demonstration made against these political tricksters and trimmers by the great, influential body of German republicans in this city. The Citizens' Association denounce their late immaculate leaders, Sands, Henry and Daly, who, after a little simulated horror at the corruption of the Tammany ring and hypocritical denunciations of the heavy and unnecessary taxes with which the people were burdened, embraced the first opportunity of making a bargain with the "Satanic ring," accept office under it, and thus, in their own persons, help to increase the very burden they first inveighed against. The republicans of the "three committees," notwithstanding that "office is sweet and money scarce," have resolved to send no delegates to their nominating convention who are the paid allies or mercenaries of Tammany. The German Central Campaign Club have similarly resolved to have nothing to do with these traitors in their camp, who have nothing for the party but high sounding protestations of loyalty and pretentious claims, while they give material aid and comfort to the enemy.

HOW TAMMANY WILL DEAL WITH THE SUBSIDIZED REPUBLICANS.

The Tammany chiefs are indignant at the contract entered into between Collector Murphy and the heads of the John Real democracy to vote upon a joint ticket in the November election. The ukase has gone forth that unless the republican leaders, many of whom are in the pay of Tammany, nominate a straight republican ticket and thus disavow all connection or alliance with the Morrissey-Ledwith gang, the political guillotine will be put into immediate use, and the heads of each and every Tammany office holding republican, from Tom Murphy down, will be consigned to the sawdust basket. Thus these republican trimmers are between two fires, and can hardly escape the political death they so richly merit. The party, however, would be well rid of them, and the fate with which they are threatened would be a consummation devoutly to be wished.

"FIXING" THE ELECTION.

The Last Census Dodge—How the Radicals Propose to Disfranchise Legal Voters in this City—A New Use to be Made of the Census Returns.

About three weeks since each of the Assistant United States Marshals who have been employed to take the census of the Southern District of New York received a written notice, signed by one C. D. Murray, requesting them to call immediately upon him at his office, No. 7 Warren street, rooms Nos. 4 and 5, upon business of importance to themselves. Now this little notice was the innocent cause of a considerable degree of alarm among many of its recipients; for, feeling conscious that they had not done their work in nearly so satisfactory and thorough a manner as they should have done, they were very naturally thrown a little off their equilibrium upon receiving a notice addressed in such an official manner as was this one.

Doubtless many of them thought Mr. Murray had been sent here by the Washington authorities to investigate the thousand and one complaints that have been made against the shameful manner in which they have mis-taken the census, and consequently they gave No. 7 Warren street as wide a berth as possible. Two or three of them, in fact, actually contemplated "skedaddling" from the city and vicinity, and even went so far as to pack up their little old carpet bags and inquire the nearest and quickest route to Canada. Unfortunately, perhaps, for their friends and neighbors, they soon learned, through some of the others who had put on a bold front and called upon Mr. Murray, that that individual did not propose to do them any harm, but, on the contrary, wished to give each of them five dollars cash down for what he termed a small consideration.

Straightway the inevitable carpet-bag was again relieved of its contents, and the little excursion which they had so recently and seriously been contemplating to more northern climes was abandoned, at least for the present.

But this consideration of Mr. Murray's for which he had so many five-dollar bills to distribute—what could the "game" be? Why, just simply this:—Each man should take a small blank book which Mr. Murray would give him, go over to Marshal Sharpe's office, in Chambers street, and there get the book containing the returns of population which each had made to that office and from these returns copy into the small blank book the name, age, color, place of birth and residence of every male person twenty-one years of age and upwards, for use in the next election.

Of course Mr. Murray is but an agent of the Republican State Central Committee, who furnish the money which he pays out for having the copies made.

During the next election, on the 8th of November, the republicans propose to station a man at each of the polls, with a copy of the returns for the district in which the polls are situated, whose business it shall be to challenge each and every voter who comes up to deposit his ballot and whose name does not appear upon said copy of census returns.

Now, from the loose and inaccurate manner in which, it is well known, the census has been taken in New York city, there are a great many legal voters whose names will not appear upon these copies of returns, and consequently they will, notwithstanding they may have been legally registered, be challenged, and perhaps wholly prevented from voting at all. If this programme is carried out, as it most assuredly will be, it will be a most outrageous piece of business, and it now remains to be seen what measures will be taken by the city authorities to prevent the perpetration of this wholesale disfranchisement.

A MELEE ON A CUNARD STEAMER.

An altercation took place last evening on board the Cunard steamship Algeria, lying at the Jersey City wharf, between John Bevan, the boatswain's mate, and William Rogers, one of the crew. Rogers struck Bevan a blow with some heavy weapon over the left eye, scooping a hole thereon "as large as a half crown," to use the boatswain's testimony. Rogers was arrested and locked up in the First precinct station. Doctors Varick and Mulcahy were called on to attend the injured man, who was unable to appear in person and lodge a complaint. The case will come before the City Judge this forenoon.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A POLICEMAN.

Officer Patrick Maugan, of the Second precinct, Jersey City, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning. He had been on duty on Tuesday till nine o'clock in the evening, when he was relieved with the expectation that he was to appear for duty at eight o'clock yesterday morning. When his wife entered the room at seven o'clock his body was cold and stiff. He had been subject to attacks of bleeding from the nose. He was thirty-five years of age, and leaves a wife and three children. Coroner Burns will hold an inquest.

IN LUCK.—There is a soldier in one of the companies here who is a near relative to a Lieutenant General in Germany, and from whom this soldier receives each month, through private parties, $250. Some soldiers in Sitka, although putting on but little airs, are not so poor after all, if they are enlisted in Uncle Sam's service.—Sitka (Alaska) Times.

THE CLEVELAND TRAGEDY.

[From the Cleveland Leader, Oct. 11.]

Never was the public mind wrought up to a higher state of excitement than since the bloody tragedy that occurred Saturday morning on the west side. In every circle of society it is almost the sole topic of conversation; and, while speculating upon what is already known in the premises, the public are impatiently awaiting further developments.

The few facts already given in the case are meagre and incomplete. They make known the existence of a rape or seduction, followed by a sudden tragedy, and here the curtain falls. The thousand acts of the drama which closed with the extinction of the life of Dr. William H. Jones, the incarceration of Dr. Galentine as a murderer, and the branding of Mrs. Galentine as an adulteress, have been as effectually concealed as if silenced by death. The facts which bridge over the gaps in the various scenes of the drama are wanting. Nothing but the most meagre details are known. The circumstances are being developed day by day, but the matter will not be fully cleared up and the incongruous statements completely reconciled to each other until the searching power of the law has investigated the matter in a court of justice.

Yesterday a reporter of the Leader spent a good portion of the day in visiting the father and brother and wife of Dr. Galentine and talking with them on the subject of the late tragedy. The recitals made by Dr. Galentine's father and brother were similar in many respects. The father stated that a week ago last Sunday his son learned, through his wife, that Jones had attempted to seduce her. The attempt was said to have been made during the husband's absence in Boston, during the earlier part of last August. Mrs. Galentine had her husband's business to attend to, and one evening asked Dr. Jones to advise her on a question of some business importance. The gentleman answered her that he would willingly assist her with his advice at any time, but he had then a patient to visit and would see her on his return. He returned, went off to see another patient, and at midnight came back to his office again and then knocked at Mrs. Galentine's door. She heard the first rap slightly, but waited to assure herself that some one was really knocking at her door. Soon the rap was heard again, when she arose from her bed and going to the door asked, "Who is there?" Dr. Jones made known his presence and asked to come in. The lady objected, stating that the hour was improper, when he replied that he wished to see her at once and advise her on the subject she spoke of during the evening. "Oldroyd (the doctor's student) will not hear us; let me in." She peremptorily refused, and the doctor retiring from the door she returned to her bed.

At this time she thought Dr. Jones had withdrawn, and prepared to pass the night in security. Turning upon her couch her wearied eyes were hardly closed when sleep was frightened away by a grating sound, and the woman started to her feet by the sudden appearance of a visitor whom she was trying to shun.

We have heretofore stated that the rooms of Drs. Jones and Galentine were in the same building on the second floor and separated from each other only by a narrow hall. In the extreme front of each room over the stairs there is a small closet, one of which was used by Dr. Jones as a laboratory. A door through this closet opens into Dr. Galentine's office, and it was at this door that she heard the grating noise of a bolt being drawn. In a moment after hearing the noise Dr. Jones appeared before her. He attempted to cajole her and she ran through the apartment into a kitchen, where she locked herself up. Here a conversation ensued between the two persons, the defenceless woman entreating Dr. Jones to leave her house, and he endeavoring to induce her to come forth from her place of refuge. Finally she heard the noise of retreating footsteps, and in a few moments, thinking he had gone, came forth and stepped right into the embrace of Dr. Jones. It is said the wife struggled to free herself from the embraces of the muscular man. He held her, however, in his powerful grasp, carried her to her bed, and there effected his purpose. After that the two met often, and she lived from day to day in a state of adultery with him. The above recital is almost a verbatim account of the case, as related to our reporter yesterday morning by Dr. Galentine's father. A week ago last Sunday Dr. Jones and Mrs. Galentine confessed to the injured husband that an attempt to rape Mrs. Galentine had been made. On Thursday last, October 6, Dr. Galentine called his wife and Dr. Jones together, and they then confessed that the attempted rape had been successful. Dr. Galentine threatened to shoot Jones, who is said to have offered to fight a duel, saying, "I'm a good marksman and can snuff a candle at twenty paces every time." After some further conversation the parties separated.

John G. Galentine, eighteen years of age, and a medical student, is a brother of Dr. Galentine, the prisoner, now in jail for shooting Dr. Jones. He informed our reporter yesterday that on last Thursday, while he was returning from a lecture delivered in the Western Reserve College, he met his brother Jay on River street, immediately north of the canal bridge. John saw the abstracted and haggard condition of his brother, and then asked him where he was going.

"Come with me and you'll see," said the other. "Where is Wagner's loan office?"

"What do you want there?" asked the younger brother.

"I want a pistol to shoot a d—d son of a b—h."

All questions put by the young man were in vain. His brother was pale and excited, and talked incoherently. He went into a store and looked at some revolvers, and finally bought a pistol at Cohen's loan office. He then went to the bank of the lake, where he tried the pistol, and was about to leave when his brother succeeded in taking the arm from him.

The motive of John Galentine in following his brother was to prevent him from doing mischief, and to deprive him of the deadly weapon if possible. Once in possession of the weapon he hurried off to 528 Columbus street to tell his father what he had seen. The father says John cried out on seeing him, "Jay is as crazy as a bear; he will certainly do some mischief. I asked him the cause for his conduct, and he told me there was an article in the Leader which would serve as an explanation." The father then went to see his son, and says he found his eyes bleared, his face pale and his conduct completely changed. The father thought him sick, and was told that he was mistaken. "I'm not very well," said the son, "and have eaten scarcely anything, and slept but a few hours since Sunday." The father mentioned an article he had read in the Leader, stating that he thought it referred to him and Jones. At the repetition of this name the son exclaimed, "D—n the villain! I'll shoot him!" The father, startled at this exclamation, implored his son to put aside all thoughts of shooting, and to leave the matter to the law. Then the son replied that Dr. Jones had attempted to commit a rape on his wife, and had succeeded.

The father and son spent some time together, and by the time that the latter was calmed down the two paid a visit to S. E. Adams, attorney for the prisoner. Here Mr. Adams united with the father in entreating the son to use no violence, but to wait calmly until the law had taken its course. The father and son returned to the west side at about five o'clock P. M., the latter having promised to use no violence against Dr. Jones.

A CONFESSION.

On Friday Dr. Galentine brought his guilty wife and her seducer together and showed them that he had abundant proofs of their criminality. After talking with them for some time they both confessed their guilt. The young husband was then fully conscious of his position. He was enraged for a short time, but recovered, and remained quietly in his office.

A CONSPIRACY.

During the evening, while in his front room, he heard low whispers near Dr. Jones' laboratory, and on drawing near overheard his wife, Dr. Jones and another person in conversation. His father states that the son overheard his wife and her paramour agree not to testify against each other, and to force the husband to refrain from legal measures. The third voice was heard to give advice, and we are informed by Dr. Galentine, Sen., that it was the voice of Lawyer Chapman, a young attorney of our city. The husband further overheard them agree to arrest him for slander in case he instituted legal proceedings, and then the conspirators adjourned.

SHE CONFESSES ALL.

Dr. Galentine, Jr., was seized with a paroxysm of rage when he became privy to this plot against him. His wife returned to her rooms where her husband at once confronted her and repeated all that he had heard. She not only made no denial, but admitted that she and Dr. Jones had agreed to hang by each other and prosecute him in case he carried the matter into court. "We shall arrest you for slander," said she, "if you begin a lawsuit." The conversation which followed was of but little importance, and the husband soon left his home.

He left his home with his bosom stung by indignation, madness and revenge. He now had the most conclusive proofs of his wife's guilt. Whatever lingering traces of faith in her might have remained in his bosom were extirpated, and he believed her false, unscrupulous and capable of coolly plotting his ruin. He believed the demon of lust was holding its tumultuous carnival in her heart, and that all his troubles had been caused by one man. That man had first used force, and then, after accomplishing his designs, had so completely ensnared the woman in his meshes as to make her plot the ruin and misery of her own husband. That night he purchased a revolver, and a few minutes after seven the next morning the final reckoning hour for Dr. Jones had arrived.

INTERVIEW WITH MRS. GALENTINE.

Mrs. Galentine is a lady of very interesting appearance, about twenty-three years of age. She is above medium height, very stately in proportions and graceful in every movement. Her forehead is very high, eyes large and blue, surmounted by a finely arched, heavy eyebrow. Her blonde hair is very thick and worn with a heavy bandeau across the head. She is dignified in her behavior and converses freely on the tragedy recently enacted by her husband. She is at present stopping at the house of a friend on Pearl, near Washington street, where our reporter visited her last evening.

Her account in relation to her husband's absence and application to Dr. Jones for advice is similar to what is related above. He frequently invited her to go out with him, which she as often refused. His nocturnal visit and forced entrance to her room and the rape were repeated by her to our reporter in almost the same words as they are given above.

She states that the day after the outrage she endeavored to obtain possession of the key by which Dr. Jones had entered her room, but was unable to do so. She then went to Mr. Oldroyd, Dr. Jones' student, and told him that she must have that key for her protection. He remarked that she was perfectly safe, and should not be molested; but she insisted upon having the key, and he told her that if she felt so she should certainly have it. But the key could not be pulled out of the lock. Mrs. Galentine then attempted to fill the keyhole with plaster of Paris, but could not, and then she tried to secure the door with a clothes line.

During the day Mr. Oldroyd reported what had transpired to Dr. Jones, who afterwards went to Mrs. Galentine and angrily asked of her why she had been to his student for the key. She replied that she must have the key, but he declared that he would never give it up, as he wanted to use it. He further remarked that she was now in his power. Mrs. Galentine was greatly alarmed. Whenever she could she had lady friends stay with her, and sometimes slept away from home. But Dr. Jones would steal her keys when she was away, and would, furthermore, visit her during the day time, often, she says, forcing her to minister to his passions. This state of things continued until and after Dr. Galentine's return.

Mrs. Galentine states that her husband by some means got wind of the matter and questioned her, when she admitted a part of what had transpired. She relates that her husband interrogated her and Dr. Jones together, and that they admitted the attempted rape. After the publication of the article in our paper in reference to the matter, Dr. Jones told her that there was no further use in trying to deny the matter, and they confessed all their guilt to the injured husband. She is "mum" as to having been overheard in conversation with Dr. Jones and lawyer Chapman, and having conspired against her husband. She says that she visited Dr. Jones and had agreed not to testify against him. This excited Galentine terribly; and the next morning, after a restless night, the murder was committed.

Whether the above statements are correct or not we cannot decide. They corroborate each other in many particulars, and will undoubtedly form the burden of the testimony that a legal examination of the case will call out. We give the words of the wife, father and brother of the prisoner, and, as Dr. Jones is dead, there may be none who can refute them. Mr. Oldroyd, the student of Dr. Jones, will undoubtedly be an important witness.

Dr. Galentine is the son of very respectable parents, residing in Brooklyn Centre. His father, a physician, No. 528 Columbus street, is plunged in grief at the unfortunate conduct of his son; but still has the strongest confidence in his upright and honest character. He believes his son was driven to the commission of the deed in a moment of madness, when unable control himself.

Dr. Jay F. Galentine first made the acquaintance of his wife through an advertisement for a lady correspondent during the war. Shortly after the close of the rebellion he met her, and they were soon married. She yesterday visited him in the jail, and will call on him as often as permitted.

THE POLICE SUPERINTENDENCY.

Casting About for "The Coming Man."

Already the members of the police force begin to speculate upon the probable successor of the deceased Superintendent, and the names of the three Inspectors, Captain Kelso, of the detective force; Captains Mount and Petty, ex-Superintendents Kennedy and Matsell, William McKellar, formerly assistant to ex-Chief Matsell; Morgan Jones and Judge Dowling have been prominently coupled with the position. The general impression is that the office will not be filled until after ex-Commissioner Brennan's successor has been appointed, and that the fortunate one will be taken from outside the force. The Commissioners seem to think that it is not advisable to take a man from the force for this duty, on account of the jealousies existing therein among other aspirants for the office. Inspector Walling or Dilks would ably fill the position; but, being republicans, neither stands a chance in the race. Captain Kelso is a gentleman eminently qualified to perform the duties; is remarkable for courtesy, energy and executive ability, and, being a democrat, will probably be the choice of the Commission, should it decide to elect the Superintendent from the force. Captain Mount, of the Seventeenth, is also an excellent officer, and would ably perform the duties were he chosen. The probability is that the Board will select a military officer of well known ability and discipline, with a view of organizing the force strictly on a military basis. The names of Generals Franklin and McClellan have been prominently mentioned in this connection, but it is very questionable whether either would accept. Some are of the opinion that Marshal Tooker's chances are exceedingly good, and that he will be the successful aspirant. Yesterday Messrs. Tweed, Sweeny and Morgan Jones were closeted with the Police Commissioners—it is supposed on business connected with the two vacancies now existing.

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

Election of Directors—Statement of the Operations of the Corporation.

Hugh Allen, of Montreal; James H. Banker, of New York; Roswell S. Burroughs, of Albion; Ezra Cornell, of Ithaca; Horace F. Clark, of New York; Emory Cobb, of Kankakee, Ill.; Alonzo B. Cornell, of New York; William E. Dodge, of New York; Harrison Durkee, of New York; J. Allen Ellis, of Chicago; Norvin Green, of Louisville; Augustus W. Greenleaf, of New York; John A. Griswold, of Troy; James H. Howe, of Kenosha, Wis.; Wilson G. Hunt, of New York; George Jones, of New York; Cambridge Livingston, of New York; Edwin D. Morgan, of New York; William Orton, of New York; Edwards S. Sanford, of Brooklyn; Augustus Schell, of New York; Hiram Sibley, of Rochester; Zalmon G. Simmons, of Kenosha, Wis.; John Stewart, of New York; Moses Taylor, of New York; Daniel Torrance, of New York; George Walker, of Springfield, Mass.; Edward S. Wesley, of New York; Stillman Witt, of Cleveland.

The following statement exhibits the operations of the company during the past as compared with the year previous:—

On the 1st of July, 1870, this company possessed 54,109 miles of poles and 112,191 miles of wire, against 52,099 miles of poles and 104,584 miles of wire at the same time last year; being an increase of 1,910 miles of poles and 7,607 miles of wire.

During the past year there has been an increase of 521 offices and 558 sets of telegraphic apparatus.

The gross receipts for the year ending July 1, 1869, were	$7,316,918
Do. 1870	7,138,737
or 2 1-5 per cent.
The gross expenditures for the year ending July 1, 1870, were	$4,910,772
Do. 1869	4,568,145
or 7½ per cent.

The number of messages transmitted during the year was twenty-two per cent more than for the preceding year.

The net profits for the year ending July 1, 1869, were	$2,801,457
Do. for 1870	2,227,966
or twenty per cent.

From October 1, 1869, when the reduced tariff went into operation, to April 30, 1870, the gross receipts were $[illegible] less and the expenditures were $185,619 more than for the same months of the preceding year, making a difference in the net earnings of $419,[illegible]. Thus seventy-four per cent of the decrease in the net earnings for the year occurred in the first seven months after the reduction in the tolls. Of this decrease in the net earnings $200,222 occurred during the months of January and February alone, being thirty-five per cent of the decrease for the year. After the reduction of the rates in October of last year the gross receipts did not come up to those of any corresponding month in the preceding year until May, when they exceeded the same month of the preceding year by $7,755. In July, 1870, the receipts exceeded the same month in 1869 by $30,323. In August, 1870, the receipts exceeded the same month of the preceding year by $41,124.

As the cost of performing an increased amount of traffic increases in a certain proportion with the service, the net earnings did not come up to the amount earned in any corresponding month of the preceding year until July, when they were in excess of the same month for 1869 by $21,251.

In August, 1870, the net earnings were $218,514, being $14,057 better than in 1869.

From October 1, 1869, when the rates were reduced, to March 1, 1870—five months—the net earnings were $847,879.

From March 1, 1870, to August 1, 1870, five months, the net earnings were $914,863, being an increase of $66,983, or eleven six-tenths per cent. If the same rate of increase should continue for the next year the net earnings would amount to $2,435,909, which, added to the amounts saved by the abolishment of the national tax, would make the net earnings for the year ending July 1, 1871, $2,686,469. We may, however, expect much better results than these, for the business for the five months from October 1 to March 1 is generally better than the five months from March 1 to August 1.

Thus from October 1, 1868, to March 1, 1869, the net earnings were $1,297,894, and from March 1, 1869, to August 1, 1869, $1,032,124, showing that the autumn and winter months for 1868 and 1869 were $165,440 better than the spring and summer months of 1869, while for the present year the spring and summer months are $98,958 better than the preceding autumn and winter months.

The average rate of tolls upon the entire volume of business done for the year ending July 1, 1870, was twenty per cent less than for the year ending July 1, 1869.

The average expense of transmission per message for the year ending July 1, 1870, was 11 2-10 per cent less than for the year ending July 1, 1869.

SHOCKING AFFAIR IN SOMERVILLE, MASS.

A Man Falls Into a Vat of Boiling Lard—Fatal Result.

At the lard refinery of Lincoln, Chamberlin & Co. (of Boston), in Somerville, a shocking accident occurred on Monday afternoon about five o'clock. The vats for rendering the lard are tanks that rise about three feet above the floor and are about nine in depth. While engaged in some work about one of them, Mr. George Lincoln accidentally slipped, and in attempting to recover his balance fell over the side of the vat into the boiling lard, the scalding mass enveloping his entire body. A young man named Morrison was the first to witness the accident, and in an unsuccessful attempt to get Mr. Lincoln out of the vat was himself badly burned. Assistance, however, was speedily obtained and the unfortunate man was taken out in a condition almost too horrible for description. Life remained, however, and Drs. Hooker and Barrett were immediately summoned. They did all that lay in their power to alleviate the sufferings of Mr. Lincoln, but pronounced his recovery hopeless. He died about two hours after the accident in great agony. His brother-in-law, Mr. Morrison, suffered excessively from the scalding received in attempting to get the victim out of the vat. The terrible accident occurred while Mr. Lincoln was brushing out the vat, when he slipped from the platform. He resides in Boston, was about twenty-four years of age and married.
